WANT LISTS.—Send me your want list in British Colonies of lesser values used, or in any Colony unused; or for that matter, any 19th Century stamp. I do not carry 20th Century in stock, but aim to have a good line of the old 19th at all times. I do this because I consider them staple goods and firmly believe they will never be worth less than at present.

COLLECTIONS BY COUNTRIES

These lots may contain either used or unused stamps or both. Catalogue value as given is guaranteed. Stamps of the 19th Century only are included. Satisfactory condition — or money refunded — is also guaranteed. They will appeal to those who wish to start a new country, to fill up one on which they are weak, to obtain good trading duplicates, or to lay away good solid stamps for a rainy day in the future. They are bound to increase in value and a patient waiter is no loser. No duplicates in any lot.

A CASE FOR INVESTIGATION.

With circulators of the $10,000 stolen American express money orders identified, police of Chicago and New York today were endeavoring to penetrate the mystery of why Julius Schwill wealthy Chicago manufacturer, went under the name of "Frank" Martin in attempting to cash the stolen checks.

They were also on the trail of a safe blower identified as the man who first offered the bonds for sale, and thought by the police to be the actual thief.

Meanwhile Casper Staub, dealer in foreign stamps and securities, with an office in the Marquette building was held by the police for further questioning after his confession that he had received $4,750 worth of the stolen checks.

MASQUERADE A PUZZLE.

Staub said he gave Schwill $350 worth of the checks in payment for a debt shortly before the manufacturer left for the East. He declared his belief that Schwill did not know they were stolen, but threw no light on the reason why the wealthy Chicagoan adopted another name in attempting to cash them in New York.

Staub declared his wife cashed $1,180 worth of the checks in various Chicago stores. He turned over $2,500 of uncashed checks to the police.

SAYS HE GAVE MAN $700 PART PAYMENT

According to the story told by Staub, a man giving the name of Reed came into his office shortly before Christmas and laid the $4,750 worth of express checks on his desk, saying some boys had found them in a rubbish pile. He offered Staub $250 to dispose of them.

Staub said Reed came back after Christmas and took $700 as part payment for the checks but has not been back since.—Chicago Journal

MR. ACKERMAN OF NEW JERSEY.

One of the most interesting persons in the House of Representatives is Mr. Ernest R. Ackerman, of Plainfield, N. J. Mr. Will P. Kennedy says of him: "Besides being the most traveled man in Congress, Representative Ackerman, although enjoying the franking privilege, has more stamps stored away in his home than any of his colleagues, and probably as many as any of his fellow-citizens. He has been collecting stamps for nearly half a century, and owns some very rare specimens. Although he modestly reminds you that there are 3,000,000 other stamp collectors, Representative Ackerman ranks with the King of England, the Prince of Wales and Colonel Greene, son of the famous Hetty Greene, as a stamp connoisseur. His collection is worth well over $25,000. Twenty-five years ago, when he was building his home, he had a stamp-room specially constructed, and papered this with demonetized postage stamps from Honduras, Nicaragua and Salvador. The background was orange-colored, with a red and green border. Last August this stamp-room was damaged by lightning and is now being restored." Philately is a most absorbing study because it involves commercial and literary business throughout the world. Great Britain issued the first adhesive stamp in 1840. The late war has very greatly added to the number of stamps.—The Lutheran.

BAD BUSINESS.

Springfield Ill., Charles R. Homan, of Quincy, charged with removing cancellation marks from government postage stamps by a chemical process pleaded guilty in the federal court here today and was fined $400 and costs.—Newspaper.

EDITORIAL.

Involved—An extraordinary case, involving two philatelists of reputation and business standing, one a collector and the other a dealer, has been the sensational development of the week. Julius Schwill, a wealthy manufacturer, who is one of the most prominent of Chicago collectors, was arrested in New York City for circulating American Express money orders which were a part of $10,000 worth that had been stolen. As Mr. Schwill is reported to have said that he got the orders from C. Staub, proprietor of the United Stamp Company Mr. Staub was taken in custody in order to be questioned about the case. Mr. Staub explained how he came into possession of the checks in the course of business and how he paid Mr. Schwill a debt of three or four hundred dollars, representing in part the proceeds from a stamp sale to Mr. Staub. The associates and acquaintances of Mr. Schwill argue that the charge against him will fall to the ground when his story is told circumstantially; and the many friends and patrons of Mr. Staub await the complete exposition of the case which has its elements of mystery with composure and confidence, in the conviction that he will emerge from the investigation unscathed. Elsewhere we reprint a newspaper reference to the case.

Smaller—Not long ago, having had occasion to write the editor of the Chicago American, we said: "As editor of a paper that circulates among stamp collectors exclusively, I am interested in publicity that may be given collecting in the outside press." A short time later, in an editorial copyrighted by the Sun Company, we find a reference to stamp collecting, which although lacking form, from our view-point is better than no notice at all. From the editorial, "How the World is Growing Smaller," we take the following: "The war added greatly to the interest of Americans in other nations and peoples. You see this fact reflected in many ways. The stamp collecting mania is one. Twenty years ago, foreign stamps on letters or papers were so rare in most places that the recipient of one showed it proudly to his neighbors. Boys starting a collection found it difficult to get beyond the pages reserved for Canadian stamps, British stamps and German stamps. Now Italian, Greek, Portuguese, French, Swiss, Serbian, Austrian, Hungarian, Belgian, Dutch, Danish, Swedish and Norwegian stamps are not uncommon in this country and we are beginning to recognize stamps of new states like Roumania, Bulgaria, Japan, China, Persia, which used to be rare, and also of far-off dominions or colonial possessions, like the Union of South Africa, Egypt and India. Even Australian stamps are easy to get and Latin-American stamps are becoming frequent. It is no trick at all to collect stamps today."

Jappy—We have received from Professor Forest G. Middleton, Tokyo Y. M. C. A., Japan, an account of a philatelic pilgrimage in that ancient city which we think will be appreciated by our readers. Prof. Middleton is engaged in educational work in Tokyo and accompanying his article was a letter in which the East and the West met with results similar to those obtained by Wallace Irwin in his Japanese school-boy series. We quote: "Only the other night, in our so-interesting made English conversation he explain philately collecting are pasting stamps in book, and showed us your London Special with glowing words of commendation, admiration and enthusiation."

Scandal—The case involving the sale of several score Hawaiian missionary stamps is told in some detail in the Albemarle Stamp Collector for January, 1921, and even though the information other than some paragraphs of legal particulars is given without any guarantee or obligation on the part of the publishers, the recital is of interest. The stamps involved were sold as genuine and later branded counterfeits, it is alleged. No statements have been received from the principals and our correspondent who had prepared his story for us of this cause celebre was advised to withhold it, pending court action. The case will be adjudicated and when it is decided upon by the California courts, particulars will be forthcoming. Surmise will give way to fact and the point at issue between John A. Klemann, plaintiff, New York, and G. H. Crinnell, defendant. Los Angeles, Cal., will be settled. The amount of money involved, as we have said before, is $65,000, according to report, and it is anticipated that the testimony will be of great interest to philatelists.

Aerial.—There is a very intelligently written half-page article on "Postage Stamps for Aerial Mail," on page 263 of the February issue of Current History. The different countries issuing stamps for air mail are mentioned and some of the stamp issues are described. It is fitting that the aerial mails and the stamps issued in connection with them be given prominence on the basis of historical merit; and we can realize that the collector who has a stamp history of air mail from its beginning to its present development has a valuable historical as well as philatelic document, as it were.

Where—What has become of the old-fashioned collector who left his stamp album on the center-table in the parlor with the family photograph album and Dante's "Inferno," illustrated by Dore, for all comers to see? Is he dreaming somewhere with the collector who as a boy was given a prize of postage stamps by his Sunday-school teacher for having a good attendance-mark?

NASSAU STREET FIRE.

About midnight, Feb. 25-26, a disastrous fire occurred at 77, 79, 81 and part of 83 Nassau St., N. Y. City. No. 79, where J. A. Galbraith was located, was totally destroyed. M. Ohlman suffered a partial loss through water and H. Voltz also suffered a loss.

Mr. Galbraith writes us that he rescued nothing from his stock. His safes were entirely soaked through with water and were uninsured. He writes that he does not know whether he will reopen or discontinue dealing in stamps. He had three lots of unsolicited European war stamps in one of his desks, which was a total loss, due to water from the floors above. The salvage people in charge of the building strongly advised leaving the safes untouched, as the floors are very weak and may collapse.

Mr. Galbraith has a host of friends who will join with us in expressing the hope that he will be able to rise above the disaster that has overtaken him. His temporary address is 74 Ferry St., Newark, N. J.

Mr. Voltz, whose office was at 81 Nassau St., suffered from the effects of the fire, and until a new office is secured he may be addressed at Woodhaven, L. I., N. Y. An announcement will no doubt appear in an early number of the WEEKLY.

A CORRECTION.

A mistake occurred in the advertisement of the Home of the Postage Stamp, Ballston Lake, N. Y., Feb. 12. In this advertisement 200 fine Belgians cataloged $30 were offered for $10, but in describing the collection reference was made to No. 182 as being found in the packet, when it should have been No. 102.

A. S. D. A. SHUT-IN REPORT.

W. F. Slusser, ex-secretary of the A. S. D. A,, presents a final report of Christmas gifts to philatelic shut-ins. Nearly 7000 stamps were donated by some thirty-three persons, the total catalog value being $339.06. Four shut-ins were remembered with approximately the same value of stamps and there is a balance on hand for additional work of this character.

THE EVER-CHANGING MAP OF EUROPE.

By BILL BLOSS.

Certainly history has been made in Europe since the signing of the Armistice on November 11, 1918. Scarcely a portion of the continent, with the exception of the Scandinavian peninsula and Spain and Portugal, but what has come in for a share in the alteration. Slices have been cut from countries and added to others. New states have been created. Kingdoms have been merged and obliterated. Territories have been formed to be governed by commissions appointed by the League of Nations, or the Supreme Council of the Peace Conference

Most, if not all, of these changes vitally interest the stamp collector, as they have brought forth new names, new faces, and countless new stamps for his album. Little cities have suddenly sprung into prominence, philatelically at least. Some of these are so small that the 5:15 on any American railroad would scarcely pause if it passed through them, yet they are represented by stamps of their own. We cannot help but feel that many of these issues are unnecessary, and are the fruit of some ambitious official with philatelic knowledge. Yet, they are based on a proper, if limited, demand, and must be accepted by collectors as legitimate issues.

Among the new stamps we find a series of French stamps overprinted MEMEL and value in pfennigs and marks. Most of us are no more familiar with Memel than we are with Oelwein, Iowa.

Referring to the new map of Europe, we find, after diligent search with a microscope, that Memel is the most northerly town of the German Empire, at the mouth of a sound of the Baltic Sea. Memel is situated on the river of the same name, and forms an important outlet for the products of Lithuania, its neighbor on the North.

From the fact that it is about to produce its fourth series of stamps in a year, we are led to believe that its population is evenly divided between stenographers, printers, and duplicating machine salesmen, since the entire population of 20,000 must work the multigraphs eight hours a day to justify the number of stamps issued.

In reality, however, we learn that it is a thriving manufacturing city, with iron foundries, shipbuilding yards, manufactories of chemicals, soap, and amber wares. It has many points of interest, among them being several breweries and distilleries.

It is also an important trade center for lumber, grain and the agricultural products of Lithuania. Timber from Russia is, when the Bolsheviks feel so inclined, sent down the river to Memel where it is cut into lumber and exported.

The national slogan of Memel is, "A stamp for every board turned out by our mills."

Memel is at the present time governed by a commission of the Allied and Associate Powers, and what final disposition will be made of it will be decided later. Why Memel was separated from Prussia, deponent sayeth not.

Its stamps are at present supplied by the French, and consist of French stamps overprinted with the name and value in German currency. German stamps similarly overprinted have also been made.

Memel is not the only portion sliced from Germany. To pay for the damage wrought to the French coal fields by the militant German, the Peace Conference elected that the Saar Valley be turned over to the Allies, and France in particular, for a period of fifteen years. At the conclusion of this time, a vote will be held to give the natives an opportunity to choose whether they will affiliate with France or Germany.

The Saar Valley is more or less familiar to philatelists, since it has been widely covered in the press. It is situated just north of Alsace-Lorraine, west of Luxemburg, and in the southern portion of the territory now occupied by the Allies in Germany, west of the Rhine

Several stamp issues have been made for the Saar, consisting of German stamps overprinted SARRE and SAAREGEBEIT, as the case may be.

Belgium has also profited by receiving from Germany full sovereignty over the territory known as Moresnet, the district containing the small towns of Eupen and Malmedy. These have small significance except that they rectify the political frontier so as to make it in accord with the natural boundary line between Germany and Belgium.

To mark these towns in the minds of collectors, Belgium has caused three series to appear, consisting of Belgium stamps overprinted Eupen and Malmedy, Eupen alone and Malmedy alone. Why the ordinary Belgium series could not be made to answer the postal needs of the people in this territory we know not. But Belgium needs the money. Certainly it is a pleasure to most of the philatelists in the Allied countries to be able to add these series, as well as the Belgium set overprinted ALLEMAGNE DUITSCHLAND, to our collections as a fitting finishing touch to the page of German stamps overprinted BELGIEN. In view of this satisfaction, few collectors begrudge Belgium the price of the sets.

HERE'S A BARGAIN

—a real bargain! Collection of about 4,500 varieties, practically all 19th Century (before 1901), that will catalog around $500—(perhaps $600). Average condition runs very good and there are some fine stamps not usually found in a collection of this size. I note Canada Jubilee ½c to 50c unused o. g. superb; Netherlands 1899, ½c to 5 gulden unused o. g.; Newfoundland 1866. 10c, 12c, 24c, and many other good stamps from nearly every country that issued stamps up to that time.

There are about 475 good stamps cat. 25c to $4 each that total about $275 catalog and these alone are worth the price for the whole collection. Take these out and there still remains a collection of 4,000 varieties that will catalog about $300. The best stamp in the book is a really fine U. S. 90c 1869 for which I will gladly pay $15 cash.

First check for $110 gets the collection. Other checks will be returned.

I have U. S. stamps no other dealer in the world can supply and foreign that you see about once in a life-time. Whatever you want, this is the place to get it!

WANTED, U. S. STAMPS

I desire to purchase several fine collections of U. S. stamps valued at from $500.00 to $5000.00, preferably those strong in mint twentieth century—especially in blocks of four. In fact, if you have any accumulations of late U. S., now is the time to turn them into cash. It seems that money being somewhat tight, quite a few collectors desire to realize upon their collection, and under the circumstances I would suggest that you get in touch with me before closing elsewhere.

Have recently purchased several very fine collections, and consequently am in a position to give serious twentieth century want lists my most careful attention.

Stamps being a side line, enables me to pay top notch prices, for it is not necessary to take care of any overhead in addition to a profit.

Have recently broken up an IMPERFORATED SHEET containing the 5c ERRORS, and have a set of four plate number block positions to offer. In addition, I will gladly furnish blocks of four of the 2c stamp from this sheet in the peculiar error shade at 50c per block, each block having my guarantee that the stamps were cut from the error sheet. If you cannot afford an imperforated error, this is an excellent souvenir connected with one of the most sought-after twentieth century U. S. stamps.

Do not forget, that if you want anything in twentieth century U. S. this is the place to get them. The best of commercial and bank references furnished if desired.

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chroniele is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

WE PETITION.

We humbly petition the patrons of the WEEKLY not to send notes about new issues or varieties to either Portland or Beverly. This is plainly written in understandable English. Such matter should go to either Mr. Ward or Mr. Smith, as per notice at the head of this department.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

UNITED STATES.—In the Chronicle for February 12th I mentioned the fact that the 30c postage due, watermarked single line U S P S, had just been located perforated 10 and then went on to say that the 50c was not known in this condition. This of course was an error, for I have a used copy of the 50c in my own collection. All values are now known perforated 10 on watermarked paper.

Several of our readers have written to inquire if the change in international postal rates authorized at the recent Madrid Congress mean that the colors of our stamps will now be changed. It will be recalled that I mentioned in these notes some weeks back that in authorizing this advance in rates it was understood that the United States and certain other countries were permitted to retain their present rate should they so desire. This clause was inserted at the request of the United States delegation, for this country was strongly against any raise. It hardly seems likely that in view of these facts that we will now raise our rates, although no one at this time can foretell what the new administration might do. Such matters, however, are matters of detail worked out by the department rather than by the Postmaster General, so it seems likely that our former intentions will be carried out.

If, however, the rates should be changed, why of course the colors will have to be changed to agree with the U. P. U. regulations, requiring a blue stamp for an international letter, a red one for domestic and a green for a drop letter.

Through the courtesy of Mr. J. M. Fisher, Acting Director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, I am enabled to bring our list of plate numbers up to February 15, 1921. From the list it will be seen that a new set of plates are being made for each denomination from 4c to 20c inclusive. It had been thought that the 13c denomination would be discontinued, for this value was no longer on the postage stamp requisitions used by postmasters. We see, however, that this is not the case and imagine the stamp will be used for parcel post purposes like the other odd denominations. The list follows.

It seems that the Bureau has made another master negative from photograph II and this results in what might be called a fourth type of the 2c surface printed stamp. This is so nearly like what has been called type III that it really seems as if we are complicating matters by calling it a distinct type. In type III it will be recalled that the center stroke of the figures "2" is very heavy and in the case of the left figure almost cuts the "2" in half. On the fourth type both figures resemble the right figure of type III.

Mr. P. M. Mann calls my attention to the fact that the 2c surface printed stamp directly under the top plate number of No. 12075, pane unknown, shows a broken "E" in "CENTS", giving it the appearance of "CRNTS." This variety is on all plates made from this master plate negative. Mr. G. A. Hunt also calls attention to this stamp with a break in the left ribbon.

We now learn from the Bureau that a whole series of strip narcotic stamps have been issued consisting of the following: 1c (4 sizes), 2c (3), 5c (2), 6c (2), 8c (2), 10c (2), 16c (2), 25c, 40c, $1, $1.28. I have not seen any of them other than the four sizes of the 1c that were issued some months back.

Fine British Colonials

We shall be glad to have your want lists for anything in 19th Century B. N. A., B. W. I., or other early colonials. Not everything in the world, but short of great rarities, we can supply nearly everything from a collection we are now breaking up. A few very nice copies of Sydney Views.

J. O. MOORE, Inc., RHEIMS, N. Y.

although of course some few have gotten out from time to time through favor. We will gladly welcome the first sight of any of the above.

Mr. R. J. Tarpy tells me that he has received some of the first of the envelopes made under the new contract and showing the 1921 watermark. It seems odd that these should be on amber, in view of the fact that the government is not supposed to have issued amber envelopes under the new contract. It is barely possible that the old dandy rolls were becoming worn and that the paper-makers used the new rolls in finishing up some of the work under the old contract. Quite a few envelope specialists have written into state that they understood the old contract had a few years to run. True, it did; two years more, if I am not mistaken, but there is a clause in the contract which gives the manufacturer the privilege of calling for a new one if prices advance over 20%, or the Government, in the case where prices decrease in like amount. Due to the advances, the manufacturers asked for a new understanding.

This week quite a few new provisional 2c on 3c envelopes have come to my attention. Mr. R. B. Johnson tells me that Mobile has started to overprint and kindly sends me two varieties from that city. He mentions that the work is very well done and that he has found two errors, although he has gone over quite a number. Mr. H. H. Schnich sends me three new ones from Baltimore all on white. As mentioned previously, Baltimore now has a die of their own and is not dependent upon those overprinted in Washington. Mr. J. V. Nielsen, Jr., sends two on colored paper from Charlestown and Mr. George Smith shows me a window variety from the same city. The Hilton Stamp Company has located another on buff from San Francisco, the second size on this paper to be noted. Mr. R. H. Langdon finds a new size in Seattle, while our Portland, Maine, correspondent, Mr. C. L. Douglas sends two new ones from that city.

Mr. Johnson also sends a postal from Mobile overprinted 1c in that city.

We wish to thank Doctors W. L. LeCron and William Evans and Messrs. C. D. Allison, C. H. McBride, I. L. Newton and W. A. Sisson for notes of interest.

ARMENIA.—The Economist Stamp Co., J. Mouhib and Bright & Son have shown us the new permanent set of stamps issued for this country. They are of three values, viz.: 3r, 5r and 10r, and show an eagle and sword in the centre with native characters at the top and the name of the country in English at the base. Values are in the corners. The colors are green, red and blue, respectively.

BOLIVIA.—Stamp Collecting notes that in order to complete the current Arms type of this country, a 2c stamp printed in deep violet and a 2bol value in dark brown, are ready for issue. There will probably be also a 1bol denomination, of which we have no present news as to color.

BRITISH GUIANA.—Mr. Hugo Griebert advises that they have received the current 1c, 4c, 12c and 24c in new shades.

BULGARIA.—Mr. K. Lindsay has shown us the 3c value in the current type, Scott's A44, the color being red brown.

CZECHO-SLOVAKIA.—The Economist Bulletin informs us that a new 250d Unpaid, has been added to the current series. The color is orange.

DENMARK.—Mr. K. Lindsay has submitted to us for chronicle the latest provisional of this country. The 12o green, type Scott's A16, has been overprinted "8" over each of the former figures of value in blue.

HONDURAS.—Mr. Cassius L. Clay calls our attention to Scott's No. 132 (perf. 14) 2c green imperforate between. He advises that he recently found this variety in looking over a large bundle of these stamps that he recently secured.

HUNGARY.—The Economist Bulletin announces that the current 10kr stamp has been surcharged "Legi-Posta 3Kr, 8Kr and 12Kr" in green, red and blue, respectively, for the Air Post.

ITALY.—According to Il Corriere Filatelico, the 55c deep purple and 85c red-brown, whose issue was announced so long ago as June, 1919, have only just appeared, having been put on sale on December 1st, 1920. Our Milan contemporary states that they must have been ready some time ago, as the margins bear the "Control" numbers 9942-5, whereas recent printings have already passed the 10,000 mark. However, the official decree, notifying the issue of these two values, has not been published.—Stamp Collecting.

ITALIAN SOMALILAND.—Pending the appearance of a new definite series with denominations inscribed in besie and rupees, the following provisionals have appeared, comprising stamps of the Parcel Post series of the Kingdom of Italy, overprinted "Somalia Italiana" at foot instead of at the top, as heretofore, in two lines:—

5c brown.	1 lira violet.
10c blue.	2 lire green.
20c black.	3 lire yellow.
25c rose.	4 lire grey.
50c orange.

—Stamp Collecting.

LITHUANIA.—Mr. K. Lindsay has submitted to us a set of the new Jubilee issue. The set is crudely printed and contains six values of different designs. The colors are as follows: 25f grey blue, 1m orange, 2m red lilac, 4m olive and gold, 6m olive and red, 10m yellow and brown.

SOMALI COAST.—The Stamp Collecting reports that the 25c has appeared in violet and blue instead of ultramarine and blue.

UKRAINE.—Mr. K. Lindsay has shown us a very attractive set of stamps for this country recently received. The values and colors are as follows: 1g slate, showing the familiar Trident in the centre; 2g lilac, a maiden holding a pole in her left hand; 3g orange, 5g green, pictorial; 10g red, 15g brown, 20g blue, showing portraits; 30g grey brown, portraying a soldier; 40g dull red, portrait; 50g olive, picturing a musician; 60g purple and brown; 80g brown and blue; 100g green and grey, and 200g red lilac and grey, all pictorials.

GOOD FOR ROPER.

Considerable interest in philately has been shown in Washington since the publication of a little story about Representative E. R. Ackerman as a stamp collector. Daniel C. Roper, who was first assistant postmaster general, vice-chairman of the United States tariff commission and commissioner of internal revenue, gives some very interesting information on the subject. He says that the post office department receives annually $250,000 from stamp collectors, for which no postal return is required and for which no postal service is performed. He also gives the stamp collectors credit for detecting practically every counterfeit stamp designed to defraud the government.

Mr. Roper points out that the postage stamp, while trivial in intrinsic value, has behind it all the power and authority of the greatest nation on the globe and commands human service in all parts of the world. He says that the postage stamp originated in England in 1840, and that the first stamp of an official nature in the United States was used by the postmaster of New York in 1842. The law of 1845 established uniform postage at low rates. Individual specimens of some of the early issues command from $500 to $1,000 and there are some private collections worth more than a million dollars. Uncle Sam himself has not kept a complete collection, and there is no reliable official information regarding some of the early issues. Some of the special issues of stamps were for the Centennial Celebration, Philadelphia, 1876; Chicago World's Fair, 1893; World's Fair, St. Louis, 1904; Jamestown Fair, 1907; Panama-Pacific International Exposition, 1915. —Hartford Courant.

THE R. I. P. S. ANNUAL.

The Rhode Island Philatelic Society held its annual meeting on February 15th in Brooks Restaurant, Providence, where the annual dinner was enjoyed by all. The speaker of the evening, Elliott Perry, of Westfield, N. J., spoke to the members present, who numbered twenty-two, on "Finds I Have Not Made" and exhibited a part of the Henry C. Needham collection, many subjects being of great value.

The following were elected to office for the ensuing year:—Pres., E. Tudor Gross; Vice-Pres., W. H. Colwell; Sec.-Treas., C. D. Skinner, Jr.; Librarian, A. B. Slater; Exchange Mgr., Jerome Fleischer; Auction Comm., Edgar McCrillis, W. F. Goerner and Byron C. Bussey.

Great interest is being shown in the society due in part to the A. P. S. convention here last summer. New members, sales and speakers, are some of the plans for this year and it is hoped that any collector or dealer who is in Providence on the third Tuesday of any month will avail themselves of the opportunity to come and visit us in room 236, Industrial Trust Bldg., where a cordial welcome is awaiting them. The society now numbers 60 members. —C. D. SKINNER, Sec.

The next discontinuance of subscriptions will concern all subscribers whose wrappers bear the numbers 1572 to 1575 inclusive. Just glance at your wrapper immediately in order to make sure that your subscription is paid up. You have ample time in which to renew and be saved the inconvenience of a discontinuance. Moreover, under our new system we are making no plans for furnishing back numbers and subscribers must not expect that we can supply back numbers when we have made every effort to notify them.

We are satisfied that the system we have inaugurated is the only one under which a newspaper can do business these days, and subscribers must understand that free copies of the WEEKLY will not be sent to those who are in arrears.

A GOOD INVESTMENT

The 3c 1851 stamp has jumped 150% the 1920 Catalog.—4c to 10c. Is it too now? Here is a very fine collection o 3c 1851-'57 stamps for sale. The a number of specimens is comparat small, each copy being selected for peculiarity. There is a beautiful Block with the wide cracked plate, o 1857 Type II—a great rarity; a used from plate No. 3, two stamps having three extra lines; a cover with four st of the 1857 issue showing shifts whil rest do not; a horizontal strip of nine with blue Wells-Fargo postmark; items too numerous to mention. The lection shows practically all the re cracked plates, and shifts. The can tions are rich and varied. The covers well worth seeing, and the collection years in the making. It is mounte three Oriel Albums. Can be seen at time, price on application.

MADISON MUSEUM EXHIBIT

By CHARLES E. BROWN.

For several years past the State Historical Museum of Wisconsin has been doing its best to encourage and assist local boy and girl collectors of postage stamps. There are known to be several hundred enthusiastic young collectors in the city of Madison, and the Museum has been assisting them with occasional gifts of stamps, by making exchanges with them, by frequently installing large collections of rare and interesting stamps. and by holding occasional meetings for their benefit. The boys and girls have also frequently been encouraged to display parts of their own collections.

Last year, and this year again, a prize competition was arranged for. This year's competition was held on February 12-14.

Nearly fifty boys and girls took part in it. There were thirteen classes in which a contestant could enter exhibits, these including United States stamps, foreign stamps (both pre-war and war issues), commemorative, Red Cross, charity, revenue and envelope stamps. Other classes were precancels. stamped covers and British colonies issues. Each entry was made on a separate sheet of paper, most contestants entering exhibits in a number of classes. The contest was limited to boys and girls between eight and fourteen years of age.

The Messrs. George C. Morris, Lowell G. Ragatz, Elmer Toepelman and Stanley Maurseth, well-known local philatelists, acted as judges of the exhibits. Three prizes and a number of special prizes were given in each class of exhibits, the prizes consisting of packets of choice sets of United States and foreign stamps. They were donated for the occasion by the Museum and by a number of prominent local collectors.

Winners of first prizes were Lyman Spink (12 years). Harold Harloff (14), Wilber Petersen (14). Averyl Overholzer (12), Frederick Wolff (14), Lyman Haswell (10), George Hoffman (11), Lawra Wepfer (10), and Freeman Heim (11).

A public exhibition of the specimen sheets was afterwards made, many citizens and friends of the young collectors coming to the Museum for the purpose of viewing them.

FREMONT (NEBR.) HOBBY CLUB

Wednesday evening, Feb. 9, a club for curio seekers was organized at the Y. M. C. A., Fremont, Nebr., to be known as the Hobby Club. A. H. Westphal was elected president, and L. E. Simmerman, secretary. The object of the organization is to stimulate an interest in the collecting of all kinds of curios and antiques. The club has been fortunate in securing one of the club rooms at the local Y. M. C. A., and meetings will be held every Wednesday evening. Interested parties may communicate with either of the two officers above named.

HIGHER INTERNATIONAL POSTAGE.

The recent International Postal Congress in Madrid, Spain, at which practically every country with an organized postal system was represented, approved some radical changes which will have an important bearing upon the interchange of mail matter between the nations of the world. One of these was an increase in rates and placing these rates upon a gold basis, and another was the granting to each member of the Postal Union liberty to fix its own international postal charges.

In the past the Postal Union made its rates and insisted that they be followed except in cases of special agreements between governments. The United States has such an agreement with Great Britain, Canada and Mexico and some of the Central and South American countries. It had also a two cent postage rate with Germany before the war. England has a special agreement with different parts of the British Empire. Now each country may modify its rate upon a short notice, so long as it does not exceed a fixed amount. The reason of this is that since the new rates are on a gold basis countries with a depreciated currency cannot maintain their postal system upon the previous charges.

The highest international letter post rate which can be charged under the new rules is fifty centimes. This is practically twice the previous amount and normally about ten cents, or at the present rate of exchange six and a half pence in England. Both Germany and Austria, it is said, will announce an increase in rates as soon as a satisfactory charge can be agreed upon. The Postmaster General of Great Britain is expected to make an official statement regarding the new rates before the end of the month. The impression at the Madrid Congress was that all of the European countries would increase their international postal rates, and that some of them would double their present rates.

So far this country apparently has taken no official action in the matter. It may continue to let the five cent stamp carry a letter to the furthermost post office in the Postal Union. It, may however, find it advisable to meet the changes made in other countries. If it has not the reason of a depreciated currency to offer it has the other reason, the increased expense of the service. It is very evident that the universal blue stamp, whether twenty-five centimes, twenty pfenniger or two and a half pence, has lost its far carrying power and will need help to get over its native border. —Newspaper Clipping.

CANADIAN PRECANCEL NOTES.

By FRANK L. THOMPSON.

Saskatoon, Sask., is the latest addition to the list of Canadian cities using precancel stamps. The 1 cent value only (type H) has been issued at present.

Montreal—have seen the 20 cents type A from this city; also the 2 cents type H both normal and inverted.

Winnipeg is now using a new type differing from type A in several details. Chiefly may be noted that the center bars are but half the thickness of those in type A; also, both lettering and spacing show variations. The 1c, 2c, 7c and 10 cents have so far appeared in the new type.

Following is a number of items omitted from the catalog: Moncton, N. B., type A, 1c, 2c, 3c, 5c, 10c and 20 cents, all of which exist inverted, and both the 2c and 10 cents double normal; Halifax, N. S., type H, 3c and 7 cents, both normal and inverted, and the 10 cents double inverted; Niagara Falls, Ont., type K, 2 cents War Tax; Toronto, type A, 3 cents (2T1) carmine.

Branford, Ont., is out with the 1 cent in type H, which will probably replace type A, as has happened with several other sities.

Here are a few recently-discovered old issues: 6 cents yellow-brown, Scott's No. 35, in type N; 5 cents gray, Scott's No. 43, in type Oa; 8 cents gray, Scott's No. 48, in type O, and the 50 cents Jubilee, type P. vertically. New things are constantly turning up in the older issues, and doubtless many varieties remain as yet unearthed.

Vancouver, it seems, has for some time been using on the 1c, 2c and 10 cents a type quite distinct from type A, although the difference has apparently been overlooked until recently. In type A length of "Vancouver" is exactly the width of the design, while in the new type it is much less. The 10 cent listed in the catalog as type A should be deleted, as it refers to the new type. —Bushnell's Magazine.

THE SURCHARGED 1c ON 2c CARDS.

The coming publication of the post card article March 19 promises to be one of the most interesting articles that has graced these columns for some time. William W. Randall, who is writing it, and compiling the first official list of these interesting U. S. cards, states that his work is well on to completion. The date of the cards locally surcharged by some 50 cities will show some interesting facts. For instance, Altus, Okla., only sent 4,300 cards through the cancelling machine at its P. O., while Louisville surcharged no fewer than 9,100,000. All the official news of these cards will be brought out for the first time. Collectors can then have an idea of the scarcity and rarity of these "re-valued" postal cards. L. G. Barrett will illustrate the article with drawings of all the different surcharges, as well as the differences in the two types of the 2 cent red Jefferson card of 1917-18. S. Schachne, the veteran postal card dealer, has just applied for a quarter page in that issue, and it would be advisable for all dealers in U. S. postal cards to be represented.

Written for MEKEEL'S.

A MISSIONARY SUGGESTION.

By L. H. BRIGHAM.

It is the opinion of the writer that there is excellent opportunity just at the present time for an abundance of missionary work to be accomplished in the interests of philately, through the medium of the many industrial publications issued in the interests of their employees. by the larger and more progressive concerns throughout the country. There lies a splendid field for philatelic endeavor practically virgin and as yet untapped.

The editorial staffs of these papers will hail with delight anything new and out of the ordinary which will go towards providing another line of activity for the workers outside of the usual list of sports and activities found everywhere.

The writer believes in "talking to them with pictures;" that is: to the heretofore uninterested individual. In order to put over an idea or thought to any group, one must, necessarily, first secure their attention—therefore the "picture" idea.

Accompanying this article to the editor is a recent issue of the semi-monthly publication issued by the firm the writer is connected with. This organization is composed of between 3,500 and 4,000 workers, principally all English speaking and of the more intelligent class, although representative of many nationalities. The illustrated article contained therein is the second or third on the subject of "stamps" that the writer has been instrumental in having printed during the past year.

The writer became connected with this organization about a year ago. Not an active collector was to be found in it nor in the entire town. Today there are ten or a dozen individuals actively collecting and many of the junior spirits going strong, who with proper and continued encouragement will develop into the real collectors of tomorrow. Never neglect the "kids". They are a valuable asset to the hobby both from the collectors' and the dealers' point of view—especially the dealers'. Incidently there are also half a dozen copies of MEKEEL'S coming into town steady and faithful each week, and a year ago at this time I don't think the editor knew Southbridge was on the philatelic map. This has all been accomplished by a little personal work and through the medium of the employee's semi-monthly paper. The paper started them asking questions and the personal work did the rest.

The probability is that there is hardly a concern of any importance to be found today but what has a Philatelist or two hidden away in its midst. They shouldn't be hidden—shame on 'em if they are—but in all activities there are to be found a certain number who are content to remain inactive when it comes to interesting others and who continue to follow along the single-track idea of collecting for their own interest alone. Better this than not collecting at all, but why in heaven's name lose half of the joy of the thing by neglecting to interest others?

There is no more disgusting or disappointing situation imaginable than to find one's self, owing to a change in occupation, suddenly dumped into the midst of a community which cannot boast of a single philatelist, active or otherwise.

The writer recently found himself in this unenviable position, so immediately sat about "making some collectors." This is not difficult if one goes about it in the right way. Don't be afraid to give a few stamps away. They'll come back to you like the proverbial "bread on the waters." We have all had them given to us by others in times gone by.

Being a member of the several national societies—"in union there is strength"—and selling and exchanging by mail is all O. K. as far as it goes, but like many other good works, it doesn't go far enough.

Like associates and kindred spirits are something we all like to frequently come in contact with. When all is said and done, we find that it is the ever existing human element contained in a thing which holds the most for us in any of life's varied pursuits. It therefore depends on each one of us alone as to just how much of this very necessary factor is instilled into our own relations with any subject.

RED BOOKS

Our approval selections are arranged in Red Books by countries. 19th and 20th Century, an unused and a used specimen whenever in stock. The finest copies we have are in these books.

Selections cheerfully sent to those we know and others furnishing bank or commercial references.

H. F. COLMAN SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG., WASHINGTON, D. C.

Another excellent method of presenting to others the many attractions that philately holds for us is to give a good, live, interesting talk on the subject, interjected with a proper number of stereopticon views illustrative of the various points one may be seeking to bring out.

Every big organization has its foreman's association, or its supervisor's board or some other group of individuals made up of the executives, managers, divisional and department heads. These are the men to get at. Get the "bosses" and you'll get some of the rest. If the "boss" and some of his workers are more or less interested in the same subject, it serves indirectly to strengthen the bond of good fellowship which should exist between them. In these days of industrial strife and general discontent no item is too small or inconsequent to be totally ignored or passed up in this respect.

These men usually on an average get together about once a month for an evening of social interchange and good fellowship. Ofttimes the committees in charge of these affairs are sore pressed to obtain a speaker for the event—specially if no funds are available for this purpose—or are, perhaps, all at sea as to just what to provide for a subject that will interest the greatest number—one can never hope to interest the whole bunch!

Now is the opportune moment for the exponent of philately to step forward and claim the floor—and he gets it. The committee may even go so far as to fall on his neck for so readily solving and disposing of their problem for them.

Show the investment side of the subject; the educational value to be derived, especially by the younger generation; tackle the subject from both the collector's and the dealer's point of view; touch on the manufacture, engraving and the printing of stamps; show the utter lack of limitations; outline the many types and varieties of collecting that it is possible to carry on; impress upon your listeners the non-necessity for spending a lot of money in order to obtain a representative collection of the world's stamps, as is the erroneous view held by many.

To sum it all up, a talk of this type before a group of individuals of this calibre—men well versed in the various lines of engineering, production, selling, office management, etc., should be strictly non-technical; brief; no one point expounded on at too great length; and employ the occasional use of humorous anecdotes and especially interesting personal experiences pertaining to the subject in hand.

This last suggestion seldom fails to hold a listener's attention and one is then able to put over what they have to say, in a way that their audience can't fail to get.

It is unnecessary to caution one that too much of this sort of thing becomes monotonous and will kill both the speaker and his talk. He will as a result have failed utterly in selling his subject to the gathering.

Keeping entirely free of statistics. Avoid them as one would a pestilence. There is no one thing that will so quickly and thoroughly tire an audience as the use of a great string of figures, etc., by a speaker, presented as facts, but which to the listeners are absolutely meaningless. Let these statistical facts be brought out if they are desired, by the speaker opening himself to questioning at the conclusion of the talk.

Above all things, stick to facts! Too many speakers are prone to exaggerate and to occasionally take to more or less extended flights of aerial fancy during a talk, if they feel secure in the fact that they are speaking on a subject which is entirely new and unknown to 99% of their audience. It is a sure bet if one does this thing, that the other 100th per cent will trip the speaker up in some one or more of his statements when at the conclusion of the talk he has laid himself open to questioning. It is then that one finds himself in an exceedingly awkward position. In order to extricate himself, the speaker must either brazen it out or retract some previous statement.

The present time is especially advantageous for missionary work of this type, for everywhere there are men and women eager to turn to something which will take up, somewhat, their time and minds from sorrows, losses, disappointments and misfortunes brought on either directly or indirectly as a result of the World War.

Somebody or other is responsible for the statement, "Music hath charms to soothe most savage beast." Well, so likewise has philately the power to steal our minds and thoughts away from all the many worries, perplexities and problems to which each and every one of us are heir.

"As we plant so shall we reap." Let every philatelist drop a few seeds here and there. The soil was never more fertile nor favorable for this good work than today; and if a sufficient amount of effort be expended in the right direction by each one of us, philately must surely flourish mightily in the near future.

LINCOLN'S PROFILE.

By HENRY C. KENDALL.

In WEEKLY No. 1568, Jan. 22, 1921, page 57, in an article on "A Philatelic Portrait Gallery" it says:—"Lincoln's profile is at its best on the 1909 Commemorative issue and the face view found on the 5c 1902-1903." This is a correct statement perhaps, but for myself, I am disappointed in the 1909 stamp. I cannot understand why the authorities selected an inclined head as the subject of that stamp. I have some 60 or more printings of the portraits of Abraham Lincoln and have, for nearly 50 years, saved everything that came my way concerning him.

After his nomination in 1860, at the request of many friends, Alex Hesler, a photographer of Chicago, went to Springfield, Ill., in June of that year and made four negatives of Mr. Lincoln. Only one remains in existence today, the other three were destroyed in the great Chicago fire Oct., 1871. Mr. Lincoln, himself, pronounced a print from this one negative as the best of all pictures and Messrs. Nicholay and H his private secretaries, say the sa using a copy at the frontispiece of th great work on Lincoln.

I really wish every philatelist in United States could see and study t picture and urge its adoption on so postage stamp that may come into use the future. The original negative owned by George B. Ayers in Philad phia; was copyrighted by him but now expired. I have 37 testimoni from prominent men all regarding it the best picture of, (as Mr. Roose said of him), the mightiest of the mig men in the mighty days.

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF DENMARK.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

CHAPTER III.

The First Stamp.

The Committee responsible for the Bill reforming postal matters evidently had all their plans well made, for the postage stamps were ready for use on the day the new law became operative—April 1st 1851.

It is interesting to note that the new Postal Law prescribed only a single stamp, of the face value of 4 rigsbankskilling, and yet the first issue comprises a 2 r. b. s. stamp as well, which was used in the City of Copenhagen only. Neither Decree, Office Notice or Instructions were published regarding this 2 r. b. s. value and it therefore has no official status! It was intended for local use and can best be considered apart from the officially sanctioned 4 r. b. s. which forms the subject of this chapter.

The design of the first 4 r. b. s. stamp consists of the Royal Emblems (crossed Sword and Sceptre surmounted by a Royal Crown) on a background of solid color within a wreath of oak leaves enclosed within a square inscribed frame. The spandrels—the space between the outer frame and the wreath—is covered with a pattern of dots formed by crossed uncolored wavy lines. The frame is inscribed "KONGELIGT" at left, "POST" at top, "FRIMAERKE" at right, and "FIRE R. B. S." at bottom. The inscription means "Royal Post Free Stamp" and "fire" is the Danish equivalent for "four". There are small squares in each angle containing posthorns, those in the lower corners being surmounted by microscopic figures or letters placed diagonally. The whole design is almost square, measuring 18½x19 mm.

The original die was engraved on steel by W. Ferslew and the plate from which the stamps were printed consisted of 100 reproductions from this die arranged in ten horizontal rows of ten stamps each. According to Mr. Hanciau, "the impressions were first taken in lead and from these clichés were made by electrotyping; the latter, joined together on a base of brass, formed the plate for printing."

The stamps were printed typographically on hand made white paper, watermarked with a small crown, and as a further protection against counterfeiting, the paper was first of all covered with a pattern of close wavy lines (burelage) in various shades of yellow or buff. On some stamps this burelage is very apparent and on others it is almost invisible.

The watermark not being considered a sufficient safeguard, nor yet the burelage, the engraver, according to that well-known authority on Danish stamps, Mr. O. Koeford, inserted a tiny letter "F", the initial of his name (Ferslew) in the wreath of oak opposite the letter "M" of "FRIMAERKE". We must confess that, in spite of our desire to see this letter, the examination of a large number of the stamps has failed to reveal it. True, on stamps reasonably clearly printed, there seems to be some small mark but if it is an "F" the engraver hid the secret well and a "secret mark" that is so cleverly camouflaged can hardly have been of much practical value.

The microscopic figures and letters above the posthorns in the lower angles vary considerably in shape. Mr. Hanciau, and most other writers on Danish stamps, concede that the minute character at left is a numeral "4", while that on the right is said to be a letter "s" and frequently a numeral—either 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 or 6. Furthermore, we are told that these small characters were not on the original die but were applied to the plate. If the latter were indubitably the case then the many manifestations could be easily accounted for and one might be led to infer that they had some special significance. But we believe the very method by means of which the plate was made precludes any possibility of such tiny additions having been made to the plate itself. On the other hand, this very method would easily account for such variations in tiny characters which were not unduly clear-cut on the die itself. On all the copies we have examined on which it has been possible to decipher these tiny characters with any ease, they always appear as "4" at left and "s" at right and, we take it, this is merely an additional designation of the value—"4 skilling". On less clearly printed copies, where there is any shape at all to the right hand character, it can be readily made to fit half a dozen different numerals or letters, as fancy dictates.

Mr. Hanciau gives an interesting account of the manufacture of this stamp which we cannot do better than reproduce in his own words:—

"The Post Office Department applied first to the British Government for information on the subject of the manufacture of stamps, and learned that a contract had been entered into with the firm of Perkins, Bacon & Petch for the supply of the stamps required in Great Britain, which were printed upon a special paper. The Department, however, did not consider that manufacture by private enterprise would afford sufficient security, and therefore declined the offers of that firm.

In August, 1850, the authorities made a proposal to the National Bank of Copenhagen, with a view to the Bank undertaking the preparation of the stamps. This proposition was not accepted, the bank not being able to undertake the work, matters of that kind not coming within its scope.

Finally, the Post Office Department, being unable to carry out the manufacture of the stamps on its own account, requested permission from the authorities of the bank for the Government Engraver, who was in their service, to carry out the engraving of the stamps, and at the same time for the use of the machinery of that establishment for printing them, and this was granted. A special contract was made son & Sons (after 1889 the "United Paper Mills"), for the supply of a hand made paper, with a watermark, a design for which, and also for the inscriptions, etc., in the margins of the sheets, was to be furnished by Ferslew, the engraver. In 1864 the hand made paper was replaced by machine made, but the same firm has always supplied the paper required for the stamps. It was not until the 8th of March that the first lot of paper (5,430 sheets) was furnished; the printing was commenced immediately, and although the primitive machines then in use were only able to produce 400 sheets per day, the quantity required was nevertheless obtained by April 1st, the date of the issue of the stamps.

KOSMOS STAMP CO.
63 Fifth Avenue, NEW YO

Each sheet contained a hundred stamps in ten rows. In each of the four margins was the inscription (watermarked) "KONGELIG POST FRIMAERKE", with a Crown in each of the upper corners and a Posthorn in each of the lower. The wavy lines (burelage) which form the groundwork of the stamps were printed first by the copper plate process, and then the stamps themselves by typography; there were thus two impressions for each sheet.

The manufacture of the first supply was entrusted to the engraver, Ferslew; the work has been done since down to the present day by the firm of Thiele, to whom it was assigned by a letter dated December 31st, 1851.

There is a special supervision by officials of the Department. The Stamp Office receives the paper from the mills, and has charge of the accounts of the stamps and their issue. The paper is issued in the quantities required for printing; after printing, the completed sheets and those spoiled are carefully checked, so that not a single one may disappear."

To avoid unnecessary repetition we may add that the paper used for all the issues down to 1864 was watermarked in the manner described above. After that date and until the crown watermark finally disappeared, the marginal inscriptions were "KGL POST-FRMK".

This stamp varies considerably in shade, some of the more pronounced tints being brown, deep brown, black brown, chocolate, bistre, yellow brown, and red brown.

The stamps were issued imperforate but occasionally copies are met with unofficially perforated 12.

The total number of this stamp printed during the two and a half years it was in use was 11,788,600.

REFERENCE LIST.

CHAPTER IV.

The Copenhagen Stamp.

The Law of March 11th, 1851, to which we have already made several references, prescribed only a 4 r. b. s. stamp intended for franking letters throughout the kingdom. No mention was made of any rate, local or otherwise, calling for a stamp of lower denomination. But the Post Office Department, which for some time past had operated a local service in the city of Copenhagen, as a private enterprise, put on sale on the same day that the 4 r. b. s. stamp was issued, although the Law said nothing whatsoever concerning it, a postage stamp of the value of 2 rigsbankskilling, intended for the prepayment of postage on letters circulating within the capital and weighing not more than 32 lod—about one and a tenth pounds. For the suburbs the rate was the same as that elsewhere—4 r. b. s.

As we have already stated, neither Decree, Office Notice, nor Instructions were published on the subject of this 2 r. b. s. stamp and it occupies the anomalous position of having no official status and yet of being produced by the Government engraver, printed on the Government presses, and sold at the Royal Post Office!

The original die was engraved on steel by W. Ferslew and the stamps were typographed in color on the same paper as that employed for the 4 r. b. s., that is to say, with the small crown watermark and printed with the yellow burelage.

Again we have our friend the "secret mark" in the shape of the engraver's initial "F" which, we are told, appears in the centre of the posthorn. Regarding this Mr. Hanciau playfully remarks, "It is plainly visible to good eyes, with a strong magnifier, in specimens that are particularly clearly printed (which is never the case); but sometimes, on a clear day, one can see a little white speck, and that is all". A mark that is so unblushingly secret can certainly have had no practical value.

The plate was made differently from that employed in printing the 4 r. b. s. The clichés were made of type-metal, that is, a mixture of lead, antimony and tin. Ten of these impressions were struck from the original die and arranged in five rows of two. From this block of ten impressions ten stereotype casts were made and these ten blocks were mounted on a mahogany base and formed the printing plate.

Much has been written regarding the so-called types and minor varieties found in this 2 r. b. s. stamp. Some writers have gone so far as to state that the small peculiarities are so numerous that the stamp might be plated. Whether this is a possibility or not we cannot say but it would seem that it should not be unduly difficult to find distinctive marks which would identify the ten clichés forming the original group. Specialists recognise three types differing in the manner in which the downstroke and tail-piece of the la "2" join. Type I is what may be ca the normal numeral, type II has a tinct break between the downstroke tail, and type III shows a sharper ar where the tail joins the downstro The last named is not very easy identify and both variations from normal are, of course, only due to sc little defect in taking the impress from the mother die. Type II is second stamp in each group of ten type III is number six so that e group of ten stamps on the sheet sh the types distributed as follows:—

I	II
I	I
I	III
I	I
I	I

In addition there are many small fects, like broken frame lines, bro letters and colored dots under the w SKILLING.

Very little variation of shade oc with this stamp, and according to official records, the total number pri was only 479,300.

THE WELL-BALANCED LIFE

By ROLAND S. ST. PIERRE.

No matter what field of industry or endeavor occupies the main interest of a man, to lead a well-balanced life it is necessary for him to give some diversion, some side interest, the proper place. It is all very well for a busy business man to stick to the office ten hours a day or more; for the rushed teacher, engineer, manager, lawyer, doctor, and so on, to exhaust their last atom of vitality in their work, and it is equally good for them to take some physical exercise. But these two are not enough. The brain that has been working at top-notch and, more than likely, overtime, on one particular subject or group of interests, is going to need some positive counter-agent in order to preserve the mental balance. Most men realize the existence and need of preserving the physical balance if they are to live long and happily. But proportionately few are the numbers of those who realize the necessity and wonderful relief of some mental relaxation. Fewer still are the numbers of those who, realizing, grasp the opportunity.

A man who is rated by the leading magazine in its field as being one of the fifteen leaders in America of that particular field, said to me the other day: "I wish I had taken up some useful hobby like stamp collecting when I was a boy. It would certainly be a help to me now.

"I used to collect tobacco tags, and now I am too busy to learn the ropes of any useful or educational hobby."

This man often works twelve hours and more a day, at the hardest kind of mental work. He is six days a week at this particular sort of thing, and naturally having out-grown tobacco tags, he finds it hard now to relax his mind and obtain rest.

Think how he would appreciate the opportunity that another man whom I know has: This man has had more than his share of the troubles, cares and misfortunes of this world. But ten years ago his son interested him in philately, and today he is the author of this statement:

"No matter how tired or worried I am, or how unsettled the state of affairs of my business, I can be sure of pleasant hours of rest, relaxation and forgetfulness when I open my albums, get out Scott's and the last couple copies of MEKEEL'S, and lose myself to the world."

Nor is it an avocation to be ashamed of. Rather, it is a mark of distinction, for it requires both intelligence and good taste to be a good stamp collector. You have only to take a look about you, assisted by a philatelic "Who's Who," to prove the truth of this statement. And if you are so fortunate as to have sufficient leisure to devote to taking real pleasure in your little paper friends, you will be the envy of many a rushed, busy man, a doctor or lawyer for instance, who would give much to have more time for the pursuit.

So for the business or professional man, for the leaders in any and every field of endeavor, no matter who they are or what conditions may be, I propose for a well rounded and balanced life, Philately. It is the most adaptable of hobbies; you may give it your pennies or millions, your moments or months, and may take it on every count from the financial to the artistic viewpoint, and it will serve you well, as no other hobby could. And it is altogether more than likely you will find that in taking it up you are doing what your friends, the people with whom you have business relations, and the leaders of your own work have already done—the sensible thing, and that is—get a hobby.

Speaking for one who has tried all of them, and as one who wants no better an one, I propose—Philately.

THE LATE HERMAN SCHMIDT.

By WILLIAM W. RANDALL.

Herman Schmidt, the well known New York stamp dealer, who died there in a hospital on Feb. 1, last, was born in Hamburg, Germany, some 67 years ago, coming to this country in 1884. He had been a collector of stamps in his native country, continuing the same pursuit after coming to America. In 1893 he started in the stamp business in a small way, and two years later opened an office on lower Broadway, New York, where he remained for 15 years. About 8 eight years ago he moved to 60 Nassau street, in the very heart of the stamp trade of the great metropolis. He gradually built up a very large trade, mostly of a wholesale nature, and at his death was doing a solid, prosperous business, and generally well liked by his competitors. Mr. Schmidt was prompt in two ends of his business— shipping the orders the same day, and often paying his bills before they came due. He was a consistent believer in the efficacy of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS, and often told the writer, who had known him for some 12 years, that he attributed a great measure of his success to this paper. He will be succeeded to the business that has been solidly founded, by his son, Fred Herman Schmidt, who spent two years overseas with our boys in the late European War. He is a bright young man of about 25 years of age, and he promises to further make the name of Schmidt known in stamp circles of New York, and elsewhere.

MARIENWERDER

The town and district of Marienwerder in West Prussia, lies forty-two miles to the south of Dantzig, near the right bank of the Vistula. It was founded in 1233 by the Knights of the Teutonic order, and contains a fine old cathedral dating back to the XIII. century. Iron foundries, sawmills and machinery workshops support a population of under 10,000.

Under the provisions of article 94 of the Treaty of Versailles, the rival claims of Germany and Poland to this area were submitted to a Plebiscite under the control of an Inter-Allied commission. This commission, consisting of one representative each from Great Britain, Italy, France and Japan, and supported by a detachment of Bersaglieri, established its headquarters at Marienwerder early in March, 1920.

In accordance with paragraph 8 of the Protocol to the Peace Treaty of January 9th, 1920, special postage stamps were introduced during the Inter-Allied regime.

The following notification accordingly appeared in the Deutsch Eylauer Zeitung for 12/3/20:—

"1. With effect from 12th March, 1920, the sale of German postage stamps at post offices in the Plebiscite area will be suspended.

2. As from 13th March, 1920, new postage stamps provided by the Commission will be in circulation, and these only will be sold by post offices.

3. Until March 18th, 1920, the old German stamps may be exchanged for the new ones.

4. The former German Stationery, Postcards, etc., can be employed concurrently with the new stamps.

5. Any other form of prepayment is invalid and liable to double the amount of the deficiency."

The stamps referred to in the above quoted decree were of distinctive design, lithographed in Milan to the order of the Italian High Commissioner at Marienwerder by L'Officine Grafiche Cohen. They bear in the centre a figure of Liberty carrying the flags of Great Britain, France, Italy, and Japan, with a casket at her feet inscribed "Populi Voluntatas." At the head and foot of the design were the words "Commission Interallie—Marienwerder." The sheets of 300 stamps each contained a paper maker's watermark, "O. B. M.," flanked by two stars, and were roughly perforated 11½.

Five low values only were available for use on March 13th, and the balance was not received until about a month later. The total printing of this issue is said to have comprised 6,000,000 stamps, but it is not clear what were the proportions of the fourteen different values.

SUMMARY.

1920. March 13th. Plebiscite stamps. Fourteen values. Figure of Liberty and allied flags. Lithographed by L'Officine Grafiche Cohen, Milan. Wmk. OBM and Stars in sheet. Perf 11½.

2mks dull lilac (Apr. 12th).
3mks carmine (Apr. 12th).
5mks blue and rose (Apr. 12th).

In view of the dearth of high value stamps, which were required to meet the enhanced rates of postage, coupled with the fact that the first printing of 25pfg and 50pfg stamps had been exhausted within a few days of issue the British Postmaster of Marienwerder (Mr. Salisbury) was authorised to make use of a certain number of the obsolete German postage stamps, distinguished by a special overprint, to supply the deficiency. These consisted of the denominations 50, 75, and 80pfg, and 1 mark of the contemporary German series overprinted "Commission Interallie Marienwerder," in three lines of nonpareil capitals, at the Von Groll Printing Works, Marienwerder.

Trial impressions were taken of the overprint in green, orange, and black, and in lilac red on the 80pfg only. It was decided, however, that the space between the lines of the overprint was too narrow and the type was therefore re-set. A few of the proofs appear to have been used for postage and are somewhat scarce. The original issue of these provisionals embraced the values 50, 75, and 80pfg and 1 mark only, which were first brought into use on March 27th, 1920.

SUMMARY.

1920, March 27th. Provisional issue. Four values. German types of 1900-20, overprinted Commission Interalliee Marienwerder in lines of Nonpareil type in black at Von Groll Printing Works, Marienwerder. Numbers overprinted shewn in brackets.

50pfg carmine and black on buff (2,000).
75pfg blue-green & blk. (60,000).
80pfg car. & blk. on rose (10,000).
1 mark, carmine (6,000).

On April 12th, 1920, the balance of the permanent set was received, but by June, owing to unexpected demands by stamp collectors, the stock of certain values was again exhausted, and local overprinting was once more resorted to. The necessary mark values were extemporized by surcharging the lowest denominations as required.

SUMMARY.

1920, June. Provisional issue. Six values. Locally overprinted "Commission Interalliee Marienwerder" and surcharged with new values in black. Numbers overprinted shewn in brackets.

5pfg green (20,000).
20pfg blue (45,000).
1mk on 2pf grey (20,000).
2mks on 2½pfg grey (30,000).
3mks on 3pfg brown (20,000).
5mks on 7½pfg orange (25,000).

There is a variety in this overprint with inverted W for M in Marienwerder, as well as two types of the figure 2 in the 2Mk surcharge. The stamps were surcharged in complete sheets of 100.

As a result of strong representations made by the Warsaw Government, the Polish name of the territory, "Kwydzin," was incorporated in the design, in addition to the German "Marienwerder" of a second printing of the regular plebiscite stamps, which was placed on sale during July, 1920. The higher denominations were brought into use on the 12th of that month, and the remainder about the 20th. This printing is believed to have consisted of five million stamps, including all values.

SUMMARY.

1920. July 12th—20th. Plebiscite issue. Definite design as before. Inscribed "Plebiscite — Marienwerder — Kwydzin." Lithographed in Milan on thicker paper, without watermark. Perf. 11½.

eanwhile, the State Printing Works at Berlin had been approached by the Inter-Allied Commission to supply high value stamps to meet the temporary shortage. Accordingly the current German 1Mk, 1.25M, 1.50Mk, and 2.50Mk postage stamps were overprinted "Commission Interallie Marienwerder," in three lines of large sans-serif capitals. Owing to pressure of work, however, these were not delivered to the Marienwerder Post Office until the end of July, after a fresh supply of the plebiscite stamps had been received. Of the 1.25Mk and 1.50Mk provisional stamps only 50 specimens each are believed to have been overprinted, but as to the other two values no definite figures are available.

SUMMARY.

1920. July. Provisional issue. Four values. Overprinted "Commission Interalliee Marienwerder" in three lines in black sans-serif capitals at State Printing Works, Berlin, on contemporary German postage types. Numbers overprinted shewn in brackets.

1.25mks green (3,000).
1.50mks brown (3,000).
2.50mks claret.

The plebiscite having been decided in favour of Germany, the Inter-Allied Commission withdrew from Marienwerder on August 10th, 1920. Six days later the plebiscite stamps ceased to be accepted in payment of postal charges and the normal German issue was restored to circulation.—West End Philatelist.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—Adolph W. Jenista, formerly of St. Louis, announces his engaging in the stamp business under the name of the Hawkeye Stamp Co., Cedar Rapids, Ia. Mr. Jenista is an oldtime philatelist, long a subscriber to MEKEEL'S WEEKLY, a member of various stamp societies, and we wish him well in his new venture.

—"Enclosed find copies of my ads for March 19 and 26. I must give MEKEEL'S a word of praise; it surely gets the business. After my contracts expire with other journals, will use more space in MEKEEL'S. The vest pocket stock book surely does sell; have sold as high as ten to a customer, so they must please."—A. E. HUSSEY.

—E. T. Parker, Bethlehem, Pa., sends us a 20-page price list, all stamps being priced singly. It is worth sending for.

—Louis Klein, Penn. Square Bdg., Philadelphia, is desirous of starting a stamp club in Atlantic City. Will collectors residing in or near the city in question communicate with Mr. Klein?

—"Re article in Feb. 19 issue by Mr. Brigham (page 115). Some of the information may be found in last year's The American Philatelist, page 179." —FRED O. OHLUND.

—We have received from George H. Jaeger, Box 25, Libau, Lettland, a copy of Der Baltische Philatelist, a magazine printed in both German and English. Collectors interested will do well to apply for a sample copy.

—J. H. Smyth & Co., Sydney, New South Wales, wishes us to inform our readers that the postal rate to Australia outside of New Zealand is 5c per ounce and not 2c. It would seem as though stamp collectors would not need to be reminded of this fact.

—George H. Seldes, whose interest in philately has extended over a number of years, is now located in Germany, where he is the Berlin correspondent of the Chicago Tribune. He would be glad to see all A. P. S. members who may drop into Germany. Mr. Seldes writes J. E. Guest a weird story concerning the stamp market in Germany. He calls the stamp market "crooked" and says that many of the German dealers are unscrupulous in disposing of their wares. Auction prices for United States are higher than at home, and the Germans all say that German stamps are cheaper in New York than Berlin.

—We welcome to our columns this week on contract an advertiser, the Leader Stamp Co., 2900½ Shenandoah Av., St. Louis, Mo. The president of the company is C. T. Wessbecher, a member of the A. P. S. and S. P. A. Mr. Wessbecher has had considerable dealing experience and we hope and believe that he will make a success of his present venture.

PRECANCEL NOTES.

By H. S. DICKEY.

Here's a list of rare odds and ends: Pawtucket, R. I., 1c double; Kansas City, Kan., 3c purple ink; 3c Fairfield, Ill., inverted, purple ink; Cheyenne, Wyo., 8c inverted; Escanaba, Mich., 2c inverted; 4c Paradise, Pa., inverted; I never knew Paradise was in Pennsylvania, but I've heard they've got almost everything there; West Grove, Pa., 11c, all three words spelled with capital letters; maybe they have learned to use capitals now, they didn't used to.

Here are a few new cities that I've never seen precanceled before. Webster City, Iowa, 2c up; Hartford City, Ind., 2c; Bloomfield, N. J., 2c; Mt Vernon, N. Y., 5c; Franklin, N. H., 5c; Tilton, N. H., 2c; Macomb, Ill., 1c all perf. 11.

Here are a few rare ones: Red Bank, N. J., 12c in a new type; Northampton, Mass., 2c inverted, tiny type (let's hope this type is permanent); 1c Cedar Falls, Iowa, inverted; 1c Phila., Pa., short type, inverted; 5c New London, Conn.; 3c Danville, Ill.; 9c Plymouth, N. H.; 15c Norfolk, Va.; and the 11c and 12c Albany, Ore., which have always been hard to find; and last but not least, some more Champaign from Ill., the 10c and 12c.

One collector asked if I collect only precancels, and I had to laugh, as I think foreign stamps are about the prettiest things I ever saw, and I think just as much of my sets of North Borneo, Labuan, Salvador, Honduras, and Guatemala as I do any stamps I own. I collect stamps for their beauty first, and their value is a secondary thing. I'm quite a student of history, and I can honestly say that outside of a distinct prejudice against Turkey and all things Turkish, I chase the wee bits of paper from every country in the world.

NEW ONES—7c Washington, D. C., U15 perf. 11. 5c So. Manchester, Conn., U16 perf. 11. 50c Greenfield, Mass., U15 perf. 11. 6c Evansville, Ind., inverted U9 perf 11. 30c Corning, N. Y., U8 perf. 11. 30c Tampa, Fla., perf. 11, similar to U4, but more condensed.

New 10x11 perf. precancels are Cincinnati, Ohio, tiny type; Philadelphia, Pa., fat type; Makanda, Ill., in purple ink (a beauty); and Clay Center, Neb.

New 1c surface prints normal Corning, N. Y., and Lynn, Mass., (down) in that beautiful type they have used for so many years, altho Lynn has now come out with the pretty letter type (that they started using way back in 1898. I picked up a 7c one today perf. 11.

Elgin, Ill., 2c surface print in a big plain letter type; quite different from those tiny type Elgins we've been used to for so long. I've also gotten 2c surface prints from Holyoke, Mass., and Hoboken, N. J., normal and inverted 2c surface prints from Rochester, N. Y., Gloucester, Mass., and St. Paul, Minnesota.

I received a beautiful set of Nowata, Okla., 1c to 13c as a Christmas gift from my friend King of that city, and I appreciate the set very much.

Boone Terrace, Mo., is a new precancel to me. I've gotten the 1c, 3c, 4c, 7c, 9c, 10c and 11c, and 3c Victory, all small type.

Delevan, Wisconsin, is out in a big plain letter type normal; I guess Delevan has had her ups and downs long enough, but the stamp collectors never get enough of them.

The honor of being first to get a 1c Pilgrim stamp precancelled belongs to Stuart Danforth, who has sent me a copy precancelled New Brunswick, New Jersey, in the 3 line type, and pretty doesn't half tell it.

Here's new 13's: Memphis, Tenn., inverted, and 13c Binghampton, N. Y., normal.—Precancel Gazette.

EDITORIAL.

Another—We had a visit recently from Shirley E. Moisant, Kankakee, Illinois, who is well remembered as a philatelic publisher, dealer and as one who through his attendance at conventions became acquainted personally with many collectors living throughout the country. For some years past, Mr. Moisant has been missing from philatelic haunts and so it is becoming that he be included in our series of "What Has Become of Him?" While Shirley E. Moisant is not creating any particular stir in the stamp world just now, he certainly is handling the pole that knocks down the persimmons in a way to "electrify the stands." There was a time when in his determination to command success, he reduced the subscription price on his stamp monthly to one cent a year; and at that, we suppose that a good many canny collectors withheld their pennies in the hope that Mr. Moisant would pay them for taking the paper. However, carking care as a philatelic publisher's lot has sought a better feeding-ground than on our hero's brow, for he now owns part of one of Kankakee's daily newspapers that is a "power in politics," as they phrase it. He has been alderman and they tried to make him mayor of Kankakee. He is interested in a bank or two and other things of the kind as well. How he stands in the insurance field is indicated by the fact that he is secretary of the Illinois Association of Insurance Agents. Mr. Moisant is a booster for philately, as he does much to encourage young collectors by gifts of stamps and otherwise. We hope that Mr. Moisant will soon feel the old philatelic "urge" again.

Helper—Speaking of boosters of stamp collecting, we must pay our respects to the Historical Museum Curator, Professor Charles E. Brown, who is being interviewed continually by students in the University of Wisconsin, Madison, School of Journalism, on the trail of "copy." He is indeed a friend at court and in the aggregate many columns of news on stamp and kindred subjects have appeared in the local press and the University of Wisconsin Press Bulletin, which is reprinted by dailies and weeklies throughout the state, as a result of his co-operation. All regard for the man who is so disinterested a devotee of philately that he will shape his good-will into tangible results, at the expense of his own time and effort.

Correction—Samuel Bennett, secretary of the Society of Philatelic Americans, very courteously corrects a statement made in an editorial in our issue of Feb. 19. He writes us that the Philatelic Sons of America is non-existent. Of course we are aware of that fact, but occasionally we are told that even Jupiter nods, and we are more than desirous of giving proper credit to the enterprising body of stamp collectors that will assemble as the Society of Philatelic Americans at Minneapolis in the near future. This society has existed for the past twenty-six years and was formerly known as the Southern Philatelic Association. We apologize for the slip of the pen.

A Dickens' Slip.—Frank E. Robbins calls our attention to "an amusing chronological slip" made by Dickens in the Pickwick Papers. We quote from Mr. Robbins' letter:—"To my mind an enthusiasm for stamp collecting and one for Dickens—especially the "Pickwick Papers"—are both commendable; so when I discovered recently in a somewhat detailed examination of Mr. Pickwick's doings a reference to a rather remarkable feat of the British Post Office of 1830, I thought the matter was of sufficient interest to communicate it to you. It concerns the letter which Dodson and Fogg sent to Mr. Pickwick, informing him that the famous suit of Bardell vs. Pickwick was instituted.

The letter came to Mr. Pickwick at the Angel Inn, Bury St., Edmunds, a town some 87 miles from London, whence of course the letter had been sent. Mr. Pickwick and his friends had been absent from London somewhat more than three weeks. They had journeyed to Eatanswill in one day; then they had witnessed the election proceedings there, which, according to the customs prevailing in 1830, must have consumed fifteen days; four days later they had gone to Mrs. Leo Hunter's masquerade breakfast-party, and Mr. Pickwick, coming directly thence to Bury, had been laid up with an attack of rheumatism for three days at the aforesaid Angel Inn, Bury.

Furthermore, we are exactly informed concerning the date of the receipt of this letter. Mr. Pickwick tells Sam Weller to take two places on the London coach on Thursday morning, September 2, which was the third day after that on which he read the letter. This is determined by the statement also made on this occasion that the "day after tomorrow" would be September 1. Incidentally it may be remarked that Dickens probably looked up the calendar on this point, for September 2, 1830, did fall on Thursday.

The letter itself, then, came to Mr. Pickwick's hand on August 30, and it bears the date "August 28th, 1830." Now for the surprising part of this affair: Sam Weller, handing the letter to Mr. Pickwick, tells him he found it at the Post Office, where it had lain for two days—that is, since August 28, the very day on which Dodson and Fogg must have posted it in London!

This was celerity indeed. Dodson and Fogg may have known Mr. Pickwick's address at Eatanswill—Mrs. Bardell, his landlady, could have told them—but how could they know that he had gone on to Bury, leaving suddenly as he did, on the impulse of the moment? None of his friends who stayed at Eatanswill a few days after Mr. Pickwick's departure knew about the letter; they cannot have forwarded it. Mr. Pickwick himself must have left a forwarding address when he departed from Eatanswill, and the officials at that mythical place sent it on to Bury. Communication was by stage coach, and it took Mr. Pickwick himself a whole day to get to Eatanswill from London; Bury, as I have remarked, is 87 miles from London by the present railroad. But this letter all in one day made two considerable journeys—from London to Eatanswill, and thence to Bury!

I hardly imagine that this can be cited as authentic evidence for a super-human efficiency in the British postal service of 1830. It is simply an amusing chronological slip on Dickens' part—and he made many others."

THE 6c COIL STAMP.

By Rev. G. E. Richter.

You will recall our correspondence over a year ago regarding the 6c coil stamp. While in Washington in Sept. attending the International Anti-Alcoholic Congress, I carried it with me and submitted it to the authorities at the Bureau and to Mr. Fitch of the Division of Stamps, P. O. Dept. (I found that he was a subscriber and interested reader of Mekeel's, too, tho not a collector), but without being able to establish its status. Mr. Fitch told me that he had gone over their records, and altho he had not been able to locate the individual who was intrusted with the duty of destroying the coil of 6's which had been made for the Economist people, the presumption was that it had been so destroyed, and he had no record of any other coil of 6's having been made. Mr. Leavy says "It must remain a philatelic mystery." Nevertheless, I know that the cover is just as I received it, and that Mr. Chapman is a man who would not create a fake (he has been in business in the same office for over 50 years, and has one clerk who has been with him all those years), and neither he nor anyone else would have any interest in passing on a fake without attempting to recover it. So I am going to hold on to the stamp, believing that some day the "mystery" may be cleared, if another such specimen should turn up, or information reach us regarding the ultimate end of that roll made for the Economist Co.

A PHILATELIC PILGRIMAGE.

By FOREST F. MIDDLETON.

For a week I had anxiously awaited the arrival of Saturday afternoon, when one of my Japanese students had agreed to help me find Tokyo's leading stamp dealer. We knew that the shop was situated somewhere near the entrance to Ueno Park. We left Miyashita Cho at one o'clock and boarded one of Tokyo's crowded cars. At Hongo-San Chome we transferred to a Ueno car and dropped off at the entrance to the park. Then the hunt began. We entered a crockery shop, where my guide enquired for the stamp dealer. No one knew his whereabouts, but we lingered a few moments while I purchased a grotesque clay figure of Japan's sacred badger.

Next we interviewed one of the Tokyo police staff. The police of Tokyo are a fine lot, very military and efficient looking in their bearing, and justly respected or feared by the entire population. They are the true descendants of the old Samurai. This officer explained at some length that there was some such shop about half an hour's walk from his kiosk. Stamps weren't exactly in his line so he wasn't certain as to its location. We started off toward East Tokyo. Our road took us through a district that beggars description. Industrially, Japan is still partly in the feudal age. There are innumerable shops where the owner is both manufacturer and merchant. We passed bake shops, where the great, queer-shaped ovens were placed in full view, and half-clad men sat about on their haunches, smoking the small-bowled, long-stemmed Japanese pipes; past jewelers' shops, where the artizans worked on fascinating alloys of green gold, red gold, yellow gold, silver and platinum; past second-hand clothing shops where gorgeously-colored kimonos could be bought for a few yen; and past second-hand shops that were miniature museums, containing beautiful old copper tea kettles, saki gourds, hibaches, bronze, wood or porcelain idols, and a hundred other Oriental curios that were merely objects of every day life to the Japanese. In the deep-shaded rear sat the most interesting attraction of all,—the dealer himself.

Finally, after passing through four streets, 14 alleys and past four thousand children, we reached a small shop that displayed a board of paper money. We entered. After our eyes became accustomed to the dimness, I descried a framed block of 16 Peace stamps. They were merely a cancelled postal savings card, similar to those used in America for thrift stamps, and were cancelled with a special cancellation to denote their fiscal use

We spent a delightful quarter of an hour admiring the accumulation of Japanese and Chinese paper money, the Korean bullet money, rectagonal gold coins, and other interesting items, and all the time my guide was trying to find the location of the stamp dealer we had started out to visit. As we were about to leave, a dapper, bright looking young man stepped into the shop and gave us the once over. Then, in exceptionally good English, he introduced himself, asked if I were a stamp collector, and on my affirmative answer our hands met like a flash in true brotherhood I had met, in this distant corner of Tokyo, Mr. R. Yokohori, student of Kio University, sometime contributor to the WEEKLY, and ardent philatelist. He is in constant correspondence with Mr. Wylie, and with A. C. R., of East Orange, besides numerous European dealers, for he is extremely interested in Neurope.

The three of us started back along our route to visit Mr. Maeba, whose shop is situated just south of the park entrance. As we walked along, arm in arm, we talked of our mutual acquaintances, the probable future of Neuropeans, the flagrant counterfeiting of Japanese early issues, and other subjects dear to the heart of all true philatelists

Mr. Maeba's shop is both a stamp shop and a shop where Japanese prints, both originals and good facsimiles, are sold. We spent an hour and a half and $17.50 on his immense stock of stamps. I picked up three or four early U. S. and scoured his approval selections for stray precancels.

As I slipped into my raincoat, (we always wear raincoats in Tokyo, for if it isn't raining, it's going to, shortly), I blew in what was left of my month's wages on a few beautiful, seductive chirimen prints.

SEQUEL.

Monday morning I received the following postal from my guide, student and friend, a non-collector who had cheerfully devoted an afternoon to piloting me to Maeba's shop

My dear teachers,

I am aware that I have been tempted by your, inspired with your earnest collecting and inclined to follow the example. Your words "you should collect stamps" has decided my inclination to be realize. Yesterday evening, after came back, I have began collecting. I am sure I am able to assist you more than past.

Yours faithfully,

PRECANCEL FIND.

GEORGE E. THOMPSON

I found a pair of 2c surface Great Falls, Mont., and a nice perfect centre block of four 11c Tulsa, Okla., double, among a lot of rubbish today, and yesterday I went into a rooming house to sell milk and I looked on the table near the phone and I saw a package with a pretty 13c and 50c Paducah, perfect centre. I knew if I asked the landlady for the stamps that she would say they belonged to one of the roomers and of course would try to get them for me and perhaps forget all about it and if perchance she would think of it I would receive them maybe torn or skinned so I was foxy and said, "May I use your phone?" and she said yes and while central was trying to get me a number that wasn't in the book I was busy tearing off both stamps to my satisfaction, and by the time central said no such number I had the stamps and I thanked the lady and she never knew what I was after, but gee, they looked pretty. I had only the 2c perf 11 Paducah so now I have three of the 11 perf, heavy type like the Lexington. I found Los Angeles 30c perf. 10 this morning. Some stamp. I found it in an old barrel behind a candy store Have been looking for it for several years.

From our Alaskan correspondent

"On looking over my collection of U. S. stamps I noticed a one dollar stamp of the issue of 1902-03 with a name printed on it On closer inspection I discovered that this name was Nome, an Alaskan city. The name was on twice and inverted both times. After the upper one is the first letter of Alaska, but the lower one was printed too near the edge to see even the first letter of Alaska."

In addition to this one I found several others of the present issue with names of various Alaskan cities printed on them. Several of them are as follows: Anchorage, Alaska, on ten cent, Fairbanks, Alaska, on twenty cent, Cordova, Alaska, on thirty cent, as well as quite a few others.—Precancel Gazette.

THE CASE OF BELA SZEKULA.

We published recently an advertisement of the well known Swiss dealer, Bela Szekula, and in connection with this, two of our subscribers have written us as to the wisdom of our accepting Mr. Szekula's advertising. We were referred to a French journal which made derogatory remarks concerning this dealer, but who in turn has filed a suit for libel in the French courts.

Mr. Szekula came to the United States last summer, made his calls upon various dealers using the WEEKLY, and we have had no complaint in connection with any transaction upon his part. The WEEKLY always claims to protect its subscribers and the trade from any dealer unworthy of entrance into our columns, and we are at all times glad to get the particulars of transactions that are discreditable.

ENTIRE COUNTRIES

The following collections contain all, or nearly all, the varieties of each country specified, together with a wealth of material for specializing and study in shades, cancellations, etc., and throughout the series are many rare and beautiful pairs, strips, blocks and original covers.

THE REVALUED 1c POSTAL CARD.

We are pleased to announce that the article on the current surcharged postal cards will be a feature of our issue of April 2. Mr. William W. Randall, the writer and compiler of this welcome and timely treatise on the revalued U. S. postal cards, promises a treat for such of our readers who are interested in the collection of the postal cards of this country. He expects the final official information from the postmasters and the P. O. Dept. within the next 10 days. Collectors have been very kind in sending their collections for his inspection, and he writes that everybody seems to be more than interested in the coming article. Louis G. Barrett, who is so well known to our readers, is at work on drawings of some 40 of the surcharged types, to embellish the article.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—The Economist Stamp Company has shown me a horizontal pair of the 5c blue, unwatermarked, perforated 11 current issue, imperforate vertically between. The pair is immediately beneath the margin with plate No. 8902. The post office clerk who removed the pair from the sheet states that all of the others on the same sheet were normal. This means that some of the pins from the perforating wheel were worn or had fallen out, resulting in this variety, which is somewhat similar to the 12c stamp found a few years back.

While visiting New York recently, I learned from one of the dealers that the famous collection of mint U. S. as well as early covers formed by Mr. J. McK. Storrow has been sold, the Economist Stamp Co. having placed this intact with an interested party. It will be of interest to note at this time, that this collection contained the only copy of the Millbury Postmaster Provisional on white paper. This copy is on a piece of the cover.

Mr. C. D. Cugle sends for inspection a cover posted under a first class permit and turned out by the new postage meter machine. It seems that they are sending these circulars broadcast endeavoring to sell stock in a Company formed to market these machines. Information regarding this specialty was described in the WEEKLY some time back.

Mr. C. H. McBride, as well as Mr. E. B. Sterling, calls attention to copies of the 1c Pilgrim stamp with a very strong offset on the back. This impression is reversed and of course comes from the sheet immediately under it, at the time of printing.

Mr. Sterling also sends for inspection a number of stamped envelopes as well as a quantity of the 2c surface print taken from one day's mail. He sends this lot and calls my attention to the fact that a wonderful collection may be gotten together without expenditure by simply watching the daily mails. He located in the one lot several varieties of cancellations, a number of minor breaks and lines in the case of the surface printed stamps, besides other varieties of interest. We mention this fact in order to bring forcibly to the attention of our readers the advisability of watching even the commonest stamps passing their hands.

While speaking of cancellations, a great many letters have been received calling attention to the new cancellations now being used by post offices in most of the large cities, requesting that letters be addressed to the street numbers. These are most interesting, but we are not mentioning the many varieties, for it has not been our custom to list late cancellations unless they are of extraordinary general interest.

Memphis has just started to overprint their supply of 3c envelopes, and Mr. B. M. Johns sends some of the first that I have seen. Mr. Charles Bleeker informs me that Little Rock has also received a die and has started to surcharge, but I have not received any varieties from that city as yet. Mr. Hoffman of the Monarch Exchange sends a new variety from Butte as well as a double printed postal card. The Hilton Stamp Company sends two new varieties from San Francisco, while Mr. Geo. P. Smith has located quite a few in Baltimore. Mr. Arnold Hermann calls attention to the fact that the third Washington type is so like the Kansas City type that he believes they are one and the same thing. This is quite possible, for the third Washington overprint was only used to surcharge one lot of envelopes in Washington and the die was then sent elsewhere.

Mr. W. A. Cullers sends for inspection one of the current postals without the head impression in the upper right corner; the balance of the card is printed as in the normal. The variety no doubt is due to something being on the sheet at the time the card was printed, the piece of foreign matter receiving the head impression and the card the balance.

We desire to thank the following for notes and information of interest:—Messrs. A. H. Hall, Oscar G. Johnson. B. M. Kinner, G. C. Cuenod, R. E. Solosth, Davis Weiss, Victor Myers, Fred Timacus, F. B. McGowan and J. W. Goodrich.

ALBANIA.—Mr. Norman Stearns has shown us a set of 3 values of stamps of this country. The type shows the likeness of a Prince in military uniform in the centre with the words "Shqipenie" at the top and the figures of value in each lower corner with the word "Qintar" between. The values and colors are as follows: 5q green, 10q red, and 25q blue.

BAVARIA.—Mr. Oscar G. Johnson informs us that he has the 1m, No. 132, surcharged "Volkstaat Bayern" in dark blue.

CILICIE.—Mr. Oscar G. Johnson advises that he has a copy of the 2c French stamp surcharged "O. M. F. Cilicie Sand Est 5 Paras" with the first "a" smaller than the others, and the "S" in Paras inverted.

CRIMEA.—Messrs. Bright & Son advise that the Crimea Provisional 100R on 1K of which we sent you full particulars including all minor varieties some few weeks back, exists perf. as well as imperf. The imperf. being about twice as rare as the perf.

HONG KONG.—The Philatelic Magazine notes that the 25c now appears in slightly different form. It was discovered that the left-hand top Chinese characters displayed two cross strokes, whereas there should be only one. The necessary correction has been made in the new supply which is in dull purple.

LOURENZO MARQUES.—Mr. John T. Clemons has shown us a copy of the 2½c type of Scott's A4 surcharged "Quatro Centavos" in red in two lines.

NEWFOUNLAND.—We are informed by Mr. Frank F. Wills that the 15c Caribou stamp is now obsolete. This adds to the 6c, 8c and 12c of this set that are not now on hand. The 4c Caribou has appeared in a lighter shade and is printed on thinner paper similar to the new 5c.

NEW ZEALAND.—The New Zealand Stamp Collector states that the 7½c King George has at last turned up perforated 14x14½. So far this stamp has only been known 14x13½.

RARATONGA.—The Australian Philatelic Record advises that although we have not set eyes on them, yet we are informed that the pictorial set has appeared, overprinted "Official."

RUSSIA.—We are indebted to Messrs. Bright & Son for the following:—

It may be of interest for your readers to know that we have learnt through various correspondents that a new provisional issue has been made for the Stamps, Coins, Old Arms, Navajo Blankets, War Shields, Etc.

It is impossible to get up an ad worth reading without giving it a personal touch. If a stock worth $40,000 or over means anything, or if 32 years in the mail order game signifies something, please consider what I have to say:—

I send goods on approval to all parts of the globe, I have fitted up dens, and rounded out cabinets for thousands of collectors. Just now I am trying to get away from so many lines, and I want to reduce my stock of curios and devote more time to stamps and coins. If any of the readers of this paper have a den or a cabinet or a hall fitted with curios, let me hear from you. I have ten thousand specimens, such as guns, pistols, daggers, war clubs, spears, bows and arrows, prehistoric stone relics (largest stock to be found anywhere), beaded Indian relics, and trappings of the modern Indian tribes, Navajo blankets (suitable for rugs) ranging in price from $20 to $200 each, gold, silver and copper coins of every country, paper money of U. S., fossils, minerals, Alaskan curios, Chinese antique idols, etc., etc.

I could fill a page enumerating the various lines of curios I carry in stock. Send 5c for circulars and specify the line or lines you are interested in. Address

Russian Army, i. e., what is left of Wrangel's Army and the refugees in the various camps. These stamps are for the use of these people. We understand that three denominations of 1,000, 5,000 and 10,000 roubles have been issued, overprinted on various values of ordinary Russian stamps. The numbers printed vary considerably, but on the whole are very limited, and according to the Director of the Post Office, the stamps are not sold to civilians. Of one value, the 10,000 rouble on 7 rouble Deniken type, only 40 copies were printed. So far we have seen the following, but believe there should be various others:

Russian stamps overprinted in Russian characters, three lines on top, reading "Postage Russian Army" and the value, 1,000, 5,000 or 10,000 roubles; the word "Roubles" in Russian at the bottom of the stamp:—

1,000R on 3, 4, 5, 7 and 10K (perf.).
5,000R on 3, 15, 35 and 70K (perf.).
10,000R on 1R (imperf.).
10,000R on 5K and 10K Savings Bank.
10,000R on 7R Deniken.
10,000R on 10R.

SMYRNA.—Mr. John T. Clemons has called our attention to the fact that the regular issue of the Great Britain stamps are being used in the vicinity of Smyrna for prepaying postage on letters and parcels.

SWITZERLAND.—We are informed by Mr. Richard Berresford that he has just received a letter from this country with a copy of No. 167 with three red lines drawn through the figures "7½" and above this is a "5" in red.

TONGA.—The Australian Philatelic Record informs in a recent issue that they learn that the remaining portrait stamps, the 2½d, 5d, 7½d, 10d and 1sh, are to be issued with the new ruler's head, as on the 2d—Queen Salote.

U. S. BANK NOTE ISSUES

A lot of really beautiful copies of these interesting stamps, from two noted collections recently dispersed. Used and unused. There are many rare foreign and domestic cancellations on practically all values. The 7c, 12c and 24c values are particularly well represented. The 5c and 10c '47's are worth seeing, if you happen to be interested in superb items.

VIRGIN ISLANDS FIRST ISSUE.

By R. E. R. DALWICK.

The first postage stamps of the Virgin Islands appeared, appropriately enough, around Christmastide, 1886, and are therefore of particular interest at this season of the year.

In the following notes the writer discusses the philatelic possibilities of these highly popular stamps, which in common with most lithographic issues, lend themselves to plating.

A fierce controversy raged round the subject of the designs of the early stamps of the Virgin Islands in one of the earliest volumes of the Stamp Collectors' Magazine, the upshot being that whereas the figure on the 1d and 6d stamps may be taken as representing the sixth sign of the Zodiac, that on the 6d and 1s is intended to typify Our Lady of the Immaculate Conception.

The early stamps of these British West Indian Islands are well worthy of the serious philatelic study. In the first place they are decidedly scarce—we might without contradiction say rare—in well-centred and fine condition. Another all-important point, which always attracts the real philatelist, is the fact that these stamps can be plated. A further attraction (if attractions are needed to recommend these interesting issues) is that entire sheets of all the older issues are of a small and compact size and can be mounted up in any ordinary sized album. Lastly, the old stamps are sound and not speculative.

On November 26, 1866, the first two stamps of the Virgin Islands were despatched from London, the consignment consisting of:—

1d green, 22,000.
6d rose, 11,000.

They were printed lithographically by Messrs. Waterlow & Sons, after a design by Mr. C. Rankin, to the order of Messrs. Nissen & Parker, London. Lithographic transfers were taken from a single engraved die to form a "stone" of 25 (5x5) impressions of each value. The sheets of 25 stamps were printed on white or toned unwatermarked wove paper and the perforation employed gauged 12. The 1d denomination is more often met with on white paper, whilst the 6d appears commonest on toned paper. The 1d varies considerably in shades. An important variety of the 6d consists of a large "V" in "Virgin," this being the last stamp in the third row of the sheet. Sometime in July, 1867, another consignment of stamps was despatched from England consisting of fresh values, viz., 4d and 1s in a new design. This was followed by further consignments of the 4d and 1s and old type 1d and 6d (perf. 15) during 1868-1876.

For the purpose of easy classification it may be well to give a few general notes regarding each of the four stamps of the perforated 15 series printed by Messrs. Waterlow & Sons.

ONE PENNY.

This denomination was the same design as the 1866 stamp but the perforation is now 15. There are at least two settings—probably more. Sheets of 25 (5x5), and also sheets of 12 in four rows of three stamps are definitely known. There are several varieties of paper. The consignments of this value sent out perf. 15 were as follows:—

1868 (June 6), 1000 (perf. uncertain. Possibly perf. 12, which would account for the two, very distinct shades of this perf. [1866]).
1870 (Oct. 25), 1000.
1871 (Jan. 12), 1000.
1871 (Mar. 21), 3500.
(Sept. 6), 4000.
1872 (Feb. 7), 6300.
1873 (Mar. 15), 2000.
1874 (Jan. 1), 4000.
(Oct. 14), 7000.

Die proofs in taille-douce are known of this denomination in both black and green.

FOUR PENCE.

This stamp is a much larger size than the 1d or 6d and is of different design, although the idea is more or less the same. Here again the sheet consists of 25 (5x5) stamps. Two very distinct shades exist: lake and lake-brown, the former apparently being from the earliest consignment of July, 1867.

There were only two consignments of this value:—

1867 (July 12), 10,000 and 2000.
1868 (June 6), 1000.

The explanation of the two entries "10,000 and 2000" is that the larger number was sent to St. Thomas, whilst the smaller parcel went direct to Sir Arthur Rumbold, Bart., the President of the Virgin Islands. This had previously been done with the two values of 1866 consignment. The figures given under the first issue include both parcels. The chief variety of importance in this sheet is a broken "A" in "Islands." An interesting unissued variety exists with the Virgin surrounded by lamps as in the 1d and 6d.

The following proofs, etc., are known: Proofs in issued colour on pinkish and pink paper: lithographed proof in red and emerald green.

SIX PENCE.

Only one consignment of 1000 stamps was sent of this value on June 6, 1868. Under these circumstances it is difficult to explain shades of colour and paper. One is led to the conclusion that atmospheric and climatic conditions had some effect upon the colouring pigments and "tone" of the paper. Considering only 1000 were issued it is needless to say the stamp is really scarce. In used condition it may be classed a rarity—postmark "A91." A variety on the sheet has a curious long-tailed "S" in "Islands." Die proofs are known in black and pale blue and it has also been seen in rose on thin white card.

ONE SHILLING.

There are three variations of this stamp—single-lined frame, double-lined frame and solid coloured border. Nothing much is known regarding the two first varieties, it may be that retouching is the explanation or to the merging of the double lines in heavily inked impressions. The heavy coloured border is an addition to the doubled-lined frame, this being clearly proved by the impression of the latter as specimens. In all there were 13,000 1s stamps sent out.

1867 (July 12), 10,000 and 1000.
1868 (June 6), 1000 and 1000.

It has been suggested that the 10 000 of 1867 were exclusively of the coloured border type and that the two entries of 1868 indicate 1000 of each variety "in the uncertainty as to which variety of the 1s was preferred."

A well-known variety of this stamp is that with the figure of the Virgin missing. It is by no means clear whether this was simply a printers' trial or whether it is a genuine error. Copies are known perf. and imperf with gum. As the figure is printed in at a second operation there is a possibility of its accidental omission either in one row or an entire sheet. Whether printers' trial or error, this variety is very rare. Another variety shows what might be termed a "double-coloured border," the border in this case being about twice as thick as in the normal stamp.—Stamp Collectors' Monthly Magazine.

A GOOD INVESTMENT

The 3c 1851 stamp has jumped 150% in the 1920 Catalog.—4c to 10c. Is it too high now? Here is a very fine collection of the 3c 1851-'57 stamps for sale. The actual number of specimens is comparatively small, each copy being selected for some peculiarity. There is a beautiful Mint Block with the wide cracked plate, of the 1857 Type II—a great rarity; a used block from plate No. 3, two stamps having the three extra lines; a cover with four stamps of the 1857 issue showing shifts while the rest do not; a horizontal strip of nine '51's with blue Wells-Fargo postmark; and items too numerous to mention. The collection shows practically all the recuts, cracked plates, and shifts. The cancellations are rich and varied. The covers are well worth seeing, and the collection was years in the making. It is mounted in three Oriel Albums. Can be seen at any time, price on application.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

"THEE."

By EDWIN B. HILL, Ysleta, Texas.

The race, said the philosopher, is not always to the swift. I shall be pardoned for supplementing this aphorism by stating that neither is it invariably to the slow. All of which is a story doomed to silence in the telling.

It is not far from the Pass of the North to the quaint old 'dobe town wherein the exigencies of the Service demanded that I take up my always temporary residence. Here the first settlement was made by the Spanish more than two hundred years ago, and the first Mission was erected by the loving hands of the pious fathers and their assistants. The ancient Mission of Nuestro Senora de Carmen still stands. In it have been baptized hundreds of the little ones, grown into age, and from it have been buried hundreds of these pioneers, and their children's children. It is a Mecca for visitors. Here a great musician, discovering its wonderful organ, stayed all of an afternoon and into the evening, breathing his soul into the instrument, to the delectation of unknown auditors and an appreciative padre. Here———. But this, too, shall be an untold story.

Down the Valley, a dozen miles further, plus, runs the Rio Grande beneath a bridge which connects with the mainland, once an island, and then, beyond this so-called island, is Mexico. It is only a step from law and order to law and order in the making. The town of Fabens, with its population part American and part Mexican, is a border town. It is implied, then, that the term "Border Town" covers that which has been not always commensurate with peace and quiet. There is a customs house here, and here those valiant knights, the Lone Star Rangers, erstwhile fought the good fight and went the long road through treachery and breaking of faith. Beware the coyote, be he of two legs or of four!

My duties required a measurement of the water in the river, and the shallowness of the stream at this period necessitated no further use of the cable-car swung over the quiet waters. I took to rubber boots. This final day, however, there was a shifting of the channel, and before I knew it I was in the quicksands, fighting for life. Ten years' experience in Arizona had taught me the modus operandi. Five feet away was safety. I lay flat in the water and dragged myself toward solid bottom. It was a bitter fight. A half dozen Mexicans lined the bank and watched the Gringo struggle. I saw them. I preferred going under to my death than calling for help to that motley crowd. I believed it would be joy to them to know a Gringo was in fear, and implored aid which would be denied. I sank to my hips, the heavy boots dragging and weighing with the water in them. But I crawled, and finally made it. When I rose, triumphant, sick and weak from the battle, I started toward the shore once more. The Mexicans looked at me curiously, then slunk away. I heard a rush of clattering hoof-beats over the bridge. When I reached the shore a Ranger sat his horse looking his sympathy.

"Ole Timer, you sure made a friend o' me," he declared, as he held out his hand, which I shook fervently. "I see they was somethin' doin', an' when I come up you was jest crawlin' out. You sure knew how to fight it."

Then he added, whimsically, "I was jest goin' t' lend yuh my six-shooter. Thought yuh might want-a use it on some o' them life-destroyin' buzzards I see watchin' yuh."

I sure felt grateful. I was more than willing, a time back. But I did not purpose to allow a life so worthless stand between me and a friendship.

I shed the boots and their load of water, and we adjourned to the Alamo Cafe, which was run by a fellow-Arizonian. As I began to thaw out we talked. The Ranger was a Texan, from the Brazos bottoms, and he knew the life! When we had about run down, he said he'd have to hit the trail, as his pardner would think he'd been bushwhacked. I was dry enough then to accompany him. The partner aforesaid sat his horse in front the Alamo slouching in the true Arizona way, one leg across the pommel. He was conversing fluently with a senorita whose lover was, for some reason unknown, seemingly in bad with the authorities. I caught the fag-end of the conversation, wherein the Ranger told the girl that if she'd pass a saw to Florencio he might be free to cross the border, but not to return. She acquiesced. Then the Ranger turned. I knew the voice,—but the man looked older by a score years than when I saw him last only three years before.

"Why, Thee!" He slid from his horse and had me in his arms. Then he patted my back and coughed and choked. The first Ranger promptly disappeared.

"Thee," I may say at the threshold, was short for "Theo,"—"Theo" Slane, erstwhile inventor and water expert in Arizona Valley. I had not seen him since the day he had come to me, broken in spirit, the tears in his eyes, and on his cheeks the stains of weeping. He had been summarily dismissed from his position to give place to another,—dismissed by the man he had taught and aided. This is the story he told:

"You see, I had given ten years of my life to study of conditions, and I knew my work. Then came this vermin, and I talked with him and worked with him and taught him all he knew. He had been a professional runner, and he frankly confessed he didn't know my work. I never liked him,—never trusted him,—but I helped him because he was over me. Then"—here "Thee's" voice showed all the passion repressed in the years—"then he let me out, and for no reason. I went mad. I wanted to hide out and die. I left the Valley I loved, and went over into New Mexico. I stayed there a few months, wanderin around. One day I rode into a litt town called Hot Springs. It had newspaper, a Y. M. C. A., and a coup of saloons. I sat there in the midd of the street, decidin' which I'd ta in of them three. You see, I'd sort lost my sense of humor, those days stress; but it came back that day. decided on the 'Y.' Then I grinne tied the pony to the ground, and we in, thinking I'd read a bit. Well, I f meaner than a coyote, for there was chap there who was doing his dernede for that town, starvin' in the attem We took quite a liking to each othe By heck! He'd collected, once."

"Thee" turned his face toward me. was beautiful with trustfulness and t loving-kindness one reads of,—b which, alas! exists only in mytholo if one is to believe the modernists.

"You know, when I was sick I burn everything I owned,—my stamp colle tion, and my books and papers a drawings and models and pictures, everything. Then, when I was well, found I'd left a box of things over Arizona, with a friend. I did not r member all of them. He sent them c but they were lost in transit. Then died, and the railway company could find the lost box. I did not know ju what was in it, and, besides, mon can't compensate for the loss of a sou so I found solace in saying that th that or the other was lost with my goo in transit. I lied to myself, sometim —I had to, or go mad again.

"Well, I talked with this man, a several more who drifted in, and found that life was sweet, after a They were all poor men, but they we square. BRITISH COLONIALS -- Mint -- Used

Contrary to what many seem to think, but a small part of our business or stock consists of New Europe or War Stamps. Below we offer a page of British Colonials. The unused are mostly as they came from the Post Office, mint and never hinged. For such goods the prices are reasonable, to say the least. We also have thousands of others not quoted here, and would suggest your want list for any items you want which are not quoted. All are unused except those listed under "used" in the last column. Blocks same rates in most cases. We carry a fine stock of French, and Portuguese Colonials, stamps that are not met with often. Also a nearly complete stock of Italian Colonials.

not worth the saving. But I tell you there was more sacrificing of life right there in Hot Springs than the trenches in New York or Washington ever appreciated."

"Thee" was a-fire with enthusiasm. He knew his man, and he wanted to unburden his soul.

"Well, as I was saying, that chap kind-a drew my story out o' me,—madness and all. When I told him I'd lost my collection, he sat there for maybe three-four minutes, looking at nothing. Then he got up, went into an adjoining room, and came back with an old album, which he handed to me. It was a morocco-bound Appleton's date 1863. There were two hundred and ninety-two stamps in it. Seems it was a legacy to him. He had another collection, too, somewhere, away. But this one he packed around with him. And what do you think? He insisted on me keeping it,—that collection. Right there I got back all my sense o' decency and love o' my fellow-men, and a keen desire to be human again. Yes, sir, that was the one thing I needed."

"Thee" looked at me again.

"Last week I had a letter from over there. It was from another chap I knew. He told me the fellow that was given my place was a railroad man; thought he'd be drafted in the war, and, as his cousin was the man higher up who fired me, he was given my place,—to sort o' hide out and save his coyote hide indecently. A fine pair! Then, after three months, finding the railways weren't letting men go to war, he sneaked back. And then, later, the other chap was fired. That, I'm mean enough to say, seemed justice long delayed."

"But what got me was the slacker,—hiding out. Some day I may meet up with him. Of course, I can tell him how he stands for all the world to hear,—him and that cousin of his. Meantime, here comes this." "Thee" handed me a letter, offering him increased stipend, and easier work.

I handed the letter back. "Thee" took it. Then he tore it up.

"I saved the one firing me, for the good of my soul; and for the good of my soul I told 'em to give the job to some one of their own ilk. I was doing a man's work, now, and living among men, not amongst buzzards and coyotes. I felt kind-a sorry, afterwards. You see, it was a mean comparison—mean for the coyotes and the buzzards."

There was a whistle down the street. "Thee" swung into the saddle and was off. "Keep on collecting!" he called back. "Maybe you can gather in a perforated Mexican now and then!"

A drab of a peon touched my elbow. He removed his tattered hat, and said, in perfect English, with deference in his voice:

"Senor, we saw you, but we were afraid. I could not move. It is you now to say what you will,—do what you will. I was a child,—and like a child I was afraid."

I held out my hand. He kissed it. There was peace between us,—amongst us all; for here were men afraid, and not ashamed to admit me the truth,—for I too was afraid as I fought for foothold there upon the treacherous quicksands.

We Are Not A Collecting Agency

The time is opportune to remind our patrons that this paper cannot undertake to be a collecting agency for the stamp trade. It is a very common practice for a dealer who has had unsatisfactory business relations with a fellow dealer to put it up to us to effect a settlement and pour oil on the troubled waters.

The WEEKLY uses its best endeavors to ascertain the reliability of its advertisers, but both banking and commercial references are unfortunately very easy to obtain. We decline a great deal of advertising and our columns are closed in various directions. We propose to do our best to make philately the finest hobby in existence and will cooperate gladly to that end.

We insist for the future that any dealer holding a grievance against fellow dealers shall consult his attorney and the report of the attorney submitted to us before we take action. The Managing Editor has too many duties incumbent upon him in connection with a 16 page paper to take up correspondence that should be carried on by an attorney.

Have we upon our mailing list any philatelic attorneys whose names could be filed with us for useful purposes? The service rendered philately would be of a most valuable character.

What we have said concerning the relationship of dealer with dealer, applies with equal force to the collector who has his troubles with a fellow collector. If enuff is involved to warrant it, go to a lawyer. If not, charge it up as experience.

We are quite aware of our direct obligations to render assistance where a collector is not given a square deal by an advertiser or vice versa, but our obligations in this direction will be cheerfully met.

Who in New York, Chicago, Boston, etc., will serve as indicated?

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

A MOST REMARKABLE CASE OF "ROU-MANIA."

By L. H. BRIGHAM.

The annual "Reunion" and ball of the U. P. U. was a fizzle according to all reports. Being held at "Berne" it naturally must have been a hot affair.

"Al-wur" there who belonged to the association and a lot who didn't—"Anjou-an" I certainly didn't miss much.

As is usual some of the guests were late. "Port-said" "Georgia" looked as though she'd "Ben-in" another row with "Geneva" over Gabriel D.

Dinner was finally announced and "St. Christopher" asked blessing on the assembly.

The menu consisted of roast "Turkey", baked "Hamburg" a la "Nan-King;" sliced "Bermudas"; "Chile" sauce, "Ceylon" tea for the ladies; "Java" coffee and a "Hol-stein" of—well, "O-bock" for the gentlemen. Every one was "Hungary."

The dinner service was of real "China" laid on a table of solid "Cyprus" protected by a coverlet of genuine "Morocco" worked in "India" ink.

The meal was rudely interrupted by the sudden appearance of a "Montserrat." "St. Helena" nearly went into hysterics.

No one attempted to kill the creature until a big "Monte-negro" leaned over and tapped "U. S." on the shoulder and asked, "Say 'Bo-gota' few rocks you can lend me? I'll 'Bat-um'."

It took quite a while to "Bag-dad" but it was finally accomplished, and they let "Japan" finish him. A rat can "Norway through most anything.

Directly after this a dispute arose between Belgium and Egypt. It was over whether or not Prussia possessed a "Cam-any" more. Belgium threatened to "Sou-dan." The rest let them "Gabon." "Neth-er-land" would give in and finally a few of the guests had "To-go" and intervene. The word "War,-saw" a final ending in what both declared was a "Straight-Settlement" of the matter.

The weather being unusually cold, it was decided to hold a coal-heaving contest in the royal boiler room after the dinner and see who could heave the most "Col-on." "Thi-bet" on Ireland.

The contest finally narrowed down to George V and De Valera of the Irish Republic. Every one saw it was either "Tim-or" George who'd win. Toward the last the "Kings-ton" disappeared more and more slowly, while that of the Irish Republic's contestant melted away by leaps and bounds. At last he finished and loudly called for "Sa-moa." The ladies voted the affair an awful "Bhore."

A dance followed the contest. Neither "Pa-na-ma" would let "Con-go" on the floor. If "Philip-pines" too much for her, we'll send "Han-over."

The floor was as smooth as "Greece." Italy had spent nearly all day at the "Zan-zi-bar" and had been taking "Jamaica" straight. The result was he now had quite a "Cant-on." He grabbed old lady Spain around the waist and started to "Russia" down the hall. Could "Hejaz"? Well, we'll say he could. Both the "Sene-gal" and "Portu-gal" became jealous at these attentions and yelled for their "Newfoundland" to "Sik-kem."

Servia tripped over Bulgaria and hurt her ankle, "So-ruth" had to help "Sarawak" back to her room.

The dance ended when the orchestra attempted to play "Si-am" not what he used to be; he collects precancels now." The "Tun-is" no doubt familiar to us all.

GALBRAITH WILL CONTINUE.

Notwithstanding Mr. J. A. Galbraith's severe loss by fire, as stated elsewhere in this issue, the well known N. Y. dealer will continue in the stamp business. He expresses to the WEEKLY his appreciation of sympathy extended. As soon as he is located at a new office he will announce it in the WEEKLY, and in the meantime he can be addressed as per his "fire" advertisement, 74 Perry St., Newark, N. J.

NOTES ON NEWFOUNDLAND—1897-1921.

By HARRY E. HUBER.

FOREWORD.

At the suggestion of Mr. Poole, Harry E. Huber of Pittsburgh, Pa., has been requested to furnish some notes upon the recent issues of Newfoundland stamps, the same to be incorporated in the Newfoundland booklet soon to be published by the Severn-Wylie-Jewett Co. This action upon Mr. Poole's part will be appreciated by those who have followed along Mr. Huber's valuable contributions dealing with the later issues of this popular colony. It is the desire of Mr. Poole, as well as of the publishers, that this booklet on Newfoundland shall be as comprehensive as possible.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

I.—CABOT SERIES, 1897.

The special series of stamps issued in 1897 by Newfoundland commemorated the 400th anniversary of its discovery by John Cabot. It is true that John Cabot did discover the island on June 24th, 1497, but Basques were visitors to the country as early as the 7th century, and is was known to them as Baccalaos, from the number of fish in the nearby waters. In 1000, A. D., Leif Ericcson visited the island, naming it Hellu-land (cliff land), from the rocky barrenness of its shores. However, as in Vinland, the Northmen made no permanent settlements in Newfoundland, and their voyages had no effect on the eastern hemisphere. It was left to Columbus to establish actual contact between the old and the new world, and it is asserted that it was from a Basque mariner who had been on the Newfoundland banks, Columbus got his premonitions of the new world.

John Cabot was a native of Genoa, later a citizen of Venice, and in 1477 is found in Bristol, England. To him and his three sons, Henry VII granted a charter, on March 5, 1496, to "seek out, discover and find whatever isles, regions, countries or provinces of the heathens and the infidels, wherever they may be, whatsoever they may be, and in whatsoever part of the world, which before this time have been unknown to Christians." His first voyage was financed by merchant venturers of Bristol, and on May 2, 1497, he sailed from Bristol in the "Matthew," with 18 persons. His object was to find a northwest passage to Asia. On June 24, 1497, he made landfall at the present Cape Bonavista, named by him Primum Visam, and landing, he planted a large cross with the flags of England and St. Mark, and took possession for the King of England. He returned to Bristol August 6, 1497, and we know of his reward from the following well-known memorandum from the Privy Purse Expenses of Henry VII of August 10, 1497—"To him who found the New Isle, £10."

In the following year he made a second voyage, with five or six vessels, going to the north of Newfoundland, and then coasting south as far as North Carolina. Sebastian Cabot, his son, who was with his father on both voyages, lived for 60 years after, but nothing further is heard of the father.

The designs for the whole of the commemorative series were chosen by Hon. Robert Bond, then Colonial Secretary of Newfoundland, and the engraving and printing of the stamps was entrusted to the American Bank Note Co. of New York. After printing off certain specified quantities of stamps, the dies, rolls and plates were destroyed.

Of the fourteen denominations included in the series, only one, and that the 1c, bore the portrait of Queen Victoria. Unfavorable comment was made at the time that this should be so, as in that year the British Empire was celebrating the 60th year of her reign, and Canada's Jubilee series of sixteen values pictured her on all.

The likeness on the 2c stamp is not that of John Cabot, for there is no portrait in existence of him. In view of this, the well-known portrait of Sebastian Cabot, attributed to Holbein, and painted for Edward VI, was used. The original painting hung for years in the gallery at Whitehall, and in Cromwell's time found its way to Scotland. Next it was heard of in Bristol, and in 1834 was purchased by Richard Biddle, Cabot's biographer, for £500. He brought it with him to his home in Pittsburgh, Penn., where it was destroyed in the great fire of 1845.

H. F. COLMAN SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG., WASHINGTON, D. C.

The subjects of the 3c (Cape Bonavista), and the 24c (Salmon fishing), were from original photographs taken by Prof. Holloway, one of Newfoundland's foremost photographers.

On the 4c value there is shown the likeness of an American—H. Clay Pierce, of the Waters-Pierce Oil Co., of St. Louis, Mo., a subsidiary of the great Standard Oil Co. Mr. Pierce made a contribution to the Jubilee Fund, and at the request of the Colonial Secretary, it is stated, furnished the photograph from which the stamp was designed.

The first value to exhaust was the 1c (September, 1897), followed by the 2c in November, 1899; the remainders of the 3c and 5c were destroyed by burning on January 3rd and 4th, 1900. The other values remained on sale for many years—being used at times to the exclusion of other series, and concurrently with subsequent series. The 4c exhausted in 1916, and the 10c in April, 1918. At the first of 1921, all other denominations were obtainable, on special application to the Wholesale Dept., G. P. O., St. John's.

So great was the demand for the stamps of this series that the P. O. revenue for the year ending June 30th, 1898, was $106,186.98, (stamp sales alone $100,767.51), an increase over 1896-97 of $49,440.30, "which was due almost solely to the sale of the Jubilee stamps."

The stock on hand Sept. 10th, 1897, two and a half months after going into issue, was as follows:—

II.—One Cent on 3c.—1897.

The provisional of October, 1897, ONE CENT on 3c Queen Victoria, gray lilac of the 1890 series, printed by the British-American Bank Note Co. of Ottawa, was overprinted locally, at the offices of the Royal Gazette.

Soon after the surcharged stamps were issued, forgeries appeared in all three types of overprint. Quantities of the stamp itself were to be had from the Post Office but in different shades to that used for the original, i. e., gray lilac. The 3c of the 1890 type appeared in many shades, ranging from slate to purple gray.

The stamp used for the forgery was brown gray in color, and the type used for the overprinting was the same as for the original. One of the parties concerned in the work was a printer employed in the office of the Royal Gazette. However, there was a difference aside from the shade of the stamp itself—the spacing of the horizontal bars was greater than on the original.

The matter of the forgeries was reported to the authorities, and a number of arrests were made. At the trial, the defendants' lawyers pleaded that the Government had not been defrauded, since the defendants' action in overprinting did not increase the value of the stamp (so far as the Government was concerned) but rather decreased its value. The Court was of the same opinion, and the complainant was advised to drop the case, which he did on refund of the money paid for a lot of these forged overprints.

III.—Royal Series, 1897-1901.

In addition to the ½c, 2c vermilion and 3c orange of this series, the 4c violet is also known in imperforate condition, as well as the ½c and 5c imperforate horizontally.

A consignment of the 1c, 2c and 3c received early in 1907 was on thinner paper and in slightly different shades to the original printing. The 4c exists only on the thinner paper.

IV.—Destruction of Remainders, 1900.

Perhaps in no other British Colony has such a miscellaneous lot of postage stamps done service at one time as in Newfoundland. The proposed destruction of the accumulation of the then obsolete postage stamps was announced by a circular issued by the Postmaster General, viz.:—

"Notice is hereby given that on the 2nd day of January, 1900, all obsolete postage stamps will be destroyed, and that after that date the only stamps that will be on sale by the Postal Department will be the ½, 1, 2, 3, 5c of the Royal issue, and the 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 15, 30, 35, and 60c of the Cabot issue.

J. O. Fraser,
Postmaster General.

G. P. O., St. John's, N. F.
7th November, 1899."

The 1c Cabot, of course, due to the small printing, was exhausted within 3 months of issue. After issue of the above circular there was a great demand for the 2c, 3c and 5c of the Cabot series, and the 2c exhausted. However, there were remainders of the 3c and 5c Cabot which were included in the destruction, which included, in addition to these two values of the Cabot series, the following stamps:—

1894, ½c black, dog.
1890, 3c slate (and shades), Queen Victoria.
1894, 5c blue, seal.
1894, 6c crimson lake, Queen Victoria.
1887, 10c black, schooner.
1894, 12c brown lake, Queen Victoria.
1866, 24c blue, Queen Victoria.

The stamps were first defaced by printing press, and then burned on Jan. 3rd and 4th, 1900.

V.—2c Map, 1908.

During 1907 and 1908 there were rumors of a new series of stamps to come from Newfoundland, so that when the 2c lake, in the Map design, was issued in the early days of September, 1908, it was expected that the other values would follow shortly. A 1c and 5c were announced, and in fact, the description of the 1c was given as consisting of a portrait of King Edward in ermine robes, decorations, etc., with "Newfoundland" above, value below, and "N.F." in the upper corners. But this stamp never materialised, and the Map design was used for but one value, 2c, and one printing only was made by the American Bank Note Co. of N. Y. This stamp marks the last of those of American Bank Note Co. manufacture for the island government, for the Guy series of 1910 came from the printing establishment of Whitehead, Morris & Co., Ltd., London, a firm which had before this time been unassociated with the printing of postage stamps.

PHILADELPHIA STAMP CO.
22 SO. 18TH ST., PHILA., PA.

It is said that the wrecking of the steamer Sylvia, in April, 1908, while en route from New York to St. John's with a consignment of postage stamps valued at $100,000.00, called into being the 2c stamp in the Map design. The case containing the stamps (2c and 5c of the Royal series) was washed ashore at the island of Cuttyhunk, and fell into the hands of the fisherwomen,—one woman is said to have secured all of the 5c. Sheets of the stamps were given away, and some sold. A representative of the American Bank Note Co. proceeded to the island, and according to the Postal authorities of Newfoundland, recovered all stamps of the consignment; these would be destroyed, and the order duplicated. However, many sheets of the 2c Royal series came on the market later without gum, so that it is quite probable that not all stamps of the 2c denomination were recovered —and for the purpose of protecting the postal revenue, the new design was adopted. The 5c in the Royal series was on sale as late as June, 1911, so that in all probability the Bank Note Company's representative was able to secure all of the salvaged stamps of this denomination.

By R. I. BICKEL.

Referring to the article in the Christmas number regarding the "Children's Fund" Stamps of Switzerland, it is evident that the Swiss Government intends to issue these stamps every year, and to reproduce each time the coat of arms and certain characteristics of a few of the twenty-two cantons which form part of the country.

It is true that in the first solitary Pro Juventute Stamp of 1913-14 the figure shown is that of Helvetia, the symbol of Switzerland, and no particular canton figures on it in any way. But in the later issue we have the

3 cent stamp, purple, showing a peasant girl from the Wehntal (Canton Aargan);

5c, a peasant boy from the Canton Appenzell;

10c, a young Vaudoise at vintage time, with the bucket for gathering the grapes, and the typical vintage hat of the county of Vaud.

In 1918 we start with the heraldic issue. The 10c stamp shows the coat of arms of Uri, one of the first three cantons which formed the foundation of the Swiss Federation in 1291. On the background you can see an apple pierced by an arrow, reminding us that Uri was the country of William Tell, who shot the apple from his boy's head.

The 15c stamp of the same edition, 1918, shows the arms of the county of Geneva (half-eagle and key). The pendant-like ornament on the background should no doubt be representative of Geneva's industry of jewellery, which has a good name in the country. Geneva was the last county to enter the Swiss Federation, in 1815, and it will be thus seen that this issue shows the coats of arms of the oldest and the youngest of the twenty-two cantons of which Switzerland is formed.

In 1919 three stamps were issued—viz., the 7½, 10 and 15 centimes, showing a shield with a double key for the 7½c, and a single key for the 10c and 15c. These represent the coats of arms of Unterwalden, which is subdivided into two "half-cantons"—viz., Obwalden (=above the forest) and Midwalden (=nether, below the forest).

Unterwalden formed the second of the three original provinces of the Federation of 1291. The men of Unterwalden were very warlike, and for many years fought against the Austrian dukes to gain their liberty. The objects on the background of the stamps therefore represent old weapons, the one on the 7½c being the much used morgenstern, or "morningstar," a club spiked with points, which smashed many an enemy helmet. The 10 centimes stamp shows the shield of the Vaud, white and green. The Vaud producing a great deal of wine, which is appreciated in the country, it follows that the grapes shown on the background of the stamp are representative of the county.

We now come to the 1920 edition. The 7½ centimes stamp shows the coat of arms of the county of Schwyz, from which Switzerland (Schweiz) takes its name. In 1291 the Federation was founded by Schwyz, Uri, and Unterwalden on a meadow called the Rütli, near the Lake of Lucerne and on Schwyz territory. Eleven men of each county assembled and took the oath of allegiance to the new Alliance by swearing loyalty in the usual manner. This explains the hands with three fingers raised.

Incidentally I may say that the Shield of Schwyz gave later on the idea for that of Switzerland, which has the white cross in the centre of the shield, instead of the right upper corner, as in the case of Schwyz. The Red Cross formed by Durant of Geneva again took the same emblem, reversing the colours to the well known red cross in the centre of a white shield.

The 10 centimes stamp gives the shield of the canton of Zurich, the most industrial county of the country, where several engineering firms have won fame. This will explain the wheels on the background of the stamp. The 15c gives the coat of arms of the Tessin or Ticino (red and blue). The Ticenesi are well known architects. Many of them emigrate to other parts of Switzerland as masons and bricklayers, and hence the bricks on the stamps piled up to form Swiss crosses.—Stamp Collecting.

MOLDAVIAN RARITIES.

By FRED. J. MELVILLE.

A "Scrap of Paper," rather less than one square inch in size, was sold at auction in London on February 2nd for £420. It was not, to ordinary eyes, a thing of beauty, but the expert auctioneer described it in his catalogue as "Unused, superb, and with very large margins; an exceptional copy with guarantee." From the philatelist's point of view its attraction lay in its extreme rarity and in the perfection of its condition. It is remarkable that such tiny and flimsy documents prepared for use, not for preservation, and in extremely limited numbers, should survive in what we may call "post office state" after sixty-three years. The stamp was an 81 paras denomination of the first issue of Moldavia, before the union of Moldavia and Wallachia to form the present kingdom of Roumania.

The stamp is one of a little family of rarities issued in this Danubian principality. They were brought into being at the direction of the Moldavian Council of Administration in 1856, when the following rates for letter postage were introduced in that country:

Small letters up to 75 miles—27 paras.
Small letters over 75 miles—54 paras.
Large letters (no distance limit)—81 paras.
Registered letters—108 paras.

The amounts are curiously odd, seeing that the currency was the piastre of 40 paras, then equivalent to 2½d. The "no distance limit" was not so comprehensive as it might seem, the reference being to domestic mail only; foreign mail was taken charge of by the Austrian postal administration, which maintained post offices at Jassy and Galatz.

An interesting document has been preserved in a letter from the Minister of Finance to the Stamp Printing Department, dated from Jassy, July 1, 1858:

"According to the postal and diligence regulations approved by the Council and sanctioned by H. H. the Prince of Caimacan, it has been decided that, for the payment of postage there shall be introduced stamps of the values fixed by the tariff, after a scale of weight, which are 27, 54, 81 and 108 paras Treasury Currency.

To that effect the department has had prepared the necessary seals to the number of four which are sent to you requesting you to make for the present a supply 24,000 stamps, divided as follows:

6,000 stamps of 27 paras.
10,000 stamps of 54 paras.
2,000 stamps of 81 paras.
6,000 stamps of 108 paras.

The paper and all other necessary articles for this operation you will obtain at the Postal Department according to the approved specification. You will prepare the prescribed number of stamps in the shortest possible time, and you will deliver them to this department, sending the seals with them."

STAMPS PRINTED BY HAND.

The seals referred to were handstamps, something like the "chops" which are now used to postmark letters. Each of the four seals for the four denominations bore a design of a bull's head, with a five-pointed star above it, from the Arms of Moldavia. From the bull's mouth hangs the posthorn, emblem of the post, and within the ring of the posthorn are the figures indicating the denomination. The whole is enclosed in a circular line, conforming to the inner curve of which is the inscripton in Slavonic characters "Porto Scrisori" signifying letter postage.

This crude device was struck separately by hand to produce each one of the 24,000 stamps ordered. They were struck in black ink on small sheets of coloured laid paper, except the 81 paras, which was on wove paper. The 27 paras was printed on pale rose paper, 54 paras on pale green, 81 paras on pale blue and the 108 paras on dull rose. Sixteen copies of the handstamp were struck on each small sheet of paper, but needless to say, no complete original sheet of sixteen of any of the stamps is known to collectors to-day.

The stamps were put on sale on July 15, 1858, and remained in use during three months and a half. During that time a further small supply was printed, consisting of 992 each of the 27 and 54 paras, 480 of the 81 paras, and 3,520 of the 108 paras, making 5,984 stamps in all. The issue ceased on November 1st, 1858, when stamps of a new design appeared, and a remainder stock of 12,308 of these quaint circular stamps was destroyed. This remainder comprised 2,325 of the 27p, 5,244 of the 54p, 1,307 of the 81p and 3,432 of the 108 paras. It is possible, therefore, for us to arrive at the approximate net issue of each of the four stamps issued 63 years ago:

5,748 stamps of 54 paras.
1,173 stamps of 81 paras.
6,088 stamps of 108 paras.

STAMPS OF GREAT PRICE.

These are the numbers (approximately) that were no doubt sold or otherwise distributed for use, but they do not accurately reflect the relative rarity of the stamps that have survived for collectors. The 81 paras is, of course, the rarest, whether used or unused, and the 27 paras comes next. But the 108 paras is considerably rarer than the 54 paras. A complete set of four of the stamps was sold at the recent auction, and it is interesting to compare the prices realised with those quoted in Messrs. Gibbons' last catalogue.

	Cat. pr. 1920. Unused.	Used.	Auc. pr. 1921 Unused.	Used.
27 paras	.....	£140	.....	£130
54 paras	£ 90	£ 55	.....	£ 31
81 paras	£350	£400	£420	.....
108 paras	£180	£125	.....	£115

The low auction price for the used copy of the 54 paras is explained by the fact that the stamp was not a perfect copy, the paper having been a little "thinned." An unused copy of the 27 paras stamp is an extreme rarity; it is estima in the French catalogue at 3½ times value of a used copy. The late Sir W liam Avery, who had a special fancy these stamps, and once—on May 1896,—bought four complete sets £2000, did not have an unused 27 pa There is an uncancelled one in the T ling collection at the British Muse but it has been affixed to a letter and postmarked.

THE MUSEUM COLLECTION.

Mention of the Tapling collec leads me to remind my readers that wonderful display is now accessible the public again in the King's Librar the British Museum. It was put a for safety during the war, but may be freely inspected, and philatelists find it of great assistance to then providing material for comparison study. The general reader, too, wil interested in its wealth of great rari For example, of these first Molda stamps the collection contains:

27 paras: two copies, one used, the o uncancelled on letter.
54 paras: two unused and five used.
81 paras: two unused and two used, of the latter being on part of original letter.
108 paras: one unused, three used.

At present valuations the small dis of seventeen of these stamps at Museum is worth over £3000.—L Telegraph.

U. S. POSTAL CARDS ARE "COMING BACK"

After three months spent in compiling the special article on the present provisional U. S. Postal Cards for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY, April 2, I've come to the conclusion that U. S. postal cards are once again in favor with U. S. Collectors. I have none for sale, but will exchange or pay cash for surcharged freaks of any city.

WILLIAM W. RANDALL, Times Sq. P. O., New York

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF DENMARK.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

CHAPTER V.

The 1853-57 Issue.

In 1853 the currency was changed from rigsbank-skilling to skilling, 96 of which equalled a rigsbank-thaler, worth about 55c in American money. The change of currency necessitated new stamps, the design adopted being very similar to the old 4 r. b. s. but with the inscriptions altered. At the left are the letters "K G L," an abbreviation of "Kongeligt," at the top is "POST," and at the right "FR.M." for "Frimaerke" with periods after the letters "R" and "M." The value is shown at the base, expressed by numerals followed by the letter "S." The spandrels are composed of dots and in all four angles are small posthorns, as with the stamp of the first issue, and, similarly again, above the posthorns in the lower corners are microscopic figures or letters.

The die was engraved by Alfred Buntzen, who succeeded Ferslew as Official Engraver, on the death of the latter in 1852.

It was not intended that the change in currency should be enforced until February 10th, 1854, but as the Post Office Department was running short of 4 r. b. s. stamps, it became necessary to put the new skilling ones into issue before the law actually went into effect, and they were placed on sale some time during November, 1853.

In March, 1854, a 2 skilling of the same design was issued, and in 1857 two higher denominations—8sk and 16sk—were added to the series, these being placed on sale on July 24th and August 1st, respectively.

No official decree or notification seems to have been issued regarding the 2sk and 4sk values, probably because they corresponded in value to those they replaced, but the new denominations of 8 and 16 skilling, intended for letters weighing 2 and 4 lods respectively, were both announced by official notices. The official circular relating to the 8 skilling was as follows:—

"Circular of the General-Director of Posts.

No. 16. 1857.

¶It is hereby notified that at the commencement of the month of July next, there will be forwarded new stamps, at 8sk, green in color, with the same emblems as the 4sk stamps at present in use, and it is added, in reference to this subject, that the office should send in as soon as possible a requisition to the Director-General of accounts of the Post Office, for the quantity of these stamps that is required.

COPENHAGEN, the 27th June, 1857.

(Signed) S. DANNESKJOLD-SAMSOE.

To all Postmasters and Despatchers."

The official circular relating to the issue of the 16sk is similarly worded and bears the date of Juy 24th, 1857.

One die served for all four values, this having the space for the numerals blank. From this original four secondary dies were struck and the required numerals engraved on them and from these completed dies ten impressions were struck and arranged in a group. The group for each value was then reproduced ten times and these groups formed the plates of 100 stamps. It was found that this method was more expeditious than joining together 100 separate clichés but some time after the issue of the 8sk and 16sk the clichés were all separated in order that, should an accident damage one or more, they could more readily be replaced by perfect clichés.

All four values were surface printed on hand-made paper watermarked similarly to that of the first issue, and the yellow burelage was applied to the paper before the stamps themselves were printed.

All four values were issued imperforate, but stamps perforated unofficially are occasionally met with. The gauge of the perforations varies from 10 to 14. It is said that many of these perforated varieties originated with the firm of Alex. Ballin & Company, who offered to supply the Danish Government with a perforating machine at a cost of 400 rigsdaler in 1859. For some reason or other, however, the authorities preferred to buy a machine later at the higher price of 750 rigsdaler from Count A. Sparre.

The 4 skilling shows considerable variation in shade, showing there were numerous printings. The other denominations show but slight variations in tint except the 16sk, which exists in both lilac and mauve.

There are no varieties of importance, for though the 4sk may be found without period after the "R" of "F R M," and the 2sk has been recorded without numeral, these appear to be merely accidental and temporary varieties, affecting but a few sheets.

The numbers printed were as follows:

2 skilling,	7,968,400
4 skilling,	19,405,900
8 skilling,	1,336,600
16 skilling,	565,100

A SECRET FOR STAMP DEALERS

BOTH LARGE AND SMALL.

Beginners or Old Timers Take Notice

My wholesale approval selections are different. I have no pound mixtures or 1/10th catalog stamps to offer, but if you want good standard 20th Century stamps which will always sell, better drop me a line. It will pay you.

Another Secret for Collectors Only to Know

If you are interested in used Iceland stamps send for my retail price list. If you are interested in 20th Century Greece, better see what I have, before looking elsewhere, and if you are interested in good standard 20th Century stamps and are not looking for the 60 and 70% discount stuff, send me a couple of references for a small approval selection.

Remember, I specialise in postally used stamps. Keep an eye open for my ads which appear in this paper about twice a month. I will have something good to offer very shortly.

THE COMING POSTAL CARD SPECIAL.

In view of the extraordinary interest manifested in the coming article on the surcharged U. S. postal cards by William W. Randall, of New York, and illustrated by Louis G. Barrett, of Boston, the publishers of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS have decided to issue on April 2 a "United States Postal Card Special" at which time Messrs. Randall and Barrett's article on the recently issued 1c on 2c revalued postal cards, which has been in preparation for three months past, will receive its first installment. These provisional postal cards were cancelled by cancellation machines, as well as press printed in sheets of 48, under the direction of different Postmasters over the country, the same as the 3 cent envelopes were revalued 2c. The scarcity of paper suggested Uncle Sam to utilize all the 2c postal cards, as well as 3 cent envelopes that were left on hand by the reduction of postage. As the sentiment seems to be in favor of U. S. postal cards "coming back," the publishers are determined to do all within their power to foster the return of U. S. cards to popular collecting favor. We will have some specially good articles on U. S. postal cards, and the issue of that date will be timely and interesting as well. This will be a good number to advertise your U. S. wares. S. Schachne, Chillicothe, Ohio, is the first to send on a quarter page postal card ad. Mr. Randall writes us, that he will not list anything in this provisional postal list that he does not personally inspect. For that reason collectors of this issue of U. S. cards, should send him (Times Sq. P. O. Station, New York), their collections of cards, both normals and freaks. Wednesday, March 22, will be the last day for "copy" for this number.

THE LARGEST WHOLESALE AND RETAIL PRICE LIST EVER ISSUED.

We are in receipt of a copy of the No. 59 new 1921 catalogue from the Marks Stamp Company, Toronto, Canada, a combined wholesale and retail price list. This is the most complete list for dealers as well as collectors, which we have even seen, and should be in the hands of every dealer and active stamp collector. It comprises with cover 130 large pages, double column, and we are informed that it cost over $2,000 to print alone, which will give some idea of its size and importance. The publishers are offering it to any stamp dealer or collector at the nominal price of 10c, post paid, and it costs them about 25c per copy to print and mail.

ALLEN SEARS IN ST. LOUIS.

The Fennell Stamp Co. announces this week that Allen Sears, formerly of the Stamp Shoppe, Washington, D. C., is now connected with their firm at St. Louis. Mr. Sears takes charge of the approval service department and hopes to renew acquaintance with his old friends at his new address.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—The Microscope, pubished by the high school at McClellandtown, Pa., informs us that a stamp club has been organized in the school under the direction of Prof. Ashley C. LeDuc, who is himself an ardent philatelist. In a letter to the WEEKLY the information is conveyed that the boys connected with the high school are showing a keen interest in philately.

—John G. Jewett informs us that the Newark, N. J., post office has instructions not to sell the Pilgrim stamps at wholesale, and twenty stamps is considered "Wholesale." We have not verified the statement.

—"While reading the book, 'In Our Town,' by William Allen White, I came across the following:—'When the Conklins draped their Oriental rugs for airing every Saturday over the veranda and portico railings of the house-front, Colonel Morrison accused the Conklins of hanging out their stamp collection to let the neighbors see it'."—H. W. PEACOCK.

—A. C. Roessler's office at East Orange is now called a branch office, the principal business being conducted at 37 S. 8th St., Newark, N. J. Mr. Roessler's friends will rejoice at this evisler's friends will rejoice at this evidence of his growing prosperity.

—"I would like to ask your readers if they can give me any light on a stamp I have of British Columbia. Scott catalogs a brown surcharged TWO CENTS, while I have bought one among others from a very old collection that is surcharged 2 CENTS, which undoubtedly is a genuine copy, for among others I got one surcharged 50 CENTS in the same type. Is this an omission on the part of the catalog, or is it a variety not before known?"—F. L. BELANGER.

ADVERTISING ACCOUNTS.

We have been very much gratified at the manner in which our advertisers have responded this month to their bills. We wish to repeat what we have said several times before, that all bills are payable on presentation. If we find that bills are not paid by the 20th we shall have Mr. Jewett omit advertising from the first issue in the following month. There has never been a year when the advertising department of the WEEKLY has been conducted upon so clean and satisfactory a basis as during 1920-21. It is just as easy for an advertiser to "carry on" making payments of bills on presentation as it is to allow bills to accumulate.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

Not Wanted—In recent numbers of the WEEKLY News Gleanings, mention has been made of the fact that certain stamps obsolete in most quarters may be obtained in certain designated cities. In connection with this Frank Kocher submits a letter received from the Washington, D. C., post office which is self-explanatory. We endorse the sentiment expressed by Mr. Kocher that the public should have some place where stamps may be purchased when local offices do not stock the same. The letter in question follows and is signed by M. O. Chance, Postmaster of the Washington, D. C., office:—"Receipt is acknowledged of your communication dated January 13, 1921, enclosing postal money order for $5.74 in payment of postage stamps of the Pilgrim issue. In reply you are informed that the number of mail orders for postage stamped paper has increased to such an extent requiring so much time and labor, that it has become necessary for this office to discontinue the practice of filling them."

Information—In the WEEKLY of Feb. 19 there was an appeal by L. H. Brigham for information. A valued correspondent, A. H. Loomis, enters a few suggestions in relation to the same as follows:—"I would suggest that he communicate with our Department of State at Washington, D. C., and the Universal Postal Union at Geneva Switzerland. If these offices in their replies give all the information of which they are possessed, I do not believe Mr. Brigham will have many unanswered questions. In the meantime, if he wants to keep busy, and he lives in a big city, he might pay personal calls to some of the foreign consuls and gain considerable knowledge that way."

Raffles—Every once in a while an ingenious advertiser concocts a plan which involves some kind of a raffle of postage stamps. We are of course compelled to decline all such advertising, as its publication would not only incur the displeasure of the Post Office Department, but would endanger our valued privilege of pound rates. Nothing that savors of chance is permissible in any kind of advertising. Quite frequently philatelic societies and clubs engage in these raffles and while the announcements have crept into our columns in time past even as reading matter, it makes poor material for us to use. It is evident that the Post Office Department intends to wage a persistent warfare against those who pretend to give the public something for nothing.

Propagating Work—We know of no better booster for philately than C. Lat. Wilhelm of the Baltimore American. He is a regular contributor of stamp notes and news week by week, and it is very evident that anything he writes finds favor with the editor. He is also very much interested in the philatelic section of the Maryland Academy of Sciences. We quote from the American the plan of campaign recently inaugurated by this section, the suggestions offered being workable in connection with any high or grammar school. Educators who have any knowledge of philately will do well to make use of the ideas here brought forth:—

"Teachers in the public and private schools will be interested in a series of philatelic cards which are being planned by the Philatelic Section of the Maryland Academy of Sciences. These courses will consist of stamps on cards, alphabetically arranged, and will be in three series, for primary, grammar and high schools. The simplest set of the series of course will be arranged for the primary grades, which will consist of cards illustrating animals, ships, etc.

The grammar cards will show historical and other subjects, while those for the high schools will be further advanced and go deeper into history and other subjects. At least one of these courses will be ready, it is hoped, for the spring exhibit of the philatelic section, which will be held April 30 at the Academy Building, 105 West Franklin street.

A series of stamp slides is also being planned by the Philatelic Section, and some of these, it is hoped, will be ready for the exhibit. These slides will show stamps of various countries, will be accompanied by a lecture and will be for loan to schools and organizations."

Counterfeit Precancels—We regret to announce that some counterfeit precancels have recently come upon the market. The Vermont dealer who has been specializing in precancels states that he is not to blame and that he is refunding to all who purchased them from him. We suggest that any of our subscribers who have purchased precancels from this party have their stamps expertized or ask for a refund. We do not know all the facts in the case and present the matter without prejudice, desiring to give the dealer the benefit of any doubt.

A Much Broken Law—L. H. Brigham of Southbridge, Mass., calls our attention to a violation of the postal regulations and one which we have frequently referred to in our columns, viz:—the illustrating in the press of United States stamps. Mr. Brigham sends us a brief communication entitled "A Letter and the Law." We make this passing reference to this incident not with any expectation of remedying the situation, but as an indication to our subscribers that this fracture of the law is a matter of frequent occurrence.

A Live Yearling—It would be well if every community had a good stamp club. It is an ideal that should be sought for. With a Y. M. C. A. building in so many cities and towns, multitudes of boys' organizations, including especially the Boy Scouts, and activities of various kinds to interest boys, stamp clubs should meet a public need. A seasoned stamp collector in any community can accomplish much for the good of the hobby. We have many notable examples of philatelic activity in club life and a clipping from the Syracuse (N. Y.) Post Standard is responsible for this editorial. The Syracuse Stamp Club was organized only a year ago. It numbers thirty-five members and plans are being made for the first annual banquet. The Club also believes in the American Philatelic Society to the extent of seeking affiliation. Meetings are held the first and third Fridays of each month, and A. A. Leve is the appointed publicity director of the Club. Quite recently a stamp exhibit was held at the Carnegie Library with such good results that further exhibitions will be made. This brief recital of the activities of "a live yearling" should spur on the collectors of other cities to have a similar organization.

J. H. FOSTER, SYRACUSE, N. Y.

We supplement our paragraph on page 175 by saying that Mr. Foster has made good the check referred to, the remittance coming by wire. We therefore withdraw the statement made and give our erstwhile advertiser a clean record.

INTERNATIONAL WHOLESALE STAMP CORP.

404½ CONGRESS STREET, PORTLAND, MAINE.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

ARE U S. STAMPS UNDERPRICED?

By WILLIAM W. RANDALL.

The problem that is confronting the lovers and collectors of Uncle Sam's postage stamps just now, is whether or not the publishers of the Standard Catalog are going to put the old issues out of the reach of the average collector. In the coming new catalog I know already that some of the early regular issues are to be given a boost that will make the average landlord who is bent on raising your rent seem like a piker at a country fair. Take the two first regular issues, for instance, and what do we find? The 5c Franklin is to be raised from $15.00 unused to $20.00; used from $3.00 to $4.00. The 10c from $75.00 to $100.00 ("ouch," I can hear you utter); used from $15.00 to $20.00. These are possibly just now the two most popular stamps of the time, for the collector who is specializing in the stamps of his country. "After all," said D. S. Wylie to me the other day, the astute 34th street dealer, "the price of stamps is purely sentimental." I cannot agree with him. Of course you cannot place one of your collecting hobbies on the same plane with meat, bread, coal and other necessities, for their prices are not sentimental, unless there is a corner on these necessaries of life. Fine copies of both these stamps have been fetching over-catalog prices for the past couple years.

I was in Boston the other day, on business not connected with stamps, and I took a little stroll around amongst the few dealers in Beantown. I was very glad to pay 100% over cat. prices for some nice 5 cent Franklin covers. Of course they were perfect in every way, and had "sidewalks for margins," as Mr. Charles Lathrop Pack often says in speaking of the condition of his magnificent Capes, Sydney Views and early Canadians. Besides the '47's, nearly all the '51's, '57's and the stamps of the '60's are down for a raise. There are several in this decade that I have always thought were listed too low. Some always bring more than catalog, when in superb condition, and they are the grills. A number of the recent issues will jump up, probably the 3 cent rotary, and the 1 cent perf. 12½. Mr. J. N. Luff, the veteran stampologist, who is at his annual work of compiling and revising the Standard Catalog, is generally close mouthed in these matters, but he tells me that the victory 3c red violet will be listed. (439a). This is a rare bird. Try and get a block of the real red violet shade.

As I write this I have before me the Standard Catalog of 1896, a quarter of a century ago. I note that the 90 cent black and carmine, 1869, Lincoln, is listed with the other inverts, 15, 24 and 30 cent rarities, but not priced. I have yet to see one, but I do know that it does exist inverted in a sheet of cardboard proofs in the famous Lord Crawford collection of U. S. proofs, now owned by Mr. John A. Klemann. Dr. James A. Petrie of New Jersey had this and the black and green $2, $5, $10 and $20 State, printed in inverted cardboard sheets, about 25 years ago. I also note in the Scott catalog of '96 that the local stamps that had a quasi standing with the P. O. Department in the forties, have a prominent place, as they should be, as well as U. S. post cards. But telegraphs which never had a sanction of Government authority, are listed amongst the postage stamps, as they were in the last Standard Catalog. When we read on the cover, "Standard Postage Stamp Catalogue," and see the telegraph pasters for dead-head messages, by the grace of their Presidents, listed alongside of postage stamps, the humor is all the more apparent. After all, postage stamps of the U. S. are subject to the law of supply and demand, and if the demand exceeds the supply, they will continue to mount the price scale.

RESULTS OF A PAGE ADVT.

By MAXWELL KRAUSE.

Enclosed find my cheque for page ad. Let me say, incidentally, that it comes very near to being the best $85 I ever spent. In less than three weeks I have had more than $800 in direct orders from this ad and a number of follow-ups in addition. This, together with my regular run of business, has nearly swamped me. From past experience I naturally expected results from this ad, but I didn't anticipate the veritable flood of orders it has brought in.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chroniele is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—Mr. E. Tudor Gross kindly sends for inspection a most interesting cover of the 5c 1847. The stamp is a very beautiful copy in a rich brown shade with excellent margin showing the shifted frame line. Such a variety on an ordinary cover would be well worthy of mentioning, but this copy is on a cover cancelled with a red gridiron and postmarked "Milbury, Ms., Dec. 29," the home of the famous Millbury Postmaster Provisional. It will be noticed that in the cancellation the name of the town is spelled with one "l".

Mr. W. A. Cullers calls attention to the fact that the spacings on the sheets of the current engraved stamps varies from those of the surface print. We had not noticed this peculiarity before.

Mr. John E. Lord writes to advise that a sheet of the 1c engraved flat plate with horizontal perforations missing has been found in a post office in the East. We have not had the pleasure of viewing the variety, but Mr. Lord states that there are no signs of perforations, so that this is not to be ranked with the well known "blind perforation" varieties.

Mr. C. B. Bishop calls attention to the fact, that the left plate block from sheet 12433 of the 2c Pilgrim stamp shows a line beginning with the second blossom over the left "2" through the "the" and "ts" of "Cents". He does not mention as to whether this is from the upper or lower pane.

Quite a few new provisional 2c on 3c envelopes have been seen since our last chronicle. Mr. H. R. Palmer advises that Spokane has received a die and has started to overprint. Rev. C. L. Young sends a new variety of St. Paul and one from Butte. Mr. H. W. Lindaman has located two new ones from Chicago, while Mr. R. F. Molitor has found three additional varieties on blue with the Cleveland overprint. Mr. George P. Smith has located two new varieties, one from Baltimore and one from Memphis. While speaking of Memphis, we desire to correct the list given in our last chronicle, the two size 7 Memphis being listed with low back should have been high back.

My article on Coil Stamps now appearing in the WEEKLY will shortly come to a close insofar as the government issues are concerned, and it is then my intentions to cover the private issues. I can find in past references, practically no information regarding the Parkhurst, Kansas City Vending Machine Co., and U. S. Selling Co., coil stamps. Have any of our readers any data regarding these varieties? If so, will they not be so good as to advise me.

We wish to thank the following for information of interest: Messrs. C. R. Stark, Jr., John A. Howard, P. F. Robertson, Emile Jost and John A. Howard.

AUSTRIA.—Mr. Th. Champion reports that a special Charity series of stamps is being prepared to be sold on behalf of the Hungarian children.

AZORES.—La Philatelie Francaise reports the following stamps of Portugal are received with the surcharge "Acores"; 6c rose lilac, 12c grey blue, 13½c ultramarine, 14c blue on yellow, 20c brown on buff.

BOLIVIA. — La Philatelie Francaise chronicles the following values in the 1919 type: 2c violet, 1bol brown red, 2bol brown.

DANZIG.—Mr. K. Lindsay submits to us for chronicle a set of stamps with the inscription "Freie Stadt Danzig". The set is of 10 values and shows a ship in the centre. The first five values are somewhat smaller than the higher values, starting with the 1m. The colors are as follows: 5pf brown and purple, 15pf orange and black, 25pf green and red, 40pf carmine, 80pf blue, 1m red and grey, 2m blue and green, 3m black and bright green, 5m black and red, and 10m dark green and orange.

DENMARK.—The current 50 öre black and claret has been overprinted POST-FAERGE (Ferry Post), for use in payment of the tax levied upon postal correspondence dispatched by the ferry service between the mainland port of Esbjerg and the island of Fano.—Stamp Collecting.

EGYPT.—From Leonce Colucci Bey, who had already sent us an example of the 5 mills. value with the new Multiple Star and Crescent, we have now received a specimen of the new booklet, containing twenty-four 5 mills. stamps, each with the Multiple wmk.

En passant, we may say that the imprint of Messrs. Harrison & Sons, Ltd., appears on the back cover of these booklets, which contain eight pages of advertisement, plus others on the inside covers, and two pages—one in English and the other in Arabic—regarding the Newspaper Subscription Service organized by the Egyptian Postal Administration.

We have also received copies of the 5 mills. with the new watermark from Mr. Felix Cohen, of Alexandria, and Mr. E. L. Angeloglous, of Cairo. There is no appreciable difference in the [illegible] but we have reason to believe th[at] the postage stamps of Egypt are [illegible] being printed by Messrs. Harris[on] Sons, Ltd.

Incidentally, we recall that we [have] shadowed the Multiple Star and Cr[escent] watermark so long ago as August [1]920; the entire current series wi[ll] pear with this watermark in due c[ourse] —Stamp Collecting.

FINLAND.—Due for issue this [month] the following values of an entirel[y new] Finnish series of postal adhesive[s] reported in advance by Mr. [A.] Ahonoja, of Kuopio:—

STANLEY GIBBONS, Ltd.,
391 STRAND, LONDON, W. C. 2, ENGLAND

INDIA.—Some time ago Messrs. Stanley Gibbons, Ltd., purchased a block of nine of the current 1 anna denomination, the middle stamp of the block (by 3) being entirely without the lined background of the inner oval. The vendor stated that Messrs. De La Rue & Co., Ltd., thought the appearance of the value would be improved by showing the head on a plain background, and they therefore prepared two blocks of nine stamps and sent them out to India, the centre stamp in both cases being on a plain background.

Although to our mind the plain oval is a distinct improvement over the lined one of the stamps in use, the proposal referred to did not find favour. We are informed that one block went into the official collection, while the other, as stated, has gone to 391 Strand. The watermarks and perforations are stated to be just as in the issued stamps.—Stamp Collecting.

JAMAICA.—Mr. J. A. Massraish has submitted to us copies of the 2d and 2½d of the new set. The 2d shows the King's house, Spanish Town, 1762-1872, and is green with a centre of blue. The other value is blue with a grey centre and shows Return of a Contingent, 1919.

LUXEMBURG.—Mr. Henry Hooreman submits to us a copy of a 15c carmine of a new type. The stamp shows the portrait of the new Grand Duchesse.

MEMEL.—Mr. I. S. Riedel advises that two high values have been issued: 10 marks and 20 marks. Of the 3 marks there is a new supply made on the two colors red brown.

SAARGEBIET.—Mr. I. S. Riedel calls our attention to the 4m, Germania type, which has been surcharged as the other values. Mr. Riedel also adds that 75pf has been overprinted "20pf."

SWEDEN.—Mr. Eric Kling advises that the Svenska Filateliska Jidskriften announces that the 5ö, 20ö (Gustav Adolf) and 60ö have appeared watermarked with wavy lines instead of unwatermarked as before. The 10ö and 20ö have also been issued perforated on all sides. Also the 15ö has just been issued in gray black, which completes the set. The postal rates on foreign mail have been raised from 20ö to 40ö, also the registration fee from 20ö to 40ö, according to the agreement at the meeting of the Postal Union at Madrid.

SWITZERLAND.—We learn from the Philatelie Francaise of the appearance of the following surcharges on the current type: 2½ on 3c, 5 on 7½c, 10 on 13 and 20 on 15c. Mr. C. A. Heath also sends us the same information.

"DOUBLE HEAD" ISSUE OF SERBIA.

By WILFRID B. HAWORTH.

Generally speaking, the avalanche of new issues, which has descended on the heads of collectors as a result of the tangled skein of political affairs in Central Europe, is without any genuine interest. There are however, one or two exceptions to the rule, as is usually the case, and at the top of the list of these aristocrats must be placed the "Double-Head" issue of Serbia. Apart from their philatelic value, they have all the other merits which are required by the keen student of limited means; they are decidedly uncommon, in spite of the large numbers printed, and so require a careful search before they can be unearthed; they are cheap, a most essential point in these days, and when carefully arranged, they look decidedly handsome, with the added point that they are sure to be interesting, even to the philistine, since they mark a definite epoch in the history of the Slav peoples.

Very few official details are available to the collector, beyond the actual numbers printed, so that there is still much work to be done before the full history of the issue can be written. I feel confident, however, that anyone commencing on their study will find it well worth while to probe into the points which still remain dark.

I have not been able to ascertain when the issue was first ordered. It must, however, have been early in 1918 or late in the previous year, since I find the full set chronicled in Stamp Collecting for the 14th December, 1918.

They were printed in Corfu, and, although it has not yet been so stated anywhere, it seems probable that they are the work of Messrs. Aspiotis Fréres, who are the only stamp printers known in that town. The work is very carefully executed in good colours and on white wove paper. There is no watermark and the perforation gauges 11 exactly and not 11x11½, as was stated recently in the Briefmarken Rundschau. The sheet appears to have consisted of a hundred stamps, divided into four panes of twenty-five (5 x 5), separated by a "gutter" the width of a label. These details are important since the arrangement of the sheet was changed subsequently. The gum is yellowish and it often imparts a creamy tint to the paper. This yellowish tone is, however, not nearly so marked as in the third printing.

The main point to note about this printing is the extreme neatness of the shading on the neck and cheek, which is in part built up of fine dots, and the background of the two heads. In all the specimens of the Corfu productions that I have seen this latter is clearly made up of horizontal lines crossed by others running diagonally from right to left. The portraits stand up very clearly against this ground and the result is most effective.

The 1 para was printed in black, and, despite the fact that there were 736,000 of these issued, it is exceedingly difficult to find.

The 2 paras was in a deep brown-olive, and of this 1,469,000 were printed.

I have not yet been able to find a copy of the 5p pale yellow-green, in spite of there being, according to L'Echo de la Timbrologie, some 4,048,000 printed. Possibly one difficulty which may in some measure account for this is the execrable colour used, which makes it almost impossible to see any details.

The 10p scarlet (4,195,000) is much easier to find, but still it cannot be said to be in any sense common. There should be no difficulty in picking this stamp out of a mixed parcel, since the brilliant colour at once distinguishes it from the subsequent printings.

The next value, 15p, is in black-brown; 287,000 are said to have been issued and I have found it very difficult to get.

Of the 20p 293,000 were printed in red-brown. This colour is quite distinct from any which appeared subsequently.

The 25p (724,000) is another decidedly elusive variety in this printing. The colour is a rather "hard" blue.

The 30p, of which 731,000 were used, is in olive, but the greatest care must be taken not to confuse it with the later printing which, officially given as olive-grey, varies between that shade and olive.

The last of the para values is the 50p (733,000), printed in violet. The neatness of the background and the shading on the face and neck of King Alexander are the best guides by which to work.

There are three high values to be noted, but except in the case of the 1 dinar, they need no special study, since there was only one printing made, namely that at Corfu. Of the 1d there were 44,000 printed in a shade of brown, with a tinge of grey in it. The Briefmarken Rundschau states that 20,000 specimens were destroyed at the Ministry of Posts in August, 1919, so that if this is correct this value should be rare. But it seems to me very doubtful whether this destruction really took place, since it is known that on the 7th September the locally-printed 1d stamp was put on sale. It is hardly likely that the Government would deliberately destroy valuable stock and then immediately commence reprinting it.

The other two values need not detain us beyond stating that the 3d is in ————, and the 5d in a very rich red-brown. Of the former 45,000 and of the latter 43,000 were printed.

THE FIRST LOCAL PRINTING.

These supplies, large as they were, do not seem to have lasted very long, for in January, 1919, we find the first of the locally-printed stamps making its appearance. There was great difficulty in getting the necessary inks, and accordingly, whilst awaiting supplies, it became necessary to make use of those in stock, and match, as far as possible, the shades of the Corfu series. An anonymous writer in L'Echo de la Timbrologie states that this first local printing was commenced towards the end of 1919 and that certain values, namely the 15p and 20p, were only in use about three weeks. If, however, the writer in the Briefmarken Rundschau is to be trusted, this would not seem to be correct, since he dates the first local printing of the 15p in January, 1919, and the second in March, 1920. I think that the first of these dates will prove to be a printer's error for December, 1919, since it is very un-and asking the clerk to show you some jewelry. He would immediately ask you whether you desired to look at diamonds, watches, silverware, pins, or what? But time and again I get letters saying "Saw your ad, please send a selection of stamps on approval." Most dealers ignore this kind of a request, as it doesn't mean anything. Just state exactly what you wish to see the same as tho you were approaching a clerk in a store. Sample:—"I want a selection of British North American stamps on approval; I am no millionaire, so slightly damaged will do. I lack most of values cataloguing $5 and up. I will spend $25 to $50, if you can show me what I fancy. My reference is—". This kind of an inquiry fills the bill, gives information, and leaves it to the dealer. All dealers are keen to sell, but an inquiry that does not state specifically what is required is a waste of postage.

I have all kinds of stamps from superb, full catalogue, to damaged at low prices, U. S., B. N. A., Br. Col., S. A., European, all the good ones; get in line. I am selling to collectors from coast to coast. Play fair with me, and I'll go out of my way to treat you right, but when I meet with a man who is one-sided, and thinks every dealer is a crook, I pass, because I only wish to deal with ladies and gentlemen, and I say right here that 99% of those I have done business with are fine people to be in touch with.

likely that 53,000 stamps would last for fifteen months when the original supply of 287,000 only lasted three or four.

There is, of course, a possible explanation if it can be assumed that the Serbian Government, realising that they had not sufficient stamps to last until new supplies of ink arrived, made a small printing in order to eke out those they had in hand.

The paper used for this, the first Belgrade printing, was thick and soft. The gum is white and the perforation is extremely bad. The impression is much heavier and the lines of the background are not nearly so distinct. The sheet size remained the same as before.

The 1p was printed in olive-grey to the number of 600,000. It was first brought into use on the 7th September, 1919.

No 2p were required, but the 5p green to the number of 260,000 stamps was required, as early as the 22nd January, 1919, if the writer in the Briefmarken Rundschau is to be trusted.

The 10p rose-red (130,000) was first used on the 2nd February, 1919. It is quite distinct in shade from the Corfu stamps.

A 15p in deep chocolate is said to have been issued on the 26th January, 1919, but as I have pointed out above, this is probably a misprint for December—the months are given in the article in figures, thus: 26/1/19 should, I think, read 26/12/19. The printing amounted to 53,000 stamps.

The 20p was printed in lilac on the 13th December of the same year to the number of 117,000 copies, and the 30p in coffee colour (75,000) on the 2nd February, 1919. Finally the 1d was issued on the 7th September, printed in yellow-brown. The printing amounted to 650 sheets.

It has been suggested that the 25p and 30p were also included in these reprints, and, thanks to Mr. C. J. Byrne, I am convinced that this is the case, so far as the first value is concerned. I have, however, yet to meet with the 30p, which is said to be in olive-grey.

SECOND LOCAL PRINTING.

We come now to the stamps which are actually current throughout Serbia, Macedonia, and Montenegro.

Like those last described, they are printed at the State Printing Works in Belgrade.

By the beginning of 1920 the stock of all values except the 2p and 50p was very low, and the new inks having come to hand, the presses were once more set in motion. The sheets were now made up of fifty stamps in two panes of 25 (5x5), one above the other. With the exception of the 1p, all values are on thick, hard paper and the gum is white. The perforation is clean-cut. The impression is coarse.

The 1c is in shades varying from jet black to grey and an initial printing of 100,000 was made on the 1st January, 1920. It was followed by a second on the 1st of March, but in this latter case the perforation is very badly done. It is probably to this second edition that a part-perforated sheet, shown me by Mr. Fred. J. Melville, belongs. In this the horizontal lines are all entirely missing. The paper for both printings is very thin and transparent.

The 2p was not needed until the 20th August, 1920, when a printing was made on pelure paper, of which the number has not yet been made public. The shade is a very pale olive-brown.

The next value, 5p, to the number of 300,000 copies, was put on sale on the 26th January, 1920. The colour is extremely pale yellow-green.

The 10p (650,000) varies from pale to bright red. It cannot, however, be confused with the Corfu print in scarlet. It was issued on the 4th March, 1920.

The 15p is in a very dull black-brown. There were 49,300 printed on the 25th March, 1920.

A 20p (135,000) in coffee colour appeared on the 16th February, and a 25p (100,000) in dark dull blue on the 23rd March. The 30p was printed in a greyish shade of olive to the number of 400,000 and appeared on the 16th February.

There were two printings of the 50 paras. The first, to the number of 150,000, was in violet, and was issued on the 15th April, 1920; the second was in a very pale shade of the same colour and was put on sale on the 20th August. The number printed was the same as for the first edition.—Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly.

The next discontinuance of subscriptions will concern all subscribers whose wrappers bear the numbers 1576 to 1579 inclusive. Just glance at your wrapper immediately in order to make sure that your subscription is paid up. You have ample time in which to renew and be saved the inconvenience of a discontinuance. We are satisfied that the system we have inaugurated is the only one under which a newspaper can do business these days, and subscribers must understand that free copies of the WEEKLY will not be sent to those who are in arrears.

STAMPS OF CASTELLORIZO.

By D. B. ARMSTRONG.

The islet of Castellorizo, which enjoyed an ephemeral existence of three months as a stamp-issuing country, lies off the coast of Asia Minor, adjacent to the Turkish part of Smyrna. It was originally occupied by a French naval detachment on December 28th, 1915, a post office being established in charge of a Commissary of Marine. Ordinary stamps of the French Levant were used in the denominations 5, 10, 25, and 50 centimes without distinguishing mark of any kind. Supplies of these were obtained, as required, from the regular French postal agency at Rhodes.

EARLY POSTMARK.

Subsequently an elaborate type of postmark was brought into use for the cancellation of letters posted on the island, in the form of a large double-lined circle enclosing the device of a cabled anchor, with an inscription round the circumference in sans-serif capitals reading "CASTELLORIZO * CORPS D'OCCUPATION * "

FIRST POSTAGE STAMPS.

The French naval and military operations in Cilicia and Syria during 1919-20 brought the island into considerable importance as a base of supplies, and incidentally caused a great increase in the volume of mail matter handled by the island postal agency. Letters entrusted to the Castellorizo Post Office by the masters of calling vessels were frequently franked with stamps of assorted kinds. In order to put matters on a proper footing, therefore, the Naval Commandant of the base ordered that in future distinctive stamps should be provided, and that those alone should be accepted in payment of postal charges.

Accordingly, early in June, 1920, a supply of thirteen values of the contemporary issue of the French Levant P. O. was obtained from Rhodes and overprinted locally with the inscription "B. N. F. CASTELLORIZO" in two lines in black, the initials signifying "Base Navale Francais."

Owing to shortage of type the overprint had to be set up to cover a block of ten stamps only. An insufficiency of Z's caused this letter to be replaced by an "S" on one stamp in each block. A scarce variety exists with the word Castellorizo inverted, which, however, was immediately rectified.

The approximate numbers overprinted of this series were as under:—

1 centime, grey	2,300
2 centimes, claret	1,800
3 centimes, orange	2,000
5 centimes, green	600
10 centimes, rose	500
15 centimes, red	250
20 centimes, purple	250
1pi on 25c, blue	300
30 centimes, violet	200
2pi on 50c, brown and blue	120
4pi on 1fr, carmine and olive	120
20pi on 5fr, blue and buff	120

SECOND ISSUE.

The initial supply of overprinted stamps was speedily exhausted, so that on June 20th, 1920, a proclamation, as under, was published by the Governor of the island:—

"FRENCH REPUBLIC.
Division of Syria.
Island of Castellorizo.
LE GOUVERNEUR.—G. 50.
Subject: Postage stamps in use at Castellorizo.

DECREE—G.50.

This 20th day of June, 1920.

Naval Lieutenant Terme, R.A., Officer Commanding the Base, and Governor of Castellorizo.

In accordance with Decree No. 49 of 19. 6. 20.

DECIDED:

ARTICLE 1.—A second issue of postage stamps of the Base of Castellorizo shall bear the surcharge O.N.F.: Occupation Naval Francaise Castellorizo.

ARTICLE 2.—This new series will come into use when the first series is exhausted.

ARTICLE 3.—The Commissioner C.S.A. M.C., the agent is responsible for the postal service, are each, so far as concerned, instructed to give effect to the present decree.

Given at Castellorizo the day, month, and year indicated below.

NAVAL LIEUTENANT TERME, R.A., Base Commandant and Governor of Castellorizo."

This second issue comprised, in addition to the same values of French Levant stamps as before, a proportion of 10c and 25c postage stamps of France, overprinted in a like manner. The word "Base" was omitted from the inscription as being no longer applicable.

1 centime, grey	5,100
2 centimes, claret	3,400
3 centimes, orange	875
5 centimes, green	4,200
10 centimes, red (France)	2,300
10 centimes, red (Levant)	700
15 centimes, rose	392
20 centimes, purple
25c, blue (France)	640
30c, violet	825
40c, red and blue	2,170
1pi on 25c, blue (Levant)	1,220
2pi on 50c, brown & blue	350
4pi on 1fr, car. & olive	245
20pi on 5fr, blue & buff

The 5 centimes stamp is known overprinted in both red and black, the latter variety being the scarcer of the two. A small supply of 8pi on 2fr was prepared, but not issued.

THIRD ISSUE.

The third and last issue of special postage stamps for Castellorizo place about August, 1920, when six nominations of the French home s were overprinted by hand on board S. S. Provence, with the inscri "O. F. CASTELLORIZO" as foll

5 centimes, deep green
10 centimes, carmine
20 centimes, claret
25 centimes, blue
50 centimes, brown and blue
1fr, carmine and olive

Previous to the evacuation of island, which passed into the hand Italy under the provisions of the T of Versailles, the hand-stamp used applying the overprint to the third was officially destroyed in accord with an official declaration, of which following is a translation:—

"ISLAND OF CASTELLORIZO,

We Are Not A Collecting Agenc

The time is opportune to remind our patrons that this paper ca not undertake to be a collecting agency for the stamp trade. It is very common practice for a dealer who has had unsatisfactory busine relations with a fellow dealer to put it up to us to effect a settleme and pour oil on the troubled waters.

The WEEKLY uses its best endeavors to ascertain the reliabili of its advertisers, but both banking and commercial references are u fortunately very easy to obtain. We decline a great deal of advertisi and our columns are closed in various directions. We propose to our best to make philately the finest hobby in existence and will operate gladly to that end.

We insist for the future that any dealer holding a grievance agai fellow dealers shall consult his attorney and the report of the attorn submitted to us before we take action. The Managing Editor has t many duties incumbent upon him in connection with a 16 page pap to take up correspondence that should be carried on by an attorney.

Have we upon our mailing list any philatelic attorneys wh names could be filed with us for useful purposes? The service r dered philately would be of a most valuable character.

What we have said concerning the relationship of dealer w dealer, applies with equal force to the collector who has his troub with a fellow collector. If enuff is involved to warrant it, go to lawyer. If not, charge it up as experience.

We are quite aware of our direct obligations to render assistan where a collector is not given a square deal by an advertiser or v versa, but our obligations in this direction will be cheerfully met.

Who in New York, Chicago, Boston, etc., will serve as indicated

W. W. RANDALL VISITS BEVERLY.

The Managing Editor was very glad on Saturday evening, March 5, to welcome to Beverly, W. W. Randall, our virile New York correspondent. He had been in Boston in conference with Mr. Barrett on the post card article to be run in the WEEKLY April 2 and came to Beverly not only to pay his respects to our publication, but as well to enthuse us in the project he has in hand. If Mr. Randall had his way, every stamp collector would collect post-cards. His call upon us was a very enjoyable one.

BALTIMORE STAMP EXHIBIT.

At the regular meeting of the Philatelic Section Maryland Academy of Sciences, Baltimore, held Friday evening, February 25th, several very fine collections of Brazil were on exhibition. The interesting issues of this country were fully shown from the early ones of 1843 up to the current ones in use. Especially fine was the specialized collection of Dr. J. F. Emerson, both in used, unused, and many fine pairs, strips and blocks. Plans were discussed for the coming spring exhibit.

GEOGRAPHICAL LINES.

By C. K. SHIPTON.

In answer to Mr. Brigham's query, I can offer the following. I believe it to be authentic because I have made the politics of Europe my hobby, to which stamps are secondary. The best map published is that issued last month by the National Geographic Society of Washington, D. C. It is impossible to give exact size, population, and government for the new states because great stretches of territory are still in doubt and revolutions frequent.

Armenia consisted in 1919 of a wide strip of territory extending from the Russian Caucasus to Alexandretta on the Mediterranean Sea. At first a part of the Trans-Caucasian Republic, Armenia became a republic about two years ago and maintained its independence until over-run recently by the Turks. It has been reduced to a small fraction of its former size and is now occupied by a Bolshevist army.

Azerbaijan was a part of the Trans-Caucasian Republic and became independent after the fall of that country. At its height the Azerbaijan Republic included parts of former Russian, Turkish, and Persian territory. It has been overthrown by the Bolshevists.

Batum is a Russian seaport at the eastern end of the Black Sea. Occupied by Allied forces during the civil war in Russia, it was made a Free City and evacuated after the defeat of the White Guard Armies. It was recently re-occupied by an Indo-British army and on being evacuated a second time was turned over to the Georgian Republic. The Bolshevists are now advancing on Batum after overthrowing the Georgian government. An Allied fleet is in the harbor.

Cilicia is the old Turkish province of Adana, just north of Cyprus. The French have been driven from town to town until they only hold Mersina. The French commander has advised the government to abandon Cilicia, as they have no claim to it and it is not worth fighting over.

Czeko-Slovakia is a republic consisting of the former Austrian provinces of Bohemia, Moravia, and Slovakia. It borders Germany, Austria, Hungary, and Poland.

Esthonia is a republic bordering the Baltic, the Gulf of Finland, Russia, and Latvia. It includes the old Russian province of Esthonia and part of Livonia.

Hedjaz is a kingdom bordering the Red Sea, Palestine, and the Arabian Desert. Mecca is included in its territory.

Jugo-Slavia is a kingdom composed of Serbia, Montenegro, Bosnia, Herzegovina, Dalmatia, except Zara, Croatia and Slavonia, part of Banat and sundry parts of Bulgaria and Upper Austria. The king is a former Serbian prince and the entire country seems to be ready to rebel against what it considers Serbian oppression. At present the different parts use their own stamps but a general set is being prepared.

Latvia or Lettland is a republic on the Baltic bordering Esthonia, Russia, and Lithuania. It includes the former Russian province of Courland and parts of Kovno and Livonia.

Libia is the name given to Tripoli by the Italians since their occupation of it in 1912.

Lichtenstein is a town and a few miles of surrounding territory formerly belonging to an Austrian noble. In 1918 Lichtenstein declared itself a republic and has been since taken over by Switzerland.

Lithuania is a republic on the Baltic between Poland and Latvia. Most of its territory is in dispute and an irregular Polish force occupies its largest city, Vilna.

Mesopotamia consists of the former Turkish provinces of Mosul, Baghdad (Irak), and Bassorah. It is under a British mandate.

Palestine is the territory between the Jordan and the Mediterranean. It is under a British mandate.

Poland, the greatest of the new European states, consists of German and Russian Poland and Galicia, which is to have a plebiscite in 1944. Poland has seized a vast stretch of Russian territory to which it has absolutely no claim. This territory extends from just west of Minsk to the Galician border, including most of White Russia and cutting Lithuania off from Russia.

Syria consists of most of the former Turkish provinces of Aleppo and Syria. It is divided into several stamp-issuing districts.

Ukrainia is the territory of the Little Russians. As there is slight difference between the Little Russians and the Great Russians, the boundaries are very doubtful. As a result of its occupation by various German, Bolshevist, Anti-Bolshevist, and Polish armies, the Ukraine has had plenty of variety. Just now it is a soviet under Russian control.

West Russia, I suppose, refers to one of the Anti-Bolshevist armies, operating in the western border states. Here, as well as in South Russia and Siberia, stamps were issued for the use of the Anti-Bolshevist armies. The Don Cossack stamps were issued for all of White Guard Russia but never distributed, because of Bolshevist victories.

Upper, Western, and Eastern Silesia, Schleswig, Allenstein, Marienwerder and Carincia are plebiscite districts. Almost all voted to remain with the former Central Powers.

Western Ukrainia consisted of southern Galicia and Bukowina. As a result of the Polish-Ukrainian and various Anti-Bolshevist wars, it peacefully expired. Galicia is now Polish and Bukowina, Roumanian.

In these small nations nationalism has been carried to an extreme and in time they will drift back to their mother countries.

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF DENMARK.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

CHAPTER VI.

The Wavy-line Spandrels.

In August, 1857, a slight modification was made in the design of the 4sk and 8sk stamps, the spandrels being filled with a pattern of wavy lines instead of dots.

Why the change was made has never been explained, but an entirely new die was engraved, for not only do the spandrels differ in the manner noted, but small differences in the details will be found in many parts of the design. A prominent difference is the removal of the period after the "R" in "F R M."

The same original die served for both values and this was engraved on steel by Alfred Buntzen. The plates consisted of 100 stamps and were made in exactly the same manner as those for the stamps of the preceding issue. They were printed on the same watermarked paper and this was similarly covered with the wavy lines in yellow (burelage) before the stamps themselves were printed.

Both values were issued imperforate but are also found with the unofficial perforations described in connection with the stamps of 1853-57.

The 4sk provides many striking variations of shade but the 8sk varies but slightly in tint.

The numbers printed were as follows:

4sk,	50,596,700
8sk,	777,100

Prior to 1861, apparently, only the city of Copenhagen enjoyed the privilege of a special rate for local letters, but from January 1st, 1861, the privilege was extended to other towns, as shown by the following official document:—

"NOTICE

In compliance with the proposal respectfully submitted by the Minister of Finance, His Majesty the King has been pleased to promulgate, on the 15th of this month, the following royal decision:—

From January 1st, 1861, in the towns in which the local letters are distributed by the Post Office, there is established for such letters, irrespective of weight, but their weight, however, must not exceed one pound, a rate of 3 skilling per letter, with the exception of letters franked, when posted, by means of the stamps which are provided for that purpose by the Post Office Department, and which are sold singly, available for the postage of one letter, at two skilling, or by the hundred for 2Rdlr.

The foregoing is hereby published for general information; further, the Minister of Finance has decided that the distribution of urban letters by the Post Office Department, in addition to being carried out as hitherto in the postal district of Copenhagen, shall be introduced from January 1st of next year at Aalborg, Altona, Aarhuus, Elshorn, Flensborg, Fredericia, Haderslav, Heide, Helsingoer, Horsens, Kiel, Itsehoe, Neuminster, Odense, Randers, Rendsborg, and Slesvig.

COPENHAGEN, the 21st December, 1860.
(Signed) S. DANNESKIOLD-SAMSOE.
Director General of Posts."

CHAPTER VII.

The Rouletted Stamps.

Although some individuals or firms had gone to the trouble of having their stamps privately perforated—as shown by the existence of such varieties in both the preceding issues—the need of the general public for some method of separating stamps more simple than cutting them apart with scissors was not particularly apparent until the early months of 1863. As we have already mentioned, the Danish Government were offered a perforating machine in 1859 for the sum of 400 rigsdaler but did not purchase it. In 1863, however, they decided to buy one from Count Sparre, and although the price at first asked for it was 6000 rigsdaler, a reduction to the more modest figure of 750 rigsdaler had to be made before the same was consummated. This machine rouletted the stamps, and the first value to be issued was the then current 4sk, with wavy lines in spandrels, which was placed on sale on March 6th, 1851. According to the official figures, a total of 12,060,300 4sk stamps were rouletted by the Sparre machine.

In June, 1000 sheets (100,000 stamps) of the 16sk were rouletted and placed on sale.

Although only these two varieties were rouletted officially, the 4sk with dotted spandrels and both types of the 8sk are also known with the same style of roulette and were probably rouletted on the same machine.

REFERENCE LIST.

1863. Similar to preceding issues but rouletted.

4sk. Wavy line spandrels. Brown.
16sk. Dotted spandrels. Lilac.

Unofficial Varieties.

4sk. Dotted spandrels. Brown.
8sk. Dotted spandrels. Green.
8sk. Wavy line spandrels. Green.

CHAPTER VIII.

The 1864-8 Issue.

The rouletting machine did not prove an unqualified success and in 1864 it was decided to introduce a regular perforating machine, and at the same time a radical change in the design of the stamps was made.

The stamps are larger than those of the preceding issues and are upright rectangular in shape, measuring 18 x 21½ mm. The design shows the Royal Emblems (Sceptre and Sword surmounted by a Royal Crown) on an oval with background of fine vertical lines; surrounded by a plain oval band inscribed "KGL. POST. FRM.", in colored double-line letters in the upper part, and with the value below. The Sword and Sceptre extend across the oval band as well as the lined centre. Around the oval is a rectangular frame, and numerals denoting the value are shown on a ground of wavy lines in each of the four spandrels.

The 4sk and 16sk were the first denominations to appear, the former being issued in May, and the latter in August, 1864. The official Notice announcing these values was as follows:—

"Circular of the Director-General of Posts.

No. 13 1864.

Notice is hereby given to the Post Offices for the information of all concerned, that new postage stamps of a somewhat different form and of different colors from those hitherto employed, will be put in circulation as soon as the supplies of the current stamps are exhausted.

COPENHAGEN, May 3rd, 1864.
(Signed) S. DANNESKIOLD-SAMSOE."

Apparently no official Circular was issued to announce the 2sk denomination, which was placed on sale on September 1st, 1865, but one was issued prior to the appearance of the 3 skilling in October of the same year, viz.:—

"Circular of the Director-General of Posts.

No. 18 1865.

Seeing that the charge for packets in wrappers and for samples has been recently fixed by the Postal Convention concluded between Sweden, Prussia, Lubeck, and the Duchies of the Elbe, at 3sk R.M., there have now been issued new stamps at 3sk. The use of these in conjunction with those previously issued will admit of the prepayment of all rates of postage, both those for letters addressed to foreign parts and those for letters and postal packets circulating within this country, in accordance with the law of the 26th September of this year.

A sufficient supply of these new stamps which are of the same pattern as those last issued, and lilac in color, will be sent to the Post Offices by the first mail. Requisitions for further supplies should be addressed to the Director-General of Post Office accounts."

The 8sk was the laggard of the series and did not appear until March, 1868. The 8sk of the 1857 type, with the wavy lines in spandrels, was current right up to that date, which makes the fact that this particular denomination was not officially rouletted all the more astonishing. The official Circular relating to the new 8sk was as follows:—

"Circular of the Director-General of Posts.

No. 4 1868.

Notice is hereby given that new 8 skilling stamps bronze in color and of the same pattern as the 3 skilling stamps recently issued, will be put in circulation in a few days.

The 8 skilling stamps at present in use may be employed in the future so long as there are any left in stock."

One original die served for all five values of this series and this was engraved on steel by Ph. Batz. The original die consisted of the oval part of the design with blank space at the base for the desired numerals of value. The triangular shaped spandrels completing the designs were engraved separately for each of the five values.

The 4 skilling, the plate of which appears to have been the first that was made, differs from the other values in having the outline of the rectangular frame interrupted at top, bottom, and sides, showing spaces without frame varying in length. Furthermore, numerous varieties in the frames are to be found in this denomination, such as thin and thick lines, or thin lines on one or more sides. In fact, Mr. Hanciau states that the frame varies in each of the hundred stamps so that it would not be impossible to plate this value. On the other denominations of the series the frame line is continuous and uniformly thick on all four sides.

Mr. Hanciau also states that the 4sk always has a tiny colored dot before the numeral in the oval band. While this stop is usually discernible, we have seen many copies on which it is not visible at all.

With the exception of the 4sk, few varieties worthy of mention are found. On some copies of the 2sk the inner frame line of the oval is broken at base, and on both the 8sk and 16sk a tiny colored dot sometimes shows between the Sword and Sceptre on the oval band at left. Finally copies of the 16sk are occasionally met with with a colored smudge before and level with the top of the letter "K" of "KGL."

The stamps of this series were printed on machine-made white paper varying slightly in thickness. A larger type of crown watermark was used and this type was used for all subsequent issues, similarly watermarked, with very slight variations. In fact, the variations are so slight as to be indescribable and for all practical purposes the watermarks may be considered identical. The gum varies from brown to white, the former being found in connection with the earlier printings.

The perforation was the work of single-line or guillotine machines and has a gauge of 12½, 13. All five values were issued imperforate in error at one time or another.

All the stamps of this issue provide a nice range of shades, though the tints of the 8sk are not so pronounced as those found in connection with the other values.

The numbers printed were as follows:

2sk,	7,533,600
3sk,	3.019,700
4sk,	47,742,800
8sk,	2,005,000
16sk,	1,600,000

The next discontinuance of subscriptions will concern all subscribers whose wrappers bear the numbers 1576 to 1579 inclusive. Just glance at your wrapper immediately in order to make sure that your subscription is paid up. You have ample time in which to renew and be saved the inconvenience of a discontinuance. Moreover, under our new system we are making no plans for furnishing back numbers and subscribers must not expect that we can supply back numbers when we have made every effort to notify them.

We are satisfied that the system we have inaugurated is the only one under which a newspaper can do business these days, and subscribers must understand that free copies of the WEEKLY will not be sent to those who are in arrears.

HARTFORD STAMP EXHIBITION.

On Tuesday, Mar. 15, the Stamp Collectors Club of Hartford opened what is probably the first exhibition ever held in Connecticut, in the lecture hall of the J. P. Morgan Memorial. The exhibit will last a month and the major part of it changed every week. All collectors in Hartford or vicinity, or those passing through the city, will find it well worth while to look over the nice things in the stamp line on view.

Hartford has long been noted as a stamp centre and choice things from many of Hartford's finest collections will delight the stamp eye. Items never on view before.

Among other items are the following: Baltimore 5c on cover, an almost complete line of U. S. 1847 to date, fine U. S. covers, carriers, revenues.

Stamps of the great World War will be represented by many rarities, such as the 10k Trentino, a number of Baghdads, Bushires, Italian China No. 861 on piece of cover, of which only 15 were ever issued and thousands of dollars worth of other rare and interesting war issues.

It will be well worth while for any collector within a reasonable radius of Hartford to visit this exhibit which will, as before stated, be changed weekly, and show a wide range of U. S. and foreign worth a fortune and containing many stamps worth from $100 to $1000 each.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—M. Tausig advises us that he will be away two weeks from his Brooklyn address on a vacation. This will account for any delay in filling orders.

—A New York City partnership has been formed, to which we are very glad to give publicity, as per card received: "Announcement:—Mr. D. Taussig, Mr. Marshall H. Hancock and Mr. Franklin Coombs take pleasure in announcing the formation of a partnership under the style Martauco Stamp Company, as successors to the present firm of D. Taussig." Greetings and well wishes.

—"You might be interested to know that the Philatelic Society of the Oranges although only six months old is already one of the largest clubs in the United States having regular meetings, and this in view of the fact that we accept junior members only on special occasions and have at present but two on our membership roster. On April first we will hold an entertainment and auction sale at the club rooms. For music we have the Newark Post Office Colored Five in addition to any talent among our members. The auction sale consists of about 325 lots included in which are many desirable stamps. All members and other philatelists who are able are cordially invited to attend. The catalogue, which will be out in a few days, gives full directions for reaching East Orange by train and trolley." —JOHN G. JEWETT.

—"I have discovered a few new values among Wichita, Kans., precanceled:

50 cent normal, 50 cent reading up, $1.00 normal, $1.00 inverted and $1.00 both inverted and normal on the same copy. These are all roller type and used by the Coleman Lamp Co. This company uses all values, and the rollers are issued at the post office."—C. H. PAULEY.

HENNIG VERSUS RAGATZ.

By ARTHUR BRAND.

I regret that you give space in your highly esteemed journal to a dispute between two dealers, Karl Hennig and Lowell J. Ragatz, the latter claiming that German dealers are charging American collectors much more than they are German collectors for the same thing.

My interest in the matter is only that of the average general collector who is pleased to spend a few dollars each month in acquiring good stamps. I do not wish the cheapest stamps, as in my early days of collecting I learned that when I sought cheap stamps I got exactly what I looked for, CHEAP stamps. Nor do I wish to be exploited by stamp profiteers.

Mr. Ragatz in his article in your last copy infers that stamps may be purchased much more cheaply in Germany than in this country, even for one-fourth or one-fifth of the price. I have purchased a few stamps from Mr. Hennig of Weimar, Germany, and find that his prices compare quite well with those of American dealers—no great bargains, but good stamps at a decent price. After buying a few stamps from him, (or from some other correspondent), I usually visit one or two of our local dealers to fill in those blank spaces, which I might otherwise not have done Now if it be true, as Mr. Ragatz claims, that stamps may be purchased for a much smaller sum in other countries, it is evident that the American collector has been subjected to a systematic course of profiteering, as it is impossible for him to purchase stamps here for less than he must pay to foreign dealers, except, perhaps, in the matter of an occasional stamp.

Mr. Ragatz is careful not to state in his said article that German dealers ask more for their stamps than do American dealers, and therefore the inference that there is something wrong to the detriment of the collector is very strong.

For the good of philately it were well to drop the discussion, as the general collector is very apt to place his hobby in the same class as baseball and industries which have recently been the subject of investigation for the benefit of the general public.

I do not ask that this letter be published, but if it should be, it should serve as a warning to dealers not to abuse each other, for the simple reason that the more one dealer sells the more his competitor is likely to dispose of because of those vacant spaces. And when dealers fall out, the collector is apt to learn the truth.

THE CLASS IN GEOGRAPHY.

By T. RUSSELL HUNGERFORD.

Answers to some of the questions propounded by L. H. Brigham in regard to new stamp-issuing countries, may be found in an excellent statistical table by O. P. Austin, statistician of the National City Bank, New York, reproduced in the February, 1920, issue of the American Philatelist. In it are listed more than fifty new countries, states, or political divisions as a result of the world war. Luckily all of them have not issued postage stamps. Information is also given concerning their approximate area, population, government, race, and the country or countries of which they were formerly a part. Thirty of these new nationalities have declared themselves republics, twenty republics (so-called) having been carved out of Russia alone. Fourteen other units have been set up in Asia Minor and Arabia, formerly the Turkish Empire.

Another source of information is a series of excellent, full page, colored maps of new European nations that have appeared in the Literary Digest at various times since Oct. 16, 1920. They show the exact boundaries as established by the peace treaty, the territory acquired, and that still subject to disposition by plebiscite. There is also valuable descriptive reading matter.

A third source of information might be the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C., to those who are members of the Society.

Regarding Mr. Brigham's question as to how many of the countries named have had their name changed, become extinct, etc., it is believed they are all still "on the map," philatelically, at least.

Additions to the list, as given, are the Republic of Georgia; South Russia, including the Don Cossack, Kuban, and Taurida Provinces, according to the catalogue; Ingermanland, in the region of Finland; and the Free Cities of Danzig and Fiume. The latter, however, having capitulated to the Italians, will probably cease to have a special issue of stamps. Other special issues have been those for plebiscites in Schleswig, a district between Denmark and Germany, which resulted in a victory for Denmark: Allenstein and Marienwerder, cities in East Prussia; and Upper Silesia, lying between Germany, Poland and Czecho-Slovakia, where a plebiscite is shortly to be held as between Germany and Poland, and should the vote be in favor of Poland, Czecho-Slovakia will receive a small part of the territory involved. Stamps of Czecho-Slovakia have been overprinted "S.O.", signifying Silesia Ober (or Upper), and those of Poland have likewise been surcharged. Eupen and Malmedy, small districts lying between Belgium and Germany, and awarded to Belgium as a result of the war, have special issues. The Sarre Basin, between France and Germany, containing valuable coal mines, awarded to France under the peace treaty with a plebiscite after 15 years as between Germany, France, and the League of Nations, has so far had three issues of stamps—Sarre on Bavaria, Sarre on Germany, and "Saargebiet" on Germany. Memel, a small district at the extreme eastern end of East Prussia, ceded to the Allies by Germany, is using French and German stamps overprinted "Memel." Klagenfurt, a small district between the new Republic of Austria and Jugo-Slavia, and lying almost equally on each side of the River Drave, is another plebiscite country. Libia and Liechtenstein named by Mr. Brigham, both had special stamps before the world war, the latter then being a province in Austria-Hungary, but now having a more determined status. Western Silesia is probably intended for Upper Silesia.

As to the location of the various new stamp-issuing countries, for the benefit of those not having access to latest maps, Armenia might be designated as that part of the former Turkish Empire in Asia Minor at the eastern end of the Black Sea. Its name is mentioned in the Bible, and there is found Mt. Ararat, where, according to Genesis, rested the Ark after the flood, "in the seventh month on the seventeenth day of the month." Its present area is about 75,000 square miles, and estimated population 2,500,000. Form of government is yet undetermined, but will probably be a republic. Its boundary line with Turkey was recently submitted to President Wilson for decision, and while the status of the country was very definitely determined by the peace conference, late reports would indicate that it is still overrun by the Turks.

Adjoining it on the east is the Republic of Georgia, with about the same population and half the area. It lies south of the Caucasus Mountains and was formerly part of Russia in Europe. In the same vicinity is the Republic of Azerbaidjan, formed of Russian and Persian territory.

Batum is a city on the eastern shore of the Black Sea, the center of a rich oil-producing district. For a time it was under British occupation, but has since been evacuated, and is now a subject for disputed possession between the Georgian Republic and the Russian Bolsheviki.

Cilicia, Syria, Palestine, and Mesopotamia are all in Asia Minor, and were formerly part of the Turkish Empire. Cilicia is a very ancient province, mentioned in the Bible in connection with the journeys of the Apostles, and contains the city of Tarsus, of which St. Paul was a native. It lies along the southern coast of Asia Minor, directly above the Island of Cyprus. It is now under French authority, by mandate of the League of Nations, as is also Syria, which adjoins it on the south, extending down the coast a little below Damascus, until it reaches the British mandate over Palestine. Its area is about 37,000 sq. miles, and population about 1,000,000. while that of Palestine is given as 16,000 square miles, with a population estimated at 500,000. Mesopotamia, also a very ancient country, lies to the east of Palestine, across the Syrian Desert, and is drained by the River Euphrates. It contains the cities of Bagdad, Mosul and Iraq, for which distinctive issues of stamps have been made, and is also under British administration.

Hedjaz is that part of Arabia lying along the Red Sea in the vicinity of Mecca. It is a kingdom, Hussein Ben Ali being the reigning monarch, who, however, it is reported, has threatened to abdicate if his claims to Arabia are not settled by March 31st, next.

A new map of Czecho-Slovakia, in the Literary Digest of Oct. 30, 1920, shows it embraces the former Austrian provinces of Bohemia, Moravia, Slovakia, part of Silesia and Carpathia. It has an estimated area of 56,316 square miles, and 14,000,000 inhabitants. The government is a republic, and Prof. T. G. Masaryk its first President.

Jugo-Slavia, or Southern Slavs, is a kingdom lying along the eastern shore of the Adriatic, and embraces the former territory of Serbia, Montenegro, Bosnia and Herzegovina, and part of Hungary. Area is about 85,000 square miles, and population 10,500,000.

Esthonia, Latvia, and Lithuania are former Russian provinces on the Baltic Sea and Gulf of Riga, which have established republican form of government and been recognized by some of the great powers. Esthonia's population is reckoned at 1,750,000, that of Latvia at 1,500,000, while the Lithuanians number 10,000,000. Adjoining them on the south is the new Republic of Poland, made up from parts of Russia, Germany and Austria-Hungary, with an outlet on the Baltic Sea in the vicinity of Danzig. Its population is estimated at 36,000,000, and until recently Ignace Paderewski, the noted pianist, was its first President.

The Ukrainian Republic and Western Ukrainia with an estimated population of 30,000,000, lie to the south of Poland and east of Roumania, extending to the Black Sea, and embrace parts of Russian and Austrian territory.

Two issues of stamps were made for the armies occupying the northwest part of Russia in the vicinity of Petrograd, while fighting the Bolsheviki, but the latter overwhelmed them, and the issues were short lived. The "O. K. C. A." stamps issued by the Financial Dept. of the Army of the North are stated to have done legitimate postal duty between September and December, 1919, in the territory lying between Pskoff and Ligovo, occupied by the Army of Gen. Judenitsh. They were printed in the establishment of B. Mäns, at Reval, to the number of 3,000,000.

The postal necessity for some of these issues will ever be a debatable question, and only time will reveal their true status. As to the financial necessity there can be no doubt. Probably all of them did some postal duty, and the question is how much use must an issue of stamps have to remove it from the speculative class? Many present day new issues about which there is suspicion probably have as much, if not more, proportionate use as some of the older and much-sought-after classics.

EDITORIAL.

Trip—The editor was given an invitation to visit friends in Florida for a few weeks and even though a railroad ticket did not accompany the bid, we succeeded in getting a few of our advertisers to advance money on coming bills and hied ourselves away on our sentimental journey. Who knows, thought we, but that we shall pick up a few Confederates and thus make our trip a profitable one as well as pleasant. Our perfect host said "Yes, yes," when we broached the subject of a small loan for the return trip and he tendered the money most heartily. We shall pay him back when we sell the Confeds that we ferreted out. We were in St. Augustine when President Harding was there, but as that was just a day or two before his inauguration, we thought it best not to ask him for a message to the readers of the WEEKLY. The South has some collectors who do not take kindly to the prices of Confederate stamps in the catalogue; and it is needless to say that they do not believe them to be too high. Naturally, collectors there value the stamps of the Confederacy greatly; and in fact, the price expectations for stamps of the kind are such as to give the snap-hunter pause. Yet by patience, one may usually pick up a few things advantageously. While there are a good many collectors in the South, we are not thinking of putting newsboys on the streets of the cities there solely to sell the WEEKLY.

Suit—The suit of Bela Szekula against a French stamp paper for alleged defamation of character is docketed for hearing in the French courts on April 7, 1921, we learn from our London contemporary, Stamp Collecting. Too, writs for libel have been served on the proprietors and printers of Stamp Collecting for reprinting the paragraph cited as libelous by Szekula from the French journal; and as Stamp Collecting will defend its course in the English courts, the proprietor of the journal, Mr. F. Hugh Vallancey, 89 Farringdon Street, E. C. 4, London, would welcome any communication germane to the subject, marked "Confidential." We understand that the libel laws of Great Britain are not so elastic as those of this country, and it will be interesting to follow the argument levelled against the plea of "fair comment" that in all probability will be made by the publishers of Stamp Collecting.

Revalued—Our good old confrere, Mr. William W. Randall, is doing yeoman service in systematizing the study of the provisional postal cards, 1c on 2c red. He leaves no stone unturned in his search for material and his perseverance has been rewarded, as his article, compiled from official data, provides a record that even the government should be interested in knowing of, as it certainly has no compilation of the variations that entered into the revaluation of the cards. We are very glad that Mr. Randall is back in philately after an absence of seven years, as he has opinions that are worth attention and one of them is that the catalogue should by all means give space to the issues of our postal cards,—and who do not agree with him?

Point—The Hartford Daily Courant stands forth in our mind as an intelligent commentator on stamp subjects and its columns yield a good many observations on postal subjects that are worth quoting. Some weeks ago, in an editorial, "Some New Engravings," the Courant spoke on the Pilgrim stamps and dwelled upon the omission of "any reference whatever to postage or to the United States of America" and said that "on the face of the matter, the engravings do not seem really to be postage stamps except as they are accepted as such by a kindly government." The contention is made that so far as the "native of New Zealand" was concerned, the absence of any legend of nationality would lead him to think that the labels were advertising or commercial posters and were without national paternity. Collectors were aware of this slap at tradition and for a time thought that there would be a change made in the stamps, but the department denied that alteration was in view. A departmental order was issued recently to the effect that there was a considerable stock of the special stamps on hand and postmasters were asked to draw requisitions on the stamps in order that they be circulated.

Up—We remember when the collecting or rather amassing of a million stamps was deemed a task worthy of wondering comment, but times have changed and we find that a London dealer nonchalantly offers 425,000,000 stamps for sale, some of which may be had as low as six and one-half pounds a million. At times we have heard collectors carried away by the comforts of their stamp dens, say sighfully that they would like to have the walls of their sanctums papered with stamps and thereby follow the example of illustrious patrons of philately. We should say that here is their opportunity, although we have no statistics as to the number of stamps required for a job of the kind.

Far—The universality of philately is a theme that has been zealously exploited by the philatelic scribe and occasionally we utter this bromidic sentiment when what may be called faraway philately is brought to our door. From Mr. T. H. Goodspeed, Berkeley, California, we have received a batch of clippings on stamp subjects from the newspaper, The Pioneer, of Gwalior. A rattling stamp story, "Adventures in Search of a Stamp," contributed by Philatelist, arrests our eye, and thinking that our readers will like its "atmosphere," we shall make provision for its publication this week or next.

China—In the course of a letter from Mr. Theodore Siddall, Shanghai, China, publisher of Stamp Topics, we learn that not many of the Chinese Famine Relief Stamps which were issued December 1st, are being used, as their employment is optional. However, as the money order fees have been raised from 1 to 1½% and the registration fee from five to six cents, on behalf of the fund, a good revenue comes from the post office. Mr. Siddall says that there is a report, which he hopes soon to confirm, that the Chinese post office will issue special air-mail stamps for the air service, which is slated to start on May 1st, when it is proposed to issue a commemorative set which may run up to the ten dollar value. We gather from letters from the Far East that interest in stamps is increasing and that collecting is becoming somewhat standardized in countries that are not apt to be regarded by us as within the scope of collecting as we know it. The time may come when it will be necessary to go far off the beaten track to encounter primitive philately.

Mark Re-Valuation—Apropos of the articles recently published in the WEEKLY in connection with the re-valuation of the German mark, John M. Spence sends us a clipping from the European Press published in Bremen. We quote a portion of the article as of timely interest. It will be noted that the registration fee on letters will henceforth be a mark, which foreshadows the general fact that the mark at 24c has passed out of existence. We publish the following: "The Federal Ministry of Posts has just announced the imminent increase of the already prohibitive fees for postal transmission! No wonder that journalists, business-men and all other unfortunates dependent largely on their correspondence for the wherewithal with which to live now-a-days are quaking with dismay. Registration will be a mark henceforth, whilst the postal material sold at the post offices will all have the price of the paper stuck to the sum demanded. Thirty pfen per word is to be taken for ordin telegrams, the minimum per wire to three marks, which is simply exorbita No wonder the postal year shows huge a debit account! Instead of eas communication and assisting trade commerce to pick up the threads outer and inner relations once more, officials are simply throttling indus in their short-sighted efforts to eas budget that is well past praying for

THE LATEST BOUNDARY LINES.

By HAROLD SALZBERG.

I have read Mr. Brigham's questions published in your WEEKLY for Feb. 19 inst, and I have some information which, although small, may be of some use to you or Mr. Brigham.

I am in receipt of a map of Europe and Asia Minor published by the National Geographic Magazine in February of this year. This map, which is about one yard square, was accompanied by a twenty-page article on "The New Map of Europe" by Ralph A. Graves, both being contained in the February issue of the National Geographic. This is the best map of New Europe which I have seen published in the United States since the Peace Conference. It gives the old boundaries, the new boundaries, both decided and undecided, districts subject to plebiscite, and international territories. Specially mounted and indexed copies can be secured from the publishers at $1.50. On the whole, I think the National Geographic Magazine would be a fruitful source for such research work as you require.

In looking over this map I found several districts which are not mentioned in your article. You undoubtedly have heard of them before and may have some reason for omitting them. However, they are or were stamp-issuing districts which have come into existence since the beginning of the war in 1914.

Tangier is now an international territory. While it was under the influence of France who is in control of the surrounding territory of Morocco, a set of French Morocco stamps was overprinted "Tanger" in 1917.

Eupen and Malmedy are new stamp-issuing districts, also. The "Kreise" or district containing these two towns, has been taken from Germany and given to Belgum, who now exercises full sovereignty over it. In January and February of 1920 Belgian postage stamps were surcharged with the names of these two towns, first with both, and then with each separately.

The Saar Basin is another district taken from Germany. It is now mandatory to France. During the first part of 1920 German and Bavarian stamps were overprinted "Saare" or "Saargebiet" for use in this district.

The district of Schleswig has been made famous through its recent plebiscite in which it reverted to Denmark. At the time of the plebiscite issue in January, Schleswig was under international administration. In May of the same year (1920) after the plebiscite, a Danish Re-occupation issue was made.

Trentina and Istria, Fiume and Castellorizo, are new stamp-issuing districts gained by Italy as a result of the war. On November 3, 1918, Italian troops occupied the Irridentist Provinces in accordance with the terms of the Armistice with Austria, and some very notable war issues resulted. Fiume, of course, has been a sore spot with the Peace Conference and the League of Nations. It has finally become "The Free State of Fiume" and is under the administration of a commission composed of Italian and Jugo-Slav members. Stamps have been issued for this state; first under allied occupation; second under the government of the National Council of Italy; thirdly under the administration of D'Annunzio. Through a provision of the Turkish Treaty, the small island of Castellorizo in Asia Minor is acquired by Italy. This island was a part of Turkish Syria, and was occupied by the French on December 28, 1915. French Levant stamps were surcharged B. N. F. Castellorizo during the months of June, July and August, 1920. The island then passed into the hands of Italy, under whose administration no stamps have as yet been issued or, at least, have not appeared.

The Memel district is entrusted to the Allied and Associated Powers at present, as no final settlement of its sovereignty has been made. Postage stamps of France were surcharged "Memel" and new values in German in July, 1920.

Danzig, a free state analogous to Fiume, is considered to be international territory. It is Poland's outlet to the Baltic Sea. A set of German stamps were overprinted "Danzig" in June, 1920, for use in this district.

Perhaps these districts which I have just enumerated are not included in what you mean by new stamp-issuing countries, states or districts, and I may be sending you useless information. Or you may be better aware of the facts concerning these districts than I am. This information was obtained in large measure from the above-mentioned Geographic Magazine, which I believe to be authentic.

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—When the Pilgrim Series of commemorative stamps was first issued to postmasters the department instructed them to distribute the varieties to the patrons of their offices only when the stamps were specifically called for. Mr. Harold B. Howard sends us a clipping from the Washington Star of March 12th, calling attention to the fact that the department has reversed its previous instructions and has ordered the several offices to distribute these commemorative stamps in place of the current issues, unless the ordinary varieties are asked for. This does not mean that the series is to be withdrawn, but it seems that only collectors have been calling for the stamps, and as a result their sales have been extremely limited. The department therefore has quite a surplus stock on hand, and due to the small demand has had few requisitions since the original quantities were sent out.

Many collectors have complained that the stamps have not been on sale at their post office and they seem to blame the department for these discrepancies. If any post office is without them, it is entirely due to the fact that they have not made requisition for them, for they are readily obtainable either through their central accounting station or through Washington. I might take this opportunity of advising our readers that it is useless for them to write to Washington direct for supplies, as the Postmaster of Washington has been refusing to comply with the request of collectors, and has been returning their remittances. It is to be hoped that if the Administration gives us a new Postmaster that he will be more kindly disposed to the philatelists. The present Postmaster, Merritt O. Chance, however, is a Republican if my memory serves me rightly, having been a former Secretary to Elihu Root when the latter was Secretary of War, and was later appointed Chief Clerk of the Post Office Department under a Republican Administration.

Mr. A. Krassa recently showed me a used copy of the 4c Columbian error, showing a distinct shift throughout the stamp. It was thought for a long time that only one sheet of this variety existed, which was the sheet purchased by Mr. Painter some years ago through the Cleveland Post Office. There must have been at least a second sheet, for there are several used copies known, used from other cities. Professor J. L. Neufeld has in his collection a very fine used copy which he found among common varieties some years ago.

In a letter recently received from Mr. A. B. Slater I have been informed that he is preparing an article on the Providence stamps which will be fully illustrated, showing cuts of all the known covers of the Providence emission. While Mr. Slater is acquainted with the whereabouts of most of the well known covers, it is more than likely that some of these are in the smaller collections and are not generally known to the philatelic public. May we not, in the interest of philately, ask for detailed information regarding such covers in the hands of our readers which covers have not been seen by Mr. Slater?

Mr. F. H. Lord, as well as Mr. J. M. Bartels, writes to advise that they have located the 4c current circular die envelope on blue. This has heretofore been known on amber and white but has only recently been found on blue. The envelope is on the new watermark paper, and is of course Die A, for there is only one die of this denomination. The variety is on size 8.

Mr. R. C. Hoyt has sent quite a few overprinted 2c on 3c provisional envelopes from Omaha. Our list from this city heretofore has been exceedingly small, for the envelopes were overprinted and sold before they were discovered by collectors. We are certainly most pleased to learn of these varieties, all of which, with the exception of size 9, have imprints in the corner. Mr. J. M. Bartels has shown us a copy of the Frederick overprint on Die F. These envelopes have been listed heretofore on A, E and H on white and A on amber, but this is the first Die F that has come to our attention. Mr. M. Ray Sanborn writes to advise that while all of their envelopes were sent from New Haven to New York to be overprinted, they have received a die for overprinting the nine million postal cards, and he kindly sends one for our inspection.

I Wish to BUY OR SELL Fine Stamps of All Countries

I offer and am in the market for unusual pieces, such as blocks, covers, errors, in 19th Century U. S., British Colonies, Early European. Special attention given want lists. Try me for hard ones. [H

J. O. MOORE, Inc., RHEIMS, N. Y.

FINLAND.—We are advised by Frank P. Brown Co. that they have just received the following provisionals of this country: 30p on 10p green, 60p on 40p lilac, 90p on 20p rose and 1½m on 50p blue.

FIUME.—Lewis Carabott informs us that the 20c d'Annunzio type has been surcharged in two lines:—"Governo Provisorio."

LATVIA.—Mr. K. Lindsay has shown us the 50k of the last commemorative set with the surcharge "DIVI 2 Rub. 2" in two lines in blue.

Frank P. Brown Co. advise us that they have just had come to hand the current type stamp in 40k lilac.

MALTA.—We are indebted to Frank P. Brown Co. and Mr. Louis Carabott for submitting to us for chronicle a copy of the new type 2d stamp issued the 16th of last month. The figures of value are within a shield shaped frame and the wording at the base is in a somewhat different setting. On each side, half way down, is a small cross shaped figure. The color is a much lighter grey than the former one.

MONACO.—We are informed by Mr. Henry Hooreman that he hears from official sources that the values 15c, 75c and the new shade deep violet 5frs are now exhausted and will soon re-appear with a surcharge on the occasion of the baptism-christening of the young Princess of Monaco.

MOZAMBIQUE.—On the occasion of the anniversary of the declaration of Portuguese Independence, the Governor of the province of Mozambique, having been duly authorized by the Minister for the Colonies, ordered, by decree of October 23rd, 1920, the issue of stamps bearing the legend: "Mutilados de Guerra—Assistencia Social—1. 12. 1920", the proceeds of their sale being devoted equally among disabled soldiers and the "Compagnie d'Assistance Sociale."

The values and printings are as follows:—

¼, ½, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6c (12,000).
7½, 8, 10, 12 and 18c (11,000).
24, 30, 40, 50c and 1e (10,000).

These stamps were sold on one day only, December 1st, 1920, and were only available for correspondence for the interior of the Colony.—Stamp Collecting.

NAURU.—Messrs. J. H. Smyth received cable advice from Pleasant Island early in December to the effect that a fresh consignment of the 2s 6d value Bradbury print, had arrived there; these printings, it will be remembered, are in a lighter shade than the previous issue. —Stamp Collecting.

NYASSA.—A "magnificent new series" printed in two colours and ranging from ½ centavo to 1 escudo, is imminent. The subjects to be depicted include a portrait of Vasco da Gama, giraffes, zebras, &c.—Stamp Collecting.

POLAND.—We are informed by Frank P. Brown Co. that they have recently received the current set of this country surcharged with the likeness of some of the native warriors.

SAARGEBIET.—Mr. P. J. Kranz has shown us the 30pf postal card of the new type. The color is brown and the stamp shows a canal or river running through the hills and valleys of the country.

Mr. K. Lindsay has submitted to us for chronicle the 75pf Germania type stamp surcharged for use in this district with the additional overprint "20" with stars in the upper corners obliterating the former value. The color of the surcharge is black.

Mr. P. J. Kranz also includes a copy of the new 40pf, red, postal card which shows a hill in the distance and which, he is advised by his brother, who resides in Merzig, that the scene is an artificial hill called Schlackenberg, near the town of Voelklingen, on the river Saar. The hill is in reality the dump of the large iron works at that place.

Mr. Kranz has shown us the 40pf stamp of the new type which is the same as the post card recently issued. The color is red.

Frank P. Brown Co. and Mr. Kranz advise that the following stamps of the Germania type have been overprinted "Saargebiet": 5pf claret, 10pf orange, 20pf green, 30pf blue, 40pf red. Also the 4m chronicled a few weeks ago. The 15pf claret has the overprint "Mark 5 Mark" at the top and at the base a coat of arms and "Saargebiet" in larger type. The same value has also been surcharged "Mark 10 Mark" with the same overprint at the bottom as with the 5 mark.

SIAM.—Mr. R. Roberts advises us that he has received the following values of the "Scouts Fund" issue: 2s, 3s, 5s, 10s, 15s, 25s and 50s.

A WORD ABOUT OUR BOOKS.

Philatelic Dictionary.—It has been a matter of great regret that for the time being work has been halted on the Dictionary, and this paragraph will answer many letters which have come to this office as well as quiet the fears of many others who are interested in this book. The work was apparently completed last summer and we expected that the book would appear in the fall. This was prevented through a combination of circumstances, the most prominent being the fact that our printing office was sorely pressed in the publishing of a 16-page WEEKLY. Shortness of hours of labor and scarcity of help only added to our troubles. The Managing Editor expects to prepare some Addenda covering the past year in view of the delay in publication. This will appear in early numbers of the WEEKLY. We regret that we have been unable to close up this important publication, but no harm has been done, and the book will be all the more complete with the numerous additions that will be possible based on last year's philatelic developments. Any subscriber wishing to see the scope of the book can have the section comprising letters C to G for the nominal sum of 10c. The completed book will cost around $2.

China.—Mr. Howes informs us that the concluding chapters of this work may soon be expected. Rapid progress with this book has not been possible. The book will be a distinct addition to philatelic literature when published.

We have two Perry books in the making. One is in metal all ready for paging up, and the other is his great book on Match and Medicines, which will be published in two parts. The first part will be devoted to general information and match stamps, while the other will cover medicine stamps.

Panama.—Mr. Heydon's serial has not been lost, it is simply quiescent. The text of this book is a fussy job and the tables a trial to the printer. The best we can promise is that the book will be issued when conditions in the printing office will permit.

Nova Scotia.—This book by Poole is being paged up, and as the presswork is an easy proposition, the book will shortly appear.

Other Books.—The booklets on Ship Stamps, Aero Stamps, Crete and Newfoundland will shortly be issued. Ward's book on U. S. Coil Stamps will include machine perforations and has yet to be concluded.

FIRST CLASS PERMITS.

By JEROME FLEISCHER.

The attention of the writer was recently called to an article published regarding First Class Permits.

The only Permits coming to my notice were those of Baltimore, Md., No. 1—dated Feb. 4, Feb. 16th, etc. Baltimore, Md., No. 2 is also dated Feb. 16th—perhaps either party used the Permits on earlier dates, and are now using same at intervals.

The regulations provide that 300 or more pieces of First-Class matter must be sent on one day, (but other mail can be sent with regular postage stamp affixed at any time). "If no mailing be made under this Permit for a period of twelve months, its surrender for cancellation will be requested."

At first it was intended that the same Permit number as used for 2nd, 3rd or 4th class matter should be given for the First Class Permits. Later this was changed so that each city starts with No. 1.

Several styles of machines are used and are furnished at the option of the holder of Permit.

The Post Office Dept. has tried to encourage a wider use of these Permits. Some applications were refused, due to the fact that the applicants failed to comply with regulations.

The P. O. Dept. will furnish the machines gratis, so that the only expense incurred by user is cost of metal date stamp in center, which must be changed whenever a mailing is made on a new date. It is not compulsory that it must be used daily. If used once a month, it would be of some assistance all around, especially when statements, etc., are sent out at beginning of each month, or at any time when mail exceeds 300 or more pieces.

MY HOBBY.

By JACK WILLIAMS.

It's very seldom that a kid
Busts in this colyum, we will say,
For anything he may have did
On this or any other day!
Unless he cuts his mother's throat,
Or blows a box in some big bank,
Or drowns his sister in the moat,—
We cannot let a younker swank.

But here we have a high-bred lad
Who's not a member of the tramps;
Who boyishly would get in bad
—He only stalls collecting stamps!
He counts 'em over, hour by hour;
A sort of Rosary, you know,
Which makes his father rather sour
—For precious stamps cost precious dough!

Sevier, his papa, maybe owes
His butcher and his baker much,
But overboard each statement goes
For Jackie's philatelic touch!
While beef-steaks may be out of style,
The latest prints of stamps are in
The Williams live on hay a while—
As Jack fills up his album bin!

BOSTON AND NEW YORK, ATTENTION!

The collectors of Boston and New York are urged to bear in mind that full sets of our handbooks are on sale in their respective cities. Boston collectors should call at the office of the New England Stamp Co., 387 Washington St., and New York collectors at the Economist Stamp Co., 87 Nassau St. We have now published some thirty-five books all uniform in size but each possessing an individuality that is attractive. All of the books are authoritative and many of them gems of typographical work. From the latter standpoint we can especially mention "Range Tales," "Stamps of Great Britain" and "U. S. 3c Green."

THE STORY ON A STAMP.

The "mandate for Palestine"—otherwise the British official scheme for the government of the ancient home of the Jews—provides for what will certainly be a curiosity in postage stamps—namely, a stamp upon which the descriptive statement will be printed or engraved in three languages. There are already stamps on which words are found both in English and in Arabic, Turkish and certain Indian tongues, and doubtless other bi-lingual stamps; but as yet none, we believe, in which the legend is tri-lingual. But one requirement of the Palestine mandate is as follows: "English, Arabic and Hebrew will be the official languages of Palestine; any statement or inscription in Arabic on stamps or money in Palestine shall be repeated in Hebrew, and any statement or inscription in Hebrew shall be repeated in Arabic." Inasmuch as a British protectorate will scarcely employ stamps which are not first of all marked in English, we may look forward to a Palestine stamp which will be inscribed first of all in the ancient tongue of Israel, then in the imperial language of England, and finally in the tongue of the sons of the desert, who have come in to occupy the fields that once flowered and fruited only for the subjects of King David.

The tri-lingual inscription on the Palestinian postage stamp will in itself tell a long story. Nothing could be more romantic than the Hebrew official return to the land of Canaan, where Abraham is supposed to have been established by the divine command 1644 years before Christ, or some 3564 years before a Jewish governor returned once more to Canaan, and the official revival of the ancient tongue, which even at the time of Jesus was already a dead language, having been supplanted by Aramaic. In simple fact, the use of Hebrew on the stamps of Palestine would correspond very closely to the marking of the stamps of England in Latin, for the reason that Latin was the official tongue of the country under the Roman Empire. But as the Zionists have chosen to revive the Hebrew as their official language, the written or printed messages of the children of Abraham will now be borne on their way by the aid of the tongue of David and Solomon.

Scarcely less interesting is the official use of the tongue of Arabia in the Holy Land. Arabic is in fact a Semitic tongue kindred to the Hebrew, but now differing greatly from it. The Arabs are the aboriginal inhabitants of the general region. Biblically, they are the sons of Ishmael, and therefore of Abraham, as are also the Jews; the kinship is there; but historically they are comparatively late comers in Palestine, having swept in and occupied the lands from which more "civilized" inhabitants had been driven. There they are now much at home; and yet if the plans of Jewish re-occupation of the ancient land of Israel are carried out, the Arabic is destined to disappear in time from the Palestinian stamp. Little by little the Jews will increase in numbers until they are preponderant, and who can doubt that eventually the sovereignty will pass to them, and that the Arabs will, family by family, fold their tents and silently fade away from Zion?—Boston Transcript.

he 1c, 2c, 3c, 6c, 12c and 15c stamps upright rectangles, while the other es have the design treated in hori- tal oblongs.

he 1c, 2c and 5c were printed in ts of 200 stamps, two panes of 100 (10 x 10), separated by a margin suring 38 mm. This margin was rwards cut down the middle to form Post Office sheets of 100 stamps . The other values were printed m stones of 100 subjects only. At t one sheet of the 1c (perf. 12 x11) ped this separating feature, and was to the island as a 200-stamp sheet, issued.

s first issued all values were perfo- d 12, horizontally as well as verti- , but later consignments of the 1c, nd 5c (those values printed from the subject stones) came in a variety of orations, i. e.

2c, normal 12.

ll four varieties of the 1c show the NEWFOUNDLAND error on the 41st p of the right hand pane.

orizontal pairs of the 1c and 2c 14 exist with the vertical perfora- missing; a block of the 1c is also wn variously perforated 11, 11½, 12, and 14, probably printer's waste sent to St. John's and issued in error.

he 6c is another value which at- ted much attention at the time. In first printing, which was very small, word COLONIZATION was shown a reversed "Z"—or a malformed —in addition to numerous flaws. second printing had the "Z" par-

U. S. POSTAL CARDS
HAVE "COME BACK"

After three months spent in compiling a list of the present provisional U. S. Postal Cards, I've come to the conclusion that U. S. Postal Cards are once again in favor with U. S. Collectors.

I have commenced the compilation of the regular issues 1873-1920 U. S. Postal Cards. Would be glad to hear from collectors, and inspect their collections of U. S. only. (Errors, proofs, etc., included). Bright's Cat., London, and Senf's Cat., Leipzig, list all U. S. Postal Cards.

WILLIAM W. RANDALL, TIMES SQ. P O., NEW YORK

tially corrected, but the flaws still appeared. Not until a third stone was made up were the flaws eliminated and the "Z" correctly formed.

At least one sheet of the 6c first printing was sent out imperforate and issued by the St. John's office.

The 6c and 10c exhausted in December, and by February only the 1c, 2c, 3c, 4c, 5c and 8c were to be had.

VII.—GUY SERIES, ENGRAVED, 1911.

On January 31st, 1911, the 6c was received at St. John's, printed from engraved plates, followed by the 8c, 9c, 10c, 12c and 15c a week later. The stamps are perforated 14 (single line machine), and printed on a hard white paper, in deeper shades than used for the lithographed series.

	Lithographed.	Engraved
6c	claret	brown claret
8c	bistre	bistre brown
9c	olive green	olive green
10c	slate	black
12c	pale-brown	red brown
15c	black	slate green

The 6c has the "Z" corrected, and in addition the background of the tablet at the bottom is colorless instead of being composed of vertical lines, as in the lithographed printing. The lettering SIX CENTS has also been strengthened.

The printing from engraved plates was very small, for in June the 10c exhausted, followed by the 8c in September, and by November no more 6c, 9c, 12c or 15c were to be had. The 1c, 2c, 3c, 4c and 5c continued on sale, but only in lithographed state.

Due to the short currency of this series, in lithographed and engraved form, they quickly appreciated in value, and in large blocks are especially desirable

VIII.—CORONATION SERIES, 1911.

The issue of the stamps of this series was announced by advertising in the St. John's daily papers of June 14th.

"(Royal Arms)
GENERAL POST OFFICE.
New Issue Coronation Postage Stamps.

Commencing Monday, the 19th inst., a New Issue of Postage Stamps, issued to commemorate the Coronation of King George V, will be on sale to the public. The issue will comprise 11 denominations, as follows:—

1 cent, design Queen Mary
2 cent, design King George.
3 cent, design Prince of Wales.
4 cent, design Prince Albert.
5 cent, design Princess Mary.
6 cent, design Prince Henry.
8 cent, design Prince George.
9 cent, design Prince John.
10 cent, design Queen Alexandra.
12 cent, design Duke of Connaught.
15 cent, design Arms of Newfoundland.

H. J. B. WOODS,
Postmaster General.

Jne. 14. 31.
Chronicle."

All values but the 15c were upright rectangular in form, this value being treated in a horizontal oblong.

The Prince of Wales had already been pictured on the stamps of Newfoundland, on the ½c value of the Royal Series, 1897, when he was 3 years old. The new portrait is full-face, showing him wearing a midshipman's cap.

Unfortunately in most values the frame design is elaborated at the expense of crowding the center portraits. The colors used were strong, and in some cases peculiar to stamp printing, but there is a decided improvement over those used for the preceding Guy series.

Considerable doubt has been expressed as to the printers of the Coronation series, and Gibbons' catalogue lists the stamps as engraved and printed by Messrs. De La Rue & Co., but this is not correct. The postage stamp printing contract was in the hands of Messrs. Whitehead, Morris & Co., Ltd., London, and the Coronation series was produced by them from line engraved plates.

The stamps were printed in sheets of 100 stamps (10 x 10), with plain margins save for the cross marks for quartering purposes. The 1c, 2c, 3c, 4c, 5c and 10c were perforated by a comb machine gauging 13½x14, while the others were done on a single line machine, gauging 14.

One printing only was made of all values save 1c, 2c, and 8c. Shades may be found of the 1c and 2c. The first printing of the 8c was in aniline blue, with color showing through to the back. A subsequent printing, which arrived in St. John's in early September, 1911, was in blue green with white back. At least one sheet of the 15c was sent out in imperforate condition.

The stamps of this series were in general use until exhausted, concurrently with remainders of previous series. In May, 1918, only the 1c, 2c and 5c Coronation remained, and these were the only stamps of these denominations in use at the time. By the end of the year these, too, had exhausted.

It is needless to say that the Post Office revenue was considerably swelled by the sale of stamps of these three series (Guy lithographed and engraved, and Coronation) issued within the twelve months ending June 30, 1911. In the previous year (1909-1910) the stamp sales had been $86,954.96, while for the year 1910-1911—

"The sale of postage stamps increased during the year more than in any two years previous, owing principally to the great demand for our new issues abroad. Every mail large orders were received for sets of the Guy and Coronation issues, from dealers and stamp collectors all over the world. The total value of postage stamps and post cards sold for the year amounted to $115,813 16, being an increase of $28,858.20 over the sales of the previous year."

Three symbols with a very big meaning,—and a standard to which I live up.

When I state that I excel, I do not mean to imply that I have the largest of stocks (less than two years ago I was in uniform on the Rhine, and to accumulate a stock such as I carry takes time; were I handling New Europe the business might be easier, but my conscience not so clear). But I do excel in Service and Condition—which are prime factors in this business.

POSTAL CARD COLLECTING.

By S. SCHACHNE, Chillicothe, Ohio.

I have been asked to write an article for the "Postal Card Special," on what I know about postal card collecting. In the first place let me tell your readers, that I am not a writer, but a postal card collector and dealer for many years. But I will do the best I can with the subject which for many years has been so near and dear to my heart.

Postal card collecting has been acknowledged the most fascinating branch of philately, and a well arranged collection of unused government postal cards and letter sheets, from the point of beauty, will compare favorably with, if not exceed the average collection of stamps. Aside from the government stamp, a postal card possesses other attractions. As a background the card itself is generally of a fine texture and a delicate tint; is far superior to the narrow border of paper which surrounds the adhesive postage stamp; neither has the postage stamp an equivalent to the postal card's interesting inscription and illustration. A glance at a postage stamp album and then at a book of postal cards and letter sheets, will suffice to establish this point which I claim.

The advantages of postal card collecting are numerous. One reason why this interesting branch of philately is gaining so much in popularity, and has assumed such large dimensions of late years, is because many philatelists are becoming weary with the large number of unnecessary speculative postage stamps. Besides, to collect even part of the world's stamps has gotten to be a rich man's fad. As to postal cards, a fairly complete collection of the world's principal countries can be secured for a moderate sum, while a complete collection of all cards issued by the U. S. since 1873, can be gotten together for a hundred dollars or less—including the current surcharged issues by the postmasters. I have advocated the collection of U. S. and foreign postal cards, for more than a quarter of a century, when I first took up the hobby as a collector-dealer.

The recent re-valuing of the stocks of 2 cent Jefferson, and 2 cent Martha and George reply cards, by the government, has revived interest in the U. S. postal cards, more than a hundred fold, and I expect to see hundreds take up the collecting of the cards of our country, who may not go into the foreign issues. I can tell the popular pulse on this subject, for my mail has increased by leaps and bounds since it was announced that William W. Randall, the well known philatelist, was compiling an official list of these interesting postal cards for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY, for early publication.

For myself, with becoming modesty, I will say, that I bought out the postal card business of Adolph Lohmeyer, Baltimore, in 1906, and in 1911, I took over all the postal card stock of the Scott Stamp and Coin Co., both foreign and U. S. I admit owning the largest postal card collection and stock in the world. Two of the finest collections of postal cards, H. P. Agee, Hope, Ark, and Alfred Michael, Chicago, I might say were among the most notable I have acquired. I joined the postal card Society of America, in 1895, and would advise all interested in postal cards to join also. All we need is recognition in stamp catalogues; if not in Scott's, collectors will find Bright's and Senf's have all U. S. and foreign cards listed and priced.

MORE EXTRACTS.

By D. N. JOHNSON.

O. S. Marden in "Pushing to the Front":—"Haste, post, haste! Haste for thy life!" was frequently written upon messages in the days of Henry VIII of England, with a picture of a carrier swinging from a gibbet. Post offices were unknown, and letters were carried by government messengers subject to hanging if they delayed upon the road."

From "Autobiography of Benjamin Franklin":—"As Postmaster General of the colonies he found a rudimentary organization, practically without system and wholly inadequate; he created a comprehensive and thorough system of rapid mail communication and delivery, and met the public needs with characteristic shrewdness and inventiveness."

I quote the following from the "World Book":—"Bibliomania, a term derived from two Greek words meaning book and madness. It is used to denote the passion a person may display for collecting books, not for the interest or helpfulness of their contents but rather for their rarity." And yet they laugh at us!

EDITORIAL.

Post Cards—This issue of the WEEKLY is particularly devoted to United States post cards, and we are very glad to pay this tribute to them. It is a branch of collecting that has taken on renewed interest in recent months, and we hope and believe that a still wider interest will prevail as the months come and go. There is no reason why United States envelopes and post cards should not have a larger following. A spirit of patriotism itself should be a sufficient incentive for the collecting of these useful articles in postal service. From the trend of several communications that have reached our office recently, we are convinced that the publishers of the Standard Catalog would perform a useful service for American philately if post cards were listed. The matter of expense in connection with their chronicle is so slight as to be unworthy of consideration. Post card enthusiasts very properly call attention to the many pages given to the listing of telegraph franks, and no comparison is possible between post cards and telegraph franks when considered from a postal or philatelic standpoint. Mr. Randall's article in this number, accompanied as it will be by Mr. Barrett's spendid drawings, will prove a boon to the collectors who have been interested in and followed along the issue of these re-valued cards. We hope this number may be a good missioner for this much neglected sideline of philately.

Squib—The newspaper stories in which the names of Mr. Schwill and Mr. Staub were mentioned evidently have blown up with a bang; and what was alleged to have been a case with a stamp angle by the daily press has dissolved into nothingness, it seems.

* * *

Slurred—From Dr. Lister Tuholske we have received a few clippings that call for vengeance on the part of the philatelic champions. In the National Geographic Magazine's article on Czechoslovakia, mention is made of Prague, a city of arcades; and we find: "No modern arcade in Prague would be complete without a postage-stamp dealer or two whose windows are pock-marked with treasures for the philatelists." Further: "Popular as canceled postage stamps are in Bohemia, the favorite art production nowadays is an American-made thousand-crown note. This charming piece of art has not, like its hundred crown brother, been counterfeited; hence, the man who receives one in change does not have to break his neck while holding it between him and the light to see whether it has a waffle-pattern watermark in it". Our friend says: "The use of the word 'pock-marked' is a little unfortunate. The author evidently thinks us pests". An application blank in a Viennese international exchange club affords the best example of "Englishing" that we have ever met and the first line of the "declaration of entree" provides a line for "fool name".

Consular—There are a number of collectors who attend to the collecting of the American consular fee stamps and it is safe to say that they have not had in mind very strongly the possibility of counterfeits. In "Holland's Diplomatic Problems" in Current History, February, 1921, p. 345, is the statement: "Counterfeit American Consular fee stamps have been discovered in Holland with forged signatures of consuls, proving a widespread conspiracy to smuggle undesirable persons into the United States. The Dutch ports have been regarded by the Bolsheviki as the gateway to America, but they are carefully watched, and hundreds have been turned back." Here is an instance where the philatelic purse was not the objective.

Pictured—Years ago, we read an article from the pen of one of those indefatigable young writers who skirted the philatelic shore, nearly a quarter-century ago (of whom we were one) entitled "Philatelic Pulchritudes". We do not remember how the writer turned his rounded periods or to what fields his fancy led but we do know that in the Chicago Tribune's Beauty Contest the picture of one of the fair competitors appears whose occupation is given as "stamper"

Glass—We notice that a stamp firm abroad advertises a magnifying-glass for stamp work for eight or nine dollars. This figure may seem somewhat high to some of us but not a few of our shrewd collectors have been spending as much for glasses and they will be pleased to know that they may get them at a stamp shop. If there is one excusable bit of self-indulgence for the philatelist, it is the possession of an exquisitely moulded glass; its smooth efficiency charms the philatelic sense and it has a practical advantage, it is not necessary to say. A microscopic eye is a great accessory for the stamp collector.

Collector—In W. L. George's "Caliban," we find several references to stamp collecting and we are pleased to discern that the brilliant author is rather at home in speaking of collecting. At Winchester House where Bulmer, whose pawns later were newspapers, received his education, there were a number of teachers who are described; and among them was Barnes, "gray and spectacled," whose age was such that he was "free from all illusions" of whom it is said: "He also took prep.—that is, he sat down while the boys looked—and page by page he inspected his stamp collection."

Loose—There is a phase of stamp publicity in the outside press that is being looked at askant by those who are interested in promoting the use of stamp information generally. The sort objected to consists of half-truths, sensational statements and irritatingly tolerant allusions that are based on a superficial knowledge of the kinks of philately, if not an absolute ignorance of them. It is maintained that matter of the character in mind does not attract favorable attention to philately, but that is bad advertising, as it were. Those who protest against stuff of this nature are well-advised as its effect is confusing and negative, almost. The criticism brings out more clearly the necessity for a sort of central bureau to be established and conducted by philatelic interests that should meet mis-statement with fact; and combat erroneous references with the correct information. As it is, a number of collectors work independently on this course and do what is in their power to restore the balance, but it is desirable that a bureau under competent and alert management handle the subject. As a clearing-house to receive and give the proper treatment to unfounded utterances, a central station would command respect by its authoritative pronouncements. We think that it is well within the province of the publicity committee of the American Philatelic Society to act upon the suggestion.

Color—Over twenty years ago, Mr. B. W. Warhurst compiled a "Colour Dictionary" that was published by Stanley Gibbons, Limited, which we remember well as almost solving the difficulties attending color definitions of stamps. At the time, Mr. Warhurst wrote us in appreciation of the review of his work that appeared in our paper and said that although he had not attained perfection in his work, he had made a beginning. Later, an enterprising philatelist in St. Paul published a key to stamp colors which was illustrated by the stamps that were specified by country, issue and catalogue number. In this way, a practical chart of colors of some of the commoner stamps was furnished. Now Stanley Gibbons, Limited, have issued a "Colour Guide for Stamp Collectors," consisting of forty-five stamps of standard colours correctly described, and have priced it at two shillings, four pence, postage paid Thus we get down to essentials, and keeping in mind the gradations of tone, the key becomes embracive in its range. In the explanations as to the use of the chart: "By comparison with the standard colour given, he will have no difficulty in grading variations described as dull, bright, deep. pale, etc., bearing in mind the fact that in compound names the second is the predominant and the first the qualifying colour; thus orange yellow designates yellow tending to orange, whilst yellow-orange would describe a redder shade nearer to true orange."

POST CARDS AND THE CATALOG.

By J. N. MORSE, Pres. P. C. S. A.

On another page is an exhaustive article on the history and varieties of our U. S. provisional postal cards, and I congratulate the management on having this new feature. The collection of postal cards should be of equal interest with adhesives, envelopes, entires, etc. It is a well known fact that there are now hundreds of collectors who take cards at every opportunity, but as a side issue only. Why not come out in the open? Why not make them of equal importance? The collection of a country is not complete if postal cards are left out. The additional expense is small.

There are many also who make a speciality of postmarks. What more natural than to find them on any collection of used, entire postal cards, which are practically all of the same size, which should be no small inducement. Now that the U. S. have really entered the provisional field, it is expected that every collector in the U. S. should show their loyalty and patriotism by the acquisition of these cards, and right now is the time to do it before prices are higher.

Now if there is truth in the above the next move is to have a catalog. The last U. S. is 23 years old and the foreign 7 years. The next issue of the Standard will be out soon and why cannot a start be made toward the inclusion of cards either in the work itself or as a supplement? The U. S. alone with this issue in proper detail would make quite a pamphlet, and all will want to know about the many war issues of foreign nations.

If the publishers think this change will be of doubtful financial success I have no doubt assistance can be had from members of our Society and other interested parties. Let us get together now and give the matter a boost. There is no time to lose. Will every member of our Society write me at once, giving their views and suggestions and if willing to give financial aid? Also will be glad to hear from any other interested parties.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—H. P. Atherton submits for our inspection an interesting historical postal souvenir of an oldtime shipwreck. It is a cover postmarked Tralee Island date not decipherable. It shows effects of a weird experience in transit, and a slip is attached from the New York Post Office under date of April 29, 1886 which reads as follows:—"This piece is a portion of the mail forwarded from Queenstown, Ireland per steamer Oregon March 7 and damaged by the sinking of that vessel off Fire Island March 14.—HENRY G. PEARSON, Postmaster."

—Bright & Son, London England, would like to know the present whereabouts of one Boleslaus Szabelski, former proprietor of the Stamp House Walhalla, Neustrelitz, Germany. He left Germany soon after the outbreak of the war and went to Philadelphia. Information as to his location will be glady received.

—The West Philatelean Club of the West Philadelphia High School for Boys has organized for the current term. and the following officers have been elected:—President, Armand N. Spitz and Secretary, J. Braden Quicksall. The club is just starting to collect books and periodicals on philately and hopes to accumulate quite a library.

—William W. Betts, formerly of Clearfield, Pa., has accepted a position with The Stamp Shoppe in Washington, D. C., to take charge of approval business.

On March 15th the International Revenue Stamp Society was organized for the purpose of promoting the interests of the collectors of revenue stamps, both United States and foreign, and to provide a means of exchange of stamps and information relating to that branch of philately.—H. F. GROUT, Box 54, Cambridge, Mass.

TWO BOOK ORDERS.

Eugene Klein of Philadelphia must have a share in the honors of being one of the greatest boosters of W. S. publications. We received recently an order from him for over one hundred books, the largest order ever filed with us by one dealer at a single time. We are glad to recognize this tribute to the worth of our booklets.

Edwin P. Seebohm of San Francisco is also doing excellent work in the same direction and an order for some sixty books was recently received from him We appreciate the co-operation of city dealers like Klein and Seebohm, who will bother with books in the midst of a busy day's activities.

5c RED ERROR, IMPERFORATED

I offer subject to prior sale a beautiful mint block of nine, of the 2c stamps imperforated showing a copy of the 5c error in the center (Scott's No. 394a) in the finest condition. The stamp is one of the rarest United States varieties, and is lacking in more of the large collections than possibly any other 20th Century U. S. stamp. Remember that this is the greatest error in the annals of American Philately, for this is an error in engraving and is not simply an error in printing. Price on application to serious buyers.

Also offer a set of plate number blocks from the same sheet at a most reasonable price. Blocks of four 2c of the error shade from this sheet with my guarantee on the back at 50c per block. An interesting addition to any collection.

If you are in the market for anything in the way of 20th Century U. S. either in blocks or singles, I can no doubt fill your wants. Always in the market to buy anything fine in the way of U. S. either singles, collections or accumulations. The best prices paid for scarce items.

My recent advertisements of mint blocks still hold good.

Copy Must Be In On Time.

We regret that Mr. Ward's copy for this issue reached us too late and a double portion will be in order next week. The attention of department editors, correspondents and advertisers is called to the fact that Wednesday is the last day for receipt of copy for the issue 10 days later. Anything received on Thursday cannot, must not, and will not be used. We are determined to have the paper in the mails each week on the day of the date it bears.

SEVERN-WYLIE-JEWETT CO.

AUSTRIA.—On March 1st a set of charity stamps will be issued in aid of the sufferers from the inundation of Salzburg, consisting of 19 denominations from 5 heller to 20 kronen. They will be sold during a period of fifteen days only, at treble the face value, being valid for postage only for the face value. We do not propose to distribute these stamps through our New Issue Service.—Whitfield King's Monthly List.

AUSTRALIA.—We are informed that the recently issued 1sh 4d stamp was intended mainly for prepayment of telegrams, but as it has the word "postage" in the design, it is also available for postal use. Mr. Smyth also adds that it is extremely difficult to secure these stamps cleanly perforated and well centered.

BELGIUM.—We are indebted to Mr. Henry Hooreman and Messrs. Bright & Son for submitting to us the following provisionals on the issue in use in commemoraton of the Olympic Games. The overprint is 20c on each value with a bar at the base and crosses obliterating the former values. The surcharge on the 5c and 15c is red, while the one on the 10c is black. Mr. Wilson also adds the information that these stamps are available for internal postage only and the rate for foreign mail has been increased to 50c.

Mr. Henry Hooreman has shown us a copy of the new 15fr stamp. The color is crimson and is of the last type of the parcel post design.

CAYMAN ISLANDS.—The 3d stamps having become exhausted and the stamps in the new type not being ready, a small supply of 124 panes of 60 printed from the old plate No. 8 was recently sent over. These prove to be of two different shades both distinct from the earlier consignments, and as the quantity printed is small and likely soon to be exhausted, they will probably be scarce. We have thus five distinct varieties of these stamps, which in the order of printing are as follows:—

No. 1. Dark purple on bright yellow.
No. 2. Purple on yellow, white back.
No. 3. Dull purple on lemon.
No. 4. Dull purple on pale yellow.
No. 5. Brownish purple on lemon.
—Whitfied King's Monthly List.

CHINA (Russian P. O.).—Although an order was made by the Chinese Government, in November last, for the compulsory closing of the Russian post offices in China, it seems that the Bolsheviks are keeping open their postal agency at the eastern terminal of the Chinese Eastern Railway, Harbin (Kharbin), where the low values of the Arms series of Russia have been issued with local denominations surcharged in Chinese cents. The reason given for these is the prevailing great difference in exchange.—Stamp Collecting.

FIUME.—The expulsion of D'Annunzio and the disbandment of his legionaries has not had the hoped-for effect of stopping the flood of new postage stamps that has issued from the distressful port ever since the Armistice, says The Times (February 21st, 1921). On February 2nd the remainders of the bizarre stamps adorned with the skull-like head of the filibuster poet were reissued to the public with the addition of a two-line overprint reading "Governo Provisorio". In default of sufficient 1 lira stamps this value was surcharged on a supply of the 30 centesimi red-brown.—Stamp Collecting.

GIBRALTAR.—Mr. R. Roberts reports the 1d, 2d and 2½d stamps on the new watermarked multiple cypher CA paper.

INDIA.—Mr. R. Roberts reports the appearance of the 3 pies slate in a new shade.

IRAQ.—We received in October last a large consignment of 1½ annas stamps, and found that one stamp had been removed from each sheet. A correspondent at Bagdad informs us that on enquiry at the Post Office he was informed that this was done there, owing to the fact that these stamps were wrongly overprinted "IRAO" instead of "IRAQ". It would be interesting to know what was done with these errors. — Whitfield King's Monthly List.

NAURU.—Mr. R. Roberts chronicles the 2d deep orange surcharged on Great Britain in a new shade. Also the 5d in pale yellow brown.

NETHERLANDS.—Mr. W. T. Wilson has shown us a copy of the 4½c stamp, violet shade, with the surcharge "—4—" in red.

RUSSIA (Trans-Baikalian).—The Times for February 18th said:—"To the many varieties of postage stamps arising out of the disintegration of Old Russia must now be added a special issue for the Trans-Baikalian Government under General Semenoff. Registered letters which reached London from Vladivostok last week were franked with Russian adhesives of the old regime, but bearing a distinguishing local imprint in the form of the letters 'D.V.R.' in Russian script capitals and denoting 'Dalni Vostochori Respoublika' (Republic of the Extreme East). These stamps are said to be sold on the basis of the standard gold rouble only, instead of the depreciated silver currency, so that high value stamps are not required. As a result the 3 roubles stamp has been marked down to 10 kopecs by means of a further overprint."—Stamp Collecting.

VICTORIA.—Referring to the article by Mr. A. A. Rosenblum, on the new discovery of two plates of the 1d 1905 stamp, which appeared in last month's Record, he has now found a copy of the second plate watermarked V. Crown, and perforated 11. This must be quite a rare stamp, as few V. Crown pennies, 12½, are second platers.—Australian Philatelic Record.

WATERMARKS AND PERFORATIONS.

By CHESTER J. MOORE.

As a collector of some 35 years' standing with a collection of close to 20,000 varieties, I wish to protest against the present manner of cataloguing the United States stamps. This protest arises from the difficulty in distinguishing the watermarks beginning about the time the change was made from the Double Line to Single Line U. S. P. S. I find among many younger collectors great discouragement and mis-arrangement of issues dating from that time.

No collector of any moment likes to be in doubt as to those he adds, nor does any honest dealer want to sell stamps there is any question as to price or catalogue number. To be sure of a stamp is indeed a virtue in this pastime, and I now plead the cause of the younger collector when I say that the present manner of cataloguing is killing all the pleasure of collecting late U. S. stamps.

If after going over hundreds of U. S. stamps with benzine and watermark cup as I have done, there still remains a doubt in my mind as to many of them, then what of the less experienced who are just as earnest as I have been. One dealer put it to me this way, "if you see no watermark, put it down as such, if in doubt still, price it the cheapest." That is fair no doubt but still it is small satisfaction to any collector honest with himself. The trouble appears to be due to colors, such as the olive green, yellows, vermilions, and other kindred shades.

It also appears to me that the distinction of perforations 12, 10, 11, with assorted watermarks is getting it down rather too fine, altho a little practice and good eyesight will soon set the perforations straight.

Distinguishing watermarks on old Br. Cols. is a great pleasure as they can in nearly every case be correctly told, but I throw up my hands in despair at the U. S. issues. In order to prove my statement as to hardship in this respect, and to make good this protest, I am herewith enclosing for your inspection a pair of 7ct blacks perforated 10. Will you kindly place these in your watermark detector. The left hand stamp facing downward is watermarked with an easily detected letter P. The right hand stamp has no watermark whatsoever. The pair therefore contains what can easily be called two issues, and were they separated, 90 collectors out of a hundred would classify them as two different stamps. From this pair my contention is that combining the perforated 10's would be much desired and greatly simplify the work of collecting.

If the specialists want to make this a separate issue let them have all the joy possible, but why take the joy from the average collector who wants to be sure of his stamps.

VICTOR W. ROTNEM, Pres. J. A. P. S.

FOUND AMERICA FOR $7,000.

The cost of the discovery of America by Columbus was but a little over $7,000, the old story to the effect that Queen Isabella parted with many of her finest jewels to the contrary, notwithstanding. Two of the three ships that made the wondrous voyage, the Pinto and the Nina, were captained by two brothers, Martin and Vicente Pinzon, and they paid all the expenses attached to those ships, as well as furnishing the craft themselves. The account books of the Pinzons show that Columbus, in his capacity of commander, received 1,500 pesetas a year, or about $300. The sailors received the magnificent sum of $2.50 a month, or about 8 cents a day.

The cannon for all three ships cost 14,000 pesetas, or about what it would cost to fire one of our modern guns, while the whole outfit and the wages of the sailors and officers came to only 36,000 pesetas. The accounts cover the time between August, 1492 to March, 1493. The Queen's share is believed to have been less than $2,004, and even at the valuation placed on jewels at that period, it would not have taken many or large ones to raise this sum.—New York Herald.

D. P. S. WANTS U. S. CARDS LISTED.

By C. F. HEYERMAN, Pres.

The Detroit Philatelic Society is very much interested in the article on U. S. postal cards to appear shortly in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

It seems to be the sense of the members that our standard catalogue should list the U. S. postal cards, and I am sure there will be more interested in such a list than in the telegraph franks or match and medicines.

The WEEKLY can easily indicate to the publishers which way the wind blows.

Written for MEKEEL'S.

NEW JAMAICANS.

By HARRY E. HUBER.

Two further values of the new series of Postage & Revenue stamps were put into circulation on Febr. 18, 1921, 2d light green and dark blue, and 2½d blue and dark blue. Both are printed from line engraved plates, at two operations, and on white paper with the old type multiple watermark, in normal position. The designs are treated in upright rectangles. The 2d is in the small size of the recently issued 4d, and comb perforated 14, while the 2½d, in the larger size of the 1s, is single line perforated 14.

The vignette on the 2d is inscribed "King's House, Spanish Town — 1762-1872," the former being the date of completion of the building of King's House. At that period Spanish Town was the capital of the island, and remained so until 1872, when it was removed to Kingston. On each side of the vignette is a bearing banana plant. The figure of value, "2d," appears in each of the four corners, with "Jamaica" between those at the top, and "Postage & Revenue" at the bottom.

On the 2½d is pictured a pier with a transport alongside, from which troops are disembarking. The inscription at the foot is "Return of a Contingent, 1919." The value is in the two upper corners, with "Jamaica" between. At the foot in the corners are labels, inscribed "Postage and "Revenue" respectively, with crossed flags between, and a miniature dove above. In the frame at either side is a Union Jack.

During February (previous to the 10th), the 1½d "Contingent Embarking" stamp, issued July 3, 1919, appeared with the new type script watermark, sideways, with the top of the crown to the left.

The new series now stands as follows:

10s gray green, King George V. May 5, 1920.
½d sage green and dark green, Jamaica Exhibition. Nov., 1920.
1s deep orange and orange, Statue of Queen Victoria. Dec. 10, 1920.
2s brown and greenish blue, Rodney Memorial. Dec. 10, 1920.

NEWS FROM CENTRAL EUROPE.

By A. KOECHLIN.

Nearly all the letters from Austria, Hungary, and the new-born states are franked on the back as a guarantee against undue curiosity upon the part of the mail clerks. There is much complaint about the cancelling that is being done, and philatelists do not hesitate to condemn the spiteful way in which cancelling ink is used.

Since February 1 Lichtenstein has been under the supervision of Switzerland. Swiss money and Swiss rates have superseded the Austrian. Stamps in Austrian money are therefore obsolete.

As was to be expected, there was quite a rush for the new Swiss provisionals. Speculation set in from the beginning and the 10c on 13c sold out long ago. The tete-beche pairs of the provisionals are much sought for.

As the air-mail service between Switzerland and Germany is working with deficit, the rates are being increased, the personnel reduced and the handling of mail simplified. The postmark bearing the date of receipt in Germany is done away with. Also in Switzerland a great part of the air-mail is delivered wit showing the date. Therefore the of the date of receipt is no proof the stamps or envelope have not postally used.

WESTERN STAMP CO., 308 LEFLANG BUILDING, OMAHA, NEB

SOME NEW ENGRAVINGS.

Certain finely made new steel engravings are now being sold in large quantities in this fair land of ours—and at low prices. As a matter of fact, some of them may be obtained at the extremely low price of one cent each, while others command the lordly sum of two cents and still others the superlative price of five cents. And each bears on its face its market price (no reduction in quantities), so that profiteering may be duly detected if attempted.

In short, reference is made to the issue of the "Tercentenary Stamps" commemorating the wonderful voyage of the good ship "Mayflower" and the results thereof; and many of the buyers of the engravings mentioned in the first paragraph of this article are confidently affixing the engravings to letters and postcards and papers which are to be sent through the mail—with the fond hope that the Burleson system of Systematized Delay will eventually permit the delivery of the letters, postcards and papers.

Doubtless the Burleson system will do its best, acting on the belief that the engravings are United States postage stamps, but a very careful examination of the "stamps" mentioned fails to show that any of them bear any reference whatever to postage or to the United States of America and on the face of the matter the engravings do not seem really to be postage stamps except as they are accepted as such by a kindly government. In fact, except for the carefully expressed valuation on each engraving, the "stamps" might well rank with those that are issued commercially at times in the guise of "stickers" for advertising purposes.

Several solutions of the mystery regarding the omission of Uncle Sam's name and sign on these engravings might be suggested. Of course one is that the Burleson thought that eventually internationalism would become general, and then the "stamps" might be used anywhere in the world where cents were recognized; and of course any political body not recognizing that standard of value might immediately be coerced into such recognition—for internationalism naturally would mean that what the big fellows wanted done would be done. Another thought is that the post office department had high hopes that the sale of these engravings might be very large for art's sake, and that some people might not get on to the idea that could be used for postage purposes—bringing a neat profit to the depart and making possible a fine showi the report that Mr. Burleson would to leave on file when he ceases fun ing, officially on the never-to-be ficiently-blessed fourth day of Mar the year of our Lord nineteen tw one.

But in the meantime perhaps it i wholly out of order to raise the que can a postage stamp be a postage s when it isn't a postage stamp? wise, how does the law stand as t circulation of steel engravings of t of historical interest with the s price carefully stated on each and copy? Is that a government mono Mr. Burleson please write.—Har Daily Courant.

RECENT ARGENTINE WATERMARKS.

By FORREST SHREVE

The Chronicle of the issue of the WEEKLY for Jan. 22 contains a note by Mr. Frank C. Davis regarding the watermark in recent Argentine stamps, in which the information is correct but incomplete. As all of the catalogs are necessarily rather sketchy with regard to paper varieties, it may be of interest to the many collectors of this rich and entertaining country to give a brief outline of the recent history of the Argentine watermarks, as gleaned from articles in the Revista of the Argentine Philatelic Society and from the letters of correspondents in that country.

At the opening of the European war the laborer type was appearing on paper with the familiar hexagon or honeycomb watermark, the supplies being secured through the Imperial Printing Office, Berlin. When this paper was exhausted it was impossible, for obvious reasons to secure further supplies, and an unwatermarked paper of very similar character was purchased from Blanchet Freres et Kleber, Rives, France, this being the stock used in producing Scott's numbers 207 to 214. By the time the series bearing the portrait of Laprida began to appear in 1916, a fresh supply of paper with the hexagon watermark had been secured from Pietro Milani, Fabriano, Italy. That this paper was actually of German manufacture and had been sent out to Argentina via Italy seems improbable. At any rate the hexagons on this later supply of paper are more clean cut, with narrower lines, and are about 2 mm. shorter in each horizontal row of ten hexagons. The paper which is recognised by the collectors in Argentina as of Italian manufacture may be identified by examining any copies of the 5 and 10 centavos centenary stamps (Scott's A91), which were printed only on this paper.

With the increasing difficulty of securing supplies of paper from Europe, it became necessary in 1918 to use for postage stamps some stock that had been purchased for producing the fiscal stamps with which Argentina so liberally supplies itself. The lower values of the current type have been extensively printed on this unwatermarked stock, and it appears that at least two lots of paper have been used in producing Scott's numbers 248 to 256. At any rate it is here that Mr. Davis' watermark is to be found. In each sheet there occurred once the watermarked name of the paper, and two such names have been identified: "Serra Bond" and "Riversdale Bond." The discovery of the letters"—ra," forming part of the first watermark, gave rise at one time to the rumor that the initials of the republic were being used as a watermark.

The status and collectibility of such watermarks is always a debated matter among collectors. Specialists in British North America pay relatively little attention to parts of the watermark "E. & C. Bothwell—Clutha Mills" in the 1868 issue of Canada, while Mexican specialists, on the other hand, are as keen as mustard about the watermark "La Croix Freres" in the 1872 issue of that country.

WATCH SHANGHAI MAIL.

Be careful about addressing your mail to Shanghai, China, the Post Office Department warns.

"It is reported that there is no city directory issued in Shanghai," says an order issued by Otto Praeger, second assistant postmaster general.

The Chinese employed as clerks and carriers in the United States postal agency, according to the report, cannot be required to remember names of individuals, firms or corporations.

In consequence, it is stated, pieces of mail matter not bearing local street or other addresses, received from the United States, become undeliverable as a general rule.

Senders of mail to Shanghai are requested to address fully all mail intended for delivery through the United States agency at that place, and thus aid native carriers to make proper delivery.—Washington Star.

PHILATELY IN SOVIET RUSSIA.

By PAUL KALNOSOL.

Former Editor of "The Russian Coll. and Corr: Journal" and President of the Society of Philatelists at Moscow.

[Reprinted from Philatelic Magazine.]

Already, quite at the beginning of the Sovjet-Russia's existence, the commissaries issued a decree concerning post free correspondence, inland, as well as abroad. But as the fate of the Bolshevik decrees always is the same—they are easily issued, but not easily carried out—so also the above one could only be followed with regard to inland correspondence, and even here only for ordinary letters—registered ones had to be franked as before—and foreign correspondence . . . . ? In any case I have not had the possibility, during my whole stay in Sovjet-Russia of communicating with Europe to say nothing of oversea countries; and my colleagues as well as I had to content ourselves in the last time with Esthonia. On the way to Lettonia, in August a. c., I read a publication at some post office, saying that letters abroad were forwarded, except to China and Japan. Had this been true the local as well as the foreign collectors would be instructed about the postal values of Sovjet-Russia, but this is not the case, hardly one of them is acquainted with the stamps of Sovjet-Russia, and the reports of the foreign philatelic papers, which I now have the opportunity of reading, are not at all to be trusted and often do not lack vivid imagination. Therefore it will not be useless from my side to bring to knowledge some fact I know.

No Soviet Stamps.

Above all, an issue of new stamps has not taken place in Sovjet-Russia, with the exception of the so-called Bolshevik stamps, 35 and 70kop with sword. But these, too, are not really Bolshevistic ones; they were prepared by the Government Kerenski; the work was delayed owing to technical difficulties and would have been quite stopped but for the anniversary of the Revolution. From this moment the order was given to issue the stamps 35 and 70kop with sword as quickly as possible (XI. 1918). Several times the Sovjet Government itself collected designs for its stamps and I believe once a prize was to be awarded for the best design handed in, but that was all. The values of the stamps were put down, but the expense of life grew day by day, and the postage rate for registered letters had to be changed every four to six months, so that at length it was not possible to speak of "kopecs" or think about issuing such stamps. In August a. c., at the time of my departure, a registered letter cost 10Rbl (5Rbl for weight and 5Rbl for registering). Ordinary letters of 15gr were forwarded "post free," for every further 15gr, 5Rbl had to be paid. At this same rate I also paid my letters abroad, an answer to which I expected in vain. Altogether the forwarding of correspondence in Russia is strongly delayed by the inner confusions and transport disorders. So as to receive an answer to a letter addressed from Kasau to Petrograd, one was obliged in the year 1919 to wait one-and-a-half months; about the provinces it is not worth while speaking, there the delays were still much greater.

Philately Under Difficulties.

Under such circumstances the collectors of the country are naturally placed into quite an impossible position, although they are not limited and their societies are allowed to exist; but how are they to exist when the postage rate is so high, when letters are handed over with such delay, and when there is no possibility of receiving stamps and letters from abroad? In philatelic circles, for example, in Moscow, there was great depression. At first there was a rush on Ukraine stamps, but later on this, too, had to be stopped, owing to the speculation with the print of different coats of arms. The Russian collectors are now obliged to collect only Russia different surcharges and failure-prints.

100 per cent. Surcharges.

In Sovjet-Russia there did not exist new stamps, but in Spring, a. c., thanks to the above-mentioned rate, the stamps of the lower values up to 1Rbl were charged to 100 times more, i. e., the Kopec is sold for a Rouble. The high value stamps are not sold any more at all in consequence of this change of the low values. A surcharge throughout the whole country has not been made, but in Russia "the power is local," i. e., the provincial authorities sometimes act on their own hook, owing to want of instructions from the Centre. So, for example, in the Government of Tamboff the overprint "Rbl" was made on the word "Kop." of the ordinary 1, 2 and 20kop stamps; in the government of Tula the eagle of the kop. stamps was overstamped with a black cross; in Petrograd the 3kop postcard, Czar-design, 4kop Jubilee, 5kop Kerenski stamps received the surcharge "10kop." Hereby there remains to be said, that still 20kop postcards (blue design) also after Kerenski model were issued.

Siberian Issues.

The socialistic country institutions ought evidently to have disappeared and with them the country stamps, but into my hands there fell a stamp of the district of Perm's "Sovdep," bearing the design, sickle and hammer, which proves the contrary. I have been told that this stamp was in use there till the occupation of Perm by Koltshack's troops, and after this they were used with the word "Sovdep" stroked through. Koltshack's troops also had their own stamps—surcharges on ordinary Russian stamps; 50kop on 3k, perforated and imperf, 70kop on 1kop, imperf., 1rbl on 4kop, perforated, and 3rbl on 7kop. These stamps were in use in Siberia, too, but as I have heard, only up to Omsk. They disappeared with Koltshack's departure and are now very difficult to obtain.

There are great quantities of imperforate stamps in Russia, of these the most rare ones are the 4 and 10kop. The 25kop and 10rbl are looked upon as rarities quite without any reason; there exist many of them and they are only valued because larger stocks of them have been bought up by speculators. 7kop, imperforate, does not belong to the present series and is classed erroneously under the general appellation by some firms. 7kop, imperf, somehow or other, appeared still in peace time after the issue of 1909. The saving stamps (Timbres d'Epargne) with surcharges (see Yvert 1921 NN 48 and 49) are unknown to me and I have not seen them in the collections of the largest collector.

A Forecast.

In conclusion I should like to remark that the Russian collectors are awaiting the re-establishment of communi with foreign collectors with the gr impatience. They will require a latest issues, of which they will b to give, Ukraine, South Russia, Cau Asarbeidshan, Siberia, Saving-st different surcharges etc., in excl Strange as this may seem, but it fact that they are still in need of s of Russia herself, up to the year War stamps 1905, which are very stamps of the Levant and of As well-known for the latter th called "Cent & Dollar series" up to inclusive was issued, but this ser not to be had in Russia, especiall 10Rbl value.—Baltic Philatelist.

ESTHONIA: THE REPUBLIC AND ITS STAMPS

By L. H. Brigham.

(The following article is compiled from material obtained from the "Baltic Review", the "Esthonian Review" and from supposedly authentic information furnished by an Esthonian correspondent of Mr. Fred S. Martin, Greene, New York.—W. O. W.)

A reporter once remarked to a friend, "Why, man, I am even acquainted with most of the senators' secretaries."

"Ah", returned his friend, who was also a reporter, "that is certainly fine, but how many of the senators do you know?"

This little anecdote is typical of the majority of the collectors of today: familiar perhaps with the stamps of a great many countries, but found wanting when it comes to possessing anything like a fair knowledge of any of the countries themselves. A stamp is but representative of a greater thing—the country itself, without which, there would be no stamp.

Esthonia, one of the smallest of the several self-declared New Republics which have come out of the breaking up of Old Russia, and the most Northern Republic in the entire world, is given twice the amount of territory on some maps as compared with others.

Rand McNally, in one of their late maps of New Europe show the southern limits of Esthonia extending only to the northern extremity of Lake Chudskove in Russia (Lake Peipus on some maps). While a separate map of Esthonia, published in the Esthonian Review, shows the Republic not only taking in the entire length of Lake Chudskove (or Peipus), but also extending much further south, to the very borders of Latvia on the south-west. From here the southern boundary extends clean across the northern portion of Latvia to the right until gradually dropping still further south, it reaches and borders on Lake Pskov on the south-east: the southermost point of this line being some distance below this lake.

This last described southern boundary means that Esthonia is given more than twice the amount of territory as compared with the first-mentioned boundaries shown by Rand McNally. This point, although important will have to be determined at a later date, when all of these many dividing lines are definitely and conclusively established.

Confined by the Gulf of Finland on the north and the Baltic Sea and the Gulf of Riga on the west, means that Esthonia has great possibilities as a maritime nation in later years when business conditions become adjusted in the Republic and commercialism with the outside world properly developed, as the greater portion of its limits border on the waters and these in the most logical positions for carrying on sea trade; to the north and west. So much for the geographic situation of the country.

Mr. John Imant in an article on "The History and Descent of the Esthonians" published in a back number of "The Esthonian Review", states. "The Esthonians occupy the late Russian provinces of Estland, North Livonia, Isles in Moon Sound, and the Esthonian parts of Pskov and Petrograd districts." This statement seems to conclusively establish the area and boundary of Esthonia as being the larger of the two areas described above in the geographic location of the country. Roughly this territory comprises 47,500 square kilometres, which in turn is equivalent to 18,269 square miles, and has a population of about 1,500,000; 90% being full blooded Esthonians, 2 4/10% Germans and the remainder comprising Russians, Swedes, Letts, Poles, etc.; 74%of this population live in villages.

The capital, Reval, is a prominent port on the Baltic. A few of the other large towns of either educational, commercial or maritime importance are Dorpat, Pernau, Narva Arensburg, Hapsal, Fellin and Wessenberg.

The Baltic German Baron land owners, long entrenched in the eastern portion of Russia, which includes Esthonia, are directly responsible for the early historians (also Germans) claiming that the Esthonians and Finns were originally descendants of the Mongolian race. This naturally gave the crafty German landholders and Barons a logical basis for arguing that the Esthonians on account of descending from the Mongolian race were an inferior people, quite uncultured and incapable of authority or of even the

UNSOLICITED EMCO PACKET TESTIMONIALS

Packet No. 124 entirely satisfactory. I added over 450 new varieties to a previous collection of 2000 stamps.—H. S. Lynn, Pittsburgh, Pa.

I was very much pleased with the War Stamps I received in your 3000 variety packet as I added about 100 varieties to my collection of 300 Wars. It is a splendid packet all through.—R. Speer, Long Beach, Calif.

I added 316 stamps to a collection of about 3200, not counting the envelope stamps—(given as a premium) —I also found many better specimens to substitute for not-so-good ones already in my album. Then I made up the balance of the stamps into smaller packets and sold them to collectors for $3.00. As I only paid $3.25 for packet No. 124 in the first place, my net expense was 25 cents on the deal. I got so much fun looking the pile over (worth a good deal in itself) that I am converted to packets from now on.—F. M. Gracey, Cambridge, Mass.

Received packet No. 126 (2000 varieties at $10.00) in good condition and am very much pleased with same. Another order enclosed.—C. C. Colyer, Altoona, Pa.

H. F. COLMAN

SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG., WASHINGTON, D. C.

slightest degree of self-government, thus rightfully deserving the serfdom to which they were subjected until some fifty years ago under these very self-same German Barons. Later researches have, however, proven that the Esthonians, as well as the Finns, belong to the Indo-Arian race. The language is closely related to the Finnish language, the difference being the same as between the Swedish and Danish languages.

During the 13th century the Esthonians were invaded by the German hordes, against which they continually fought for liberty for a period of thirty years. Being scantily armed, they were consequently no match for their armored and well armed Teutonic foes and were naturally vanquished. Even after being decisively defeated, the Esthonians continued to rise again and again against their oppressors, the Germans, and neither bloodshed nor tyranny had the power to break or subdue their spirit. In fact, the only effect that the German oppression had upon the people as a whole was to intensify their spirit of patriotism and make them even more stubborn and in a like proportion increase their intense hatred for the Barons.

During the middle of the 16th century Esthonia was occupied by the Swedes. Under these people they were comparatively happy until the forepart of the 18th century when Esthonia and Livonia passed from the Swedes to the Russian Tzar, Peter I, who required an outlet to western Europe for his country.

The resident German Nobility in Esthonia aided Peter the Great in all ways possible to bring about the accomplishment of this purpose. They naturally, because of selfish reasons, did not in the least approve of the democratic tendencies which the Swedes had exercised and shown towards the Esthonians.

In recognition of the services rendered to him by these same German nobles, the Russian Tzar established Baronial Landtages in the Baltic into whose hands the central self-government was placed. These bodies had immense powers and what powers they did not possess they were allowed to annex whenever they felt so inclined. It was during this period that the most pronounced cruelty and oppression to which the Esthonians had yet been subjected at the hands of the Germans, began. Being now serfs, the Esthonians had no means of retaliating and had to be content with nursing hatred for the Germans, generation after generation.

Never for a moment losing sight of their ideals or the hope of future deliverance from their oppressors, the Esthonians secretly continued to educate themselves under the most trying conditions. The Russian government and the Barons placed all possible restrictions upon them in relation to the subject of education. Prior to the war with Germany they were barred from the Russian Civil Service, not allowed to take commissions in the Russian Army or Navy and only by overcoming the most serious obstacles could they obtain admission to the Universities. Despite this condition of affairs, statistics prove that the percentage of educated peasants in Esthonia exceeds that of most of the other European countries and the percentage of Esthonians possessing the higher class of education compares most favorably with that of the much longer civilized countries of Western Europe.

In the face of the above, it is therefore only natural, that the Esthonians, slaves for so many years to German autocracy, should enter into the war against Germany, with the rest of Russia, with the greatest of enthusiasm.

During this war 15 to 20% of the Esthonians called for military service received commissions in the Russian army owing to their higher grade of education, and those serving in ranks, were chiefly occupied either with technical work or with other duties entailing responsibility and yet Russia had for years persistently endeavored to hold these people down to a level with the millions of other uneducated serfs throughout the land.

Prior to Russia entering into war with Germany, both Germans and Russians had for years continually tried to either Russianize or Germanize the Esthonians. The only effect was to make the Esthonians good linguists. Today even the uneducated classes can in most districts speak Esthonian, Russian and German, while on the southeastern frontier where Esthonia unites with Lettland, they can in addition to these three languages also speak Lettish.

The Russian Provisional Government, set up during the war with Germany, ordained that the Baronial Landtage law in effect for so many years should be abolished and the Esthonian National Diet, established on the basis of universal suffrage, was substituted in its stead. As a result the German Nobility automatically ceased to possess the far reaching authority which they had exercised for so great a length of time over the Esthonians. The Esthonian Constitutional Laws on which the present Esthonian government was established, are the outcome of this so-called Esthonian National Diet, established by the Russian Provisional Government.

Up to this time both the Esthonians and their representatives in the National Diet were absolutely loyal to Russia, even in the face of the decidedly unjust treatment they had received at the hands of this country, and merely desired to become a self-determining state in the Russian Federation.

The Russian Bolshevistic Revolution in 1918 destroyed forever this aim, and the Esthonians were obliged to take the fate of their country into their own hands.

The Esthonians as a whole are decidedly anti-Bolshevistic. Bolshevism, however, rapidly spread to Esthonia. To cope with this menace, the Esthonian National Diet on either the 11th or 18th of November 1918 (there is a difference of opinion on which of these dates the actual Declaration of Independence took place), proclaimed the absolute independence of Esthonia and established the Esthonian Republic.

The Russian army now thoroughly disorganized and demoralized as a result of the revolution, left the Esthonians without any defense other than themselves to combat the Germans.

Shortly after the setting up of the Republic, Bolshevism had taken such a foothold in Esthonia that the Esthonian troops were forced to retire, because of the superior number of Russian Bolshevistic troops in Esthonia, to Hapsal. Here they waged a desperate fight against the Russian Bolshevists on one side and the Germans on the other, making headway against the former and checking the latter.

It was at this time that the resident German Barons in Esthonia, who had but recently lost the power they had so long wielded against the Esthonians, decided to appeal to Germany for troops to occupy Esthonia to check the Bolsheviks, so they said, and craftily put this proposition before the leading Esthonian political parties. This proposal was naturally indignantly rejected and it was pointed out to these Barons that the Esthonian Government had succeeeded in a large measure in freeing themselves from the domination of the Bolshevists and were rapidly establishing a satisfactory state of order in the country.

The Provisional Government of the new Independent and Democratic Republic of Esthonia was finally formed and a Mr. Paets elected Prime Minister.

Upon the renewal of hostilities with Russia, Germany sent her troops across Moon Sound and occupied the whole of Esthonia. The Esthonian troops were powerless to retaliate in view of the number and supremacy of the German troops. The situation grew desperate. The Esthonian Government was deprived of its power; the Esthonian newspapers suppressed, and many of the Esthonian politicians were arrested and shot, including the Prime Minister, Mr. Paets. Other high officials in the administration of Esthonian affairs were deported to Germany. All available food and raw material was requisitioned by the German Government. The Esthonian schools were closed and soon after reopened as German schools; the German language being made compulsory.

While these discouraging events were taking place, the German Baltic Nobility were, as usual, extremely busy agitating feelings among the Esthonians in their favor, which was the forming of a union of the Baltic provinces with Germany. Again they failed in their purpose and so set about bringing this condition to pass by the use of fictitious ballotings and elections. This state of affairs lasted until the signing of the Armistice and the resultant revolution in Germany. It was at this time that the German troops commenced to evacuate Esthonia. They took with them all the rolling stock and practically anything else that was of value, even stripping the public buildings of all scientific and electrical instruments.

Here, therefore, was left Esthonia still in spirit and purpose a free republic but actually disorganized, unarmed and suffering severely from their long period of requisitioning and plundering by the Germans, and found them practically at the mercy of the advancing Russian Bolshevists. However, as all danger was completely removed on the east by the evacuation of the Germans, armed detachments of Esthonians were speedily organized and sent out to defend the Esthonian frontiers on the west and south; the resident German Barons refusing to take any part in the fight which ensued between the Esthonians and the Bolshevists, but secretly aiding the Bolshevists by giving up their arms and ammunition whenever danger from the Bolshevists approached too near them.

This determination on the part of the Esthonians to defend at any cost their Republic from the Bolsheviks, greatly encouraged the Russian and Lettish anti-Bolshevik units and it was largely due to the efforts of the Esthonians that these units were so reorganized that they not only greatly aided themselves but the Esthonians as well.

By the end of December 1918 the Bolsheviks had succeeded in advancing into Esthonia until they were only a scant twenty-five miles from the capital, Reval. Fortunately at this most critical period the Esthonians succeeded in procuring British arms and ammunition and having declared a general mobilization, immediately took the offensive and after a series of desperate battles succeeded in throwing the Bolshevists out of entire Esthonia.

Peace between Esthonia and the Russian Soviet Government was finally established on the 5th day of February, 1920; the treaty in more ways than one, being decidedly in favor of the Esthonians. Not only did Russia recognize Esthonian independence, but indemnity claims were accepted by the Russian Government to the extent of 15,000,000 gold roubles and the delivering over to Esthonia of certain Russian war vessels and the restoration of much Esthonian property destroyed by the Bolshevistic hordes. In short it might be termed practically a one-sided treaty in favor of the smaller of the two former contestants, Esthonia.

Esthonia, the first of the Baltic States to meet in actual combat with the Bolshevists, was likewise the first to conclude peace with Soviet Russia.

The foregoing should firmly establish in the minds of the readers of this article the extremely determined and courageous nature which the Esthonians possess. Downtrodden and oppressed for years and obliged to battle against the most terrific odds and yet finally emerging, perhaps broken, but for all of this, victorious, shows a type of people from which much might be expected in later years and which should be a basis upon which the other nations of the world should judge when it comes to recognizing the Esthonians as a free people and extending to them all possible aid and moral encouragement.

The accepted constitution of the Esthonian Republic was finally passed on by a Constituent Assembly on the 15th day of June, 1920. This constitution, like the majority of others drawn under like circumstances, was drafted along lines which represented the greatest needs of the people at the time and adequately served its purpose.

KLEIN AND PHILATELIC BOOKS.

In reply to our letter thanking Mr. Klein for his generous co-operation in putting out our booklets, the Philadelphia dealer has this to say:—

"I thank you for your kind letter of March 19. Believing in the study of stamps, I have always encouraged the purchase of philatelic literature by carrying in stock and persistently advertising the best books of all countries. How well I have succeeded is shown by the greatly increased demand for philatelic literature at present by individuals and philatelic societies. STAMP ECHOES FROM NASSAU STREET.

By WILLIAM W. RANDALL.

If you were to ask some collector who has been cruising for many years around the stamp shops on, and adjacent to Nassau Street, what was one of the best known mysteries of that neighborhood, he would likely say: "Louis Strauss", I met him nearly 20 years ago, and got quite well acquainted with him, because I came from San Francisco, where his concern, Levi Strauss & Co., has been for years the largest wholesale dry goods concern. "Louie" is connected with the New York agency, and is a nephew of the late Levi Strauss. His specialty is collecting plate number strips, and entire envelopes. When the Bureau of Engraving started to make Uncle Sam's stamps, "Louie" used to take from 4 to 6 plate number strips of each denomination as fast as issued, but he gradually slowed down, so that now he gets all plate numbers, but attached to one stamp only. He must have 40,000 plate numbers now. There has been a story, that I never could verify, that "Louie's" father used to accumulate sheets of each of the issues in the '60's, and when he died, left the collection to his son, Louis. I have tried numberless times to get him to show me these mystic sheets, and about ten years ago went so far as to offer him $10 if he would show me the 1869 issue in sheets, but his answer at that time was that they were so packed away in the vaults, that it would be a day's job to get them in shape to show. I remember some years ago, when "Louie" had been cracking up his sheet of New York 5 cent local, among his other stamp possessions, that J. C. Morgenthau told him in my presence, that he would give him a $100 bill if he would even bring the said sheet of New York's to his office to inspect. He never brought it. Strauss has been asked so many times by well known collectors that his invariable answer to those wanting to see his philatelic treasures was, "What's the use—they are not for sale." They do say that his collection of the high valued and high priced revenues has no equal—his collection running into blocks and strips of the highest priced revenue rarities. He is one of the mysteries of Nassau Street, and likely to remain so. He is an old bachelor, modest, quiet, non-obtrusive, and at all times carrying a "wad" that would choke the average hound pup into philatelic submission.

Nassau Street you must know, if you don't come to New York, starts with Percy Doane in the Tribune Building, and ends, so far as the stamp trade is concerned, at Fred. Herman Schmidt's near John Street. In those four short blocks with the dealers adjacent to Nassau, more than a score of well known stamp traders have their places of business. They are far in the minority, however, for Nassau Street, only 6 blocks long at most, has more varieties of business, and is, in fact, the livest smallest thoroughfare in town, where as many people walk in the street as on the sidewalk. One of the commanding figures of the stamp world in this section is John A. Klemann, the head of the Nassau Stamp Co. Mr. Klemann bought out Hunter and Kerfoot, who started the Nassau Stamp Co. on Nassau Street in 1895, and moved the business to the Broadway Bank Building, cor. Park Place and Broadway, and remained there until about ten years ago (when the Woolworth structure drove them out) and they came back to Nassau Street, being now quartered in the Morton Building, with a fine suite of offices. Klemann had a sign of the 5 cent New York Postmaster stamp about ten feet high on the building at Broadway Park Place that could be seen a ways, and it was a beacon that bro many dollars from stamp collector it was just opposite the G. P. O., no City Hall Station of the Main Post O on 8th Avenue, opposite the Pennsyl Terminal Station. J. N. Luff, J. A. mann, and J. M. Bartels—the "Johns"—are the great experts on and some other stamp countries.

I spent several days recently in W ington, D. C., partly on private bus and partly to see the P. O. Depart in connection with the revalued p cards, and had a very pleasant st the Capitol. My old friend H. F. man, who is the dean of Washi dealers, as well as the most prospe

HAVE "COME BACK"

After three months spent in compiling a list of the present provisional U. S. Postal Cards, I've come to the conclusion that U. S. Postal Cards are once again in favor with U. S. Collectors.
I have commenced the compilation of the regular issues 1873-1920 U. S. Postal Cards. Would be glad to hear from collectors, and inspect their collections of U. S. only. (Errors, proofs, etc., included). Bright's Cat., London, and Senf's Cat., Leipzig, list all U. S. Postal Cards.
WILLIAM W. RANDALL, TIMES SQ. P. O., NEW YORK

is taking life quietly on "the sunny side of easy street," and he doesn't care who is President. H. F. has a beautiful summer home down on the Chesapeake, near Annapolis, Md., where he comes to his Washington office in his Pierce Arrow as the spirit moves him. When I asked him if he never longed to become one of the Nassau Street stamp colony, he laughed and said, "Nassau Street is all right, but it is too far from Pennsylvania Avenue." Colman, at that, is a New York stater, having first seen the light of day at Cooperstown, N. Y. He has acquired a fortune by sticking to the stamps of the U. S. and her colonies, particularly the Philippines and Canal Zone. I had a nice visit also with a former habitat of Nassau Street—Joseph B. Leavy, who is in charge of the U. S. Government Stamp Exhibit, in the old National Museum Building. He took pains to show me thoroughly the U. S. section, which is finely mounted, and quite complete—but sadly lacking in the Postmaster's locals. One of the gems in the U. S. section is a full sheet of 400 of the 5 cent error red, imperf.—by far the rarest of the 20th century U. S. stamps. Mr. Leavy tells me that they now have 45,000 varieties in the whole collection, which is beautifully mounted on movable frames that slide in and out, and at the same time are kept from the strong light when not in use by the visitor. Mr. Leavy has not been in very robust health the past year. It is fortunate for the Government that such an accomplished philatelist is in charge of this section, so interesting to visiting stamp collectors. The only thing I have against Leavy is that he will not answer letters with any promptness.

In my article about U. S. stamp prices in the issue of March 19, I want to correct any impression that made it appear that I was in possession of any advanced information as to a raise in the prices of U. S. stamps in the new Standard Catalog. For such is not the case. I don't know any more than any other outsider as what the coming prices are to be.

In Bartels' last auction sale, the piece de resistance was undoubtedly a cover with a block of five 5 cent 1851 imperf. After a spirited bidding, Clarence H. Eagle captured the trophy at $298.00—or about 150% over catalog. Mr. Eagle has one of the finest collections of U. S. in this part of the country. He is a familiar figure on Nassau Street. The catalog does not cut much figure of late for the really fine pieces of U. S. '47, '51 and '57 stamps, particularly if on covers. There is no knowing where this demand will end either, for there are apparently not enough to go 'round. All the mint issues of U. S. just named are always bringing more than the catalog prices, so it is hard, I should imagine, for the catalogers to strike a general average price on these stamps that are so much in demand at present.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—We regret to announce an annoying error in the advertisement of the Rueger Stamp Co. Bulgaria 104 to 111 was advertised at 3c, when the correct price was 35c. At the time of writing us the firm had received twenty-one orders, and we make this public apology in order that our subscribers and the patrons of the company may realize that the mistake was upon our part.

—We have heard from attorney-philatelists in Boston, New York, Milwaukee and Seattle, promising co-operation in connection with the collecting of accounts and the settlement of claims. We shall be glad to hear from other metropolitan centers, especially Chicago.

—"Have you ever considered how commendable is the issue of the maps in the Literary Digest of the Funk & Wagnalls Co. describing the new countries of Europe?"—GEO. A. DURHAM.

—Dr. H. Preston Hoskins, the president of the Michigan Stamp Club, was one of the speakers at the banquet of the Michigan Veterinary Medical Society March 27 in Jackson, Mich.

—The Hartford (Conn.) Daily Courant for Sunday, March 20, contained a very fine story of the Morgan Memorial exhibit, of which mention has already been made in a recent issue of the WEEKLY. A fine large illustration accompanies the story, which will doubtless give a fine measure of publicity to philately. We are indebted to J. H. Massey for clipping.

—"On Mar. 14 a large account was placed in our hands for collection against Mr. B. Katscher of New Orleans, S. P. A. No. 3554. Our letter was returned and we at once wrote to the Rentschler Printing Co. by whom he was employed. They supplied the following information:—When he left New Orleans he not only had the stamps of our client but $2000 belonging to the Printing Co., and that day cashed checks to the amount of $450 which were worthless."—PHILATELIC COLLECTING AGENCY, Mukwonago, Wis.

—As I was reading "The Rose in the Ring," by George Barr McCutcheon, I came upon an interesting allusion to the postage stamp. It put a new duty on the shoulders of the already much encumbered postage stamp. A pickpocket is speaking and it shows what one, even in his profession, might think of the adhesives:—

"You got my letter, I see. Well, well, it's wonderful what a two-cent stamp'll do sometimes. A postage stamp is the greatest detective I know of. I've had 'em find me time and time again, right off the reel, when twenty plain-clothes couldn't get a smell of me to save their souls."—DUDLEY COLE.

—H. S. Dickey of Newton, Kansas, writes us that the 16c aero precancelled is still in use at the post office in that city.

SEVENTH ANNUAL BANQUET OF THE MICHIGAN STAMP CLUB.

By HERMAN W. BOERS.

Saturday evening, March 19, was a gala night in the history of the Michigan Stamp Club, when the seventh annual banquet of the society was held at Hotel Fort Shelby; twenty-eight members turned out. There was plenty to eat, smokes for all, noise-making toys and various kinds of paper hats to make things lively. After the eats, President J. D. Hubel called upon Col. Warren L. Babcock to act as toastmaster.

The hit of the evening was made by the newly elected president, E. Preston Hoskins, who read a telegram supposed to have been received by him from the P. O. Department and hitting at the different collectors. It was very unique and well received. Charles Kellar, who has for a long time wanted a water pitcher for the clubroom and has been so insistent upon it that it became a joke with the members, was presented with one by Del Underwood. Mr. Kellar agreed to have it filled at the next meeting, but Dr. Hoskins insisted upon putting it into use at once and it was filled for the boys several times.

Col. Babcock related some of his experiences hunting stamps in Europe. It was highly entertaining. There was an exhibition of nice stamps, participated in by various members. The new officers for 1921 are:—President, Dr. E. Preston Hoskins; Vice-President, F. F. Bott; Secretary, H. J. Kaufman; Treasurer, A. C. Wood; Trustees, L. A. White, L. W. Orear and George Peters; Publicity Agent, Herman W. Boers.

Floyd Quick, the club's official photographer, made several pictures of the attendants. A telegram congratulating the club and with best wishes was received from the former president, Z. Dworkowski, from Minneapolis. Some fifty lots were sold at auction.

The menu card was neatly gotten up and bore upon its face a 2c Pilgrim stamp overprinted "Detroit 19 March 1921 Michigan." This card was accompanied by another folder in which the members were pledged to carefully observe the following as a rule of action for the coming year:—

SOIRÉE
Conscience, Clear
Kindness Grace Good Cheer
Tender Memories
Charity Served with Discretion
Peace Love Truth
Long Life stuffed with Usefulness
Heart, Fond and True
(a large portion)
Affection Happiness
Sweet Thoughts
Best Wishes for Absent Members

WHAT SHALL WE CATALOG?

By E. A. YOUNG.

I note with pleasure your efforts to revive the interest in U. S. Postal cards. Why the Scott catalogue omits postal cards is beyond me, and I agree fully with your views anent Telegraphs, which I do not collect nor think them worth collecting any more than yeast cake labels or soap wrappers. I guess some one has a big stock of them, and if they were cut out of the catalogue, of course they would drop out of sight.

Of course the opinion of an individual regarding what should or should not be included in a standard catalogue, is of little weight with the powers that be, but we all like to air our opinions. I would like to see more of the well known minor varieties of U. S. stamps and envelope dies recognized by the cataloguers. I don't think it would be going too far for them to list the major shifts in U. S. stamps and put a price on them. Not perhaps a price that they would guarantee as being exact, but some idea as to the approximate value.

I would like to see all U. S. locals listed again, and the prices revised. They are surely of more interest to collectors in this country than the trash now being issued by Central European countries, Native Indian States, etc. Those Central European near-republics have got old Seebeck of 25 years ago beaten to a frazzle.

Then, if U. S. Revenues are to be retained in a catalogue of Postage Stamps, why not add the State Revenues, and perhaps Tax Paids, etc.

Then again, in regard to U. S. Envelopes, what would be of greater historical interest than to include the varieties of the classic old Nesbitts with the different heads, variations in lettering, etc., of which the average collector is as ignorant as a child? And the later envelope dies could be well treated, as the current and recent issues are full of interesting variations.

Also, if there could be a section devoted to the approximate value of U. S. on covers (based on auction results), what a catalogue we would have!

It is certainly surprising to compare the auction prices today with current prices 25 years ago. What a chance we had to pick up good stuff at low prices and didn't realize it! Even as late as 1912-13, pairs, strips and blocks on or off cover of the old classic U. S. were sold at what would now be ridiculous prices. The collector who buys first class U. S. (no matter if 2 to 10 times catalogue, provided condition warrants) is making a good investment.

SPECULATIVE PILGRIMS.

The flood of speculative Pilgrim cancels is on in earnest and while practice is not to be approved in sense of the word, still if the pric reasonable, the collectors should make any great ado, especially whe is not obligatory for them to buy t stamps.

Speculative stamps, it is underst include all precancels that can be tained in unused condition.

I have been asked to set a fair p on a set of Pilgrim issue precance The face is 8c plus the usual 25 cent asked for the service, making first cost to the dealer 10c. In s cases the seller demands 50 per which would make the price 12c. sidering the above, the selling should not be over 35c at the mos have advocated selling them at 25c.

This applies, however, to the speculative, such as Toledo, O.; Mich.; Gibbon, Minn.; Montpe Richford and St. Albans, Vt.; Fra and Exeter, N. H.; Springfield and mouth, Mass.; Hagerstown, Md.; tanning, Pa.; Galesburg, Ill.

The above are all speculative an such are branded without prejudic

The only Pilgrim precancels repo to date that really no speculative can be placed against them are Federalsburg, and possibly New B wick, N. J. Have only seen the 1c either of the places, but both have is the set.

It is to be regretted that the speculative airplane, victory and Pil precancels come from the northea section of the country, and of c they will continue as long as colle will buy them.

Some question has already raised as to the genuineness of of the stamps, and while I am inc to think that all the stamps wer sued by the post office of the ci their origin, still I will appreciate ing informed with proof that anyo faking any of these speculative pr cels.

The International Precancel should start a blacklist, keep it ru all the time, and keep their me posted as to what is speculative what is really legitimate.

In conclusion I wish to say tha article condemns the ridiculously prices asked rather than the issui the stamps.—Bushnell's Magazine.

CHAPTER IX.

The Last of the Skilling Stamps.

n 1870 an entirely new issue was templated, with the stamps to be ited in new colors. Rumors of the ending issue were circulated late in uary, though the first official notifi- on was not published until May, n the following Circular appeared: rcular of the General-Director of osts to the Postal Inspectors, and to l the Offices and Postal Despatching ouses.

10. COPENHAGEN, May 27th, 1870. here will be sent out within the next days, and put in circulation, new age stamps of the value of 48 skil- color violet, with frame brown, of a different pattern from those iously introduced. Certain number hese new stamps will be sent to the Offices without previous requisi- ; in other respects the general regu- ns relative to postage stamps will pplicable to the new ones."

ie next value to be placed on sale the 4 skilling and this was an- ced in October of the same year llows:—

cial Communication from the Head the Post Office Department.

No. 28. October 26 1870.

om the first proximo there will be d and put in circulation new post- stamps of the value of 4 skilling, red with frame grey, and of the pattern as the stamps referred to rcular No. 10 of 1870. The 4 skil- stamps are intended gradually to ce those at present in use, which, ver, will be available for use so as any remain in stock."

ally a circular covering the other denominations was published in ry, 1871, though, as a matter of the 8sk and 10sk values were not l in circulation until April of that The Circular is as follows:—

ular of the Director-General of ts to the Inspectors of Posts and ll Post Offices, etc.

. COPENHAGEN, January 3, 1871. re will be despatched by the first nd put in circulation new postage s of the values of 2, 3, 8 and 16 g, colors blue, violet, brown and respectively, with frame grey, and same pattern as the stamps men- in Circular 10, 1870. These new s are intended gradually to re- the corresponding ones that have sent to you hitherto, but which nowever, be available for use in so long as any remain in stock."

l new stamps are slightly smaller hose of 1864, measuring 17x20½ They are upright rectangular in and the design shows numerals in ntre on a circular disc of solid surmounted by a Royal Crown surrounded by olive branches, are joined together below and which is suspended a posthorn ne mouthpiece to the left, all on nd of vertical lines. This is en- within an oval band of solid inscribed "DANMARK" above OSTFRIM" followed by numer- l "SK." below. The design is ed by a rectangular frame with ornamentation in the spandrels, ame being printed in a different rom that of the central oval. original dies for the frame and portions were engraved on steel Batz. The same frame served denominations but the original the central portion was without ls. From this, therefore, five ry dies were struck and on these ired numerals were engraved.

From these secondary dies, cliché were made and 100 of these clamped together in ten rows of ten formed the printing plates.

As the frames were in a different color from the central portion of the design two printings were necessary to complete the stamps and it speaks much for the care taken in production that no inverted centres are known.

The plate for the frames was also composed of separate clichés and in assembling these some were occasionally placed upside down. This fact has long been known to specialists and has opened up a very interesting line of philatelic study proving the existence of several settings of the clichés for some denominations. The average observer may well be forgiven for overlooking the inverted frames for the differences are not very striking, and a casual glance seems to show that all four spandrels are exactly alike. In the normal type the down stroke of the foliate ornamentation immediately next to the thin inner frame line at the top left portion of the design is almost straight. In all three of the other corners this line is distinctly curved, and when the frame is inverted one of these curved lines shows at upper left instead of the straight one.

The stamps of this issue were all printed on paper watermarked with a Crown exactly similar to that used for the 1864 series.

Two varieties of perforation are met with. At first the single-line machine of 1864 with gauge of 12½, 13 was used and later a comb-machine having a gauge of 14 x 13½ was used.

The 48sk, which was the first value issued, always has the 12½, 13 perforation, and the first printings of the 2sk and 4sk were similarly perforated. Other values with this perforation have been reported from time to time but their existence has never been satisfactorily established, and as the new perforating machine was in use early in 1871, it seems highly improbable that the 8sk and 16sk at any rate could ever have so existed.

All six values are known entirely imperforate, but whether these are from unfinished sheets or are legitimate errors is open to question. The 8sk imperforate was probably regularly issued for it was known as early as 1874, while the others were not discovered until many years later.

A very rare and interesting error of the 4sk is known with the horizontal perforations missing.

The 2, 3, 4 and 8 skilling are known without the period after "POSTFRIM" and the same values have also been reported without the period after "SK", while the 2sk is known with colon after "SK". Whether these minor varieties are due to defective clichés or indifferent printing we cannot say.

The numbers printed were as follows:

2sk,	23,167,300
3sk,	4,534,200
4sk,	54,959,200
8sk,	3,858,600
16sk.	1,989 800

ROUGH ON VILLARD.

PARIS, March 2.—Of the design of a postal stamp that cost the life of the artist, the Trait d'Union says:

"A. M. Villard, a draughtsman of exceptional ability, was in 1849 employed in the Chinese Customs Office. He was requested to design new postal stamps to be issued on the sixtieth birthday of the Emperor's mother.

"Proud of the distinction thus conferred upon him, Villard did his best to satisfy the Pekin Government, but made two fatal mistakes: He used the abbreviation 'Imp. Chin. Post' instead of spelling out 'Imperial Chinese Post.' As a Chinese public official he was expected to know that the criminal code forbids any abbreviation in a public document under severe penalties.

"Still worse was Villard's other offense. One of his designs was in purple, the use of which color was the exclusive prerogative of the Imperial House, and a capital offense for any other person.

"His artistic achievement and good intentions notwithstanding, Villard was disgraced and told that he deserved capital punishment for his unheard of, even if unintentional, offense against the Imperial House.

"In deference to France (Villard was a Frenchman) he was not put to death, but sent on official business to Thibet, a mission that was considered another form of execution. And indeed Villard was never heard of afterward."—New York World.

EDITORIAL.

Further—We have had some interesting details concerning first-class mail Permits which will qualify some of the observations that have been made in our columns. Also, we have secured Order No. 4164, from the office of the Postmaster-General and dated Washington, May 10, 1920, headed, "Acceptance of First, Second, Third and Fourth Class Matter for Mailing Under Permit Without Stamps Affixed on Prepayment of the Full Postage in Money." From Mr. Roscoe B. Martin, we have received authoritative information on the subject of first-class Permits that he got from a source, accurate and unquestioned. In the issue of Feb. 26th, a correspondent asked how it happened that the Lansburgh Bros. of Washington could have used (as they did) Permit 134 in June and No. 1 in September. In view of the preliminary procedure necessary to secure the privilege, no little time must have elapsed before the first permit was used. We quote: "It appears that the Department allowed one or two of the first permit-users to use their old permit which had been issued for mail of the second, third and fourth classes. Very soon, however, they decided to commence the new system with Permit No. 1 in each city and the Lansburgh Bros. now have and use Permit No. 1 for Washington, D. C." We learn that this Washington firm was the first to use the new permit system in the United States. There are wheels within wheels as to the kinds of machines that apply the postal impressions and a chapter could well be devoted to a description of the devices so far as their markings are concerned.

Slip—In our issue of March 19th, an article appeared by Mr. William W. Randall, "Are U. S. Stamps Underpriced?" Mr. Randall said that in the coming new catalogue he knows "already that some of the earlier issues will be given a boost." If Mr. Randall wished to convey the impression that he knew because of conditions that the close observer of price trend in U. S. stamps is aware of, that these stamps will jump in price, the expression is his own, based on his findings. However, we do know, having had occasion to go into this subject before, that no human being knows in advance what any price will be in the catalogue, so far as getting information from the one man who attends to the pricing of the catalogue. It would not be politic, it would not be fair to give any price "tips" and the appraiser of stamp values is jealous of his position and does not rest easy under the imputation, if made, that any one but him has advance information on prices. One man prepares the text but another does the pricing and to the time of publication prices are a sealed book.

Relic—A friend knowing of our interest in philatelic mementos of the Confederacy has sent us an envelope bearing a five cent green, 1861, Confederate general issue, uncancelled, in the upper right-hand corner. Across the face of the envelope is written: "Secession envelope and stamp picked up on the battlefield of Hanover or Peak's Station," followed by the name of the finder. It was from this person that our friend obtained this example of forehandedness on the part of some Confederate soldier, who was prepared to keep open the lines of epistolary communication to his home.

True—At the annual dinner given by the Chicago Philatelic Society recently we were impressed by the remarks of one of the speakers who has an important position in one of the big banks. Through his instrumentality, blocks of four and unusual denominations of revenue stamps are used on the notes that are discounted and he obtains some of the revenue stamps after they have served their purpose. In this way, he said that it might be claimed that he was performing a friendly service for philatelists by increasing the supply of fittingly canceled revenues.

Letters—Our remarks on the subject of criticisms of local philatelic societies have brought us several letters and in one instance we regret to find that the writer inclines to the belief that our observations revolved around a letter that he sent us some time before. No thought of persons entered into the explanation as made and the question was considered in its broadest sense. We repeat that our sympathies are with the local society workers who are building as best they can with the material at hand; and when they have the co-operation of those collectors who not only stand aloof but criticise the efforts of those who give freely of their time in an unselfish spirit to improve conditions, then a step forward may be made. Too, we have received a somewhat remarkable indictment of the sins of omission, let us say, of the American Philatelic Society from a member who does not know that some of his charges are rendered ineffective by our knowledge that progress is being made in handling some of the details to which he refers. We think that explanation of seeming delinquencies will be made at the proper time and in returning the letter under notice, we predicted in due course of time, the conduct of the workers in the national organization will be justified. However, one phase of the subject may be open to argument and that is whether it would not be advisable to give the members through the official journal some inkling of the standing of the cases involving the interest of members, through the reports of officers and committees, from time to time.

Early—We have heard so much of propaganda in recent years that we are apt to regard the means of mental inoculation as of recent origin. That the psychological force of propaganda was recognized in the early days of the civil war is indicated by two envelopes in our possession both sent by a soldier to his home from Washington, according to the postmark, in the early days of the war. One of the envelopes bearing a three cent, 1861, with the "Washington City" postmark has an ornamental label on the flap with the written words: "Sure McClellan is the General to lead the army with success." On the flap of the other envelope is the same label with the written inscription: "The soldiers' cry is give us back Gen. Geo. B. McClellan."

Memory—An old-timer has the floor. "What has become of all those big U. S. newspaper stamps, five, ten and twenty-five cents, canceled with broad strokes of marking ink or so viciously pen-marked that the points of the pen cut the paper that were so common years ago? I remember that the dealers had a quantity of them and even in London when I bought a ninety cent, 1869, the dealer gave me a complimentary copy of a much-daubed ten cent green. Are they in limbo?" We suppose that Limbo is one of those new European states, but even so, we cannot get any trace of the big stamps that our correspondent is fussing about. We remember the stamps in the condition described, and in fact have a ten cent on a very small piece of the original wrapper, showing a section of the postmark just off the stamp, but we do not recollect that the specimens were ever painfully common.

A New Blank Album

To meet the requirements of a specialist customer, I have had made to my special order a blank album of larger size than usual, suitable for mounting singles and blocks on the same page, or entire sheets and covers. The album measures 12x14½ inches and is handsomely bound in green or red art cloth with protected corners. It contains 60 stout leaves which are double linen hinged so that they will lie perfectly flat. Each page has a faint grey quadrille background, this measuring 9⅝x12½ inches. The leaves are firmly held in place on two pegs, and while they cannot possibly fall out of the cover, they are easily removed and interchanged as desired. Altogether, it is a sumptuous book and just the thing for the man who collects blocks as well as singles, while the price is extremely moderate. Returnable if not entirely satisfactory.

GOOD HINGES

Many collectors have found it difficult to secure a satisfactory HINGE and after experimenting with many different kinds I have put in a stock of what I consider the best hinge obtainable for all around use.

These are made in England; are lighter than the usual size and when properly used will stick tight enough to hold the stamp without danger of it working loose and yet "peel off" easily when desired.

A "SMALL" FIND.

By G. W. Welsh.

We hear from time to time of the wonderful discoveries that are made in the realm of stamps and the value thereof. It has often caused me to wonder whether there are not hundreds of little lots lying about that would gladden our eyes to see them.

This was demonstrated to me in a striking fashion a few weeks past. Having been invited out to supper, and following the usual custom of devoting a part of the time to "stamps," my host informed me that he had a small collection that he was keeping for his son, who is a lad of about twelve.

They went upstairs and returned with a little red book that from the outside promised about as much as the average kid collection. But that was the end of the likeness.

On the title page of the book, which was printed in German, it said that the book was printed in Leipsig in 1866 and was then the "Tenth, revised, changed and improved edition" by Gustav Bauschke.

The turning of a few leaves revealed the fact that here was something out of the ordinary. I asked permission to take it with me for examination, and when I finished it at one a. m., it went to my bedroom with me, as there was no safe in the house and I did not want some person to covet it during the night.

The number of stamps was a little over 500. The value approximately, by Scott, was nearly $5000. I say approximately, as they were according to ancient rule and custom, glued down to the page with precise care. Otherwise they were in fine condition and many were in mint state.

What struck me was the ease with which one could have had a complete collection in those days. Of course it would have cost money, but think of sixty places for the U. S. A., Venezuela with 13, and the U. S. of Columbia with 34. The principal countries were Thurn and Taxis, Saxony, Prussia, Two Sicilies, and such colonies.

Some stamps that I had heard of and never seen were there, as the Swiss Cantonals, Nos. 12 and 13 and No. 1 Switzerland, catalogued $1200, in this little collection with less than 50 stamps.

Roumania No. 5, Hanover cat. No. 76, Austria No. 200, Baden No. 58, and so on. The British Colonies, as Bahamas and Barbados; were represented by one to three stamps. The D. W. I. had two stamps.

The stamps were as a rule in fine condition and the colors good. The album had been well preserved. The only fault was the impossibility to study papers or watermarks, of which there were not so many in those early days.

I took the book home and with much relief handed it to its owner. At present it is not for sale. It is being well kept and is better than General Motors for increase.

My question in connection with this book is, "How many more little lots like this one are lying around, and how many could be brought to light by just talking our hobby wherever we go?"

The big finds find themselves, but the one I mention must be unearthed because it is in a little book.

OUR REVIEW.

U. S. Stamped Envelopes: Check List of the 3c and 2c on 3c Entires, Issues of 1917 to 1921, has been published by R. J. Tarpy, Box 255, Waterloo, Iowa. As this list is brought down to March 1, 1921, it is the most extended of compilations of these envelope issues that present a good many angles of interest and too for study. The historical phases of the envelopes are admitted and through their variety is somewhat bewildering, the student of them is well repaid. Mr. Tarpy's labor was based on enthusiasm for these envelopes and he had typographical difficulties to overcome; and his list will be welcomed by not a few collectors. Mr. Tarpy says that his list is not intended to replace any list already existent, but he claims that his is the most finished, as it were. "No one has a complete stock of these envelopes and it is doubtful if any one person ever can make a 'complete' collection." The varieties listed on the eight broad pages are not priced, as "it is too uncertain what stocks exist."

The Early U. S. Postal System, by George C. Goodfellow, Hon. Pres., Plainfield Stamp Club, consists of five chapters, beginning with "Colonial Legislation" and ending with "The First Government Issue." Historical matter with a postal case has its appeal to collectors who like to read and ponder over the old days in the service, when rates were high and mails were slow. Price 12c. ITEMS FROM "POPULAR MECHANICS."

By Peter P. Canteen.

In the February issue of the Popular Mechanics, on page 217, an article is published headed: "Metered Service Postal Plan Saves Time." A picture is shown of the machine used.

The April number of Popular Mechanics also contains postal articles of interest which could be published in the Weekly by arrangements with the publishers:—

Page 524.—Perforated return address being used on return letter.

Page 599.—(Illustrated.) Vending machine for stamps sells blocks of five.

It is hardly possible that every Weekly subscriber reads the Popular Mechanics, and I know that the Weekly is willing to furnish postal news.

THE BRAZIL FIND.

By A. H. Weber, B. P. S. 307.

The recent find of early Brazils at Boston has been duly exploited and their approaching dissipation to the four quarters of the earth a foregone conclusion. To the lucky possessors of such covers it is a find, but to Philately it is a tragedy. Here is a fine lot of the early Brazils—rarities—all together, and in a few weeks they will be scattered far and wide. Something should be done at once to keep a record of them that others may have the opportunity of studying and plating them. Many a collector, like myself, has a few of these rare old stamps but cannot afford to go into the market to buy up dozens for plating. The cost is prohibitive to most, but we would gladly buy a set of photos and add them to our collection, as with them we could make some progress toward plating our stamps. Will you forward this plan and give it some publicity? This is an opportunity that should not be allowed to pass.

TWO BACK VOLUMES.

We have a considerable stock on hand of back volumes of the Weekly which we are closing out at $1.50 each. These volumes contain a wealth of interesting matter and the lover of philatelic literature will find them exceedingly valuable. We have in mind two volumes in particular to which we wish to refer, those issued in 1901 and 1902. These two volumes, published in New York, mark the beginning of the association of the present Managing Editor with the Weekly and laid the foundations for his philatelic newspaper career.

The volume for 1901 includes three large special numbers. One is the Pan-American Special, consisting of 44 pages, another for the Danish West Indies of 20 pages, and a third for Hayti, also of 20 pages. These special numbers are all brilliant issues, the one devoted to Hayti containing articles by C. A. Howes, Alexander Holland, Willard O. Wylie and Charles H. Fowle ("Undooley").

The volume for 1902 is distinguished by four special numbers, a particularly strong one being for Hawaii, consisting of 28 pages and illustrated in a lavish manner. Three numbers were devoted to Canada, Belgium and Grenada, the special articles in each case being written by C. A. Howes.

The price of these volumes is $1.50 each and we pay cost of carriage.

UNITED STATES POSTAGE STAMPS

I am always in the market to buy anything fine or unusual in the way of U. S. stamps. I desire collections, single rarities, accumulations, in fact, anything other than the general run of common used varieties. I can especially use mint blocks of the 1890-1898 issues, including the high as well as the low values. If you have a lot that you put away for speculation some time ago, now is the opportunity to sell them.

I make a specialty of supplying the issues of the Bureau from 1894 to date and can furnish practically all of the singles and most of the blocks. Having purchased six 20th Century U. S. collections in the last few months, mostly blocks, has placed me in a position to supply your wants. Many of the greatest specialists in U. S formerly cut their collections off at about 1890 because they found that little attention had been given to the study of the late issues, Luff's wonderful book stopped at 1901, and few dealers could supply blocks, many of which are exceedingly rare. Three of them have recently filled in to date through my help. If you are interested, now is the time, for you will never get them cheaper. Some blocks that can still be had for a few cents will soon be in the dollar class. The same remarks apply to coils, and of these I have an excellent stock. Let me know what you desire, from the commonest to the rarest in late U. S. Have recently supplied such rarities as the 5c error imperf., the 1c, 2c and 24c inverts, all of the blue papers, the part perfs., etc.

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—Mention was made a short while ago that Representative E. R. Ackermann had purchased a portion of the well known Needham collection. It will be of interest as well as news to many to learn that sometime back the same gentleman added to his collection the wonderful lot of the issues of 1847 gotten together by Dr. Carroll Chase as well as the superb lot of the 1869 series belonging to Mr. Van Dyke McBride. Both of these collections were specialized to the nth degree and were no doubt the finest lot of 1847 and 1869 issues ever gotten together.

This week we have quite a few new varieties of the provisional 2c on 3c envelopes to list and we wish to take this opportunity of thanking our many readers for their co-operation in helping us to make this Chronicle as complete as possible. Mr. Robt. T. Molitor sends quite a few from Cleveland, Rev. V. M. Hansen sends a new one from Portland and also a new variety from Boston which he purchased through the Westbrook, Maine Post Office. The same gentleman favors us with several from Mobile. Mr. George P. Smith has located two new sizes from Butte and also a large size 9 on amber from Baltimore. These large amber envelopes, by the way, are not over plentiful outside of those with the first Saint Louis overprint. Mr. H. W. Lindamann has obtained another to add to the long list from Chicago, Rev. C. L. Young adds a large amber from St. Paul, and Mr. LeRoy Pratt several from Seattle.

We would advise our readers that we have been listing only the straight varieties and have made no attempt to record the many albinos, doubles, triples, inverts in lower corner, printed on the back, etc. There are thousands of varieties of these and we would never reach the end of such a list. They exist from every office and are by no means scarce.

Mr. A. F. Gamber calls my attention to the fact that it was Daytona, Florida, where the locally overprinted envelopes were surcharged and not Daytona Beach, as per our original information.

Mr. R. J. Tarpy has sent for review a pamphlet listing all of the provisional envelopes that have come to his attention to March 1st. This is the best gotten up list it has been our pleasure to see, and is so arranged that one may readily keep it up to date. All of these lists, however, are bound to be incomplete, for only after the work is all over and we can tabulate the varieties in the many collections throughout the country, will we be able to know approximately what exists. No price is placed upon this little publication, and we imagine Mr. Tarpy issued it for distribution to his many clients.

We also wish to thank Dr. George Hetrick, Messrs. Chas. C. Dargue, R. Samuels, C. D. Allison, W. S Hunt, Earl K. Cone, H. F. Metz, F. V. Seidenfuss, M. T. John, R. L. Mitchell, John M. Spence, Kirk Warner and H. W. Porter for notes and information of interest.

A small West Virginia city sent to one of the larger central accounting stations a quantity of the old red 1c McKinley postal cards which they desired revalued. They evidently had them mixed up with the 2c, or else the postmaster felt that he could make a few dollars on the supply by having the central accounting station credit him 1c each in the case of these postals. The cards were run through, but when checking up, were noticed. The variety is therefore legitimate and deserves a place in any postal card catalogue.

Twenty-three times catalog is some price! But hearken, it is:
U. S. 1851, 3c ORANGE BROWN, CANCELLED "PALMYRA, MO." IN GREEN!
The date is Sept. 5, 1851—just two months and five days after the stamp was issued, and it comes from a little burg in Missouri, which today is only knee high to a one horse town. What was it before the Civil War?

Furthermore, the stamp is in fine condition and on original letter with a beautiful green grid cancellation in addition to the town. There is a sheet margin at right, and the stamp is from an early impression of the plate and shows the need of being recut. What more could one ask for a paltry eleven-fifty? We doubt if there is a similar cover in any collection.

wish to thank Messrs. George R. in, W. A. Beach, H. M. Norton, usch, H. Fred Parrish and John H. an for notes of interest.

STRALIAN COMMONWEALTH.—The nt 2d value has been printed in a variety of shades that (the Aus- n Philatelist remarks) they are to become a source of loss to nwary. Seen at night, the darkest is easily mistaken for the curd. It shows bad management on art of the postal administration to chosen a colour that was bound d to confusion. The colour of the angaroo—grey—was available, and difficult to understand why this ot adopted, especially as grey is equently used for the twopenny denations of British Colonial stamps. are informed that the same 4d has been actually sold over the post office counter for 2d!—Stamp Collecting.

AUSTRIA.—A set of Charity stamps was due for issue on March 1st, in aid of the sufferers from the recent disastrous floods at Salzburg. The series consists of nineteen denominations, from 5 heller to 20 kronen, and, according to Messrs. Whitfield King & Co., they were to be sold during a period of fifteen days only, at treble face value, being valid for postage only to the extent of the actual facial denomination. —Stamp Collecting.

J. E. Guest informs us that in April a new set of stamps will be issued with the inscription "Austria." A set of charity stamps is also to appear.

BRAZIL.—The Economist Stamp Co. announce the issue of a 50r stamp of grey green color picturing a laborer at work. Across the centre of the stamp is the word "Industria".

BRITISH COLONIALS.—Messrs. Bright & Son advise as follows:

"Regarding a recently issued 1sh value King George Colonies stamps on emerald paper, we find there has been a provisional issue of some countries on emerald coated paper. What we believe really happened was that a few shades of old green paper were turned out and received the emerald coating on the front only. The real emerald paper is emerald both back and front as on the Togo 1sh, which was one of the first of these to be issued.

We have so far seen Nigeria, Malta and Grenada 1sh stamps on this provisional paper, coated only on the front, there may be others. So far the Togo is the only one we have seen on the real emerald back and front."

GERMANY.—The Economist Stamp Co. have shown us a copy of the 5pf brown in a somewhat deeper shade

HOLLAND.—Higher postal rates came into force on the 1st inst., and we have received a post card from Messrs. Yaar & Co. bearing a printed 7½c stamp; reply cards are also on issue for double that amount. The revised tariff for foreign letters is 20c (increased from 12½c), and the ½, 1½, 4½, 7, and 7½ Due have been withdrawn.

A new provisional is of the denomination of 4c—surcharged in red on the 4½c violet. The 2c and 30c are again in use, while new Postage Due labels comprise the denominations of 11c and 1 gulden.

Of the "Floating Safe" stamps, of which very full particulars were published in our issue for February 26th, Messrs. Yaar inform us that the full set comprises seven values, viz.:—

15c dark blue and green, perf. 11½.
60c carmine, perf. 11½.
75c sepia, perf. 11½.
1 gulden 50c dark blue, perf. 11½.
2 gulden 25c brown, perf. 11½.
4 gulden 50c grey-black, perf. 11½.
7 gulden 50c red, perf. 11½.

These are on sale at all post offices in Holland and the Dutch Indies.

We are informed that the ½ and 1½c adhesives, now no longer required, are to be surcharged in order to use up the enormous stock on hand (comprising several millions).

Finally, as the post cards of 3c were all surcharged with "Vyf cent", new cards must be expected.—Stamp Collecting.

IRAQ.—Mr. John T. Clemons and the Frank P. Brown Co. report the appearance of several values of the 1918 set with the added overprint, "On State Service" in black. Mr. Clemons has shown us the 1½a, 4a and 8a thus overprinted.

ITALY.—The Economist Stamp Co. submit a copy of the 85c red-brown in the type of Scott's A49.

LIBERIA.—Mr. John T. Clemons has submitted to us for chronicle a copy of the registration stamp No. 313 surcharged "5" with double bars obliterating the former value. The overprint is in black.

MONACO.—The Frank P. Brown Co. advise us that they have recently received the 5c green and the 75c brown surcharged "28 Decembre 1920" in three lines, and the 5frs has also been overprinted in the same manner with the additional surcharge "2Fr".

PAPUA—Messrs. J. H. Smyth, Ltd., and the Economist Stamp Co. have submitted the new 2d and 4d mentioned in last week's edition. The color of the former is red-lilac and lilac and the latter orange and brown.

TURKS ISLANDS.—We learn from good authority that an order for several values of stamps of this colony has been ordered from London and that they will be printed on the new watermarked paper.

PRECANCEL NOTES.

By RALPH KING.

I recently came across a 7c Boston that was either a Shermack or imperforate. Nawata, Okla., (sounds dry) is a new one in the precancel fraternity. Have seen the 5c and 12c normal in two thin lines, 16 mm. apart on the 5c and 15 mm. on the 12c, printed in two lines, larger upper and lower case letters with serifs.

I found 20c Two Rivers, Wis., in type U-8, also 20c Milwaukee inverted latest issue, and—Oh, Boy—a pair of Globe, Ariz., 10c red ink, inv., perf. 11, similar to U-14, Colorado Springs, Colo., 6c perf. 11 inverted.

All the precancel collectors are complaining of "slim picking." Perhaps the Christmas crop will cheer them up a bit.

Holdredge, Neb., has joined the "precancel club." I received a block of 6 of the 3c universal type 15.

Atchison, Kas., is now using U-15 type. Have seen all values up to 8c and 10c and 15c normal Postmaster "personally" superintends printing and takes particular pride in making no varieties." He must have been on vacation when Victory stamps were precancelled, as I have found about every combination except two kinds of ink on a double cancellation.

Kansas City, Mo., has new type—is U-3. Have seen 1-2-3-8 normal and 5-10 inverted. There are two distinct shades of the 3c in this issue.

U. S. three values Pilgrim Commemorative is out, so watch for precancels, "me" lads.

Guthrie, Okla., 10c perf. 12, U-1 type. Kansas City, Mo., 13c perf. 11, similar to type U-3 but somewhat shorter letters. Ft. Atkinson, "Wisc." 1c type similar to U-9. Menominee, "Michigan" 30c type similar to U-15 but slightly larger. Terre Haute, Ind., 8c inverted and similar to type U-16 but taller letters (roller). Libertyville, Ill., 10c inverted type U-3. St. Paul, Minn., 9c Univ. type 1, invert.

Here are some new cities using precancels: 1c Glenelyn, Ill. 1c N. Towanda, N. Y. 6c Spencer, Mass. 6c Newburyport, Mass. 6c Chicopee, Mass. —Precancel Gazette.

THERE IS A REASON

All the dealers like my wholesale approvals because they are different. Nothing much in Neurope and nothing much for 1 and 2ct approvals, but good standard stamps of the 20th century both used and unused cataloguing from 25cts to a couple of dollars. Also some good sets.

For the Collector I specialize in 20th Century Stamps postally used. If you are interested in used Iceland, Greece or in some British Colonials, drop me a line with a good reference and get a Sample Approval Selection.

GRUNT TURKEY SERVED IN PANAMA.

The following clipping from the February Crescent, official Shriners' magazine, tells of the cruel hoax perpetrated by that rampant philatelist, Mr. Gerald D. Bliss, who is well-known to many of our readers.

"Let the imagination run for a moment.

In your mind, put yourself in Panama, where turkeys are as rare as mocking birds at the North Pole. You have received from Noble Gerald Bliss, postmaster, an invitation to a Christmas dinner, and you know that it's possible that a turkey may have been shipped by parcel post to somebody in Panama, and that it is also a possibility that said turk could not be delivered because the consignee had left the country, or something. In your mind you accept that invitation.

Can you picture how you would feel when invited to the dinner table to find just an ordinary can of dried beef occupying the place of the turkey?

Bliss put that over on twenty-two friends and relatives at Panama on Christmas day.

He escaped murder only when a chef from the Stranger's Club delivered a nice roast pig in time for the meat course."

NEW ISSUE NOTES.

By CHAS. S. THOMPSON.

CENTRAL LITHUANIA.—Two sets of labels, alleged to be stamps, have arrived from this region. One, of six varieties, is of the crudest possible execution, and is ascribed to General Zeligovski. These smears (this is the only word that describes them) are lithographs, laid down in blocks of ten transfers, all of which differ slightly from each other. All are inscribed LITWA SRODKOWA and value in F (ennig) or M (arka), and the 10M, in addition, has L Z, evidently the initials of the military gentleman, in the upper corners.

25F dull grey--blue, a coy peasant maiden with averted eyes (head only).

1M orange, perhaps Pallas, maybe Mars, certainly soldier of antiquity.

2M red-lilac, a rickety bunch of buildings.

4M greenish grey and drab, facade of the temple of Athene, and the leaning tower of Pisa, latter with Dutch windmill foundation.

6M carmine and grey, Roman lamp, crossed sceptres, and background of empty royal regalia displayed on a post.

10M deep brown and yellow, portrait of General Disorder, emblematic of conditions in Litwa.

The preceding descriptions deal with the actual facts: the "Legion" set of Fiume is bad, but these are by far the worst specimens of labels extant. No counterfeiter will ever be able to reproduce them sufficiently badly to escape immediate detection!

The other set consists of three values, typographed, SRODKOWA LITWA at top, POCZTA at bottom, ornamental medallion in centre displaying the white eagle of Poland and St. George of Lithuania, with value in circle below.

25F red, 1M blue, 2M violet. Printed 50 in a sheet with marginal-value imprints above each row. The 25's have the sheets 5 stamps wide by 10 high, the 1 and 2M are 5 high by 10 wide.

CZECHO-SLOVAKIA.—Newspaper stamps, falcon type, (by the way, who said this bird is a pigeon—it's Falco tinnunculus) 50h orange, 100h red-brown.

DANZIG.—The new set has been issued, 5pf to 10Mk. The pfennig values are of small size, the Mark values considerably larger. All are upright rectangles, and as ships are pictured on all, the stamps will likely be in demand by those who fancy "ship stamps." The lower values show a mediaeval galleon under full sail, and nearly "head-on" to the observer. Numerals of value in upper corners, and in lower the date 15.XI.1920. In double-lined pointed oval surrounding the ship, FREIE STADT DANZIG—Free City of Danzig.

The mark values are more ornate, and have the arms of the city displayed in the lower left corner, while at the right, on a similar shield, is the date 15.XI.1920. The ship shown on these values is headed more to starboard, and is not nearly so well drawn. It is evidently the intention to show the insignia of the city on the sails of the galleons, but they are rather indistinct.

The stamps are on paper with honeycomb watermark, and are rouletted in zigzags.

5p brown and lilac, 10p orange and violet, 25p red and green, 40p red, 80p ultra, 1M carmine and black, 2M blue and blackish green, 3M black and yellow green, 5M black and red, 10M greenish black and yellow-brown.

FIJI.—The 2d has been issued in a new shade, but as greys absolutely defy description, it is impossible to name it. It is a deep, cool grey, somewhat like Davies' grey, but darker, somewhat like cool grey No. 2 of the color scale, but lighter.

FIUME.—Those who fondly imagined that the postal mal-activities of Fiume would end with Annunzio will receive a setback when they learn that the whole Annunzio set, showing Gabriel disguised as an ostrich egg, has been surcharged "Governo Provvisorio." The 30c and 50c Specials have been treated thus, also making sixteen varieties in all.

JUGO-SLAVIA.—The permanent set produced by the American Bank Note Co. has been issued. There are two designs, one for the para values picturing Prince Alexander, the other for the Dinar values portraying King Peter. The inscriptions are in both Cyrillian and Roman letters, the latter at bottom, KRALIEVSTVO SRBA, HRVATA, I SLOVENACA, or Kingdom of the Serbs, Croats, and Slovenes. The value is indicated by figures only, in the para values; the Dinar values have a Cyrillian D after the left-hand figure, while a Roman D follows that on the right.

Three Charity stamps have also been issued. These are of large size, oblong, and are pictorials. 10+10pa carmine, young woman of Kossovo. Kossovo, the "Plain of the Blackbirds," is one of the most notable spots in Serbian history. Here, in 1389, the Turks defeated the Serbs, but their Sultan Murad was killed by a wounded Serb. In 1448 Hunyady Janos, the Hungarian leader, was totally defeated by the Turks, on the same field.

15+15pa dark brown, retreat of the Serbian army through Albania.

25+25pa light blue, allegory representing the union of the Serbs, Cr and Slovenes.

The stamps have similar inscript with the regular postage set, in add to which they are inscribed with words ZA INVALIDE, meaning Invalids." The numerals of value pear in fancy tablets at the side the central design.

The charity set will be on sale 90 days. They were issued on the sion of the conferring of the Orde the Legion of Honor on the cit Belgrade.

LICHTENSTEIN.—More surcharge, new issues, more anguish! Two ues, the 20h brown and the 40h imperf., have been surcharged VISORISCH WERT IN SCHW FRANK—Temporary value in S Francs, in three lines.

Also six values of the same typ the big 10Kr of the pictorial set been issued in smaller form, with in, rappen, which word has not used on postage stamps since 1862.

2½r slate, 3r orange, 5r olive g 7½r blue, 10r yellow--green, 15r black. Face value of the whole 8½c.

LUXEMBURG.—The first of the issue to appear is the 15c carr The design is exceedingly simple, at the same time the most attracti any stamp in use at the present The portrait of the Grand Duc Charlotte is displayed in a cro oval, 15 and C in upper cor "Luxembourg" below. The stamps printed in sheets of five only, and ome weeks ago the Kansas City mp Club gave a signally successful quet and we present evidence to sus- our statement. We have numbered e who were present on the mem- le occasion and the personnel is as ows:

—Wm. Jerrems, Jr.
—C. W. Waddell.
—C. F. Corbin.
—Wilson D. Wood, president.
—Elliott Perry, Westfield, N. J.
—H. C. Warren, secy.-treas.
—W. C. Michaels, 1st vice president.
—Simpson Yeomans.
—John Heffer.
—J. A. Goldsmith.
11.—Rev. Dick, Leavenworth, Kans.
12.—W. G. Noël.
13.—W. Noël, Jr.
14.—W. H. Wilkinson.
15.—D. J. Wyant.
16.—Ora Stark.
17.—D. C. Hammatt, Topeka, Kans.
18.—O. P. Luther.
19.—W. B. Carver, Paola, Kans.
20.—Toby Fishman.
21.—S. H. Barnes.
22.—Allen Logan, 2nd vice president.

The Hotel Savoy, Kansas City, Mo., was the setting and Mr. W. C. Michaels acted as toastmaster, and though the principal speakers were Elliott Perry, Westfield, N. J.; W. D. Wood, Ora Stark, Wm. Jerrems, Jr., all of Kansas City, many others gave impromptu talks that contributed to the enjoyment of the occasion. The features of the evening were an auction sale of worth-while stamps and the exhibition of the United States and Cape of Good Hope sections of the Needham collection, which was bought recently by Senator Ackermann. A few particulars of the Kansas City Stamp Club will be of interest. The Club is Branch No. 10 of the American Philatelic Society and all but four members belong to the parent body. The officers are men of standing, and through their instrumentality and the co-operation of the members, have established club rooms in the Kemper Building, rooms 507 and 508, where local non-members and visiting collectors are assured of a genuine welcome. Collectors under 21 years of age are not admitted to membership but they may resort to the rooms on Saturday afternoons, when there is always an older member in attendance. In fact, the Club register shows that every day since the organization of the Club, one or more members has been at the rooms. The initiation fee is ten dollars and the dues are two dollars a month, payable quarterly in advance, but non-resident members pay but four dollars a year, with the same initiation fee.

Every one of the thirty members of this Club is a factor in its development, but we are safe in saying that more members would be welcome. The Club is a great tribute to the fine philatelic spirit that prevails in Kansas City, Mo.

URU.—The 2s6d has appeared in a shade, light warm sepia, which is ther pale brown, with a decided sh cast.

W HEBRIDES.—Regarding the five sionals issued some time ago, (1d h, 1d on 2sh, 1d on 5sh, 5c on 50c, n 25c), the writer learns that the s restricted to a franc's worth to ne purchaser, also that the rate of nge has been determined upon as ing equal to 10 centimes, so that stamps cannot be purchased at ar rates of Paris exchange. ner, the issue is gradually seeping the hands of island speculators, ask 2sh per set for them in whole- quantities, and as orders from d are not filled, they will likely heir price, which is only 450 per above face. However, this is a matter when the face is only 9c, t must require considerable nerve.

PENRHYN.—Same as Niue.

PAPUA.—Two new bi-colors have arrived, 2d red-violet and violet. 4d orange and brown. Same old lakatoi type, also lakafinish, and lakavariety. It is time that Papua had a new type or types, decently produced. Some copper-plate designs showing members of the remarkable fauna, beyond argument the most unusual in the world, would seem particularly appropriate.

PORTUGAL.—A set of eight parcel post stamps has been issued. These are large oblongs, REPUBLICA PORTUGESA at top, value expressed as hundredths of a dollar, i. e., $ 01 Ctvos. in centre, ENCOMENDAS POSTAIS at bottom, Mercury with winged helmet and caduceus at left, female (?) figure grasping cog-wheel at right, the figures typifying commerce and manufacture.

1c brown, 2c yellow-orange, 5c light brown, 10c red-brown, 20c ultra, 40c red, 50c black, 1 Escudo or $, yellow-green.

SWITZERLAND.—The 2½/3, 5/7½, and 20/15 all come tete-beche. Two new colors, 10c Tell type, yellow-green on buff, 40c Helvetia type, blue.

UKRAINE.—The remainder of the pictorial set has arrived. In addition to the five values which have been described in various places, there are nine other varieties, from 15 to 200 grivnia. All are inscribed POSCHTA UKRAINSKA NARODNYA RESPUBLIKA (Postage, Ukrainian People's Republic) and value, latter expressed in figures in lower corners. The trident design appears twice on each stamp, in the upper corners, except the 30, 40 and 50, where it is inserted but once, top centre.

The 15g brown portrays a Ukrainian gentleman unknown to me; the 20g grey-blue pictures Mazeppa; the 30g bistre shows Prince Kotschubey in chains, also in jail; the 40g red-brown pictures another hero whose name I do not know; the 50g grey-green portrays a native musician playing a stringed instrument called "balalaika"; the 60g violet and brown shows a building in Kiev; the 80g brown and blue depicts a Crossing-the-Delaware scene, or it may represent sturgeon fishing in the Dnieper; the 100g green and black shows a monument; the 200g red brown and black shows one of the peculiar South Russian windmills, which have the whole building, as well as the mill, pivoted on the foundation.

ADVENTURES IN SEARCH OF A STAMP.

By PHILATELIST.

You may be interested in my recent experiences as a stamp collector. Let me tell the tale:—

"Very well then, Ram Dayal, I'll draw a draft on Australia and will clear the account later!"

It seemed a little matter, and although there was some delay over the particular form to be used, nothing important occurred till the draft came back from Calcutta with the instruction that the "First" and "Second" of demand must each be stamped with a nine anna stamp.

The opening of the twentieth century found me possessed of no little information on Indian matters in general, but those nine anna stamps were to reveal to me at the beginning of its third decade that there were new fields of knowledge awaiting exploration. Memory served one well; on one occasion I heard a senior officer lamenting the trouble in which he was involved through signing one of these documents before the stamp had been affixed. I accordingly cancelled the original draft and issued a new one, taking care not to sign it, and congratulating myself on avoiding one pitfall.

Early next day I wrote a letter to the officer in charge of stamps at the Kutchery and enclosed the draft, with an explanation of what was wanted, and sent it by the chuprassi with the necessary eighteen annas. He was away all day, and on his return just before office closed he explained that he had gone to the Kutchery and had been sent from there to the "Board," where a clerk had written that I must pay the money into the Bank of Bengal by a chalan, and then send for the stamps, at which I was annoyed, not so much by the fact that nothing had been done, but by the length of time spent in the process.

As the procuring of the stamps promised to be more cumbersome than I expected, I determined to go for them myself, knowing that a Sahib gets things done more quickly than a chuprassi. I filled in a chalan and put some rupees in my pocket to provide for unseen emergencies and went to the Bank.

My first check was in presenting my chalan. The clerk told me it must be in duplicate, but being a very good-natured clerk he not only produced another chalan, but actually filled it up for me! Then he began to instruct me. "You must first go to the Treasury Officer and get these chalans signed, and then bring them back here and I will receive the money." "But where," asked I, "shall I get the stamps?" "You will get them from the Board of Revenue." So I jumped on my bicycle and rode away to see the Treasury Officer, who called a babu to take the chalans away and investigate them. While he was investigating them I chatted to the Treasury Officer on Government methods and stamps; and having in view my need, in the not very distant future, of a stamp for a deed of sale, made careful enquiries as to the proper method to be pursued. The return of the chalan with the assurance that all was correct was the sign for progress, so after the official signature had been made I returned to the Bank. Here I gladly handed in my money and my two chalans. As I anxiously watched the clerk's face I saw the "scrutiny" give place to satisfaction, and felt happier. The chalans were handed over to another clerk who made entries in a book, and then handed them back to the first clerk, who asked me for the money and initialled them. It struck me as interesting to observe how all things worked in pairs. Two people had dealt with the chalans at the Treasury and now two more received them. The next stage was very mysterious. The chalans went behind a wicket to where the cashiers were sitting and again one clerk scrutinised, and another made entries. So far six people had handled them since I got on the right track and now a chuprassi was called and he disappeared with the two chalans, leaving me in vague wonderment. I had a chat with the Agent about the rate of exchange and other matters, passing the time pleasantly till the chuprassi suddenly reappeared with one chalan, which he gave to me and I treasured most carefully. If, as I am inclined to believe, he had shown the chalan to someone, then the number of persons engaged in this interesting pursuit mounted up to eight. Meanwhile, as noon was now past, I hurried away to the "Board" and quite easily found the clerk who dealt with such matters. He carefully examined my chalan and gave it to a chuprassi with orders to bring the stamps. He disappeared and I filled in time by making further enquiries about my deed of sale stamp. To my surprise, I found that the information given in all departments is not identical; indeed I was assured that the Treasury information was quite wrong, and I was pointed in triumph to the impressing machine. Repeating over and over the instructions "go to the Treasury and get your chalans signed—then pay in to the Bank of Bengal—then come here!" in the sleepy silence of that big office. I fell asleep, and was presently aroused by the arrival of the stamps. The directions to the chuprassi as to how to place them were so detailed that I simplified matters by licking them and sticking them on, after which the chuprassi solemnly impressed the stamps and then stamped them with the date in copying ink. This made the eleventh person who had helped me. On my way home to office I recalled with sorrow my annoyance of the previous day, and resolved never again to underestimate the difficulties of an honest chuprassi even when sent on so simple an errand as buying a stamp. At the call of the office bell, Ram Dayal again stood before me, as I finished the second signature.

"Send this draft back to the Bank!"

"Yes, sir!"

PIKE'S COLLECTORS' DIGEST.

A. H. Pike, editor and publisher of the Collectors' Digest, has given us in the 1919 annual a book that is tremendously useful. While it is a matter of regret that it could not be published earlier, we have no hesitation in advising any studious collector to send 25c for a copy of the number that lies before us. A mass of information boiled down fills the pages of this 44-paged book, covering a very wide range of matters philatelic. A large amount of useful matter is scattered through its pages and much of the material will have permanent value to any stamp collector. Mr. Pike has labored under great difficulties in producing this Digest and promises the 1920 edition in due season. The motto of the publication, "Hobbies of the World," is amply justified, though stamp collecting has, to a very large degree, the right of way. Address Index Service Co., Sta. G, Buffalo, N. Y.

THE ALTUS, OKLA., 1c ON 2c CARDS.

In our issue of March 5 the statement was made that 4300 cards were put through the cancelling machine of the Altus, Okla., post office. J. William Harmon of the Oklahoma City P. O. writes us as follows relative to the statement contained in the article on page 16 of the March 5 issue:—

"I am sure the writer of the last article on the last page of the WEEKLY for Mar. 5, 1921, concerning the '1c on 2c cards,' has been misinformed and did not intend to mislead anyone. The 4300 postal cards were not put through the machine at Altus, Okla. I myself ran that bunch of cards through the International machine in this office, using the identical die with which we have revalued something over 1,100,000 postals for this and various post offices over this state. With the exception of the now famous Duncan and Frederick overprinted envelopes, I am sure that the Oklahoma, Okla., office has done all the overprinting of both postals and envelopes for this state."

NEW ISSUE NUTS.

By R. E. GUM.

Several new stamp companies are about to eventuate in our fair city, one of which, composed of those sterling citizens, Henry Bowman, William Hunter, and Izzy Kohn, will be called the Bohunko Stamp Co.

Another concern which is about to incorporate, will deal only in the issues of the Indian Convention States and Crete. The name decided upon is Concrete Stamp Co. They wanted to handle only Tonga and Crete, and call it the Cretonne Co., but decided that the Women's Club would object to such a name. They figure the new name will get them tne rocks, anyway.

Bill Jones bought a bunch of war stamps from a hungry stamp fiend a few days ago, because he thought Jim Smith wanted them. Come to find out, Jim already had a supply, so now Bill is trying to peddle his at less than wholesale to get even with Jim. Ain't it queer the way some of these fellows take to hurt themselves?

Arthur Letts bought a lot of Senegambian early issues from his dentist a couple weeks ago, and now he claims they are all phoney. Somehow or other the rest of the collectors h re in town believe that Arthur thinks he paid too much and is trying to get some of his money back. But the dentist says Arthur is trying to plug the wrong cavity.

Sid Perkins got a fine selection of stamps from England a few days ago, and then went to call on a dealer to find out if they were O. K. He stayed two hours and got a lot of information and discovered that some of the stamps that he had decided to buy were counterfeit. All told, he saved about $50, but when the dealer presented him with a bill for $5 for the time, Sid got sore. Sid says he thinks that the dealer is selfish to think that his time is worth more than Sid Perkins' time, and besides, he spent the afternoon with the dealer.

Somebody says that Gabriel D'Annunzio got jealous because he couldn't catch up with the Czecho-Slovak Charity set, which ran to 149 varieties, and that he tore out all his hair. Other people say that he lost it from worry over all the fiumes that leaked out of the exposed plumbing.

Jed Hawkins was all upset yesterday over a bunch of errors he got at the post office. Seems that the stamps were gummed on the face and printed on the back, according to Jed, but the fact is, the clerk handed out the sheet upside down, and Jed gets flustered so easy that he thought he had an inverted impression. He did.

Bert Lake, one of our prominent dealers, was visited by a stranger a few days ago. Said stranger asked Bert if there were any other dealers in town, and Bert said no. Later the stranger ran across another stamp peddler, and told him what Bert said. Then the second dealer decided that he wasn't a dealer, after all, but it didn't matter to him, as long as he did the business and "gotta da mon'."

JAPAN COUNTS NOSES.

Stamp in Honor of First Census Bears Likeness of Original Mikado.

"Until March 31 there will be available for use by the people of Japan a series which will rank among the most curious stamps ever issued—adhesives unique not in design altho they are pleasing to look upon, but in purpose," says Kent B. Stiles, the stamp editor of Boys' Life, in that magazine. "This purpose is two-fold—both to commemorate and to advertise a milestone in the history of Japan: the first taking of a census.

"These stamps will tell American boys something which they probably did not know before—even if they had given any thought at all to the subject—that Japan has never counted noses within her borders until now. Of course the Japanese newspapers acquainted the people of the Empire with the fact that a census was to be taken. But, rightly, the government officials believed that, inasmuch as nearly all people use postage stamps but all people do not read the newspapers regularly, special stamps would carry the census message even more definitely than would the newspapers.

"Thus the census series came into use —1½ sen reddish violet and 3 sen vermilion, the lower value for prepaying postage on postal cards, the higher value for letter franking. The stamps are for use only within the Empire.

"Inasmuch as the stamps were intended to advertise the census, we may expect that the design was made accordingly, and this assumption is correct. The inscription includes, in Japanese characters, 'First Census, 1920.' The central figure is that of Japan's first emperor, Mikado Jimmu, whose reign was about 60 years before Christ; he is shown with a writing brush in one hand and a scroll in the other. The design on both stamps is the same.

"The series met with immediate popularity in Japan and supplies at the principal post office were quickly sold out. At present it is not known how large the issue is, so the philatelic value can only be conjectured. It is not expected the stamps will be rare, but on the other hand they will be well worth having in albums."—Austinite.

SERBIAN STAMP STORY.

VIENNA, Feb. 12.—"Mr. Lang, of Semlin" (a city on the Danube, opposite Belgrade), says the Vienna Sport Tagblatt, "was a low salaried bank official until the murder of a Serbian King made him a well-to-do man.

"On the morning of June 11, 1903, the sister Cities of Belgrade and Semlin were dumbfounded by the news that King Alexander and his consort, Draga Mashin, had been assassinated. The thoughts engendered by the news differed according to the nationality and political affiliations of the individuals. Mr. Lang's interest centered in the Serbian new one para postage stamp.

"He was a friend of the Belgrade Postmaster and by chance had learned that a short time before Serbia had ordered from France one million one para (one-fifth of one cent) stamps with the picture of King Alexander. Mr. Lang hurried across the Danube Bridge to the Belgrade Postmaster and offered to buy the whole issue of one para stamps, that would be worthless because of Alexander's tragic death, at the full price—10,000 francs ($2,000 at the normal rate of exchange).

"When the Postmaster hesitated, Mr. Lang handed him a tip of 1,500 francs and received all the one para Alexander stamps with the exception of a few that had already been sold over the Post Office counter, thereby obtaining a monopoly.

"Restricting the annual sale to 6,000 stamps, Lang kept the price per piece up to 4.50, thereby obtaining an annual income of 27,500 francs."—New York World.

THE WHITE AND GREEN SEALS OF SONORA

THE GEMS OF THE 20th CENTURY.

By MAJOR CHAS. S. HAMILTON, U.S.A.

During the past few years in which new issues of Europe and War Stamps have arrived almost daily, collectors have neglected the stamps of one of our neighbors—Mexico—letting the opportunity go by of acquiring some of the greatest rarities of the 20th Century while still obtainable and at reasonable prices.

The White and Green Seals were issued by the Revolutionary Government of Mexico to fill the postal needs of the territory under its control, during the period of May to November, 1913. The White Seals, comprising Scott's Nos. 321 to 329, were issued during the months of May, June and July, and the Green Seals, Scott's Nos. 336 to 344, were issued in the months of July, August, September, October and November, the entire supply being exhausted by the end of the year.

These stamps were issued for immediate postal necessity, and as the number issued was small, they were rapidly absorbed by postal use and largely lost to the collecting world due to the unsettled and destructive condition reigning in Mexico at that time. But very few of these stamps found their way to this country to the dealers who handle new issues, and as the value at that time of Mexican currency was but a couple of cents to the peso, the dealers decried these stamps, thinking the country would be flooded with them and sold the few they had for a few cents apiece. Of course this little lot was never replaced, as the stamps were quickly used up for the legitimate postal needs of the country before their value was realized, and today I can confidently state that the stock of these most desirable stamps in the hands of dealers is nothing at all. In fact, we poor collectors cannot secure many of the needed specimens to fill the blank spaces in our albums no matter how anxious we are and how willing to pay for them. Just as a matter of interest I suggest to collectors to ask their dealer for a copy of the mediumly priced stamps. Nos. 325, 326, 327 and 329, used or unused, and see if they can obtain a copy. Even the cheap ones, Nos. 322, 323, 336, 337 and 339, will be very hard to find.

Another factor which has contributed considerably to enhance the value and scarcity of these stamps is the poor separation of most of them which has resulted in at least one out of every three stamps being so badly torn or cut as to be valueless even from the standpoint of the uncritical collector.

Certain of the Green Seals were reissued about September, 1914, by the Villa Government after the breach with Carranza, to supply postal needs, and Scott's Nos. 345 and 346 are two of these. Neither the thick type five cent or the ten cent, with black roulette, were issued by the Mexican Government. The other denominations are included in Scott's Nos. 341, 342 and 343, but as the paper, color and position of the seals is entirely different from the original issues, no one should have any difficulty in properly placing them.

The first of the White Seals as generally listed is the five cent, perforated, Scott's No. 321. Of this stamp there are no official records to show the number issued, but there is no doubt that the total number was less than 250 stamps, or 25 sheets. All of the White and Green Seals were issued in sheets of ten stamps, two rows of five each, with the bottom of each stamp toward the center of the sheet, giving the vertical pairs of stamps the appearance of being tete-beche. No complete sheet of this stamp is known to exist. The unused copies known can be counted on one's fingers and less than a total of forty used and unused copies are known in the hands of dealers and collectors. Attempts to counterfeit this stamp have been made by perforating copies of the five cent colorless roulette, Scott's No. 326, but these can be generally told offhand by the cancellations and dates, as this stamp was only used in five small towns—La Cananea, La Mesa, Naco, Chivatera and Agua Prieta—and prob-

CLASSIFIED PACKETS

Here is something the younger collectors will appreciate. I call them packets, but they are really small collections.

United States stamps properly classified according to issues and placed (each issue separately) on approval cards. The service of classification is worth a good deal. The stamps furnished are in good condition. Any packet is returnable.

UNSOLICITED PACKET TESTIMONIALS

Packet No. 124 entirely satisfactory. I added over 450 new varieties to a previous collection of 2000 stamps.—H. S. Lynn, Pittsburgh, Pa.

I was very much pleased with the War Stamps I received in your 3000 variety packet as I added about 100 varieties to my collection of 300 Wars. It is a splendid packet all through.—R. Speer, Long Beach, Calif.

I added 316 stamps to a collection of about 3200, not counting the envelope stamps—(given as a premium) —I also found many better specimens to substitute for not-so-good ones already in my album. Then I made up the balance of the stamps into smaller packets and sold them to collectors for $3.00. As I only paid $3.25 for packet No. 124 in the first place, my net expense was 25 cents on the deal. I got so much fun looking the pile over (worth a good deal in itself) that I am converted to packets from now on.—F. M. Gracey, Cambridge, Mass.

Received packet No. 126 (2000 varieties at $10.00) in good condition and am very much pleased with same. Another order enclosed.—C. C. Colyer, Altoona, Pa.

Don't Hesitate—Your opportunity is now. Remember the packet must satisfy or we refund your money plus your postage in returning same. Could we be more convincing of these packets sterling qualities? Try one today—acts like a good tonic.

H. F. COLMAN SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG., WASHINGTON, D. C.

ably only during the month of July, 1913. This stamp is perforated on three sides only.

The one cent, Scott's No. 322, first appeared about the middle of June, 1913, and was used for several months. The Mexican Postmaster General, Hinojosa, gives 9,900 as the number issued. One cent was the local mailing rate for circulars and printed matter; not many business houses sent out advertising matter, consequently not as many of these stamps were used as those of the other values, and so more unused copies can be found than those of the other denominations. Most of these stamps found on cover are in combination with two and three cent values, and when found on the cover singly are very rare.

The two cent, Scott's Nos. 323 and 324, appeared first also in June. Both of these stamps are in the same sheet, there being one copy (center stamp) of 324 in each row of five or two to the sheet. No. 324 is therefore really a sub-variety of No. 323. Hinojosa gives 18,170 as the number of two cent stamps issued. This makes 14,536 of No. 323, and 3,634 of No. 324, showing the latter to be a much rarer stamp than is generally supposed. These stamps are about equally rare, used or unused.

The three cent, Scott's No. 325, likewise made its first appearance about the middle of June, Hinojosa reporting 6,400 as the number issued. Unused, this stamp is much rarer than used, and far rarer than the five cent No. 326 used, which is catalogued much higher. Complete sheets are very rare.

The five cent, Scott's No. 326, is the first of these stamps that appeared, dating as it does to the latter part of May, 1913. The exact number issued is not known as the 19,230 stamps of five cent denomination issued, as given by Hinojosa includes Scott's Nos. 321, 326, 327 and 329. From the number of used copies known of No. 326, it is thought probable that about 12,000 were issued. Used, this stamp is the commonest of the five cent values, but unused it is the rarest except No. 321, as less than 100 unused copies, which include six complete sheets, are known. It can readily be seen that the catalogue value of this stamp unused is ridiculously cheap, the stamp being several times underpriced.

The five cent, Scott's No. 327, came out the middle of June, 1913. The exact number of copies of this stamp issued is not known, but probably was about 3,000. Unused, this stamp while very rare, is not as rare as No. 326, but used it is next to No. 321 in rarity, and is certainly underpriced, both used and unused.

The ten cent, Scott's No. 328, also appeared in June, 1913. Hinojosa gives 4,900 as the number issued. The ten cent value was not used a great deal, as five cents was the normal postal rate, and therefore used copies are much rarer than the unused.

The five cent, Scott's No. 329, is the only one of the White Seals with black roulette. This stamp appeared about the first of July, 1913, and probably 4,000 of them were issued. Notwithstanding the fact that the used copies are priced higher than the unused by Scott, the latter are much the rarer, as these stamps were practically all used up for postage.

I shall now take up the sub-varieties of Scott's Nos. 322 to 328, which are in reality a distinct issue and just as different from Nos. 322 to 328 as are the separately placed Green Seal issue in Nos. 336 to 339. These stamps first appeared the latter part of September, 1913. In these stamps we have varieties of the highest rank, some of them being quite on a par with Hawaiian Missionaries or Post Office Mauritius. These stamps were probably issued with the Green Seal in order to use up a few remaining sheets of Nos. 322, 323, 325 and 327. There is not a single complete sheet known of any of these stamps and with but two or three exceptions single copies only exist. Of No. 322a, probably not more than three or four sheets were issued (30 or 40 stamps) and this stamp is of the greatest rarity, especially unused, not more than fifteen copies being known. Nos. 323a and 324a both come in the same sheet, there being two of No. 324a and eight of No. 323a. Of No. 323a but six copies are known, and of No. 324a three copies are known, therefore there must have been at least two sheets issued. Certainly these stamps, as far as rarity is concerned, can be placed among the greatest rarities known in the Stamp World. Of No. 325a probably more were issued than of any denomination of these stamps, about twenty-five copies, used and unused, being known. No. 327a is another of the great rarities, as less than fifteen copies of this stamp are known to exist. It is doubtful if No. 328a was ever issued, as I have never seen a copy nor heard of any one who has. A copy of the two penny Post Office Mauritius, of which twelve copies are known, was recently sold in Paris for over 140,000 francs. This being the case, the value as a matter of actual rarity of No. 323a, of which six copies are known, and No. 324a, of which three copies are known, can be seen.

All of these stamps, Nos. 321 to 339, except No. 329, appear on watermarked paper, showing the watermark "Peerless Mills". Three sheets out of every ten have the watermark which appears on four stamps of one row of these sheets, making twelve stamps out of every one hundred watermarked and thus showing the watermarked ones to be eight times as rare as the unwatermarked.

No. 329 appears also on watermarked paper, but the watermark is in this case the design of a setting sun and the words "Yukon Aurora". Four stamps of the sheet show the watermark and it appears on about three sheets out of ten.

The next issue, Scott's Nos. 336 to 339, appeared about the middle of July, 1913. These stamps are similar to Nos. 322, 325, 326 and 328, with the addition of the Green Seal and the embossed word "Constitucional" left off. The exact number issued of each variety is unknown except for the ten cent value, which is 15,490. As Hinojosa includes all the Green Seals in his figures, these are for the one cent—40,480, the three cent—31,230, and the five cent—149,630. The five cent and ten cent denominations, Nos. 345 and 346, being the reissues of Villa, are of course not reported by Hinojosa as Government issues. From my experience and observation of these stamps, I would place the number of the one and three cent issues at less than those of the ten cent issue. The one cent being the rarest value, I would place it about 10,000, and the three cent at about 12,000. In the five cent value, No. 338, we have again one of the great rarities, probably less than twenty-five sheets (250 stamps) were issued, as not more than seventy-five copies used and unused, can be placed. One complete sheet is known but this sheet was broken up and afterwards reconstructed, and fourteen single unused copies are known, so one can gain an idea of this stamp's rarity. This five cent value also has the error "Centavob" on every fifth stamp.

There is also a variety of the one, three and ten cent values of this series which is not catalogued or listed by Scott. This is known to specialists as the "Transposed Seal" variety, and in the one and three cent values is of the greatest rarity, each stamp readily bringing from $15.00 to $20.00. No complete sheet of the one cent value is known, and of the three cent value but two sheets are known to exist. The variety in the ten cent value is not nearly so rare and worth no more than 50% over the normal variety. The "Transposed Seal" is not known in the five cent value of this issue.

Our next variety is the five cent, Scott's No. 340, with colored roulette, which first appeared the last of July, 1913. In the real lilac brown this is a rare stamp and certainly worth its full catalogue price, but the black brown variety is quite common. The Transposed Seal is also known in this stamp and is about twice as rare as the normal. Certain sub-varieties, such as the double seal are of course of the greatest rarity.

The next series comprises Scott's Nos. 341 to 344, and the numbers issued are those I gave for all the Green Seals. Of the two cent denomination Hinojosa reports 30,360 were issued. From the number of these stamps issued it can be seen that they are greatly underpriced and underestimated, particularly when it is considered how they were absorbed for postal use. There were several printings of each value differing in color of seal, paper, etc. In one of these printings the one cent comes in a decided sage green shade, which is many times rarer than the normal, either used or unused, and of which six complete sheets are known. Some of the sheets of the three cent denomination contain the "Centavo" error. This generally occurs twice on a sheet, but some sheets are known with only one error, which are very rare. The three cent also comes in a sage green and in a pale green and is known on a very heavy plate paper and on paper showing the watermark "Peerless Mills". All of the sub-varieties being quite rare. The five cent value is known on the heavy plate paper and on watermarked paper, and is very rare, particularly when on the latter paper.

In the re-issues come the "Erano" error in the one cent, two cent and three cent denominations. In the one cent it is particularly rare, and only two complete sheets showing the variety are known. The error in the two and three cent values is more common and not worth more than $2.00 or $3.00 apiece. In the three cent value an error not listed by Scott is known; this is "Trrs" for "Tres" on the left side of the fifth stamp on one row of the sheet. But two copies of this error are known, one of which is fortunately in a complete sheet reposing in my own album.

My opportunity for studying these stamps has been unequaled, as from the period of 1913 to 1916 I was stationed at various points on the Mexican Border from Texas to California, and since 1917 have been in practically every large city in the United States, and have gone thoroughly through the stocks of the big dealers. As a result, I can say that the White Seals are practically unobtainable except in the one and two cent values. Occasionally a three or five cent No. 326 and a ten cent will come to light, but the five cent ones are always used. I wonder how many readers of this article have ever seen an unused copy of any of the five cent denominations in Nos. 326 and 327. For the past four years I have carefully watched all auction sales and am sorry to say that during that period but two or three desirable stamps have been offered, which of course goes to show how few of them really exist.

I have not attempted to go into intricate details concerning the method of manufacture and the issue of these stamps, as they have already been well covered by several books on the subject, one by George W. Linn, "Mexico—The White and Green Seals of Sonora", giving a particularly complete description.

THE WASHINGTON, D. C., POST OFFICE.

By DAVID B. EMMETT.

I notice that the Washington, D. C., Postmaster refuses to fill mail orders for unused U. S. postage stamps. He is no doubt justified in his course by the shortage of efficient help which has been prevalent in nearly all Post Offices in the country during the past few years. However, the sale of unused stamps to collectors means many thousands of dollars clear gain to the Department, and I believe if the facts were properly brought before the P. M. G., additional help would be granted the Washington office, to look especially after the filling of mail orders. I would suggest that the officers of our various philatelic societies place the matter before their congressman in each of their districts and see what can be done.

ESTHONIA: THE REPUBLIC AND ITS STAMPS

By L. H. Brigham.

We now come to the position which Esthonia held in the eyes of the larger European powers concerned in the war.

Esthonia firmly believed that their Declaration of Independence would be formally recognized by Great Britain and the other Allied Powers. These powers, however, stated quite clearly that the future status of Esthonia must be decided at the Peace Conference. The Esthonian delegation at the Peace Conference with many explanations forcibly expressed the desire of the Esthonian people for absolute independence and emphasized the capabilities of the Republic for maintaining independence by pointing out the many continued victories over the Bolsheviks and finally over the Germans. These facts were all carefully taken up and considered by the Baltic Commission but nevertheless the Esthonian question up to the present remains unsettled.

This is a most discouraging condition of affairs for any new government to contend with. Non-recognition by other and more powerful governments, although these same governments may be friendly to the country in question, means that the most important factor of all is lacking, their moral support. The Esthonian people are all eagerly awaiting the international settlement of the Esthonian position and a world-wide recognition of Esthonian independence as has been the resultant outcome of other situations of a like nature which have hung fire for indefinite periods of time.

It was of course naturally a great disappointment to the Esthonians that their independence was not immediately recognized by the Allies at the conclusion of the World War. These people fought enthusiastically and courageously on the side of the Allies, suffering tremendous losses in men and property. It, therefore, seems only fair and just to them that they should see the immediate realization of this hope.

"Whatever the outcome of Esthonian independence may be, as determined by the Allies, the Esthonians are as a single unit most firmly opposed to any form of Russian rule and will fight for their independence until the realization of their aims.

At present the Internal political situation is quite satisfactory. Food supplies are more plentiful and economic conditions somewhat improved. The next most important item for consideration and the one which will perhaps mean the most to the Esthonian people in both the immediate and distant future is the realization of agrarian reform." This is urgently needed for the welfare of the country and a speedy return to normal or pre-war conditions as far as crop production is concerned.

Esthonian industries under normal conditions comprise the following: the manufacture of textiles, including cotton, linen and rope, products from both carding and spinning mills. There are a number of paper mills, flour mills, breweries and distilleries. The manufacture of lime, cement, bricks and glass is carried on to some extent while leather and timber products are also of some importance, and last, but not least, a number of plants engaged in the production of high class metal products. Roughly, the manufacturing plants of Esthonia engage approximately 50,000 people, or about one-thirtieth of the population.

Much has been printed by the Philatelic press as to the great number of so-called unnecessary issues of postage stamps by these new European countries; the press in many instances claiming the stamps were issued merely for the purpose of exploiting the many collectors of today. There are undoubtedly instances where this has been done, but in a large measure when one calmly stops to consider the question it will immediately strike one that perhaps one of the most important acts that a new government can perform at the outset is the preparing of an issue of stamps as quickly as possible, to permit the inter-exchange of mail outside of their own country which, in itself, calls the attention of the world to the fact that such a new country does actually exist. In other words, let us regard them in the light of advance press agents. Such an issue, hastily designed and printed, is more of a matter of obtaining some kind of stamps as quickly as possible, than it is of endeavoring to produce extra fine specimens of work in conventional colors and designs, which will grace the page of a collector's album. Does not this also in a way give the lie to this exploiting claim, for if it were in the majority of instances the intention of these governments to create issues for the benefit of philatelists, they would by all means endeavor to create and produce as attractive stamps as possible.

To show with what speed Esthonia worked in regard to this matter we have but to note that the first philatelic creations of that country were placed on sale at the general post office in Reval on November 25, 1918, a scarce week or two after the Declaration of Independence by these people.

The first issue comprised merely two stamps, both imperforate, a 5k in a pale red and the 15k in bright blue. To date all Esthonian stamps (with the exception of Scott's No. 12 according to Mr. Martin's Esthonian correspondent) issued have been imperforate; printed on several weights and textures of paper and carrying several or in some instances no variety of gum at all.

Mr. Derek Ingram in an article on "The Postage Stamps of Esthonia" says in part, "Unfortunately, the first issue of Esthonian stamps was anticipated b bogus series of provisional stamps w it now transpires were the enterpris a German. During the German mili occupation of Courland and other B provinces a number of denomination the contemporary Imperial pos stamps of the "Germania" type had overprinted with the words "Postg Ob. Ost", the values being 2-½, 3, 5 10, 15, 20 and 25 pfennig. These genuine enough, but when the Gern retreated from Esthonia the sta naturally became obsolete so far as thonia was concerned. However, q tities of these stamps soon arrive Western Europe with the word "E added to the existing overprint.

For some months these double o printed labels were accepted wit question as duly authenticated pro ional postage stamps of the Republi Esthonia and as they were scarc great demand was created and commanded high prices.

In the meantime inquiries were b made as to the status of the "E labels, with the result that the postma at Reval declared them to be absol unauthorized and therefore spuri As a matter of fact, not one of t stamps was ever sold in Esthonia postal purposes. All were German r and disposed of by a former Ger resident of Reval who as a result, r a great deal of money by the sal these bogus "Provisionals", which placed on the English market thr the medium of dealers in ne countries.

Scott's No. 1, the 5 kopec, salmo pale red, and No. 2, the 15 kopec b blue, are plain in design, having m the inscription "Eesti Post" in the ce surrounded by a lozenge shaped pa and with the figures of denominatio the square tablet at the foot."

Mr. Ingram also claims that th kopec brown and 70 kopec olive g were placed on sale at the same tin the 5 and 15 kopec. Mr. Martin's thonian correspondent, however, cl that the 35 and 70 kopec values wer placed on sale in the Esthonian pos graphed at Reval at about the same time.

The following is a list of the postage stamps of Esthonia, practically up to date, showing the date each was placed on sale at the Esthonian post offices; those that are at present current and those long since obsolete. All of these are of the lithographed type and were printed in Esthonia, the majority, if not all, at Reval. All are also good for postage whether obsolete or not.

Mr. Martin's correspondent in a letter received January 5th says, "The so-called Bolshevistic issue, Scott's Nos. 31 to 37, with the inscription 'Eesti Post,' 'Virumaa' and the values in kopecs and roubles are either spurious or at least of a private nature. Virumaa is only a portion of Esthonia and it may be that the invading Bolsheviks did actually issue them but I do not believe it because of the fact that in Bolshevistic Russia the old Russian stamps were being used at that time.

Scott's Nos. 15 to 30, the Russian stamps surcharged 'Eesti Post,' it is claimed, were overprinted in Reval and placed on sale May 17, 1919, at the Reval Post Office. This is the same day on which the regular 5p orange No. 10 was also placed on sale. These Russian overprinted stamps consisted of seven values, all imperforate, the 1, 2, 3, 5, 10, 15 and 25 kopecs. Although all straight Esthonian issues to date are still good for postage in that country, this is not the case with the surcharged Russian stamps described above."

Another letter received by Mr. Martin on February 21st states, "On account of the hard winter it was impossible to get the mails through and for a time an airplane was used to send mail from Reval, Esthonia, to Helsingfors, Finland. This service was discontinued when weather conditions once again became normal. The charge was 5m extra for every ounce and the airplane stamps were used only on foreign letters going out of the country, as in the case of those being dispatched from Reval to Helsingfors."

Mr. H. A. Malm, president of the Esthonian Philatelic Society, says, "In regard to the 'Rakwere Eesti' surcharges not listed by Scott, these are not collected by many collectors as they were sold before the General Post Office of the republic of Esthonia was created, and should perhaps be classed as semi-officials or semi-legitimates."

Mr. Malm also goes on to say in regard to the surcharged Russian stamps with the overprint "Eesti Post", "The higher values were never sold at the post offices and many collectors do not collect even the lower values and in the opinion of the writer, these were created mostly for a speculative purpose." Mr. Malm points to the fact that at the same date that these were placed on sale, May 17, 1919, the 5p orange No. 10 was also put on sale and asks why the need of both a 5 kopec and a 5p (one being of equivalent value to the other). He also goes on to point out still further that it is a very peculiar fact that all of the regular Esthonian issues are still good for postage but not the surcharged Russians, although these were also originally issued and overprinted by the Esthonian government. These statements, coming from an Esthonian who is in a position to know, should be unusually significant.

Mr. Malm states that the charity issue, the 35p+10p, was on sale for only nine hours and the 70p+15p for one and one-half days, after which all left on hand were surcharged with the values 1m and 2m, a few of the 2m being officially perforated. The 2m on 70p was on sale for only two days.

The latest information which Mr. Martin has from his correspondent is to the effect that Esthonia is now equipped with perforating machines and in the near future all stamps will be coming forth perforated.

It is the private opinion of the writer that the Esthonians, despite all of the other good qualities which they may possess, should certainly never get "stuck on themselves" if the gum, or rather the lack of gum, on their stamps is a sample of their adhesive producing abilities.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Mr. Bertrand L. Drew of Boston made a swing around the philatelic circle with the lots in his auction sale which was held recently. After a vacation for some time, Mr. Drew again is engaged in the stamp business and he already has made a success of his auction department, he says. Mr. Drew has some refreshing views about his business that should ensure him a long life in philately, once they are put into practice.

—Mr. Dave Taussig, New York, the wholesale dealer who has recently entered into partnership with Messrs. Marshall and Coombs was a visitor to Chicago recently where a host of his old friends gave him a hearty welcome. It is a coincidence that Messrs. Taussig, Marshall and Coombs all got their stamp starts in Chicago where many acquaintances follow their careers upward with approving eye.

—At the Englewood High School, Chicago, a stamp club has been organized with Mr. Fitch as faculty adviser. We quote from the school paper: "There will be various auctions, sales and tradings to sustain the interest, besides a number of other things." Mr. George Soulman will address the boys at the next meeting.

—The Hyde Park Stamp & Coin Club of Hyde Park High School, Chicago, has elected the following officers: Charles Anderson, President; Ralph H. Eisendrath, Vice-President and Miriam Michael, Secretary. Miss Miriam Michael is the daughter of Mr. Fred Michael.

—Is he heartless or just heedless? "Are you the same C. E. Severn who was interested with Hosmer, Ferris, Jerrems, et al. in the old Western Philatelic Union about 1890? If so, you must be a man by this time."—R. WILCOX. Haste, Sempronious, the amphora.

—We have received the catalog of the 1921 Exhibition of the Jamaica Philatelic Society held at Kingston, March 7-11. We are no doubt indebted to the secretary, H. Cook, for this favor. The book is adorned with full page halftones of King George and Sir Leslie Probyn, governor of Jamaica.

—F. B. Eldredge of Attleboro, Mass., the well-known student of precancels, has accepted the position of precancel editor of the American Philatelist.

—We have a plea from the Pacific Coast signed by Charles A. Pease asking that more time be given Pacific Coast readers for competition in our "prize contests, brain twisters, etc." We are pleased to accept the suggestion and in the future will show more consideration to our subscribers west of the Rockies. The situation will be somewhat relieved by the fact that we are now getting back to our regular date for mailing.

—We have received from Jos. Gallant an oddity in the form of a German 5½pf post card. It is printed in brown on a bluish stock.

—We have received from Joseph L. Weber, Osborne, Kansas., a page from the St. Joseph News Press. It is entitled the Boys' and Girls' Page and has a column of matter devoted to postage stamps.

—On page 182 of the present volume F. L. Belanger makes mention of a British Columbia stamp surcharged "2 cents". Henry C. Hitt of Bremerton, Wash., a specialist in the stamps of this colony, informs us that this stamp must be a counterfeit. He writes that there are numerous counterfeits and many that are calculated to deceive the general collector.

—Harmer, Rooke & Co. of London are selling May 3 and 4 the fine Great Britain collection of George Calvert, F. R. P. S. The collection is a notable one from the standpoint of completeness in both mint and used specimens, and includes most of the great rarities. Mr. Calvert was ten years in making his collection and it was greatly enriched by gems from the Crawford and Worthington collections. The catalog is exceedingly well written and would prove a delight to any specialist in the stamps of this country.

—Thos. G. Richards, who was for many years located at La Paz, Bolivia, and who last year returned to London and entered the stamp business has now opened his own shop at 55 Doughty St. and will cater to buyers of older issues, especially Bolivia and South American.

OUR REVIEW.

There is a philatelist whose devotion to an idea and we could say ideal, almost, is such as to impress us. Mr. A. H. Pike believes that the indexing of the printed philatelic material for each year is a work that should be undertaken carefully, as the index furnishes the key to the store of literature for the twelve-month. His Collectors' Digest for 1919 has now appeared with forty pages and cover and in the work all the printed records for the year, 1918, of philately and kindred pursuits, are indexed. Mr. Pike does not content himself with a bare outline, but tells as well the story of the year, based upon extracts from the important or significant articles of the year. That Mr. Pike has a special inclination or faculty for compilation of the kind is evident from the able manner in which he presents all the parts that enter into the finished whole. The delay attending the publication of the 1919 annual is to be regretted, but it is a satisfaction to have the book at last. 25c; A. H. Pike, Station G, Buffalo, N. Y.

Auction Announcement

Mr. Percy G. Doane begs to announce to the readers of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY that he has been commissioned to sell at auction the general collection formed by Mr. Robert E. Hopkins of Princeton, N. J.

This collection is truly a general collection and one that will interest every collector no matter what he collects.

For the collector of British and British Colonials, a British section is offered that catalogs over $25,000.00 and includes such fine pieces as the Sydney Views, Barbados Splits, fine old Capes and other classic items as well as a beautiful lot of the 20th Century issues thru the one pound values.

For the collector of old European issues there is offered a choice lot of early German States and the old Italians. There is an unusually fine set of the first issue of Sweden.

In United States there will be found a very good representation of all the issues from New Yorks right down to the late 20th Century varieties and including some very fine '47s, '51s, '69s, one and four cent Pan American inverts, etc.

Out of the way countries such as Afghanistan as well as the latest things in Neurope are all here and are well represented.

No matter whether the collector seeks old or new, used or unused, there will be items that will help in the forming of any sort of collection.

Please book your request for catalogs of the Hopkins sale as early as possible so that enough may be printed. As a buyer at auctions you cannot afford to lose this opportunity to obtain something desirable for your collection.

EDITORIAL.

Award—We quote from a letter that has been received from the Hon. Secretary, T. Close, London, of the Sub-Committee to Administer the Roll of Distinguished Philatelists: "This committee now recommend the establishment by the Philatelic Congress of Great Britain of a 'Roll of Distinguished Philatelists' in grateful recognition of services rendered for the advancement of Philately. It is their intention to submit these proposals to the Philatelic Congress of Great Britain for confirmation and acceptance and to enter your name on the Roll at the Harrogate Philatelic Congress, to be held on May 3, 4, 5 and 6, 1921, and also to present a letter of thanks to you for your services to Philately. I am specially desired to express the earnest hope of the Permanent Congress Executive Committee that this proposal will prove acceptable to you and also that you may be able to be present in person to receive at the hands of the Delegates of all the British Affiliated Philatelic Societies their expression of grateful appreciation and thanks." Needless to say, the editor of the WEEKLY to whom the letter was addressed, regrets that he will be unable to attend the Harrogate Philatelic Congress.

Waiting—We know a collector who is a neat looker on and off; that is, he is an actor (slang for Thespian) and when his mind is not on his work, it is apt to be on his stamps. He lives in hopes that he will soon be booked to play in Blanketty; and for this reason. He says that another performer, upon learning of his interest in stamps, said that among the "props" at the theatre at Blanketty is a large stamp album, presumably rich in contents, that is used to loan distinction to the scene in which a book of dignified proportions may play a part. Our friend cannot well make a special trip to Blanketty and if he did he would have to have a mighty plausible tale to impress that gentle soul, the stage manager. A call to Blanketty would allow of a natural approach, the advantage of which is obvious. We do not wish to be the fly in the ointment but did not Shakespere say: "Oft expectation fails and most oft there, where most it promises."

Growth—A new corporation, the Wilson Stamp Company, has been granted a charter to deal in stamps, wholesale and retail, in Chicago; capitalization, ten thousand dollars, represented by two hundred shares of a par value of fifty dollars each. The president and treasurer of the company is W. W. Wilson who has had philatelic connections of different kinds for many years past. Business operations will start May first and a specialty will be made of new issues. We are pleased to see an expansion of the stamp trade at any time and it is interesting to notice that the new company will begin operations at a time when some of us profess to see signs of the wane of the season. However, we do maintain that the dip in the stamp market between seasons becomes less pronounced each year.

Proved—The point that has been made that the omission of the name of the issuing country from the Pilgrim stamps places the stamps in a somewh·t anomalous position was emphasized by an incident at a drug store postal station, 63rd street and South Park Avenue, Chicago, recently. A woman of foreign appearance focused her attention on the task of buying a two-cent postage stamp. She objected to the 2c Pilgrim stamp, a stock of which was on hand in consequence of the order of the department to push the sale of the special stamps but the clerk finally convinced her that the stamp was all right. As she crossed the portal on her way out of the store to mail the letter, her misgivings returned and turning to a young man who had been in the store and had witnessed the controversy, she asked if the stamp was good. "Naw, it's a trading stamp," he declared. In came the woman and truculently demanded one of the regular stamps and the harassed clerk took the course of least resistance and hunted up the usual stamp and gave it to her, pocketing the loss of two cents, himself.

Samples—A prominent collector remarked recently that he remembered as a boy, the sample set of the U. S. issue of 1861 that was hung framed on the wall of the post office. His comment was called forth by a specimen of the ninety-cent of 1861, with original gum, but neatly pen-stroked. We recollect frames of the stamped envelopes, one cent blue to ninety-cent carmine, in particular, on exhibit at some of the post offices but do not remember having seen adhesive stamps displayed in this way. Will those of our readers who have seen stamps utilized to acquaint the public with the range of denominations of this or that set, kindly give us particulars as the subject is one that has a fascinating side for the collector of U. S. stamps.

Where—Here is a question that we relay to our readers. It is to the effect: "What cities received supplies of the ninety-cent, 1869, U. S.?" The questioner does not stop with the one instance but asks concerning the shipment of other denominations of this and preceding issues. We agree with him that information based on these queries would be worth having but the obvious course for him to have taken would have been to have written to the department at Washington. We are of the opinion that if these shipments were recorded in a way to allow of the necessary deductions to be made, the difficulty of getting access to the proper files would be discouraging. The chances are that there are no documents in existence that would cover the information sought.

Flat—This is the way that guardian of the good name of philately, Mr. A. H. Pike, routs the enemy. A paragrapher in the Buffalo Enquirer makes a doleful attempt to excite his readers' risibilities, as follows: " 'Bad Egg Is Put Away.' Headline. And what's become of the o. f. man who used to save stamps and old coins?" Mr. Pike writes: "I mailed him a nice friendly letter but added sufficient sarcasm to make him think twice before he shows such ignorance again. I included a few facts on the local situation and mailed him a copy of the WEEKLY and the Collector's Digest." Mr. Pike proceeds in a practical way to nullify the added observations of the writer who by his query stamps himself as a chap who slept while the philatelic section of the procession passed by. He will find that the "o. f. man" who used to save stamps is still at his work; and it is he who thinks of asking "what has become of the o. f. man who does not collect stamps."

A New Blank Album

To meet the requirements of a specialist customer, I have had made to my special order a blank album of larger size than usual, suitable for mounting singles and blocks on the same page, or entire sheets and covers. The album measures 12x14½ inches and is handsomely bound in green or red art cloth with protected corners. It contains 60 stout leaves which are double linen hinged so that they will lie perfectly flat. Each page has a faint grey quadrille background, this measuring 9⅝x12½ inches. The leaves are firmly held in place on two pegs, and while they cannot possibly fall out of the cover, they are easily removed and interchanged as desired. Altogether, it is a sumptuous book and just the thing for the man who collects blocks as well as singles, while the price is extremely moderate. Returnable if not entirely satisfactory.

NOTES ON NEWFOUNDLAND—1897-1921.

By HARRY E. HUBER.

IX.—5c MONEY ORDER STAMP TAX, 1914.

"Stamp Duties Act," 5 George V, caption 10, was passed on September 4th, 1914, and the pertinent sections follow:—

"Be it enacted by the Governor, the Legislative Council and House of Assembly, in Legislative Session convened, as follows:—

"1.—From and after the commencement of this Act there shall be paid for the use of His Majesty, His Heirs and Successors, upon the several instruments mentioned in the Schedule hereto, the several duties in the said Schedule specified.

"5.—Every instrument to which this Act applies shall be stamped with adhesive or impressed stamps of value equal to the duty payable thereon, and for the purpose of so stamping any of the instruments in the Schedule hereto either stamps provided or procured for the purpose of Act 61 Vic. caption 14, entitled, 'An Act respecting the Payment of certain Fees and Charges by Stamps, or ordinary postage stamps may be used'.

"10.—This Act shall come into operation on the 1st day of October, 1914.

Schedule.

Cheques on a Banker, 2 cents.
Promissory Notes, 2 cents.
Bills of Lading and Shipping Receipts, 2 cents.
Bills of Exchange for every $100. or part thereof, 5 cents.
Charter Parties, $1.00"

Money orders were interpreted as being "Bills of Exchange," and although section 5 of the Act made postage stamps receivable for these stamp taxes, a specially marked stamp was considered desirable for use on Money Orders, as a check on the issuing offices.

At this period there were in stock 5c stamps of two series, Guy and Coronation, and of these the former were selected to be overprinted. This stamp shows a view of Cupids, is ultramarine in color, and perforated 14 x 12, being lithographed by Whitehead, Morris & Co., Ltd., of London, on very soft white paper.

Full sheets of 100 (10x10) were overprinted in carmine, in three lines of upper and lower case (caps for the initial letters of the first four words)—

Money Order
Stamp Tax
only.

The measurements are 22 mm., 18 mm. and 7½ mm. respectively, for the three lines, while the overall vertical measurement is 7½ mm.

The overprinting was neatly done at the offices of the Royal Gazette (J. W. Withers, proprietor), St. John's, and several varieties occurred. The period after "only" is missing on some stamps and there is a broken "y" in "Money"—the right upward branch of this letter being missing.

Normally the "l" of "only" is slightly to the right of the "p" of "Stamp," but some stamps have the vertical strokes of the two letters in exact alignment.

For a second printing, vermilion ink was used, instead of carmine—the varieties in the first printing continuing.

The stamp was not sold over the counter, but was attached to the Money Order by the issuing clerk, the cost being borne by the purchaser. When these stamps were first sent to the outport offices, some Postmasters not understanding the special purpose for which they were intended, sold them for ordinary postage stamps, and as such were they used. The covers passed through the post untaxed, but very few are so known. At best, they are merely curiosities, for the stamp was never authorised for postage use, and was dealt with by the Money Order Branch of the Post Office Department only.

The fact that the stamp was attached to the Money Order was considered sufficient evidence of use, and copies without gum may be considered as havcelled by the issuing clerk, as in Canada, where the 2c War Tax stamp was issued primarily for use on Money Orders Postal Orders, cheques, drafts and promissory notes, though later made available for postage also.

Two shades of the 5c Guy exist with this overprint, ultramarine and dark blue, and as the stamps were sent to the printers without regard to shade, both may be found with the carmine and vermilion overprint.

The Money Order stamps were in use slightly over 8 months, when further printings were made unnecessary by the passing on June 5th, 1915, of Act 6 George V, caption 25, sections 1 and 2 of which follow:—

"1.—No cheque upon a banker issued by the authority of a Department of the Government, or issued by any person or body who is permitted by Order of His Excellency the Governor in Council to issue unstamped cheques, and no Post Office Money Order or Postal Order shall be stamped, and any such cheque upon a Banker, Post Office Money Order, or Postal Order not stamped, may be pleaded and given in evidence, and shall be admitted to be good, useful and available in law and equity.

"2.—The Schedule to the Act 5 George V, Sess. 1, Cap. 10, entitled 'An Act respecting stamp Duties,' is hereby amended by the addition of the following words and figures:

Receipts for any sum of money exceeding ten dollars ($10.00), 2 cents."

No official statement was made as to the quantity of stamps overprinted for Money Orders, but during the year ending June 30, 1915, there were 260 Money Order offices in operation in the island; 70,906 Money Orders were issued, totalling $871,344.28. The tax on Money Orders was in force for eight months of this period, so that approximately 50,000 stamps must have been overprinted.

Close check was kept on these stamps so that very few with gum reached the public, even through favor. Copies without gum of course could be secured by purchasing Money Orders in small amounts and detaching the stamps.

SCARCE PROVISIONAL ENVELOPE

2c ON 4c BROWN

The New Orleans post office overprinted their old stock of 4c stamps and sold them over the counter not only for the purpose of getting rid of old stock, but in order to supply the size 8 envelope which was badly needed. I have obtained a few copies, and while 25 last I will sell them entire unused at $2.00 each.

I can also supply the rare Daytona overprint 2c on 3c at $2.50 each, and can supply most of the Fredericks at figures equally as interesting.

For those that have never collected the provisional envelopes I have made up special packages containing all different varieties from most of the Cities on most of the papers at the following prices:

50 all different, entire .....$ 5.00
100 all different, entire 10.00
200 all different, entire 20.00

Always in the market to buy anything fine in the way of U. S. stamps and would be pleased to have you advise me as to what you might care to offer for sale. High prices paid for good things. Mint blocks especially desired.

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

UNITED STATES.—While in New York City recently, Mr. Hugh M. Clark of the Scott Co., showed me one of the choicest U. S. covers that it has been my pleasure to inspect for some time. The letter was sent from Boston to Cape Town and contained a magnificent copy of the 1857 90c blue, a fine 30c, a 10c and a pair of the 1c, making a $1.32 rate. The stamps could not have been in finer condition and were canceled with the well-known Boston "PAID" in black in circle. A piece of this character is of extreme rarity and I do not recall but two other pieces somewhat similar.

In the Seybold sale held on March 15th, 1911, there were two lots, Nos. 66 and 67, both of which contained copies of the 90c stamp. Where these covers are at present resting I cannot say. The first cover was described as containing a very fine 90c, a 24c, and a pair of the type I 1c—they were all used on the one cover from New York to Palmas, Canary Islands, and were canceled May 11th, 1861. The cover at the time was sold for $28.00 and today would bring many, many times that amount, for we have only learned to appreciate covers during the last few years.

Lot No. 67 was described as a large piece of the cover containing a vertical strip of three of the 90c, the center copy being described as creased, a horizontal copy of the 30c and a vertical pair of the 3c, making a $3.36 rate. Just think a cover of this rarity at that time sold for only $35.00. The owners of the two covers above have a gold mine and I doubt whether any of their investments will ever prove as good.

The first cover described comes from the well-known Jacobs collection of Chicago, which was recently purchased by the Scott people.

The New Orleans Post Office was recently short of the size 8 envelope and not having any of the 3c variety on hand asked permission from Washington to overprint some of the old square type of the 4c brown which they had in stock for some time. I have not as yet learned as to whether this permission was granted, but I imagine that it was, for I have been able to obtain some few of the envelopes. They must have come and gone very quickly, for one of the post office clerks who holds 96, supposedly the entire available stock wants in accordance with one of my correspondents, $200.00 for the lot. The few that I obtained were received through the courtesy of Mr. Cassius L. Clay, who purchased them from the Post office in the usual course of business.

Quite a few other provisional varieties surcharged upon the 3c stamps have been received since the last Chronicle. Mr. C. C. Fisher sends some from Knoxville, a gentleman whose name has been misplaced sends some from Nashville, but I find upon investigation that these are both of the Memphis type and were probably surcharged in the latter City. Mr. E. C. Brown sends two new colored varieties from St. Paul, and Mr. B. M. Johns two more from Memphis. Although the second St. Louis type has been in use for some time Mr. H. W. Lindemann has been fortunate in finding a new one from this city.

Mr. J. R. Allen Thomson recently received in the mail from one of the Texas Banks a 2c on 3c envelope which also bore the 1c overprint of a postal. He wrote to the Bank to obtain copies of this and found that they received them in this form from the Post Office and that the variety was certainly not made to order. They are most interesting and occurred by having them run through the machine at the time it was set up for surcharging postals and then when the discrepancy was discovered they were correctly overprinted 2c.

Mr. Charles S. Patterson also sends some new overprints from San Francisco.

Mr. R. H. Mason has found a new variety from Boston with the return card of a New England Firm.

AUSTRIA.—The set of stamps of this country of the "Deutschosterreich" type 5h to 20k have been overprinted "Hochwasser 1920" in two lines. The surcharge on the values 2½k to 20k is of a heavier type than the lower values. Mr. Maxwell Krause and the Economist Stamp Co. submit sets for inspection.

The Economist Stamp Company and Mr. Maxwell Krause have shown us a copy of the 1½k stamp in the new type.

HERE'S A STAMP, CATALOGS 50c, PRICE $11.50

Twenty-three times catalog is some price! But hearken, it is:
U. S. 1851, 3c ORANGE BROWN, CANCELLED "PALMYRA, MO." IN GREEN!
The date is Sept. 5, 1851—just two months and five days after the stamp was issued, and it comes from a little burg in Missouri, which today is only knee high to a one horse town. What was it before the Civil War?
Furthermore, the stamp is in fine condition and on original letter with a beautiful green grid cancellation in addition to the town. There is a sheet margin at right, and the stamp is from an early impression of the plate and shows the need of being recut. What more could one ask for a paltry eleven-fifty? We doubt if there is a similar cover in any collection.

American Bank Note Issues

We have made up some nice stock books of the American Bank Note issues. They contain used or unused copies, the latter all in mint condition, half a dozen copies of each stamp, shades, etc. A few nice strips and blocks. Among the cancelled stamps are some interesting cancellations. And the prices are low.

J. O. MOORE, Inc., RHEIMS, N. Y.

The color is yellow green. Also they submit copies of the 1½k and 2k of the new postage due issue. The color is light blue.

BR. SOMALILAND.—Mr. R. Roberts reports the following values on new watermark paper: 1a, 2a, 2½a, 3a, 4a, 6a, 8a, 12a, 1r, 2r, 3r and 5r.

BULGARIA.—Mr. Maxwell Krause has shown us three values of a set of stamps issued in commemoration of some national event. They are oblong and bear the imprint of the American Bank Note Co. The 10s red pictures a woman ministering to a wounded soldier, the 15s grey brown shows a soldier resting upon his rifle while the 25s blue portrays a coronation scene.

CHINA.—A Chinese press telegram to the North China Daily News of January 18th reports that the Ministry of Communications proposes to celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Chinese Post Office by issuing a special anniversary stamp. No further particulars are yet at hand, but we shall publish them directly they are received from our valued Special Correspondent.—Stamp Collecting.

FIUME.—We are informed by Mr. A. H. Luck that he has a copy of the 25c stamp surcharged in red "Reggenza Italiana Del Carnaro" with the loop of the "5" having a clean break.

JUGO-SLAVIA.—From the headquarters of the Postal Union we learn that the long-promised unified stamps of the kingdom of the Serbs, Croats, and Slovenes, finally made their debut on January 17th. The series contains fourteen stamps, handsomely engraved and recess printed by the American Bank Note Co., of New York, upon greyish-white wove unwatermarked paper, and perf. 12. There are two designs, that for the paras values being a portrait of the Heir Apparent, Prince Alexander, while the dinar values bear that of King Peter I.

5p green.	75p violet.
10p carmine.	1 dinar orange.
15p lilac.	2 dinar bright olive.
20p grey-green.	4 dinar green.
25p blue.	5 dinar carmine.
50p olive.	10 dinar brown.

The existing special issues of Serbia, Croatia, and Bosnia will remain valid for postage until the end of April.

In addition to the new permanent issue, the set of three Charity postage stamps, briefly referred to on page 481 of our issue for January 22nd, are now on sale. They are recess printed in oblong format by the American Bank Note Co., and are sold for double face value in aid of the Disabled Soldiers' Fund.

Charity Postage Stamps. Pictorial Designs.

10+10p red (Heroine of Kossovo).
15+15p dark brown (Incident of the Serbian Retreat).
25+25p bright blue (Allegory of Serbia, Croatia, and Slovenia).

—Stamp Collecting.

LATVIA.—The Economist Stamp Co. advise that the 10k red and brown commemorative stamp has been surcharged "Divi 2 Rubli" in three lines in blue.

Mr. K. Lindsay has shown us a copy of the 40k stamp in the current type, the color being lilac.

LIECHTENSTEIN.—The Economist Stamp Co. have forwarded to us a copy of a 40rp stamp of blue and black colorings showing the likeness of a church in the centre.

MEMEL.—Mr. K. Lindsay has submitted to us a block of 4 of the 2fr stamp of France surcharged "Memel 4 Mark" in two lines, showing a "4" of a different style in the upper right stamp in the block.

SAARGEBIET.—Mr. K. Lindsay has shown us a copy of the 1.25m stamp with the surcharge SAARGEBIET printed across the middle of the stamp instead of at the base. Mr. Lindsay adds that the entire sheet was thus surcharged.

The Economist Stamp Co. have shown us the 20, 25 and 30pf stamps of the new type. The 20pf shows the likeness of an industrial plant and is of a light green and dark green color; the 25pf pictures a canal and is brown and blue, while the 30pf shows a view of the country and is green and dark brown.

We are also indebted to Mr. P. J. Kranz for copies of the above stamps.

THE DOANE AUCTION SALE.

We have this week the unusual circumstance of a dealer taking an entire page in the WEEKLY to advertise an auction sale. It goes without saying that such a sale must have real merit behind it. The sale referred to is one of the best ever announced in our columns.

The collection to be sold is the property of Robert Emmett Hopkins, Princeton, N. J. and it offers a wealth of splendid material. A glance through the announcement published elsewhere will indicate the range of the offerings found in this great collection.

The Hopkins collection will be sold by Percy G. Doane, one of the oldest dealers in New York City. For twenty-five years he has been at the same stand and is the oldest tenant in the Tribune Bldg., where he has held nearly 140 sales. He is known for his honesty in describing lots and for his business conservatism. Mr. Doane says that the Hopkins collection is one of the best he has ever sold, and he is sure there will be something in it for every collector.

While Mr. Doane has not been a user of space in the WEEKLY in years gone by, it has not been because of lack of patronage. We only hope that the advertising of the Hopkins sale will bring to him such a goodly number of customers that he will want to be with us regularly. We hope that every buyer at auction will answer this advertisement and apply for a Hopkins catalog.

PRECANCEL NOTES.

BY H. S. DICKEY.

I'll start the chronicle with the stamps of more than ordinary interest, i. e., the Pilgrim Set—of which the 1c is easily the favorite on account of the beautiful ship on it, and the 5c comes next, and under a magnifying glass it really is a beauty. The 2c stamp, I'm frank to confess, I don't care much about—in fact, I'm tired of the color of our 2c stamps. We could have the most beautiful historical stamps of any nation in the world and it looks to me like our government fails to appreciate this fact.

George W. LINN Company, Columbus, Ohio

Our stamps could educate young Americans of today, who are sadly lacking in a general knowledge of American history, etc. But I'm only expressing my opinion—I'm not running the government, but I wish I could suggest a few changes to be made in our stamp designs.

Plymouth, Mass., has now precancelled the Pilgrims (down) in big bold type, also Toledo, Ohio, (up), and, last but not least, Federalsburg, Md., and I firmly believe that my friend Stowell (who is unquestionably a master printer) has every kind of type that was ever invented, and I believe he uses most of those types on the auction catalogues, etc., which he prints and mails for many of the leading American stamp dealers. He mailed me a souvenir edition of the local newspaper recently, and J. W. Stowell sure stands ace-high down in Federalsburg, Md.

New Brunswick, N. J., Pilgrims are very pretty type, likewise the rest of the U. S. stamps up to and including the13c same 3-line type.

Chicago precancelled the 1c Pilgrim, but the kid bringing it to me lost it on the street, so that copy is gone forever.

Flint, Mich., Boone Terrace and Bay City, Mich., also precancelled the Pilgrim set.

Now comes the really scarce 10x11 perforated 1c precancels. Excelsior Springs, Mo., comes first in a new neat tiny type, then Tiffin, Ohio, comes along in that rare tiny type, then the Southland issues 'em at Richmond, Va., then the great chief "Pontiac" up in Michigan follows, then Battle Creek and Detroit, then the big city itself puts out a few, i. e., Washington, D. C., then Davenport, Iowa; then follow all the big cities, i. e., Denver, Brooklyn, Brockton, New Haven, St. Paul (normal and inverted, too), Dayton, Ohio (inverted), South Weymouth, Mass. (inverted), Peoria, Ill., La Crosse, Wis., Warren, Pa., etc. Quite a collection they make now, paged by themselves, and more a-coming.

Some of the cities are just starting to use their stocks of surface prints; so we have 1c surface prints precancelled from Charleston, W. Va., Jacksonville, Fla., Nashville, Tenn. (inverted), Niagara Falls, N. Y., Albany, N. Y., Binghamton, N. Y., Fredonia, Kans., North St. Paul, Minn., Monmouth, Ill., Bloomington, Ill., Holyoke, Mass., and Lynn, Mass., in the square box type, which is undoubtedly one of the prettiest unique types extant, Fort Atkinson, Wisc., (the "c" is a recent addition to Wis.), then Lansing, Mich., (inverted), and Richmond, Ind. Let 'em come.

The 2c surface prints will add a great deal of interest to the game, as retouched die and deeper red color which they now have really make two varieties to hunt for—sic 'em, Bill, go get 'em. I can't classify the two types, but here's what I've picked up lately: St. Louis, Mo., in the short, fat o type, which is prettier than the long thin type, Kansas City, Mo. (inverted), also Wichita, Kans., and St. Paul, Minn., Elkhart, Ind., Bridgeport, Conn., and Elgin, Ill. (all inverted). Then come Paterson, N. J., Holyoke, Mass., New Haven, Conn., New Orleans, La., Baltimore, Md., Kalamazoo and Grand Rapids, Mich., Akron, Ohio, Shenandoah, Iowa, Ashland, Ohio, and Jersey City, N. J., tiny type, West Grove, Pa., up, and Des Moines, Ia., in the roller type, and Westbury, N. Y., big type.

3c surface prints and offset prints from Pomona, Calif., Kenton, Ohio, Federalsburg, Md., Portland, Me., Springfield, Mo., Richmond, Va., inverted, Dallas, Tex., normal and inverted, Superior, Wis., and Pittsfield, Mass.

Then come the Victory Precancels, which are more than favorites. I've found Bridgeport, Conn., inverted, Waukesha, Wis., Elgin, Ill., up in the big new type, Chattanooga, Tenn., down, Knoxville, Tenn., down, and Dayton, Ohio, up, also El Centro, Calif., up and down.—Precancel Gazette.

STERN STAMP CO., 308 LEFLANG BUILDING, OMAHA, NEBR.

IF YOU FEEL YOU CANNOT AFFORD fine copies of the following, don't stare at the vacant spaces in your album any longer, when I can sell you slightly imperfect copies at $10 each, as long as my supply lasts, and everybody knows that no one has very many of these varieties in stock, because they sell too rapidly—10c 1847, 5c 1851, 90c 1857, 90c 1869.

If you insist on perfect copies of above, just make it $20 per stamp, and I'll do my part.

Now, don't think I am handing out a bunch of culls at $10 ea.; they are good lookers, and in your album you would hardly notice any defects in them.

I have two more elusive varieties on the bargain counter, viz.: 5c 1857 red brown, and brick red, and will sell slightly damaged copies at $7.50 and $8.50; perfect copies at $12.50 and $18.00, respectively.

I have almost any of the old issues, in both grades, also the rare U. S. Revs. Write me. I am selling a lot of stamps these days, and you are missing something if you have never gotten in touch with me.

I nearly forgot, I have a few 1857, 30c 2nd grade, but mighty good lookers, at $6.50 each; perfect ones, $12.50. Same old address for last 20 years —

INDIA.

By Derek Ingram.

The general issues of Imperial India need not detain us long, for there are few emblems on their face justifying elaborate description as component parts of the "British Empire in Postage Stamps." But, while there is little in the way of "philatelic sight-seeing" on the stamps of the Indian Empire, there is a wealth of it on the issues of the various Native States. These we propose to discuss in proper geographical order, commencing from the east, working round the northern and northwest frontiers, then southwards until we finish our stamp tour of the mainland at Travancore. Such an itinerary is the only one consistent with our programme, for though our tour is only through the stamp album, we must nevertheless carry it out as if we were actually travelling ourselves. It is hoped that this geographical progression through the Native States of India will provide more interest than would be the case if we merely considered them in strict catalogue order.

Anything like a full historical and geographical précis of the various States through which we are about to travel (in the mind's eye, as visualised in the stamp album) is, of course, impossible in these days of exorbitant cost of paper. Nor is it our purpose to study any of the stamps in an orthodox philatelic sense. Our main object is to briefly touch on whatever is conveyed by the actual designs themselves, adding here and there bare details of area, population, etc.

As we journey up from the Malay Peninsula, we call at Rangoon, the prosperous chief city of the "Land of Pagodas." But, you will say, there is nothig to warrant our including Burmah in our philatelic itinerary? To this there is a two-fold rejoinder. Burmah is most certainly worthy of special consideration in the stamp album, partly on account of the very interesting postmarks of Rangoon, Mandalay, etc., which add to the desirability of many of the early stamps of India, and partly because the presence of two elephants on each of the current rupee values gives us an excuse for visiting a famous timber yard in Burmah, where all the work of hauling, piling and stacking is performed by "elephant coolies." Such a spectacle is unique and is the next important sight after the Shway Dagon, or Golden Pagoda, to the tourist. The great beasts work as hard and as constantly as any human coolie. In the timber yard they work together in pairs. Each kneeling down, they insert their tusks underneath one of the huge logs, sometimes weighing a couple of tons, and then with the aid of their trunks lift it to its place on the stack. Then one elephant walks to the end of the stack and pushes the log forward till it lies even with the other logs.

"Mounting Up."

The intelligence these animals show is extraordinary, and still more the neatness with which they stack the logs perfectly level. An object lesson in "mounting up," in fact! Indeed, one can almost believe the story, familiar to every globe-trotter, of the "foreman elephant," who invariably used to shut one eye as he glanced down the log to see that it lay exactly square and level in the stack!

But the elephant, like many other picturesque features of Burmese life, is doomed. He suffers from the penalty of being too good, and notwithstanding the efforts to keep up the supply it falls so far short of the demand that prices have risen enormously and are still increasing. Nowadays, it is more economical to put down machinery than to employ the "hathi," and, when the Prince of Wales visits Rangoon, if he desires to see elephants a-piling teak, they will probably have to be brought down as curiosities from the forests.

Therefore we may well take careful regard of our philatelic elephants, two of which lend such majestic support to the portrait of the King on the current rupee stamps; we may, indeed, look upon them as souvenirs of the marvellous, and all but obsolete, work of the "elephant coolies" in the great timber yards of Burmah.

As a matter of fact, there is an elephant on the anna values of the general current series, but it requires some finding; we refer to the diminutive animal appended to one of the orders worn by King George. The story of how some of the ultra-superstitious natives, when these stamps first appeared, rushed to the conclusion that His Majesty was wearing that unclean animal, the pig, is doubtless familiar to most of our readers; certainly, there was some justification for the belief, though this was, of course, entirely mistaken. The elephant on the stamps of Sirmoor was a semi-sacred one; we shall come to him in due course.

Calcutta, the port at which we arrive from Rangoon, is built on the Hoogli River, about 90 miles from the sea. Sights will not fail us, but the only one of more or less philatelic interest is the General Post Office, which is separated by two or three feet from the site of the "Black Hole," of tragic memory. There are now about 20,000 post offices in India, and about 50,000 letter boxes.

While the topography of the country is not illustrated on the postage stamps of India, there is a vast amount of historic interest attaching to them. Judge Garrick, speaking in Vancouver a little while ago, said: "Perhaps I am prejudiced in their favour, but I consider that Indian stamps have a more than ordinary intellectual interest. They recall many languages and characters of the widely differing races who have done battle in widely different ways for the possession of that romantic country, whether on the fields of Panifrat and Plassey, or on the beaches of Diu, Surat or Madras; whether they were Aryans, Arabs, Afghans, Chagatais, Portuguese, or Britons, these stamps recall doughty deeds done by the most varied gallery of figures ever fashioned, to win that brightest and most envied Eastern gem which now reposes in the British crown."

From Calcutta we propose to proceed to Bamra, Sikkim, Nepaul, Nabha, Faridkot, Cashmere, Scinde, Alwar, etc., gradually working our way southwards until we finish our Indian tour at Travancore, as already mentioned, surveying whatever there is of philatelic interest (as conveyed by the designs of the stamps themselves) in the various issues of the States through which we pass. The tour will not be irksome. The whole of the Indian Peninsula is netted with railways, many thousand miles of these highways of travel having been built within the last few years by British enterprise. It is possible now with ease to visit not only such cities as Bombay, Calcutta, and Madras, and a few others which have been attractions for visitors for many years, but all the interior cities of prominence, the scenes where the history of this empire has centred. Railways run to the very foot of the Himalayas, into the hills, where the Englishmen who wish to escape the heat of the Indian summer find cool weather and live the stories we re the novels of Indian life written Kipling or a Steel. Railways also out towards Afghanistan in the west. We will now travel by th running due west as far as Samb in order to visit

Bamra,

In the at different times, diamonds of c erable value have been procured evidently the local post office o thought they could strike a gold m the expense of philatelists. each side. Within are some stone tanks and buildings, the principal being the Badal Mahal, or cloud palace, and the Nakkar Khana, or entrance gate. The tombs of the Gond kings are in the valley below.

The stamps of Bamra are the only ones upon which the characters appear in Uryan. These, in the third line of the inscription, signify "Postage" (in Uryan masul), the differences in the last three characters of the line indicate various denominations, which have been most carefully described by that great authority, Major E. B. Evans, and translated by the Philatelic Journal of India (February, 1899), thus:—

Masul tangka sunya tin pai: Postage paid 3 pies.

Masul tangka sunya chhay pai: Postage paid 6 pies.

Masul tangka sunya ek ana: Postage paid 1 anna.

Masul tangka sunya dui ana: Postage paid 2 annas.

Masul tangka sunya chari ana: Postage paid 4 annas.

Masul tangka sunya at ana: Postage paid 8 annas.

Sikkim.

Quitting Bamra by the Northeastern Railway, we will now travel right up to the Himalayas, going as far as the line will take us, to Darjeeling, immediately north of which is the Native State of Sikkim. Some sensation was recently caused by the rumour that this State, after abstaining so long, had at last joined the ranks of stamp-issuers, but it was soon found that the stamps of Sikkim, while attractive and having a "propaganda" look about them are only fiscals. However, there is no earthly reason why we should not include one of them as a souvenir of a memorable tour, especially as we can see all Sikkim from Darjeeling, from which place there is to be had the very finest view on this earth. Situated at an elevation of 7,000 feet above the sea, and broken into the most stupendous formations of valleys, crests and spurs, we see all around us heights and depths torn into all conceivable slopes and spurs by the dynamics of mountain streams. This condition extends in every direction for twenty to forty miles, the wild panorama of infinite height and depth, spur, gorge, and ravine, being covered with semi-tropical foliage, a vague idea of it being given by Sikkim's fiscal stamps. The background towards the north is the sovereign range of the world, the Himalayas, and the centre of the view in the same direction the mighty Kinchinjunga, the viceroy of the range.

By the excursion to Tiger Hill, 2,600 feet above Darjeeling, we can see glistening white in his royal mantle, Mount Everest, the king of the range and of the whole world, with his supreme altitude of 29,000 feet. With this indescribable prospect of mountains clad in foliage for a foreground and the mighty array of snowy peaks in the background we may well rest our imagination on Darjeeling's panoramas—and our eyes on the stamps of Sikkim, though these are but "revenues."

Nepaul.

From Darjeeling we literally step into the important State of Nepaul, within whose confines is Mount Everest and other lofty peaks of the Himalayas, and whose current postage stamps (printed in London) have an equally important place in the educational curriculum. The design on these stamps is of the Hindu god, Siva, the Destroyer and Reproducer, also known as the great god Mahadeva. As we see, he holds in his four hands a trident, an antelope, a noose for binding his enemies, and a kind of drum, and wears a tiger's skin about his loins. He is, we read, a less human and more mystical god than the Preserver, Vishnu, and is worshiped in the form of a symbol, the lingam, or a bull (Nandi, the Joyous). As destroyer, Siva haunts cemeteries and burning-grounds, but his terrible qualities are now more especially associated with his wife, Kali. He is the impersonation of the reproductive power of nature (probably two-thirds of the Hindus worship Siva under this aspect, embodied in the lingam), the word Siva meaning "blessed," or "auspicious." He is also the typical ascetic and self-mortifier, and as a learned philosopher he is the chief god of the priests.

The other stamp designs of Nepaul are well worthy of careful study. In the first type is a curious device, which is probably "double Dutch" to most collectors; we refer to the three lotus flowers, or padmas, which surmount the crossed kukhris (native knives) underneath. The centre of each lotus—if we study the stamp design through a strong glass, we can easily see—is occupied by a chakra, or disc, a favourite weapon of Krishna, which has become among the Buddhists a symbol of perfection and happiness, as the name "Fortune" implies to us. Buddha bears these chakras impressed on the soles of his feet, and we thus have, in the early Nepaul stamps, an imprint of these sacred soles! The three lotuses, with the chakra, represent the triratnam, or three jewels, that is to say, Buddha, Dharma, Sangha, or Buddha, the Law and the Church.

In Type 2 of Nepaul there is a plainer view of two kukhris with the handles crossed, and a bow and arrow above.

The Nepaul Post Office has always been held to be a model one, from a philatelic point of view. Not only does it not cater for collectors in any way, but there seems reason to believe that the Nepaulese would much prefer that outsiders should leave them and their stamps alone. That, at any rate, was the view until Messrs. Perkins, Bacon & Co. secured the contract for producing the 1907 issue. The year following the appearance of these stamps the Nepaul Prime Minister (with whom rests the real political power), H. E. Maharaja Sir Chandra Shamsher Jang, Bahadur Rana, paid a most successful visit to England. The nominal sovereign is H. H. Maharaja Dhiraja Tribhuhana Bir Bikram Shah Bahadur Shamsher Jang, who succeeded in 1911 and who is entitled to a salute in British territory of 21 guns. Britain guarantees to protect the interests and rights of Nepaul. The present British Resident is Lt.-Col. W. F. T. O'Connor, who of course, does not interfere in the internal affairs of the State.—Aust. Stamp Journal.

TWO BACK VOLUMES.

We have a considerable stock on hand of back volumes of the WEEKLY which we are closing out at $1.50 each. These volumes contain a wealth of interesting matter and the lover of philatelic literature will find them exceedingly valuable. We have in mind two volumes in particular to which we wish to refer, those issued in 1901 and 1902. These two volumes, published in New York, mark the beginning of the association of the present Managing Editor with the WEEKLY and laid the foundations for his philatelic newspaper career.

The volume for 1901 includes three large special numbers. One is the Pan-American Special, consisting of 44 pages, another for the Danish West Indies of 20 pages, and a third for Hayti, also of 20 pages. These special numbers are all brilliant issues, the one devoted to Hayti containing articles by C. A. Howes, Alexander Holland, Willard O. Wylie and Charles H. Fowle ("Undooley").

The volume for 1902 is distinguished by four special numbers, a particularly strong one being for Hawaii, consisting of 28 pages and illustrated in a lavish manner. Three numbers were devoted to Canada, Belgium and Grenada, the special articles in each case being written by C. A. Howes.

The price of these volumes is $1.50 each and we pay cost of carriage.

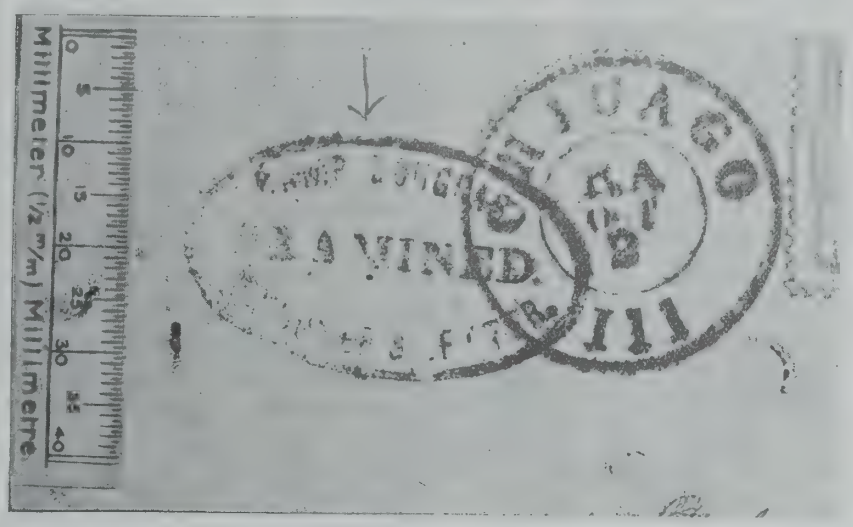
PRISONER OF WAR COVERS OF THE CIVIL WAR.

Some Notes by STANLEY B. ASHBROOK.

NOTE.—The millimetre scale drawn on the Camp Douglas envelope shows the size of the other illustrations as well, as all of the covers were photographed on the same scale.



There has appeared in the WEEKLY during the past few years, a number of short accounts concerning various Civil War "Prisoners" letters that the writer has read with much interest and believes that a little further information on these relics of the troublesome days of the sixties may be welcome. These short notes are not to be considered as an attempt to give a history of these covers but rather as a sketch survey of the places of origin. No specialized collection of the stamps of the Confederacy is complete without a representative showing of "Prisoners' Covers" and the steady growth of their appreciation by collectors has been very strongly reflected in auction prices the past few years.

A "Prisoner of War" cover is one that is either sent to a prisoner by an outside person or from a prisoner to an outsider. Such covers usually bear a three cent 1861 U. S. stamp and are postmarked with the name of the prison town or city and have in addition a prison Censor mark and frequently the initials of the officers censoring the letters. Where the letter is addressed across the "lines", it bears in addition in some instances a Confederate stamp and when sent from the southern prison to the north it will almost always bear both stamps. Perhaps the most interesting ones are those from relatives in the Confederacy to a prisoner in a northern prison. These letters were generally forwarded to Richmond, thence to the point of exchange which was at Old Point Comfort, Virginia, and thence to the northern prison. Such covers show: (1) a Confederate stamp cancelled with the name of some southern town or city; (2) the Richmond cancellation; (3) a U. S. stamp cancelled Old Point Comfort; (4) the town or city cancellation in which the prison was located and (5) the prison's censor mark or stamp and also some written comment as: "This letter entirely too long," etc. Some of the large northern prisons had hand stamps for each officer censoring the mail with his initials forming part of the stamp or a line on which to write them. Such hand stamps bore the prison name and the words. "Prisoners' Letter" and

H. F. COLMAN SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG., WASHINGTON, D. C.

"Examined" or "Passed". It is the writer's opinion that no censor hand stamps were used in Confederate prisons; at least he has never seen any nor has any censoring mark been noted on these covers addressed to southern prisons.

All these prisoner of war covers have an individuality and interest that are amplified by the interesting historical data associated with the names they often bear. I recently came across one bearing a 3c U. S. 1861 stamp, postmarked Washington, D. C., with the hand-stamp, (illustrated) "Passed" W. P. Wood, Sup't. Military Prison". I believe this is a rather scarce item and it carries with it some very interesting history. The prison was known in the Civil War days as "The Old Capitol Prison", so named because the prison building was the same structure that served as the temporary capitol after the destruction of the capitol buildings during the War of 1812. At the outset of the Civil War the only tenant of this building was a poor cobbler of German birth who carried on his trade and lived with his family in this barn-like structure. Six months later, it housed scores of Confederate prisoners, military offenders and citizens suspected of disloyalty to the Union. Many Confederate generals were confined here and the "W. P. Wood, Sup't" was a special secret agent of the Government whose duties in addition to being Superintendent was to gain information from his important guests in regard to army movements and the plans of the Confederacy. We are told that his reports to the Secretary of War were looked upon as the most helpful of any that reached that Department. In this prison were confined for a long time two sons of the Confederacy with gentle blood in their veins and reckless daring in their hearts. They were captured in the camp of the Army of the Cumberland wearing the uniforms of Union cavalry officers. After their trial by Court martial they suffered the usual summary fate of spies.

Another famous spy confined in the "Old Capitol Prison" was Mrs. Rose O'Neal Greenhow, the charming widow of Robert Greenhow. At the opening of the War she lived in Washington at 398 Sixteenth street and on July 16th, 1861, she sent to General Beauregard the famous cipher message: "Order issued for McDowell to move on Manassas to-night." Acting on this message, Beauregard promptly arranged his army for the expected attack while Generals Johnston and "Stonewall" Jackson hastened from the valley to aid in repelling the Federal advance. Mrs. Greenhow's secret service work was cut short on August 26th, 1861, when Allan Pinkerton of the Federal Secret Service arrested her and put her under military guard. She was transferred to the "Old Capitol prison" and confined there until April, 1862, and on June second she was, on her pledged word, to remain south of the Potomac, escorted beyond the lines of the Union Army and set at liberty. It was later discovered that even while confined in prison she had corresponded extensively with Colonel Thomas Jordon of General Beauregard's staff. Another prisoner in this prison was Captain Wirz who was formerly the keeper of the terrible "Andersonville" prison; he was hung on a gallows set up in the yard of the Old Capitol prison. This Captain Wirz was the Commandant of the prison interior at Andersonville, which was about twelve miles north of Americus, Georgia; a Swiss by birth and a practising physician in Louisiana, he enlisted as a private in the Confederate Army and was assigned to the prison service when his right arm was shattered at Seven Pines. He served at various prisons and in 1863 visited Europe for medical treatment to his injured arm and as the story goes, to carry despatches to the Confederate agents there. Early in 1864 he was ordered to Andersonville and the story of that prison under his management and that of General Winder is well known history to all of us. Whole books have been written about Andersonville and the terrible conditions there were constantly exploited by northern newspapers through the publication of prisoners' letters. General Winder died before the close of the war, but after Lee's surrender.

Wirz was arrested and tried by a Military Commission and convicted.

And so with all these different Prisoner of War letters is the momentous and terrible history of the Civil War linked with their philatelic interest. One of the greatest charms of Philately is this linking of the historical past with the interest in the stamps themselves and the writer knows of no other U. S. item that lends itself so well to such a study. A complete list of the various prisons has not been published to the writer's knowledge and in the hopes of having this done the writer submits a list of those that have come under his observation.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—The subscriber who desired the address of E. G. Young can address him in care of the Engineering College, Tangshan, North China. It will be remembered that Mr. Young wrote a very interesting article on locomotive stamps and some weeks ago we made public inquiry for his address.

—On Friday evening, April 8, the Philatelic Society of the Oranges (N. J.) held their first auction sale and entertainment in the club room with nearly 200 persons present. A 330-lot auction was run off. Prof. Morris Loewy entertained in his usual efficient manner with card tricks. The wives and sweethearts of the members were well represented and were not found wanting when it came to producing some very fine examples of the culinary art. Representatives were present from various stamp clubs in New Jersey and New York.

—The Presidency of the Metropolitan Philatelic Association, left vacant by the resignation of H. B. Mason, is being filled by Theodore H. Ames, of Montclair, N. J., the elected vice-president of the association. The office of secretary, which H. R. Arnold was forced to give up because of ill health, has been filled by the Board of Directors, in the person of L. J. Bachand-Vertefeuille, a well known newspaper man of Chicago.

—Harry Ioor, 935 W. 34 St., Indianapolis, Ind., has several volumes of the WEEKLY and other U. S. and foreign philatelic papers which he is willing to donate to the library of some society. Please file your application at once, with any information possible that will help Mr. Ioor in selecting the right object for his benevolence. He is willing to make a free shipment of his entire accumulation.

—The Collector's Gazette, Dallas, Tex., is a very creditable monthly paper, and we recommend that our subscribers take advantage of the invitation extended in Adlets to send for a sample copy.

THE PITTSBURGH SOCIETY.

This enterprising society has taken its place with the stamp clubs that are advertising their existence by means of our Society Directory. Collectors visiting Pittsburgh are urged to attend the meetings of this society. The secretary, Justus M. Stahn, sends us this item of news:

"The Philatelic Sociey of Pittsburgh is promoting Philately in many ways. The Pittsburgh Gazette gives us an entire column in its magazine section every Sunday, and is edited by W. D. D. Sones.

We are now getting up a display showing one or more stamps from every Stamp Issuing Country, and same is going to be displayed by the Mellon National Bank in its window fronting 5th Avenue.

So far this year the following members have given an exhibit and talk on their specialized collections:—I. G. Firth (Early Canadians), W. D. D. Sones (Chile), C. M. Tyler (Guatemala), N. A. Georgontos (U. S. Revenues), W. Price (U. S. 1847), J. M. Stahn (U. S. Postage and Proofs), Wm. Schwartz (British Colonies). A membership of 70 with an average attendance of 35 and a treasury balance of $500.00—we think is a decidedly good showing. We hope to have permanent quarters by 1st of year."

OUR BOOK REVIEW.

The latest addition to our book list is Poole's Nova Scotia. It is handsomely printed from the press of the Jewett Printing Co., with cover in blue and an enlarged reproduction of the first 3d stamp. Subscribers in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Washington, Los Angeles and San Francisco can procure the book respectively from the New England Stamp Co., Economist Stamp Co., Eugene Klein, Stamp Shoppe, B. W. H. Poole, and E. P. Seebohm. Price of booklet, 15c.

MR. BRIGHAM VISITS BEVERLY.

On Saturday, April 9, the office of the WEEKLY at Beverly was favored with a visit from L. H. Brigham of Southbridge. Mr. Brigham has done considerable work of a literary character for the WEEKLY in recent months, and it was a distinct pleasure for the Managing Editor to make Mr. Brigham's acquaintance. He is an intensely enthusiastic philatelist and very loyal to the WEEKLY. The commercial side of stamp collecting has but little interest for him. He has sent us in a number of Southbridge subscribers and still another has reached us since his return home. In his letter he says:—

"The only other inhabitants of this town which I have not succeeded in securing so far are the Chief of Police and the Postmaster." We are willing to believe him. We are pleased to receive at any time collectors who find it convenient to stop off at Beverly. It is the "garden city" of the North Shore stretching seven miles along the Atlantic, and so beautiful a spot that Pres. Taft was pleased to make it his summer residence for two years.

CHAPTER X.

The New Krone Currency.

In 1873 it was decided to abolish the old skilling coinage and a new monetary law, dated May 23rd of that year, adopted as the unit of currency the Crown (krone) divided into 100 öre, to come into force on January 1st, 1875. An official notification of the forthcoming change was sent to the Post Offices in October, 1874, so that they might be guided accordingly in requisitioning supplies for the remainder of the year, viz.:—

"OFFICIAL COMMUNICATION.
No. 26. October 27, 1874.

Seeing that, from January 1st of next year new stamps will be introduced, the values of which will be expressed in crowns, the Post Offices are requested to arrange, as far as possible, their requisitions during the remainder of the present year, in such a way that the stocks of the stamps, envelopes, postcards, and stamped wrappers now in use may be exhausted by the end of the year."

On December 19th of the same year a lengthy notice was issued "relating to the alteration of the charges for postal packets from Rigs currency to Crown currency," but this is hardly of sufficient interest to quote in full. The main purport of the document was to show that, under the new system, 4 öre would be the equivalent of 2 skilling, in estimating postal charges.

The section relating to the stamps themselves is as follows:—

"In place of the stamps enumerated in the Ordinance of March 28, 1871. . . these new stamps . . . . will be issued:

Color grey with blue frame, value 3 öre each.

Color blue with grey frame, value 4 öre each.

Color red with grey frame, value 8 öre each.

Color violet with grey frame, value 12 öre each.

Color brown with grey frame, value 16 öre each.

Color green with grey frame, value 25 öre each.

Color violet with brown frame, value 50 öre each.

If anyone buys 100 stamps at a time, they are sold at 2 crowns 88 öre, 3 crowns 84 öre, 7 crowns 68 öre, 11 crowns 52 öre, 15 crowns 36 öre, 24 crowns and 48 crowns respectively. [In other words, a discount of 4% was allowed to purchasers of 100 or more stamps of the same denomination.]

All the means of prepayment enumerated will be put on sale at the Post Offices from January 1, 1875, and persons will also be able to obtain from the same date at the offices for the collection of letters, or from the rural postmen, 4 and 8 öre stamps, singly or in small quantities. The stamps, cards, envelopes and wrappers with values expressed in Rigs currency, that may be in the hands of private persons or of officials, may also be used after January 1, 1875, in such fashion that the amount expressed upon the stamps of

All the denominations enumerated above were placed on sale on January 1st, 1875, and later three other values were added to the series, the first of which, a 20 öre, was issued in August, 1875, and formed the subject of the following notice:—

"OFFICIAL COMMUNICATION FROM THE HEAD OF THE POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT.
No. 25. August 30, 1875.

In accordance with Official Communication No. 20 of 1875, the attention of the Post Offices is drawn to the following:—In addition to the 10 öre cards, there will be sent out a certain number of new stamps of the value of 20 öre, color grey with red frame, to be sold at 20 öre each and 19 crowns 20 öre per 100."

The next new value was a high denomination which, curiously enough, has the value expressed as 100 öre instead of 1 krone. In the official notice announcing this, special stress was laid on the fact that this high value should be used whenever possible instead of several stamps of smaller denomination. The notice referring to its issue is as follows:—

"OFFICIAL COMMUNICATION.
No. 9. October 2, 1877.

By the first despatch there will be sent to the post offices a certain number of new postage stamps of the value of 100 öre, color yellow with grey frame, to be sold at one crown each, or 96 crowns per 100.

These stamps should always be employed by the post offices on the packets on which they affix the stamps whenever the postage admits."

Finally a 5 öre stamp was issued in March, 1879, as shown by the following official notice:—

"OFFICIAL COMMUNICATION.
No. 9. March 17, 1879.

On the first opportunity, by the first despatch, there will be sent to the post offices a certain number of new postage stamps, of the value of 5 öre, color blue with red frame, to be sold at 5 öre each and 4 crowns 80 öre per 100 copies."

The stamps of this issue are of similar design to those of 1870 but with values expressed in öre instead of skilling. Curiously enough, entirely new dies were engraved for the oval centre, and instead of one die forming the base for all (as in the 1870 series), a separate die was engraved for each value. The chief differences between the types of 1870 and 1875 lie in the Crown. In the early type there are small lines across the band of the crown with three indistinct fleur de lys above, while in the 1875 type there are three very distinct dots on the band of the crown and above them are three six-pointed stars. Small differences in the details of the engraving of the Crown, wreath, and even the letters of the inscriptions show that there entirely separate dies for each d nation. The same frame cliché to have been used however.

The dies were all engraved Batz and the stamps were surface on paper watermarked with the Crown. The perforation was t the comb-machine with the 14 gauge. The paper first used w and semi-transparent this beir scarcer than the thicker paper u subsequent printings.

We have seen the 3, 4, 8, 12, 16 öre values with inverted frame believe all may be found thus.

The 4, 8 and 100 öre are kno tirely imperforate.

An interesting variety occurs 16th stamp on each sheet of the this having the ball of the lowe of the central numeral cut away.

The 3 öre also provides a ver esting variety with the first "DANMARK" entirely covere color. This was due to damage of the clichés for specimens found with the "A" partly eras then in gradations until it has disappeared. Later this cliché placed by a perfect one for th issue with 12½, 13 perf. does n the error.

The 4, 5, 8, 12, 25 and 50 ö been recorded without perfo "Postfrim" and possibly the values may also exist thus. Th is known with the small "3" cl that it looks like an "8" and the known without the dots above Whether these varieties are due t tive clichés or are caused by poo ing we are unable to say.

STAMPS OR HOLES?

EUSTACE B. POWER, 198 Broadway, New York City.

This year I am rounding out my thirtieth year as a dealer in postage stamps. I mean by the word dealer a man who makes his bread and butter dealing in stamps. I am not something else from nine to five neither do I deal in stamps for fun or a side line—not much—I believe in stamps, put all (note the word all) my cash into stamps—pay my assistants all I can and keep the rest to carry down to Wall St. and lose it. I merely make these remarks in order to qualify myself as knowing something about the subject and therefore what I want to say is worthy of notice.

During these thirty years the one bane of my existence has been the subject of perforations. Perforations to me are an abomination and I believe that at least seventy-five per cent of our collectors care nothing about them—what are we collecting anyway—stamps or holes? If a stamp came out perf. 14 and in a year or two the government saw fit to change the perforating machines to 13 and continued to issue the stamp with the 13 perf. wherein might I ask has the stamp become changed and another variety? The colour is the same, so is the design.

This multiplying of varieties, which is of absolutely no interest to by far the great majority of our collectors, would tend to kill in line the very interest we want to stimulate. Quite recently I managed to get my physician to start a stamp collection. I bought him two International books, got him a six thousand variety packet, and we went at it. I watched the philatelic interest grow, I watched the office patients wait till the Bavarian wiggly watermark was located and when we'd stuck those 6000 in, I suggested checking them off in the catalogue. Good, fine idea, nice sharp pencil, everything salubrious. One of the countries we struck was Austria, which is always dear to the beginner because he gets a lot of stamps for next to nothing. My doctor friend starts to check off. Merrily we go along omitting all such tommy rot as whether the loops of the bow on the Emperor's head has or hasn't a break (who cares anyway?) until we get down to the oval issue with the eagle. Then my tyro attacks me. What is the difference between the 2kr. of 1862 and the 2kr of 1863? "Well, doctor, you see it's like this, the perforation of 1863 is 14 and of 1864 it's 9½." "Well now, old man, what are we collecting, stamps or holes?" Aye, doctor that's it—stamps or holes.

It has been my experience that high priced perforations rarely if ever sell—if an amateur finds one he can't sell it and if a dealer has one he has to cut the liver out of it to sell it, so what's the use?

I venture to say that if the Scott Co. made spaces for perforations in their excellent albums they would cut down their sales by 50%. The Scott album is a wonderful album. In my opinion it's the best printed album in the world, and its influence on the status of a stamp is enormous. That album doesn't give spaces for perf. and I hope it never will. It falls from grace occasionly, who doesn't? I can prove the influence of the album very easily. Take for instance the Persian officials, Nos. 881-2-3-4 in the catalogue. They were never issued, yet they always sell. Why? Because the album has spaces for them. Take the 4c U. S. Pan-American inverted. Why doesn't it sell at $250.00 as it should?—because the album doesn't make a space for it—thats why.

So I suggest that the Scott Co. get back to first principles and keep the stamp business free of parasites. Never mind the European catalogues. Never mind the listing of the perfs. of those beautiful Bosnian stamps of 1906. Whether they be 12½ or 9½, or 9½ jumbled up with 12½, or joined by merry little 6½ making them 9½+12½ +6½, or whether 9½ fell by the wayside and 12½ wandered on with only 6½, or whether 12½ dropped out and 9½+6½ went on their weary way or whether two rank interlopers in the persons of 13½ and 10½ butted in forming most unholy combinations with 12½ and 9½—never mind, I say, look at the stamps not at the holes.

With this end in view I would like very much to hear the consensus of opinion from American collectors. Scott's catalogue is more than a price list, it's a guide, the guide as far as we in America are concerned. Collectors pay for the production of this book. Scott doesn't, and it must certainly be apparent to the publishers that to continue making their book the good reliable, readable standard guide it has always been they must keep it popular. Therefore I would like to start a movement to abolish perforation differences. Will every reader of MEKEEL'S who agrees with me drop me a postcard as to whether I'm right or wrong about it. I want to know and that's the only way I know of to find out. I have been to considerable trouble to list out the offending numbers in Scott's present catalogue. In helping Mr. Hugh Clark out on the work I feel he owes me a really respectable dinner but if he doesn't feel that way I'll collect it off Mr. Luff who "sure does" know what's good to eat and where to eat it. The list goes with the dinner.

JUST COMMON COURTESY.

Whenever we write a letter asking for information we make it a practice to enclose an addressed stamped envelope for reply. It is simply a common everyday courtesy that should not be neglected. Why should we expect anyone to trouble themselves with a request we have made upon them when we do not even pay the postage upon the reply? The ethics of correspondence require that this little detail be given proper consideration.

BILLS PAYABLE APRIL 20.

As we go to press for the issue of April 23, all March bills are supposed to have been paid. Our requirement is being very generally complied with. We desire once more to call attention to the important condition governing our acceptance of all advertising, namely that bills are payable upon presentation. Advertising bills remaining unpaid on the 20th of the month will be taken as justification for the omission of advertising from subsequent issues. We believe that we are warranted in taking the course outlined above and we are grateful to the large number of advertisers who have complied with our rule. We intend to play no favorites.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

Hale—Apropos of the recent article on "Cheap Postage" by James W. Hale, reprinted from the American Odd Fellow of 1871, we are enabled to submit the following copy of an advertisement that James W. Hale, made famous in a philatelic sense by his early "local" despatch, was sending out at that time: "James W. Hale, Commissioner for Alabama, Connecticut, Georgia, Indiana, Iowa, Illinois, Massachusetts, Maryland, Maine, Michigan, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Texas, Vermont and other states. And Public Notary for New York. Special attention, and the experience of many years, is given to the taking of testimony to be used in all the courts of other states. Refers with confidence to any and all of those Representatives who were his colleagues in the G. L. U. S. nine years. Address 69 Wall St., New York City."

Hit—Here is an example of coincidence and the display of intelligence on the part of the postal clerks. Mr. E. B. Anderson writes: "A correspondent of mine was en route to Persia, by the way of Bombay, India. Recently, I addressed a letter to him intending to send it to Bagdad, Mesopotamia. By error, I addressed it, Bombay, Mesopotamia. It so happens that the unsettled conditions in Mesopotamia have held him at Bombay. And the letter was promptly delivered at the consul's office, Bombay, India. How's that?" This instance reminds us of the difficulty in getting a letter to Batum. Sometimes it gets started on the way, only to be intercepted at some place along the route and returned as undeliverable. Letters come from Batum in which it is urged that the recipient please write. This is tantamount to the predicament we are in when we do not pay our phone bill; the company lets us have incoming calls for a while, but disconnects us from the outgoing line.

How—We shall hear now from a postal employee on a subject that becomes one of irritating moment occasionally to the collector with foreign correspondents who finds that stamps have been removed from the envelopes in transit, by some one who had access to the letters. Punishment is provided by the postal regulations for the theft of stamps in this manner, but our correspondent shows that natural causes may account for the vacancies. He writes: "A reader spoke of the removal of stamps from letters and packages en route. There are many philatelists that have foreign correspondents and when letters arrive some or all of the stamps may be missing. In many instances, salt-water atmosphere has an effect on the gum of the stamp that has a tendency to kill the sticking properties and thus loosen the specimen, which will fall off if the letter is handled a few times. However, one can tell from the smooth, gloss-like surface when the stamp is gone by this means, but if force has been used, there will be a fuzzy effect to any gum left on the envelope." Large firms, we have been told, rarely find a stamp missing on foreign letters, but it must be remembered that these letters bear the accepted or common run of stamps, while those sent by philatelists abroad to friends here sometimes have unusual combinations and thus are more attractive to the collecting eye.

Often—A correspondent writing from Japan says: "Next month (April) another new set of Japanese commemorative stamps will be issued to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the postal system in Japan. I do not know whether the new stamps can be used for postage abroad." He forecasts the appearance of another set as well: "The Crown Prince of Japan left Yokohama on his trip to Europe and will be gone for six months. Upon returning, he will marry and another set of stamps will be issued to commemorate the ceremonials."

Meeting—Before leaving Japan, we must describe a banquet of the Tokyo Stamp Club as told by our faithful friend, Professor Middleton: "Several Saturdays ago, the Tokyo Stamp Club held its monthly banquet. You take your first turn to the left after leaving the 'Y' and go more or less straight ahead. Then turn to your right at the lantern-maker's and follow the dictates of your own conscience till you reach the Quick-cook-'em Restaurant. Go up to the after boat-deck and there you will find the flower of Japanese philately. The membership is chiefly Japanese, but before the 'eats' were brought to the festive board, I had an opportunity to enjoy a fine collection of war stamps collected by Herr Flamme, only a few short months ago, our friend the enemy. When dinner was served, Mr. Yokohori, our mutual friend, sat directly opposite me and interpreted my choice of dishes to the hovering waiter. Just next to him sat a Portuguese general collector and to my right sat a Japanese specialist in British colonies. On the whole, Japanese stamp club meetings are a disappointment. A stamp meeting without albums, stock-books or active trading is like Hamlet with the melancholy Dane absent on sick leave. However, the Japanese like to sit and eat and talk and the presence of stamps, with barter and sale would probably result in an embarrassing opulence of enjoyment."

Shanghai.—We may as well stay in the orient a few minutes longer. Mr. F. G. Scale, Shanghai, China, has been here for some time and at a recent meeting of the Chicago Philatelic Society, he told of philately in China, with especial reference to Shanghai. He spoke of the society in that city and of how tellingly Mr. Theodore Siddall was working for its success; and he told of the Chinese stamp dealers in the native section who based their stamp prices on the cost of the specimens, rather than catalogue quotations. The Chinese just reverse our rule for arranging sets of stamps; instead of ranging the sets from the lowest to the highest denomination, they begin with the highest value and run down to the lowest.

Early.—We want to commend the prophetic soul of a writer in the St. Louis Philatelist for June, 1881, who headed his article, "Scarcity of U. S. Stamps"; and he said in the course of his remarks that as the early U. S. stamps were seldom offered and then only in limited quantities, he is compelled to give high prices for them in order to get stamps to accomodate customers. It is true that he was referring to the denominations, 24c to 90c, inclusive, down through 1869, but even so, it is enough to know that so long ago as forty years, there was complaint about the sparse offerings of early U. S. Too, we do not know that U. S. were particularly in favor at that period.

—Wm. Hoffman, Route 6, Box 133, Springfield, Mo., is interested in the formation of a stamp club for Springfield. Parties interested should communicate with him.

NOTES ON NEWFOUNDLAND—1897-1921.

By HARRY E. HUBER.

XI.—REDUCTION OF REMAINDERS, 1916.

When responsible government was granted the island in 1855, the population of 97,000, living outside of St. John's, the capital, and only town of size, was comprised of small settlements of fishermen living along the coast. There was not a hamlet distant more than 3 miles from the coast, and much of the interior had not even been explored.

Postage stamps were introduced on Jan. 1st, 1857, and it is on record that the sale of these amounted to but £267.13.4, for the first year. The 3d was in greatest demand, and of these, 2,720 were sold. Year by year stamp sales increased, so that after a quarter century, the following amounts were being realised—

1886,	21,318.62	1889,	30,124.50

For the year ending June 30, 1889, 1,122,000 letters passed through the St. John's office, of which 764,500 were posted within the Colony, 167,000 received from the United Kingdom, and 190,500 from Canada, United States, and other countries. Then as now, the greater part of the postal business was transacted by the G. P. O. at St. John's. In 1889, the stamp sales at this office amounted to $21,448.56, leaving $8,675.94 as the contribution of 27 outport offices.

In 1898 the stamp sales amounted to $100,767.51, this being an abnormal year, and the increase over 1897, due to sale of the Jubilee stamps, amounted to $49,440.30.

In 1908 the local rate on letters was reduced to 1c and on May 1st of the following year the letter rate to the U. S. A. was reduced to 2c. "Following the reduction of local postage in 1908, and the U. S. postage in 1909, and the consequent increase in the number of pieces of mail exchanged, the number of postage stamps issued is largely in advance. The value, however, shows only a slight increase in excess of the previous year. 4,176,932 adhesive stamps were issued, and 93,260 post cards, valued at $77,066.88, being an increase of 253,862 stamps, and a decrease of 373 post cards, with a total increase in amount of $2,015.64. It is most remarkable that our revenue recovered so rapidly from the temporary loss caused by the reduction of the local and U. S. postal rates occurring as they did so closely together. It is evident therefrom that our people generally fully appreciate the boon extended to them of cheap postage rates, and the increased correspondence cannot fail to have a beneficial effect both in social and commercial life."

The stamp sales in 1910 amounted to $86,954.96, and in the following year $115,813.16, this latter being due to the great demand for stamps of the Guy and Coronation series, which were issued in the twelve months ending June 30, 1911.

For the year ending June 30, 1914, the stamp sales were $114,407.19, being an increase of $3,255.08 over the previous year. "The year's sales were not augmented as in previous years by special issues."

When the Coronation series appeared June 19, 1911, the whole of the Cabot series, save the 1c, 2c, 3c and 5c, was to be had at the G. P. O.; all values of the Royal series, excepting the 2c, the 2c Map; lithographed low values of the Guy series, and some values of the Guy engraved type. By January, 1915, much of this remainder stock had been disposed of, so that the only low values available were the 1c, 2c and 5c of the Coronation series, 3c and 4c Royal, 4c Cabot, and 5c Guy. From 6c upward the stamps were of the Cabot series.

Stamp Duties Acts 5 George V, cap. 10 (effective Oct. 1, 1914), and 6 George V, cap. 25 (effective June 5, 1915), increased the demand for postage stamps, and more especially those of 2c and 5c denominations.

In the first three months of operation of Act 5 George V, cap. 10, "the stamp sales increased $4,093.94 over the corresponding months of the previous year, when stamps were sold for postage purposes only." For 1915 the stamp sales were $125,200.16, and in 1916, the first full year that the stamp taxes were in effect, they went to $144,141.46, "which increase is owing chiefly to the new stamp act making it necessary to affix postage stamps to bills, receipts, shippapers, etc., but at least 20% of the increase has arisen from the great demand for postal purposes, and no doubt the correspondence between our Volunteers who have gone to war, and their friends at home, has helped to make that demand greater."

XII.—2c CORONATION SERIES, LITHOGRAPHED (?), 1916.

A further printing of the 2c Coronation, made by Whitehead, Morris & Co., Ltd., reached the island in 1916, and owing to its blurred appearance, many expressed the opinion that a different process had been used in printing—either the surface method or lithography. The sharp lines of the original printing were missing entirely.

The stamp was rose red in color, instead of rose carmine for the first printing, and as before the stamps were in sheets of 100 (10 x 10) with plain margins save for the four cross marks for quartering purposes. The perforation was done by a single line machine gauging 14, instead of the comb machine, 13½ x 14, used for the original printing. Stanley Gibbons in their 1919 and 1920 editions of their catalogue, list the stamp as lithographed, but make no mention of the change in perforation.

However, the changed appearance of the stamp was probably caused by conditions brought about by the war—scarcity of skilled labor and materials, as well as dyes,—for Whitehead, Morris & Co., Ltd., the printers, advised that this printing was "direct from the engraved plate."

1916—2c rose red, King George, Coronation series, perf. 14 x 14.

and still other thousands of varieties to offer at discounts averaging 25% from current catalog prices. Also many pairs, strips, blocks and special items at reasonable net prices. The above average discount applies to almost everything in British Colonials, including many 19th century and nearly all 20th century of those countries, in either good to very fine used condition, or unused, including superb mint copies. All you have to do is send a satisfactory reference and let me know what you want.

If you are interested in early European or old imperforates, I can also show you some wonderfully fine things. And as for U. S.—the best I can do is place your order on file. I have the stamps, but have not been caught up on the U. S. orders for over three months.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—A recent trip to Washington discloses the fact that Mr. Fitch, for many years chief of the Stamp Division under the Third Assistant Postmaster General, has resigned to accept a position of responsibility with the Passaic Cotton Mills. Mr. Fitch was always most courteous and was a true friend to philately. He was untiring in his efforts to furnish the student of stamps as much information as possible, and it is because of his attitude on the subject that much information regarding our late issues is now available. Philately has lost the services of a good friend, and the department has lost a very valuable executive. We wish him every success in his new work.

Mr. Gibbons who has long been associated with Mr. Fitch is at present acting Chief of the Division, and it is to be hoped that the administration will make the appointment permanent. There is not a man in the department better posted on the affairs of the division, and he is the type of executive to occupy such a position. I know that if he receives the appointment he will extend us every courtesy extended by his predecessor. Here's hoping, Mr. Gibbons!

While speaking of Washington officials it is rumored that the Postmaster of Washington, one who considers all stamp collectors as cranks, one who refuses to fill stamp collector's requisitions, one who discontinued the special window at Washington where the stamp collector was catered to, is slated to move. It is said that Mr. Mooney, at present Chief Clerk of the Post Office Department, will receive the appointment. Philatelically speaking, I hope he does, the new postmaster cannot do any less for us, he may do more.

A New York dealer has started a rumor about a new issue of postage stamps, and has quite a lengthy article on the subject in one of our contemporary monthly stamp papers. This information is evidently a flight of his imagination, for there has been absolutely no discussion of the subject by the department. They are not even giving the matter a thought, for the Bureau is in no position to do this work and probably many months will pass before we see anything new. At a recent meeting called in Washington by Postmaster General Hays of the postmasters of the larger cities, one recommended that we have a special stamp for expediting the delivery of parcel post packages, but outside of this there has not been even an official remark about a new issue. This postmaster evidently overlooked the fact that the special delivery stamp may be used on parcel post packages, or else he desired this feature to be performed at a lower rate in the case of parcel post packages.

In a recent chronicle, mention was made of the fact that the postmaster at New Orleans had started to overprint his stock of 4c envelopes in order to dispose of a quantity that had been on hand for some years. He wrote to Washington for permission and then started the good work without waiting for authority. Washington finally refused, but in the meantime we learn through the courtesy of Mr. C. L. Clay that 172 had been overprinted. They will possibly rank with the other provisional envelopes, such as those overprinted in Duncan, Frederick, and Daytona. None of them were actually authorized by Washington, but all of them were sold by the post office and did actual postal duty. It may be of interest to state that Mr. Clay used one of these envelopes when he wrote us on the subject.

Regarding the regular 2c on 3c provisional envelopes, Mr. J. William Harmon now sends some colored papers from Oklahoma City, Mr. R. H. Mason sends the first colored paper seen from Portland, Maine, and also a new window variety from New York. Speaking of window varieties, Mr. Mason and Mr. Smith have been most energetic, for between them they have reported the greater number of windows now known. Mr. Hoffman sends another from Butte, while Mr. Julius Kurtz has found a Minneapolis blue.

ARGENTINE.—The Bulletin Mensuel announces the 2c brown, 5c red and 12c blue of the 1920 issue overprinted "M. H."

CZECHO-SLOVAKIA.—Mr. J. A. Wells has shown us the 200h blue stamp of the current type, perforated 14.

DANZIG.—Mr. J. A. Wells has shown us the 30pf stamp of the Germania type surcharged "Danzig" with the added overprint "60" in red. Stars also obliterate the former value in the upper corners.

EUPEN & MALMEDY.—Mr. Henry Hooreman has shown us the 65c stamp of Belgium, showing the "Termonde Dendermonde" with the overprint "Eupen" in black. The same value has also been surcharged "Malmedy" in the same color. The 25c "Liege Luik" type has also been surcharged both ways but with smaller type, and the same has also been done to the recently issued 3c grey.

GREECE.—On the occasion of the Venezelos-versus-Constantine elections last year a special series of postage stamps was printed by Messrs. Aspiotis at Corfu in honour of the "Grand Old Man" of Crete. The series consisted of six values, viz.:—

HERE'S A STAMP, CATALOGS 50c, PRICE $11.50

Twenty-three times catalog is some price! But hearken, it is:

U. S. 1851, 3c ORANGE BROWN, CANCELLED "PALMYRA, MO." IN GREEN!

The date is Sept. 5, 1851—just two months and five days after the stamp was issued, and it comes from a little burg in Missouri, which today is only knee high to a one horse town. What was it before the Civil War?

Furthermore, the stamp is in fine condition and on original letter with a beautiful green grid cancellation in addition to the town. There is a sheet margin at right, and the stamp is from an early impression of the plate and shows the need of being recut. What more could one ask for a paltry eleven-fifty? We doubt if there is a similar cover in any collection.

BRAZIL "BULL'S EYES"

Quite a nice lot of the classic "Bullseyes" in these books from "B" countries. Also all the other 19th century issues of this interesting country. Some pairs, a few blocks. Bolivia and Argentine both pretty well represented. And the discounts from catalog reflect the present state of the money market.

J. O. MOORE, Inc., RHEIMS, N. Y.

10l red. 50l mauve.
20l deep red. 1d yellow.

The low values had a portrait of Venezelos, with simple inscription of "ΕΛΛΑΕ" at the top and denomination at bottom. The 1d stamp was a triple portrait one.

However, after the political landslide by which the Liberal Government was overthrown, these stamps were burnt by order of the Ralli Ministry, with the exception of a few hundred sets which (as might be expected!) were saved from the flames.—Stamp Collecting.

LIECHTENSTEIN.—The Bulletin Mensuel chronicles the issuing of the 10h orange, imperforate, surcharged "2 Rp" in blue.

LUXEMBURG.—Mr. Henry Hooreman has shown us the 15c stamp recently placed on sale showing the likeness of the Queen in sheets of 25 stamps.

MEMEL.—Mr. J. L. Riedel advises us that with the issuing of the 10 and 20 marks stamps (both on the 5fr stamp of France) this very interesting set is now complete. There are 16 values in all as follows: 5pf on 5c green, 10pf on 10c red, 20pf on 25c blue, 30pf on 30c yellow, 40pf on 20c chocolate, 50pf on 35c violet, 60pf on 40c red brown and blue, 80pf on 45c green and blue, 1m on 50c brown, 1.25m on 60c violet and blue, 2m on 1f red brown, 3m on 5f blue, (all the above in black) 3m on 2f red brown (red), 4m on 2f red brown (black), 10m on 5f blue (red), and 20m on 5frs blue (red).

MESOPOTAMIA (Iraq).—Mr. C. G. Cottle informs us that he has discovered the "IRAO" error, but that, unlike the one recently reported by Mr. R. G. Rolfe, his copy is the 1 anna value (Mr. Rolfe remarked that he had discovered it on the 1½ anna only).

In this connexion Messrs. Whitfield King & Co. received in October last, a large consignment of 1½ annas stamps, and found that one stamp had been removed from each sheet. A Baghdad correspondent states that on inquiry at the post office he was informed that this was done there, owing to the fact that these stamps were wrongly overprinted "IRAO" instead of "IRAQ". It would be interesting to know what was done with these errors.—Stamp Collecting.

MOZAMBIQUE.—We have to thank our esteemed friend at Umtali, Mr. L. H. Rivers, for a postally used example of the new 6 centavos "coffee plant" stamp chronicled a fortnight ago. As already mentioned, it is in marone (frame) and blue; as a work of art we do not think much of it.

Mr. Rivers remarks that, in view of the revised postal tariff, they have been expecting this denomination for some time locally. He considers that 12c and 18c values will also be required.—Stamp Collecting.

NICARAGUA.—Senor Alfredo Pertz has furnished Scott's Monthly Journal with a copy of an official decree, of which our New York contemporary presents the following translation:

"THE STAMPS OF THE CENTENARY.

The President of the Republic, in order to patriotically commemorate the centenary of our political independence, which was achieved on September 15th 1821, has decreed that there shall be issued a special series of postage stamps, as follows:—

100,000 stamps of ½ centavo, in light blue, with the bust of General Manuel Jose Arce, first President of Central America.

100,000 stamps of 1 centavo, in green, with the bust of Don Jose Cecilio del Valle, author of the Declaration of Independence.

100,000 stamps of 2 centavos, in red, with the bust of Don Miguel Larreinaga, leader for independence and Deputy for the Province of Leon.

100,000 stamps of 5 centavos, in deep blue, with the bust of General Fernando Chamorro, who died for the union of Central America and leader in the national war.

100,000 stamps of 10 centavos, in orange colour, with the bust of General Maximo Jerez, prominent advocate of the Central American Union.

100,000 stamps of 25 centavos, colour yellow, with bust of General Pedro Joaquin Chamorro, ex-President of Nicaragua and founder of the telegraph, railways, and free and obligatory public-school systems.

100,000 stamps of 50 centavos, colour violet, with the bust of Rúben Dario, our great poet.

The stamps shall bear in the upper corners the dates '1821' and '1921'; below them, 'State of Nicaragua'; the bust in the centre, with 'Central America' below it; and in the lower corners, numerals corresponding to the value of each stamp.

This issue shall be used on letters despatched on the 14th, 15th, and 16th of September, 1921."—Stamp Collecting.

PHILIPPINES.—Mr. William Hoffman advises, "I have received the report that a special commemorative set will be issued by the Philippines to commemorate the 400th year of their discovery by Magellan."

SOMALILAND.—Frank P. Brown Co. advise that they have received the 2a stamp printed on the new watermarked paper.

VIRGIN ISLANDS.—The Philatelic Courier calls attention to the appearance of the 3d stamp on deep yellow paper entirely distinct from that of the War stamp which is light yellow.

U. S. WRITER TELLS DEALERS AND COLLECTORS WHERE TO GET THE CHEAPEST STAMPS.

IT'S MIGHTY GOOD ADVICE, TOO!

"Germany, Bavaria and Austria appear at present to have the lowest priced dealers", says Thorn Smith on How and Where to buy in "How to Deal in Stamps"(Severn-Wylie-Jewett Co.), and a simple look at the foreign exchanges will tell you why. Still, it would be a mistake to think that every dealer in the above mentioned countries is selling only bargains at ½, ¼ and 1/5 of catalogue prices. Here as over there, there are dealers who are absurdly high priced. I think I am safe in saying that nowhere else can you buy the stamps of Central Europe — old and new ones — at cheaper rates than mine.

Here Are a Few Examples:

Memel on French, 12 var. $1.80
10 and 20 Marks 1.20
Memel on German, 17 var. 2.00
Marienwerder on German
5, 20, 50, 75, 80pf, 1 Mark, v. scarce 10.00
1, 2, 3, 5m on low values 2.00
I pictorial, 14 var. 1.30
II pictorial, Kwidzyn 1.10
1m, 1.25, 1.50, 2.50 on German Mark values ..... .50
Sarre on German stamps—2pf to 1m with all shades (20 var.) 4.00
Beware of the Sarre forgeries. All my Sarre have been expertised by Dr. Dub, the authority on Sarre stamps.
Saargebiet, 17 var. ..... .45
Provs., 20 on 75, 5 and 10m on 75pf .40
Germany officials, 5pf to 5 Marks ..... .50
Bavaria, officials, 1d. ..... .80
Same surch. Deutsches Reich .... .60
Venezia Tridentina on Italy, 9 var. ... 3.50
Guilia on Austria, 3h to 4kr, only 20.00
Guilia on Italy, 11 var. 2.00
Bavaria, 30 var., per 1000 ..... .90
Upper Silesia, II surcharged, Abstimmung 20.3.21, 5pf to 1m ..... .80

Genuine All Wool Navajo Indian Blankets

now in stock again. During the war it was impossible to keep a stock. The Indians were not making many, and they were up higher than a cat's back. Now the price is very reasonable again, and I have a shipment of six bales direct from the Indian trader's near the Navajo Reservation.

Small blankets (most people know they are really rugs) from $18.00 to $35.00 each. Large ones from $45 to $125.00 each. Very showy, typical Indian designs. Speaking of Navajo blankets, Col. Hollister, the authority on these specimens of Indian handiwork, says, "Some blankets 75 years old, and that have been in constant use, seem almost as good as new. The colors tone down with age, like those of an Oriental rug, and appear more beautiful because of age." Again he says, "The native wool blankets will, if used as rugs, tone down in color, wear smooth with use, and increase in value for many years." He also remarks, "It is safe to assume that no two are exactly alike. Therefore, the possessor of one has the satisfaction of being quite sure that nobody else in the world has one just like it. Each of the thousands in existence possess a distinct individuality."

Bear in mind these are not Germantown yarn, but all are home spun, dyed and woven by the Navajo squaws.

Let me know about the kind and number you might need, and I will gladly send a selection on approval. I have sold them this way for many years, when I could get enough to offer.

Write today if interested, I warn you this lot will not last long. I also handle STAMPS, COINS, OLD ARMS, etc., and you all know I am the man to buy old U. S. and B. N. A. stamps from.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

NEW AUSTRIAN ISSUES.

By CHAS. S. THOMPSON.

A new value, Kr. 1.50, has been added to the postage set. The stamp is of the eagle type, and is green. Two new postage dues, Kr. 1.50, and Kr. 2.00 blue, have been issued.

New newspaper stamps of 9, 15, 30 and 45 heller are to be placed on sale soon.

A Charity set for the benefit of last year's flood sufferers has also been issued, and at the date of this writing (Mar. 31), is supposed to be sold out. This set consists of the same types as the current issue, but in changed colors and papers, with the surcharge in two lines, "HOCHWASSER 1920":—

5h grey, yellow; 10h red-brown; 15h grey; 20h green, yellow; 25h blue, yellow; 30h violet, blue; 40h red, rose; 50h green, blue; 60h red-violet, yellow; 80h pale blue; Kr. 1.00 red, blue-grey; Kr. 1.50 pale green, yellow; Kr. 2.00 light brown; Kr. 2.50 blue; Kr. 3.00 green and brown-red; Kr. 4.00 grey-violet and yellow-brown; Kr. 5.00 green; Kr. 7.50 brown-red; Kr. 10.00 dark blue and green; Kr. 20 00 carmine and violet. The color of the frame in the high values (Parliament type) is given first. The paper for these is the same as for the regular issues of higher values, but the colored papers used for the lower values are apparently like those used for some former issues, i. e., Levant and Crete.

These Charity Stamps are sold for no less than three times face value, as were the Carinthias. It is apparent that at such rates few will do postal duty except that of the made-to-order cover kind, where the whole stamp family is pasted on one envelope, in order that the proud owner may have a "postally used" set. Postally abused would be a better designation.

With Austrian exchange at present rates, about 25c per hundred kronen, the actual selling price, in real money, even at the three-fold rate of robbery, is only about 45c. But by the time the stamps get to the actual consumer they will probably cost three times that price, as the operations of crooked postal employes, middlemen, and other hangers-on of the Austrian postal establishment is a large smell even in Europe, where the stamp-collecting public has become more or less inured to all varieties of cheesy aromas. The sale of this set, according to postal decree, was to extend only through March, but the administration will sell after that at an advanced rate! The moral is, "If the post office can raise the price, why should the collector?" Or, in other words, this set will be much cheaper later, even as the Carinthias, which are now being sold at considerably below their original "face" value.

AN "ECONOMY" ENVELOPE.

By W. A. PATTILLO.

In the issue of MEKEEL's for April 2d I noticed on page 207 mention of the old 3c envelopes being used by the Post Office Dept., for economy's sake.

This "economy", of course, is to be highly commended, but I think the prize case must have come to my office a few days ago; it was one of the envelopes on which the former return heading had been blocked out, and under it was printed the usual heading of "Post Office Dept." etc., Div. of Dead Letters, Official Business, etc., the penalty notice being printed across the face of the envelope stamp, and the usual black triangle under this.

But now for the surprising part, in the lower left corner was printed "Collect Three Cents on Delivery", and on the back of the envelope was 3c in precancelled postage due stamps, which I had to pay.

I have never before heard of postage being used on official business of the Post Office Dept., of this nature, so it would seem that the economy part of the use of the old 3c envelopes had been turned into thrift at the expense of the public.

RARITIES

Of only classic issues in BLOCKS, STRIPS, ENTIRES
all in first class condition can be furnished to the value of

One Hundred Thousand Dollars

I have many pieces ranging in value all the way up to $10,000, illustrated in their original size in my new list which I gladly send postfree to advanced collectors remitting the small sum of 10c in unused postage stamps.

The list will be sent free of charge to all collectors or dealers who have already had business relations with me, but on account of the high cost of production I am compelled to charge the small amount indicated above in order to avoid requests from persons who have no real interest in the rarities I offer.

I buy always at the highest prices (against cash down) all really fine rarities, but they must be in first class condition. Blocks, strips, etc., of rare stamps, especially of the old classic issues, are much desired. Furthermore I buy fine collections, and prefer them specialized as for instance only from Europe, English Colonies, etc. If however you have a general collection for sale communicate with me.

SUBTLE STUFF.

Some weeks ago, the old Chicago Philatelic Society held the best dinner in its history; and it began about 1886 to give its annual banquets. The "festive board" groaned "with all the delicacies of the season" and "when cigars were lit," the "we-have-with-us-to-night" or the toastmaster called upon different members to speak and they "responded aptly," Mr. Golding "bringing down the house." Our own little pet "Del." delineated a menu with so much to it that we think that it should be embalmed in philatelic history. It is not necessary to say that R. McP. Cabeen is the Egyptologist for this occasion only.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

HUNGARY.

By THEODORE H. AMES.

Once upon a time there was, in the southeastern corner of Europe, a country called Hungary. The controlling influence in Hungary was exercised by men of the Magyar race, who were experts in efficient, though sometimes morally questionable diplomacy. By playing off against each other the small countries surrounding their original Hungary, they gradually succeeded in adding a slice of each one's territory to their own, and even, in some few cases, in absorbing entire countries.

Hungary's most powerful neighbor, Austria, was engaged in the same game. Her statesmen were less acute but were aided by their northern neighbor, Germany, who had strength to lend when it was wanted. With this aid, Austria also was successful in adding to her territory.

And so it came to pass that these two powerful and bloated empires began to eye each other suspiciously, but, instead of fighting to determine their supremacy, they got together their leaders and statesmen and decided to combine. Austria felt that with her own Kaiser acting as nominal Emperor of the combined Empire, and with the moral and material support of Germany, she would speedily attain full control over Hungary and that then she would be the supreme influence instead of a partner. Hungary had faith in her diplomats to preserve her integrity, which was well founded, for it gradually came about that the Magyars "pulled the strings" while leaving the outward appearance of control to the Austrians.

The ambition of the Magyar diplomats at last overstepped their reason, however, and they agreed to embark with Germany on the most outrageous plan of war and conquest ever conceived. Germany made Austria the nominal beginner of the war, writing the Austrian ultimatum to Servia at Berlin, which precipitated the conflict while at the same time Germany pretended to be striving, with all the other great powers, to preserve peace in Europe. This double dealing was no doubt considered a very clever move by its perpetrators but turned out in the end to have been their most stupendous blunder, since it resulted in the destruction and dismemberment of their Empire.

The many small states and parts of states which had been absorbed by Austria, and most particularly by Hungary, never became a part of their rulers' Empire, in language, spirit or sympathy, and at the first opportunity made their escape, rejoining their real countrymen or setting up independent governments and is with the effect of this disintegration on philately that we are concerned.

There is no doubt that the stamps of Hungary have witnessed more vicissitudes during and following the war than have those of any other nation. Scarcely a day passes without the announcement of some new issue "on the stamps of Hungary".

It is the disintegration of the Hungarian State as shown on its postage stamps which I purpose to illustrate.

The victorious Italian Army marching into the Venetian Plain and into the mountainous Trentino, surcharged the stamps of Austria found there and this signalised the beginning of the falling away of the forcibly held parts of the Austro-Hungarian Empire. The surcharged Austrian stamps were replaced by Italian stamps with special overprints, and finally, on April 20th, 1919, even these were withdrawn, and these sections now use the same stamps as the rest of Italy. These two great tracts of "Italy Irredenta" are now redeemed and are again a part of Italy. They include the important cities of Trent and Trieste.

The first effect of the war's end on the stamps of Hungary was the overprint "Fiume" placed on the stamps found and seized by the Italian residents in the Post Office of that city. All stamps held by citizens were called in and exchanged for the surcharged series which alone was accepted for postage. The Jugo Slavs, who were awarded the city by the Versailles Conference, also surcharged Hungarian stamps "Hrvatska S H S" for use in the city of Fiume, but it seems that these never were good for postage there.

During the latter part of the Spring and early Summer, Hungary appeared to be fairly well settled philatelically, but with the overthrow of the Karolyi Ministry and the relapse into Bolshevism, the pot began to boil again. The Bolshevist regime of Bela Kun did not dure long but it left its blot on pages of stamp albums in the shape set of five denominations of stamps would be difficult to find anything in stamp line more crude, comic, and r ulous than these stamps. The values subjects are as follows:

20f rose and brown, Karl M founder of the Bolshevist or Mar theory.

45f brown and blue, Petofi, Hunga Revolutionary Poet.

60f gray and brown, Martino Hungarian revolutionist.

75f claret and brown, Dosza, T sylvanian anarchist.

80f olive and black, Engels, dis of Karl Marx.

One, viewing these stamps, ur stands the source of the cartoo portraits of Bolsheviks.

This issue of stamps was comp tively small and when exhausted replaced by a new series of twenty nominations, consisting of the Hu rian stamps surcharged: "Magyar acs Koztarsasag", (Bolshevist Rep of Hungary).

Concurrently with these was us series of stamps replacing the stamp the Hungarian Monarchy in the designs but with the inscription "M yar Posta" instead of Magyar Kir P

The Bolshevist Government was the subject of attacks by the Allies, wished to have a more responsible in control when the time came fo signing of the Peace Treaty. The manians were accordingly given au ty to invade the country, and a Fr

Military expedition was also despatched to restore a stable Government.

The Roumanians entered Transylvania, soon disposing of the feeble resistance encountered, and, as is usually the case, surcharged all stocks of Hungarian stamps which were found in the Post Offices. The surcharge consisted of the words "Regatul Romaniei" and the letters "P T T" in a circular device and the numbers printed were limited. Some values, notably the 1 leu on 3 filler, on 25 filler, and on the 1 krona, are very rare, only a few hundred stamps being surcharged. Of the 1 filler 1915, red figures, but 100 were printed. The set complete consists of forty-four different stamps.

Following the occupation by the French troops of certain portions of Hungary, the authorities had surcharged a certain number of stamps with the words "Occupation Francaise." This surcharge was first applied to the Hungarian stamps surcharged with the word "Koztarsasag" (a variety which I have neglected to mention. It was issued at Budapest) and then to those which were as yet unsurcharged. The surcharge was in blue on some denominations and red on others. All these are destined to have a good future and are worth picking up when one is sure of their genuineness, as 67,000 is the largest number of one kind that was issued.

Temesvar, the chief city of the province of Temes, was occupied by the Serbian forces and stamps were surcharged, with the name of the city, in large quantities except for the postage dues, which are not as plentiful.

The province of Baranya was the next part of the Empire to declare its independence and took advantage of the occasion to stamp its name and the date, bring many new varieties to gladden (?) "1919," across the face of all the Hungarian stamps obtainable. Most of these are quite plentiful also, the only extreme rarity being the 40 filler, portrait of Empress Zita, surcharged Koztarsasag, surcharged Baranya. Forty-nine varieties make up this series.

Our Philatelic History now takes us back to Temesvar, where the Serbs, firmly ensconced, began to find it difficult to reconcile their coinage with that of Hungary. The Hungarian Krona has a value of approximately one-third of the Serbian Dinar, that is, the Serbian unit, dinar or para, is worth three times the Hungarian unit, krona or filler. This led to much confusion in postage payments and it was deemed necessary to surcharge new values on the old Hungarian stamps. It now costs 10 paras instead of 10 fillers to frank a letter, or 30 filler. The Hungarian stamps on hand were accordingly employed for the creation of the required new denominations. Five different stamps were surcharged with new values: 10, 30, 45 and 50h, 1k 50h. In July, 1919, the Roumanians took charge of this district and they surcharged everything that was left, making a new set of eight values, various fancy new denominations, in quantities sufficient to go round.

The whole story of the surcharging of Hungarian stamps is doubtless not all told yet, and the coming months will the heart of the collector. Already there are rumors of an extremely limited issue of stamps by the adherents of Count Karolyi who are gathered in the city of Szegedin, and no doubt these stamps will deserve to be considered Government issues, as no Government has been elected to succeed that of Karolyi; the Bolshevist Government gained control by force, pure and simple.

The stamps of Hungary have sustained more legitimate surcharging than any other class of stamps that could be mentioned, and a collection of them all, with the history of the necessity for each change, would make a tremendously absorbing volume.

BUREAU STATISTICS.

By FRANK L. APPLEGATE.

I would like to touch upon the reports of the Director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1920, no reference to which I have seen in the WEEKLY. I have just received a copy of this very interesting report also one for the previous year. One surprising feature of the later report is the large number of liquor and beer stamps still being used. Over 13,000,000 beer stamps were delivered during the year.

Only one denomination of the 1916 wine stamps, namely 400,000 of the $1.44 value were delivered during the past fiscal year, that is below the $20.00 value. By the way, the higher values are referred to as Book wine stamps, and 6,000 each of the $20.00 and $100.00 were delivered to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue during the past fiscal year, also 4.800 of the $40.00 stamps. During the year before the same number of $20.00 were delivered, also 4,800 $50.00 and 2,400 $100.00 stamps, and many of the lower values.

It is notable that 42 and one-half million of the 1894 playing card stamps were surcharged 8 cents and that 10,000 were surcharged Virgin Islands 4 cents.

A little summary of the high value documentary stamps furnished both unsurcharged and surcharged Stock Transfer and Future Delivery will be of interest to the WEEKLY readers.

July 1, 1918, to July 1, 1919.

	Plain.	Stock Transfer.	Future Delivery
$30	30,000	None	26,000
$50	None	8,000	8,000
$60	8,000	9,000	9,000
$100	4,000	8,000	None
$500	None	640	640
$1000	1,920 (!)	None	None

July 1, 1919, to July 1, 1920.

	Plain.	Stock Transfer.	Future Delivery
$30	37,920	None	24,000
$50	None	None	40,000
$60	17,240	None	16,800
$100	38,400	None	None
$500	5,440	None	3,200
$1000	9,280	960	5,760

Their use seems to be increasing, except the stock transfers.

One million six hundred thousand of the 1c documentary were surchaiged for use on cigarette tubes, and 2,438,400 documentary stamps were surcharged Narcotic, including 1, 3, 25c and $1.00 stamps. Most sensational though is the report that narcotic stamps "series of 1919" were printed in four sizes including various denominations, not one cent stamp only as has been so far reported.

No. 1. Is 1c only.
No. 2. 1c and 2c.
No. 3. 1, 2, 5, 6, 8, 10 and 16c.
No. 4. All these values, also 25c, 40c, $1.00 and $1.28, a new and unique denomination in U. S. revenue or any other stamps.

Great quantities of proprietary stamps were printed ranging from half a billion 1c to 300,000 of the 40c denomination. Thirteen billion United States postage stamps were delivered to postmasters during the past fiscal year, also 29,000,000 stamps for the Philippines. All values of the airplane stamps were still being sent out including about 300,000 of the 6c, half a million of the 16c, and 109,000 24c. Nearly eight millions of the victory stamps were sent out also. More of the "1902" $2.00 and $5.00 were delivered than of the series of 1917, the figures being

Series of 1902,	$2.00	96,152
	5.00	36,220
Series of 1917,	2.00	28,670
	5.00	11,005

Of the lower values fewer of the 13c stamp were delivered than any other denomination, but these reach the huge sum of two and one-half millions, next plentiful $1.00, with four millions. Next 50c with 17 millions, and 11c with 18 millions. All denominations of dues, including 108,000 30c, the lowest number, were sent out and nearly 63 millions special delivery.

Altogether, over four hundred million sheets of securities were delivered by the Bureau to the different departments aggregating a face value of nearly 28 billion dollars, at an expense of nearly eight million dollars.

ANOTHER FIND.

By A. A. LEVE.

G. W. Welsh's little book find isn't such a wonderful thrill compared to the shock I had within a stone's throw of where I am writing this. Of course his little book was carefully kept by the present owner and was brought out as a treat—but read this:

I got a phone call to come over and see some funny blue stamps on envelopes that were mailed in the 'forties. Did I "come"? I scampered. The owner a crayon artist, met me at his door and said, "Wait". Well, he returns in a few minutes with a fist full of damaged 5c 1847, some pairs, on the covers; and right here is where I got the shock, when he told me that a year ago he cleaned out the cellar and found a barrel packed full of old letters and envelopes and these were only samples, which he saved to show some one who might tell him what they were. Whether that barrel that he escorted to the curb, to be carried to the c was full of 5c and 10c, 1847 (and stamps), no one will ever know. thing to do is to get 'em in the first. He sold the few pairs and si for about $20 at that, and he now izes he threw away a young gold

Mr. Welsh is right, the big finds themselves—sometimes!

RAMBLES IN CHINA AND JAPAN.

By HENRY H. HART.

When last I wrote, I was in Singapore, after my return from Bangkok. In Singapore, I found no copies of the Scouts' stamps of Siam for sale, nor have I as yet seen them properly catalogued in any of our stamp papers. They are scarce, and I have never seen any advertised anywhere. Maybe you have better luck in the East than we have here.

The Straits Settlements appeared to have no philatelic novelties, except that the 10c seemed to be coming in a much darker, clearer shade than heretofore. No value above the $5.00 is on sale anywhere in the colony, nor could I obtain any information as to them anywhere.

After a month in the colony, I visited Johore. There I found that some of the values were on quatrefoil paper, and others on Crown CA, the latter gradually taking the place of the former. I bought a sheet of the 2 cent purple and orange on Crown CA paper. This variety does not appear in the catalogue, either Scott or Gibbons.

We were caught in a very dangerous typhoon while in the Formosa Channel, en route from Hong Kong to Shanghai, and for a time it looked as though these rambling notes might never have been written. However, after fourteen hours of as rough weather as I have ever experienced, we safely entered the muddy waters of the Yellow Sea, and in due time entered the Whangpoo, along whose northern bank lies Shanghai.

I will not enter into a description of the "New York of the Far East"—personally I like the really Oriental cities infinitely better, and Shanghai's hotels are anathema, but I'll proceed with matters philatelic.

Shanghai has at present the following foreign post offices, in addition to the Chinese offices throughout the city: American, English, Japanese, French, and Russian.

At the American Post Office I found the current U. S. A. series, from 1 cent through $1.00, surcharged with new values in Mexican currency. The Special Delivery does not exist—or at least, it had not at the time of my visit. It was almost impossible for me to find a set that was at all well-centered, and, as it is, I had to take several values in pretty poor condition. The unsurcharged stamps were also on sale. They seem to be scarcer used than unused.

At the English post-office I found the current set surcharged "CHINA", but no remarkable shades or varieties. Shanghai postal clerks must be much pestered by collctors, as, save at the Chinese post-office, I found very little interest in supplying good specimens or information.

I arrived just in time to obtain the newly surcharged Japanese 6, 30 and 50 sen stamps. Other than that, the current surcharged stamps of Japan were on sale, though the peace stamps were not to be had there.

The French business section is very different in appearance from the International Settlement, and the streets seem much more dingy and narrow. Instead of Sikh policemen, who are employed in the other section, Annamites are employed. It made me rather homesick for Saigon, where I had spent four months earlier in the year. When one of the policemen got in my way, I couldn't resist calling to hin in Annamite "Di-mau-len" (Go quickly). The poor fellow jumped as though he had been shot, and, as my ricksha coolie sped by, stood gasping with astonishment. It had been many a month since he had been addressed by a white man in his own language.

I found the Consular Post-Office without much difficulty but, as elsewhere, the officials showed scant courtesy in allowing the selection of good specimens. Of course, Monsieur could not buy any postage due stamps unused, as it was contrary to the regulations. But when M. le Directeur's back was turned, a few words from me in Cantonese to the clerk solved the problem very nicely. The stamps surcharged with the value in cents and piastres (an unknown coin in North China) are those on sale. To the best of my information, the 40 cents on 1 franc, small surcharge, has never been issued.

On Soochow Creek, a block from the Astor House, I found the Russian Post-

20TH CENTURY BRITISH COLONIES

I am breaking up a collection of Kings' Heads, which is practically complete, both Edward and George, to the Pound value, inclusive, as well as War stamps in blocks of four, with plate numbers.

Mr. Collector, here is a chance to fill your vacant spaces.

H. F. COLMAN SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG., WASHINGTON, D. C.

office which appears to be used but very little. I tried to find out what Government the office represented, but I could get no information until I tried the clerks in Russian. I was informed (though I do not know how authentic the information may be) that they represented the Bolshevik government, and then followed a tirade on all things capitalistic, and an assurance that before another twelve month was out the whole world would be under the Soviet rule. After a friendly talk along these lines, the chief clerk confidentially let me into the "secret" of an interesting variety on the surcharge of the three cent value. After the numeral "3", on the first stamp of the last row on the lower right-hand pane, there is a large, distinct period. That this is a constant variety, I verified by examining over a hundred sheets, on every one of which the period—or, rather, blotch—occurs. I obtained a half-dozen blocks of this value, and I would like to hear from any specialists in these stamps who is interested. The stamps on sale at the Russian Post-office are those surcharged in cents and dollars up through seven dollars. Russian stamps sold in Shanghai are not sold in depreciated Russian currency, but in the Shanghai dollars. (Note: The Russian Post-office is now closed).

Much search and inquiry failed to find the much-advertised Italian post-office, and I could locate none of its surcharged stamps.

As to dealers, Shanghai is not very well supplied. With the exception of a couple of men who deal as a side-line, the only man with a stock worthy of the name is Mr. Theodore Siddall.

One of the very first things which I did after landing in Shanghai was to look him up, for I had often read his notes in the WEEKLY in the days gone by (I have been a subscriber for nineteen years now!)

A kinder, more generous, more helpful man, I have never met than Mr. Siddall, who received me, an utter stranger, like a brother, and invited me to his home, where I spent several delightful evenings. I shall never forget one of them. We were in the midst of an inspection of his wonderful collection of Chinese and Turkestan—why he does not write an article or book on them I know not—when the electricity gave out, and there we sat in the dark an hour or more, "talking about it and about"—and in that hour I learned much of China, her politics, her economics, her life—and her stamps. Of the latter, Mr. Siddall has a wonderful collection and a wonderful stock for sale. And he knows his stamps too, and all the stamps of Asia, as well as those of China. I owe a deep debt of gratitude to him, and my future collecting of Chinese will be made along the lines laid out by him. He has errors and varieties galore, many of them uncatalogued, and foreign offices, surcharges, cancellations and sheets and blocks enough to make your head swim. . . . . I was sorry when the time came to say "good-bye" to him. But the latest civil war had broken out soon after my arrival in Shanghai, so railroad communication was cut off with Pekin and Tientsin. I had intended to visit those cities and proceed via Mukden, through Manchuria and Korea, and thence by ferry from Fusan to Shimonoseki. But fate, in the guise of a comic-opera Mars (a comic-opera with a sad, sober, even tragic consequence for the Eastern world in the future) intervened, so I crossed in an awful Japanese boat (only four in a cabin in hot, typhoon weather), and after four days of the Yellow Sea, I arrived at Nagasaki.

I stayed in Japan a month, visiting almost every city visited by tourists, and many others where tourists never go. I enjoyed the beauties of Miyajima, the delightful shooting of the rapids of the Hodzugawa, an enjoyable two weeks at Kyoto, the ancient capital, and the heart of Japan, the centre of its art and its learning, Nikko and its temples, commuted for weeks every day between Tokyo and Yokohama, investigated business conditions at Kobe and Osaka, and in a way, saw the Land of the Rising Sun very thoroughly.

Nothing of philatelic interest offered itself. Some stamps can be picked up at curio shops, but I saw nothing very startling. . . . . Finally my steamer came in from the sunny southlands, and, after fifteen days, we sighted Bird Islands and the rest of the Hawaiian group, which I had not visited for five years. We stayed but a few hours, which barely gave me time to see the many wonderful improvements which had been made in Honolulu since my former visit. I only know that I would be content to live there forever. . . . . Eight more days, and we sighted the Golden Gate, and my sixteen months of wandering in the Far East were over, I expect to go again soon before many months are past.

GERMANY KEEPS HER RARE STAMPS.

Not to Part With Philatelic Gems Till Mark Recovers.

Germany is making determined efforts to keep one form of national wealth in the fatherland—her rare postage stamps, says London Lloyd's.

German philatelists are among the most scientific students of stamps, and large sums have been expended upon the national stamp collection in the Berlin Postal Museum, one of the most valuable in the world.

Some of the rarest specimens known to collectors are found among the early postal issues of the old German States. These gems are regarded by German philatelists in the light of national treasures, and both stamp dealers and collectors across the Rhine have combined to prevent them from going out of the country.

The leading stamp dealers of Germany have mutually agreed not to part with any standard rarities, even to their own countrymen, until the mark has recovered something of its pre-war value. Meanwhile, the agents of German firms are endeavoring to corner all the finest things in the stamps of their own country that come up for sale in London, Paris and New York.

A boom in current issues of British colonial postage stamps is likely to follow the receipt this week of the first examples in contemporary types, upon the latest improved watermarked paper. In due course the change of watermark will be extended to the stamps of some forty colonies and protectorates. Stamps thus rendered obsolete will rise in value.—N. Y. Sun.

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF DENMARK.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

CHAPTER XI.

The Postal Union Stamps.

In 1882 a proposal was issued from the headquarters of the Universal Postal Union at Berne, Switzerland, that all countries should use the same colors for stamps of the values of .5, 10 and 25 centimes and equivalent denominations in any currency. This meant an immediate change in the colors of the 5 and 20 öre stamps of Denmark then current and the issue a few years later of a new denomination—10 öre. The official notice referring to the first of these changes was as follows:—

"OFFICIAL COMMUNICATION.
No. 17. June 20, 1882.

In conformity with a proposal issued by the International Office of the Universal Postal Union at Berne, with a view to the adoption by all countries belonging to the Universal Postal Union of uniform colors for the stamps and cards most commonly used (both for the inscriptions and the design), there will shortly be issued and put in circulation new stamps of the values of 5 and 20 öre, respectively, colors green and blue, and new postcards with a 10 öre stamp printed upon them, color red. So long as there remain on hand stocks of the current 5 and 20 öre stamps and 10 öre cards, they may continue to be used."

The design for the new 5 and 20 öre stamps shows the Arms of Denmark (heraldically described as "Or, semé of hearts gules, three lions passant, guardant, in pale azure, crowned or) in a shield surmounted by a Royal Crown, placed upon a ground of vertical lines and surrounded by an oval band, inscribed "Danmark" at top and "Postfrim" followed by numerals and the word "Ore" at base. These inscriptions are in uncolored letters. At each side is a large circle containing colored numerals to denote the value, while in each of the corners are small circles, also containing numerals, which are set diagonally. The whole is enclosed within a rectangular frame with the design completed by the addition of ornamentation in the spandrels. In size the design measures 17 x 21 mm.

The design was the work of the artist, N. Fristrup, who drew it at the request of the Director General of Posts. His drawing, which was on a large scale, about 41 x 50 mm., was reduced by means of the pantograph, and the original die engraved by L. Lauter, an engraver in the employ of Messrs. Thiele. From the secondary dies, made from the original, 100 clichés were made for each denomination and these were clamped together to form the printing plates.

The stamps were printed on similar paper to that used for the stamps of the preceding issue with the Crown watermark and they were perforated 14 x 13½.

The 10 öre of similar type was not issued until April, 1885, and was made necessary by changes in the postal rates. In the official notice relating to this new stamp, information regarding the new rates is also given, viz.:—

"OFFICIAL COMMUNICATION FROM THE HEAD OF THE POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT.

that, at the end of the current month there will be sent to the post offices without requisition on their part, a certain number of the postal values mentioned above, which, however, as their sale will not commence before the first of next month, should be brought on charge in the month of April."

Prior to the publication of this notice the 5c and 20c were issued in a type differing in many small particulars from the earlier and original one. The 5 öre was issued in May and the 20 öre in November, 1884. The new 10 öre value was in this new type usually designated as with "larger numerals in corners". Apparently an entirely new die was engraved, this being the work of Ph. Batz.

The differences between the two types are as follows:—

First Type.

(a) The vertical lines of the background of the oval are very close together.

(b) The double-line circle at each side has the thin line very close to the thick one, and the figures are thick and wide.

(c) The numerals in the corners are small.

(d) The bodies of the Lions are straighter than in the second type.

(e) The lines of color between the legs of the "M" of "Denmark" are very short.

Second Type.

(a) The lines of the background are more widely spaced.

(b) There is a much greater space between the thick and the thin lines of the circles at the sides, and the numerals in them are narrower and, in the case of the 20 öre, wider apart.

(c) The numerals in the corners are larger.

(d) The bodies of the Lions are more curved than is the case with the first type.

(e) The colored lines between the legs of the letter "M" of "Denmark" are much longer.

All three denominations are known in both types but the 10 öre in the first type with small numerals was not issued as a regular variety by the postal authorities, but was caused by clichés intended for postcards having become mixed in the postage plate in error. There were, we believe, only two of them, in the bottom row of some of the first sheets printed, and as the error was detected and the offending clichés replaced by proper ones, the variety is of some rarity.

The 5 öre and 20 öre with small numerals were printed in entire sheets and formed a separate issue, but the 20 öre is also known as an error in the sheets of the large numeral variety—one or more clichés having been inserted in the plate by mistake, just as was the case with the 10 öre. Pairs showing both varieties se-tenant are very rare, as the small numeral clichés seem to have soon been detected and removed.

The same paper was used for printing the stamps with larger numerals and the perforation is the same—14x13½.

The 5 öre of the first type is said to exist without period after "Ore", and all three varieties of the second type may be found with period after "Postfrim" omitted.

The numbers issued were as follows:

Small numerals in corners
5 öre,	1,716,100
20 öre,	5,489,300
Large numerals in corners
5 öre,	230,505,100
10 öre,	171,967,200
20 öre,	55,208,000

The figures for the stamps with large numerals in corners also include those issued later with the 12½, 13 perforation. The figures for the 10 öre include all the stamps issued of both types for, as the small numerals variety, was due to error, no official account was kept of the numbers issued.

GARDNER, BEER & CO.

By CHRISTOPHER WEST.

This firm is not listed in any of the Chicago directories and no one named Gardner or Beer engaged in the match business is listed there. The only clue to this firm which the writer has found is a reference in the Boston directories. The firm of Gardner, Stone & Co., commission merchants, is listed in the Boston directories of 1875 to 1878, but not later, and the Boston directory for 1879 states that two of the men who comprised the firm, Geo. F. Stone and Edward A. Lord, had removed to Chicago. The third member, Henry J. Gardner, is listed in the 1879 directory but does not appear in the 1880 issue.

The Boston Book gives the following data:—

Die approved, Nov. 9, 1877.
First issued, December, 1877.
Last issued, May 25, 1878.
210 stamps per sheet, (14x15).
1,768,410 issued on pink paper.

The stamp is an upright rectangle of the standard 1c size. In the center is a circular disk bearing an engraving of a locomotive of the type in use in the '70s. A circular band surrounding the disk is inscribed "Matches" above and "Chicago, Ill." below. Following the curve of this band above it and below it are two labels, the upper inscribed "Gardner, Beer & Co." and the lower reading "U. S. Inter. Rev." In each upper corner is a numeral of value and across the bottom is a straight panel inscribed "One Cent." The design is filled out with acanthus ornamentation.

This is one of the few match stamps engraved by the National Bank Note Co. and certainly does them credi is the only match stamp on whi locomotive appears. If all the M. stamps were as pretty as this would be more collectors of the pr die revenues and the latter would as high in popularity as any o Seebeck postage stamps ever did. interesting to compare the Gar Beer & Co. stamp with the Guate parrot sets of 1879-82, with the vian postage issues of the same p and the Hawaiian stamps listed Type A17. All of these were also graved and printed by the Nat Bank Note Co. and have the same of acanthus ornamentation.

The locomotive match stamp is moner than the catalog quota would indicate and is not difficu find in nice condition. Sterling it at $1.00 in 1888—just twice as as the Scott price from 1886 to The Scott catalog jumped it to $2 1896 and to $3.00 in 1898, but re it to $2.00 again in 1900, and have remain there ever since. Two or fifty-cent dollars ought to buy as copy as there is. No pair, str block has come to the writer's atte

COMMUNICATION

To the Editor:—

I hardly know whether this letter will be of valued interest to you, but it will relieve my mind, at any rate.

In the Weekly of October 23, 1920, on page 561, I found your initials beneath a comment on an article taken from the Worcester Telegram of October 8, and I feel as if a little refutation is only fair for the editor's point of view.

Twenty years or more ago, I was an ardent collector to the extent of a boy's pocketbook of those happy years. Then, by chance, I grew tired of my hobby, and did not take it up again until three years ago. From that time I have increased my collection from a few hundred to a few thousand, have had dealings with a number of different dealers, have been caught napping, and have drawn some personal conclusions concerning stamp collecting.

Those conclusions lead me to believe that the Worcester editor is not quite so ridiculous as you seem to feel, nor that he is talking about something of which he knows nothing.

I must admit that he errs when he says that the younger generation "never had and never will have a stamp collection", and that he stretches the truth a little when he speaks of a "thousand varieties of each issue", but even at that, I can well appreciate that he is not so far astray when he speaks of either.

During the past three years I have helped a great number of boys with my old duplicates, and started others on their ways toward collections; and as a consequence, I am led to feel that if the hobby is going to grow, we must educate the younger generation to save, so that later, the "youngsters", grown up, may remain collectors. My point is that we must encourage these boys, not discourage.

My acquaintances amongst these boys are rather disheartened at the tremendous array of variations, as might be found in our current 2c red, or in the minute detail of variated hair lines that make identification of the re-engraved issues so difficult. I appreciate their stand, for I have had my own troubles.

Another thing that disheartens is the high price condition that exists today. The hobby has grown so that dealers are indifferent to the mere humble chap who goes in to "buy a few", because some who can pay, command the market. I hardly blame them, but this attitude discourages the small buyer.

Variation of shade, minute detailation, and the like, have come to commercialize our hobby; and with that commercialization, we have got to grant that there are those who can hurl denunciations upon us, but we are powerless to throw back, for the facts are too evident.

How are we to stop it? I do not know, for "Supply and Demand" are with us, and as long as they are, we can do but little, except to make a mark of the unscrupulous dealer, and clean up the suide work that appears now and then. But, we shall never gain by disclaiming facts. It hardly merits us to do that.

Perhaps this letter is open to criticism; no doubt it is; but I feel that we do better to deplore and attempt to correct, than to contradict. Times have changed in our hobby, boys of meagre funds are lost to it, collectors are discouraged; and it rests with the best of us to try to help them out, and to make the worst of us swallow the bitter pill. We can do that last by putting a stop to "stamp quibbling".

Respectfully,
Henry F. Drake.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—The Shaker Heights High School, Cleveland, Ohio, recently organized the Shaker Philatelic Society, with Lawrence S. Pratt as president and Scott Mueller, secretary. The club is progressing nicely and a strong interest is being shown in philately.

—Mr. Pike informs us that we erred when we stated that the price of the Collectors' Digest is 25c. The correct figures are 50c. Even so, the book is well worth the price charged when one considers the vast amount of information stored within its covers.

—J. V. K. Wells, manager of the Home of the Postage Stamp, announces this week the purchase of the H. Tasker stock of stamps. Also, that a more convenient post office address for the business of the firm is Burnt Hill, N. Y., in place of Ballston Lake. Mail to either address will reach the firm, but the former is preferred, especially during the summer season.

—Yet another song reaches us from the prolific brain and pen of H. S. Dickey, Newton, Kansas. The one before us is entitled "The Old Home on the Hill" and Mr. Dickey thinks that it is some song. Price 60c and address Newton, Kansas.

—The Detroit (Mich.) News of April 10 contained an article "Queer Fads of Detroit Collectors", in which postage stamps came in for a goodly measure of attention. Mr. John Kay is honored by the selection of one of his gems as a subject for illustration, a fine strip of four 5c New York gracing the article. Not only has Mr. Kay this strip, but he has the letter on which it was sent. Charles F. Heyerman, president of the Detroit Philatelic Society, also comes in for special mention in connection with his fine collection.

Mr. Boers, who sends in this clipping from the News, never loses an opportunity to boost local philately, and he also names other Detroit collectors who are in the Philatelic Hall of Fame. He writes of the wonderful possessions of Dr. Warren L. Babcock, Gen. C. A. Coolidge, J. E. Scott, Karl Koslowski, Theo. Ladue, W. F. Fratcher, Dr. Hoskins, and a score of others who are well known to philately. Our Detroit correspondent also calls attention to the fact that Detroit has two stamp societies, 66 A. P. S. members (outdistanced by only two cities, New York and Chicago), and the "fourth city of the country is not a bad city for one to live in".

APOLOGY TO MR. SZEKULA.

We publish elsewhere in this issue an advertisement of Bela Szekula, Lucerne, Switzerland, in which he calls attention to the fact that Stamp Collecting has made a public retraction of a statement published in its columns which placed Mr. Szekula in an unenviable position.

and still other thousands of varieties to offer at discounts averaging 25% from current catalog prices. Also many pairs, strips, blocks and special items at reasonable net prices. The above average discount applies to almost everything in British Colonials, including many 19th century and nearly all 20th century of those countries, in either good to very fine used condition, or unused, including superb mint copies. All you have to do is send a satisfactory reference and let me know what you want.

If you are interested in early European or old imperforates, I can also show you some wonderfully fine things. And as for U. S.—the best I can do is place your order on file. I have the stamps, but have not been caught up on the U. S. orders for over three months.

UNITED STATES "HARD-TO-GETS"

Several years back, the department, learning that stamps perforated 10 would tear on being separated, started to experiment. They tried what we know as perforated 11, but in those days the Bureau was using watermarked paper instead of unwatermarked. Hence, one stamp, a complete issue all in itself, is the 2c perf. 11, watermarked, Scott's No. 388. These were all sold in Washington and today are really difficult to obtain. I have recently purchased a small lot and can offer

No. 388, A fine single copy, mint .50
A Fine block of 4, mint 2.00
A top or left plate blk. 6 5.00
A superb pane of 100 50.00

Later on the Bureau thought they could improve on their methods of perforating their stamps, and experimented on what is known as the Rosback perforating machine. This gave us a new perforation for U. S. stamps, namely, perf. 12½. This is the only stamp ever issued by our government with such a perf., and is also an issue complete in itself. They were only sold in Washington and should be in every collection. I offer the above 1c surface print, perf. 12½, Scott's No. 429, as follows:

No. 429, A single copy, mint.... .10
A block of four..... .40
A top or side plate blk.6 1.25
A complete pane of 100 10.00

If you want anything else in U. S. 1890 to date in singles or blocks, I can possibly help you out. Have a very large stock in blocks and shades, also singles of the great rarities such as the inverts, the blue papers, the imperf. error, etc. Always in the market for good collections or accumulations.

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—In the earlier days of the United States Post Office it was quite often the custom in small places of few inhabitants to have one man act as postmaster, station and express agent, etc. He generally ran the country store of the town, and being the only man with a place of business, looked after these outside interests, which netted a few dollars in the course of a year. It was then an easier matter to postmark a letter with the same stamp that was used for stamping date, town, etc., on the back of a railroad ticket than it was to use pen and ink or else have a special canceller for the purpose. At most only a few letters were despatched daily, and this method proved most convenient.

I have seen quite a few of the 1851-57 issues so used on the entire covers, but only recently ran across a similar cover used as late as 1869 and bearing a 3c stamp of that date. The cover is postmarked in black in oval and reads "North Mountain. B. & O. R. R. Jun 16 1869". A similar postmark is to be found on the back of the envelope over the closing of the flaps. The envelope is addressed to New Orleans.

Such a cover recalls a business trip that I made to New Orleans during 1913, the year of the find of the since famous Buchanan, Coy and Company correspondence. The collector who had located these covers which filled two or three barrels had picked out the pieces of high catalogue value and had disposed of most of these before I had reached New Orleans. Having exchanged stamps with him previously, I called upon him and found thousands of covers, especially those of the 1851 issue, bearing Mississippi River Steamboat cancellations. I could have had the entire lot then remaining for about fifty dollars, but in those days little attention was paid to postmarks and the steamboat cover was of little or no interest. I remember I had my pick at a couple cents each and possibly selected two hundred, some of which form an important part of my collection today. At that time I simply threw them aside, and it was possibly five years later before I found them after misplacing them. Needless to say, some few covers were worth the cost of the entire lot. The finder later took his covers to New York and I believe every dealer along Nassau street had his opportunity to buy them. I am of the opinion that many other lots of old correspondence are to be found in that quaint old city, rich in steamboat cancellations.

Jumping from the old to the new, we have for chronicle this week quite a few new provisional 2c on 3c envelopes. Mr. Cassius L. Clay sends some very interesting colored envelopes with corner imprints from New Orleans, including the first provisional blue window envelope that has been seen. Messrs. J. M. Spence and H. H. Schnich send two odd sizes from Baltimore, while Mr. A. F. Gamber sends some of the first seen from Fargo. These, however, are overprinted with the die first used in Los Angeles, and consequently when we locate a new variety from Fargo, it will be listed under Los Angeles. I mentioned last week that some had been sent from Nashville, and I would take this opportunity of thanking Mr. Edw. J. Smyth for sending them.

I understand that about sixty dies for overprinting these envelopes were ordered and that about forty have been used to date. The greater part of the work has been done, the stock in the large cities has been surcharged and they are now calling in those from the smaller offices. There is no stock in the hands of the manufacturers or in the department proper, as was originally rumored. All 3c envelopes still unsurcharged are in the hands of the several post offices and are being put out as fast as possible.

CENTRAL LITHUANIA.—A set of three stamps of crude design and execution was recently issued by General Zeligowski during the Polish occupation of Vilna. These are of the denominations of 25 fennig, 1 and 2 marks, and are imperforate. They were shortly afterwards superseded by a set of different designs and larger size, 25 fennig, 1, 2, 4, 6 and 10 marks, and are perforated. There is also an imperforate Postage Due set, 50 fennig, 1, 2, 3 and 5 marks. —Whitfield King & Co.'s Monthly List.

THE EARLY ISSUES OF CHILE

are becoming more popular every day. Perhaps the most significant reason for this is that these stamps come with such small margins that a superb copy is indeed a rare bird. Pairs and strips with margins all around are even more desirable and difficult to obtain. The market value is constantly advancing.

We are unfortunate enough to possess but a small stock of singles; however, thru a recent purchase we are now the proud possessors of a very fine little lot of pairs and strips, including a superb and unique

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

FRIENDS.

By EDWIN B. HILL, Ysleta, Tex.

(It was once customary to dedicate each bit of writing,—poetry or prose,—to a friend. This custom, regrettably, has passed. Perhaps I shall be pardoned for resurrecting it. At least, I shall inscribe this bit of reminiscence to the unnamed friend who, when he reads this, will know; and no one besides.)

It is a year since I took the long and sorrowful journey into the East, arriving at my destination so ill that only the absolute necessity of strength to keep going held me in leash. It is one thing to be ill and to know that there is no giving up, and another to appreciate the sweetness of relaxation and the succumbing to the serenity of what may prove to be rest eternal. The last was denied me, crave it as I did.

The train roared into the station at the end of three weary days, and I alighted. The city was no longer home to me,—for there had been changes in the twelve years of total absence,—the nineteen years since I had daily walked the streets. The old faces had grown older, and some I should see no more. I wired a friend in another city to meet me at a certain old haunt on a certain day. And he was there. My eyes were misty when we clasped hands, and he looked away. Twelve years had meant much to both of us in the autumn of our lives.

We sat together at the ancient table in the more ancient hostelry, and Antonio waited upon us,—the same Antonio who had never grown old in looks since I had known him more than thirty years before. Antonio had his story, too,—but that is for another tale.

And then for three hours we talked. We discussed the dead days, and agreed that this, a sure sign of age, should be likewise of yester-year when again we mingled with the world of today.

"Why can't we go up to the Lake for two or three days?" Jack finally asked.

"The Lake" had been home to me for seven collecting years,—both stamps and health. I rejoiced. Jack had a cottage there, and if there was one thing I longed for it was the feel of blankets over me and the sound of rain on the roof. Both these were mine,—those glorious three days.

The first night we sat into the long hours, talking of the men and women we had known,—transient travelers in the world of light,—who had spent a summer or two here, with their friends. And then I mentioned another name,—a childless couple who were the souls of devotion. Out of their eyes shone the sorrows of parenthood denied, yet to their friends they were the embodiment of friendship, and to their friends' friends likewise; but to the children! Their kindness and many courtesies were remembered always into manhood and womanhood.

We sat talking into the night the last evening we were to be together, Jack and I, when this old friend and his wife were again mentioned.

"Did I ever tell you how they came to collect stamps?" Jack asked. He hadn't, as that was a phase which had developed after I had departed into the West, on the ancient trail for health. Jack re-filled his pipe, drew a match thoughtfully across the sole of his shoe, puffed a few times, and then settled himself more comfortably in his chair.

"You know, Bill was one of the quaintest characters that ever lived. He was all wrapped up in his law studies, when a young man, and when he forsook the law for business, he carried into it the same zest. And his wife! Well, she was a keen second, in a way. But when Bill delved deeper into business, and its worries began to tell upon him, he sought refuge in reading the things that appealed to boyhood days. Still he grew more nervous and worried, and one day I jokingly said:

"'Bill, why don't you collect stamps? That is the sort of thing you ought to do, to keep your mind off the things that worry.'

"Bill smiled that whimsically sweet smile of his, and went his way. I did not see him for a month. One night I went to the house. Bill was no longer his old worried self. He had a new interest. He collected! And his wife? Well, I saw an ancient brass candlestick in the window of a second-hand store one day, shortly after my conversation with Bill, and I sent it to her. And now she too collected! She had gathered together just twenty-three of the most beautiful brass candlesticks you ever saw,—pairs. But mine was still unmatched. Honestly, that was why I sent it to her."

Jack smiled slightly, and refilled his pipe.

"Well, things went on,—a habit they always have, as Artemus Ward says,—and the collection grew. Then came a fire, and Will's house was a pile of ashes,—his collection likewise. His wife grieved for him, and he for her. Then I dug up the odd candlestick I had been holding out, and with it a trifling collection of stamps I had acquired from a boy, and sent them over. Will and his wife were living in a house the replica of their own, though in another street,—a house which a neighbor was glad to turn over to them when he and his family left for another city. But Will missed his collection of stamps, and his wife her candlesticks.

"This was my opportunity. I started a chain of letters, and in three months time I had forty-seven candlesticks, a collection of stamps that would have graced the pages of any connoisseur, and the most charming lot of letters you ever read.

"Of course, all these things came from Will's friends and from mine. Everyone was glad to help. And then, to crown all, the salvage-men found three candlesticks in the ruins, practically uninjured. One of them was the identical one I had given Alice, and the others were a pair. The night I took the stuff up to their house, they were sitting side by side. Alice had been crying. I hid the stuff out in the hall, and fled early.

"But I hadn't much more than reached home when the telephone rang. I was invited to go back instanter. I did. Alice threw her arms around my neck and kissed me, and good old Will wrung my hand until it hurt.

Severn-Wylie-Jewett Co., Portland, Me. Beverly, Mass.

"It seems they hadn't cared so much for the loss of the things in the house as for the treasures I had started them in the way of collecting. Now they were like a couple of children,—they had something to worry over! And they sure are worrying!"

Jack smiled.

"It's strange how one picks up Westernisms. Here I am gathering up your methods of speech, acquired in your twelve years of exile, and using them as to the manner born. If you stay on another week, I'll acquire all your vocabulary, and add another of my own to it. And then we'll send for Will and Alice!"

We heard the departing train as it left the station, only a short distance away. As we sat silent, listening to the faint far-off crossing-signals from the engine, there was a knock at the door. We had no opportunity to rise before in rushed—of all friendly friends! Will and Alice!

I had forgotten,—but her sweet smile and Will's warm greeting brought all back. The tears welled into the woman's eyes as she looked me over,—for I had had largess of her hospitality many times, and we were best of friends.

"You are older and yet you are younger," she finally said. "I think—I know—the world in your wonderful West has dealt kindly with you. Next year I want to go there, and live the free life. Yes, I'll leave the candlesticks with you," she declared, laughingly, to Jack.

"No," said that individual, whimsically, "you won't; Im going too. You can't keep me away from mine ancient another year."

And that is why, this Winter—no longer a Winter of discontent—the populace of the West increased by three.

As I sit here at the ancient and friendly Remington, the voices of the three friends come to me. I am certain there is another candlestick in the trio, and assuredly a stamp or two,—for my collection as well as for that of my friends. Confidentially, I fear me they have surreptitiously been across the border inveigling the gentle Mexican into parting with that which was acquired through an art not generally countenanced outside the realms of high finance. At least, I hope so!

STAMPS OF THE PLEBISCITES.

By DOUGLAS B. ARMSTRONG.

ALLENSTEIN.

The town and district of Allenstein, in East Prussia, lies 81 miles to the south of Konigsberg, near the new Polish border. It is an industrial town, with sawmills, breweries, etc., supporting a population of about 25,000. A plebiscite was ordered to be taken here by Articles 94 and 95 of the Treaty of Versailles. The issue of special postage stamps, under authority of the Inter-Allied Commission in control of this area, was announced by the subjoined official notification, which appeared in the Neidenburger Kreisblatt, dated April 20th, 1920:—

"NOTIFICATION BY THE LANDRAT.
Order No. 11.

Respecting the introduction of special Postage Stamps in the Plebiscite area of Allenstein.

In accordance with Article 95 of the Treaty of Versailles and the authority of the Inter-Allied commission in Upper Silesia, Allenstein, and Marienwerder are prescribed under E on and from January 9th, 1920.

1.

As from April 12th, all post offices in the Allenstein Plebiscite area will sell exclusively the undermentioned postage stamps. For the time being German postage stamps will be issued with the overprint "Plebiscite Olsztyn." Any of the old postage stamps remaining in the hands of the public can be utilized during the next 14 days, viz., until the 25th of April, after which date only Plebiscite stamps will be recognised.

2.

Collectors and large buyers of stamps will only be supplied, after the requirements of the general public have been fulfilled. The demands of collectors will receive the attention of the postal administration and will be met so far as the available supply of stamps permits.

Allenstein, 8 April, 1920.

THE INTERNATIONAL COMMISSION FOR ALLENSTEIN PLEBISCITE.
Promulgated:
Neidenburg, the 15th April, 1920.
THE LANDRAT."

Distinctive postage stamps for use during the plebiscite had been requisitioned by the Inter-Allied Commission from the State Printing Works at Berlin in the previous month (March). These were the stamps with the oval imprint, subsequently issued. Meanwhile, owing to pressure of work and difficulties in the production of the necessary dies in the time allowed, the Berlin factory obtained the consent of the Commission to deliver a first supply of stamps with a simple type-set overprint in three lines, reading "Plebiscite - Olsztyn - Allenstein," the second name representing the Polish designation of the district. This was accordingly done and stamps thus overprinted were brought into use on April 12th, as provided in the above quoted degree. By April 18th the stock of 1 mark stamps was exhausted.

SUMMARY.

BUCKEYE STAMP CO., Elyria, Ohio.

Of the 1 and 3 marks values not more than 1,000 of each were printed.

On the appearance of the definite plebiscite stamps with the oval overprinted on May 2nd, 1920, the provisional issue was temporarily withdrawn from circulation, but was reissued between the 5th and 15th of June to meet a shortage of certain values of the permanent series, notably the 15pfg, of which some 40,000 copies in the new red-brown shade are said to have been sold before these stamps were finally withdrawn on June 20th, 1920.

Except for this shade variety, the supplementary printing of these stamps can only be distinguished by means of the serial control numbers printed on the margins of the sheets.

The second series of Allenstein plebiscite stamps consisted of the same thirteen values of the current German issue bearing the imprint of a large oval cachet inscribed "Commission D'Administration et de Plebiszite Olsztyn-Allenstein" round the circumference, and enclosing in the centre a five-line inscription reading "Traite de Versailles, Art. 94 et 95."

The plebiscite having been decided in favour of Germany, the Inter-Allied Commission relinquished control of the area on August 15th, 1920, when ordinary German postage stamps, devoid of distinguishing overprint, were again brought into use in Allenstein. Stamps issued under authority of the Inter-Allied Commission remained valid for postage, however, until the 13th of the following month (September).—West End Philatelist.

A CZECH NOVELTY.

By MAX BECK.

The merchants in the city of Prague, in an endeavor to return to "normalcy", organized the Praha Veletrhy, which in plain United States means Prague Merchants' Fair.

This fair lasted from February 28th to March 8th, and was the occasion of much merry-making. All of which would be of little interest to the philatelist if it were not for the fact that during the week of the fair two special cancellations were used, which had for their purpose the advertising of this fair.

The first was a machine cancellation and postmark combined. It consisted of a design which crudely represents a merchant's ship of the old type, technically known as a "caravel", followed by a circular postmark, in the upper part of which was the word "Praha", in the center the date, and at the bottom "C. S. P." (Cesko Slovenska Posta), followed by what remotely resembles a locomotive such as Willie used to draw at the age of four, inscribed "Foire Prague". (Why the French?) This is followed by a postmark identical with the one already mentioned.

The background consists of horizontal straight lines, and the entire cancellation is about one and a quarter inches high, and is apparently designed to run the length of the entire envelope.

The second is really both cancellation and postmark combined, being a circular handstamp bearing the legend "Praha" (Prague) at the top, immediately below in very small letters "C. P. S.", in the center the date, and at the bottom the word "Veletrh." It is the regular postmark size, being a shade over one and an eighth inches in diameter.

Czecho Slovakia has hitherto not contributed overmuch to the philatelic world's stock of uniquities, but, collectors, prepare! The designs of the current set are gradually being interchanged, and the colors are being experimented upon also, with the result of several changes having already been made. Furthermore, there is also a rumor (not official) that an entire new set of postage dues is in order.

PEORIA PRIVATE PRECANCEL.

By P. F. ROBERTSON.

About the first of March one of the largest users of precancelled stamps in the city of Peoria sent a requisition to the local Post Office for a large quantity of one cent precancelled stamps. The Post Office, having a very limited supply of this denomination on hand at that time, was unable to supply the full amount of the requisition, and after discussing with the clerk the possibility of precancelling of the one's themselves, they, without knowledge of the impropriety of such action, proceeded to make up a multigraph copy for precancelling the one cent stamps.

This multigraph copy was made up and eventually four thousand (4,000) one cent stamps 11 x 10 perf. were precancelled in this manner. However, in their desire to help out the government, and their lack of knowledge of such affairs, they failed to put the abbreviation for the state below the city name, consequently all stamps that they precancelled on their multigraph machine have only the town name thereon.

These stamps were used for sending out of circulars; also in connection with parcel post shipments, and upon receipt at the Post Office of the first batch of circulars, the matter was immediately taken up with the firm by the Superintendent of Mails and they were instructed that in future no more such precancellations should be done. However, inasmuch as they had precancelled the amount of stamps stated above, the department allowed them to be used for postal usage except, however, that on all circular mail they were run thru the Postal Department cancelling machines, thereby not validating their value as a precancelled stamp in this particular phase. A number of these stamps, however, were used on parcel post packages and have gotten out thru the Postal Department without any outward cancellation mark.

The writer also has one circular which came thru without having been cancelled on the cancelling machine, as well as a stamp from another circular which had been run thru the machine. This irregularity in private cancellation will no doubt prove to be quite a rarity for a while in one sense. The st do not have a value as a precanc stamp; at the same time the valu one of the curios in stamp colle will no doubt be very great.

The department, after censuring the clerk and the purchaser, too further action in regard to the m and the writer was able to purchas half sheets of fifty (50) stamps in the condition that the multi machine left them.

The company which is responsibl this remarkable precancellation is "Larkin Co. of Illinois."

CAYMAN ISLANDS—LINE-ENGRAVED.

By HARRY E. HUBER.

The new line engraved stamps of Cayman Islands have arrived, and in design, workmanship and coloring they surpass anything turned out in recent years by De La Rue & Co., Ltd., who are primarily producers of stamps by typography.

Although discovered by Columbus on May 10, 1503, returning from the Central American coast on his fourth and last voyage; settled from Jamaica in the early years of the 18th century, and having a white population higher in percentage than any of the Caribbean islands, it was 1889 before a Post Office was opened at George Town, Grand Cayman, followed in 1898 by one at Stakes Bay, Cayman Brac. By these two offices contemporary Jamaican stamps, without overprint, were used. Not until September, 1900, did the Cayman Islands issue their own postage stamps, ½d and 1d. All series up to the one just commencing have been produced from De La Rue keyplates (at first "Postage", and then later "Postage & Revenue"), which involved merely the purchase by the Dependency of the necessary duty plates for the required denominations. At first but two were required, ½d and 1d, followed by 2½d, 6d and 1s in 1901; 4d and 5s were added in 1907; the 3d and 10s in the following year; in 1912, 2s and 3s, and lastly, ¼d in 1913.

And so it is that after a postal history of over 30 years, the Cayman Islands have provided themselves with stamps of distinctive design, if we except the lithographed farthing of 1908, which showed no great originality, being practically a copy of the North German Federation kreuzer design of 1868.

The design worked to in the new series (the current New Zealand George, patterned after the first penny stamp of Great Britain), was selected by the Commissioner of the Dependency, Hon. H. H. Hutchings, formerly Asst. Commissioner of Turks and Caicos Islands, and who had acted as Commissioner of the Cayman Islands on a previous occasion, following the death of G. S. S. Hirst, Commissioner, in 1912. Requisition for supplies of 1½d, 3d, 1s and 5s stamps was sent to London in August of last year, and after many delays, the stamps were received in the closing days of March, and issued at George Town, Grand Cayman, on Monday, April 4th, 1921.

1½d brown orange, new script wmk., comb perf.

3d purple brown on yellow, old wmk., comb perf.

1s black on green, old wmk., comb perf.

5s dark green on yellow, old wmk., comb perf.

In an upright rectangle, curved at the top, and surmounted by a crown, is a large head of King George V, facing the left, on a ground of color faintly diamonded, an improvement over the usual plain or horizontally lined ground. In the corners at the top are shield shaped value tablets with large and well formed numerals in color; in the lower corners are small squares containing three concentric circles. Small panels at the sides contain conventional scroll work, and along the outer edge is a diamond beading. Below the head is "Postage & Revenue", and "Cayman Islands" in two lines.

The design is simple, yet strength is not lacking. There is not the overcrowding so prevalent these days, when stamp designs are overloaded with detail at the sacrifice of the central design.

The 1½d is the only one of the four values on the new script type watermarked paper, for at the present time only the white and blue papers have been made up with the new type watermark. Supplies of green and yellow papers were replenished by the Crown Agents at the beginning of 1920, and in ordinary course will not exhaust for another year. The recent action of the U. P. U. convention at Madrid, allowing increased rates to be made effective on or before January 1, 1922, will change the present color scheme of the Crown Agents for postage stamps. If the maximum rates are adopted, the 1d will be printed in green, 2d in red, and 5d (a value foreign to most of the Carribeans) in blue—which of course, will affect the colors of the ½d, 1d, and 2½d values. As yet Great Britain has not announced her new rates, and action

There is a little stamp in this country that we would like to buy. It is Scott's Number 17, although 17a would do just as well.

We are not particular if it's used or unused, gummed or ungummed, centered or mis-centered.

As most of the correspondence between St. Pierre and the United States went to Boston, perhaps some of our friends in that City of Culture (how we hate that word) will produce.

20TH CENTURY BRITISH COLONIES

I am breaking up a collection of Kings' Heads, which is practically complete, both Edward and George, to the Pound value, inclusive, as well as War stamps in blocks of four, with plate numbers.

Mr. Collector, here is a chance to fill your vacant spaces.

by the Colonies and Dominions will be deferred until the Mother Country has acted. If the maximum rates are adopted, few values under 1s will escape a change in color.

A new value in the regular series of the Cayman Islands, is the 1½d, which is provided for the new Empire letter rate, soon to become effective. At a recent meeting of the Justices & Vestry (March, 1921), a bill entitled "A Law to amend the Post Office Law, 1900" was introduced and read a first time; it went to committee for consideraton; after the house resumed, the bill was read for a third time, and passed. It now goes to the Governor of Jamaica, Sir Leslie Probyn, for approval.

The 5s of the 1912 series has exhausted. The 3d had been out of stock for some months, and delays attending receipt of this value in the new design, a small lot in the old design was requisitioned. These, to the extent of 7440 copies, were received at George Town, early in January, and issued on January 7, 1921. These too have since exhausted.

To better mail communication with the outer world, which had been steadily growing worse until mails from Jamaica were four and six weeks apart, the Commissioner, after considerable correspondence with the Director of Posts, Havana, Cuba, has arranged for a mail to be made up for Grand Cayman, at Nueva Gerona, Isle of Pines—with which port there is considerable trade by Caymanian schooners. Outward mails for years have been sent via Nva. Gerona, Cienfuegos, Batabano, Tunas de Zaza, and other south of Cuba ports, but until last February no mails had ever been made up at Nva. Gerona for Grand Cayman; all mail from the outside had been routed via Kingston, Jamaica.

In an endeavor to provide fortnightly service, the following resolution was introduced at the recent meeting of the Legislative Assembly, and unanimously passed:

"This Assembly is of the opinion that the island should reap as much benefit as possible from the arrangement recently concluded with the Cuban Government for the regular interchange of mail between Nueva Gerona, Isle of Pines, and Grand Cayman, and approves of the expenditure of a sum not exceeding £120 as an annual subsidy toward the establishment of a regular fortnightly service between Grand Cayman and Nva. Gerona."

AKRON MATCH COMPANY.

By CHRISTOPHER WEST.

This curious adhesive properly belongs among the oddest of the match stamps. There is almost nothing about it which even remotely suggests any other match stamp, or any other postage stamp ever issued anywhere. It is quite in a class by itself.

The design forms an upright rectangle of the standard 1c size, the main part of which is enclosed by a colored line rounded at the four corners of the stamp. Outside this line the corners are filled in with floral ornamentation to complete the rectangular shape. The inscriptions "One—Cent" above and "Akron—Ohio" below are placed on curved panels just within the curved line, one word in each corner. At the top of the stamp between One and Cent is a small ornamental panel labeled "I X L" and at the bottom between Akron and Ohio another panel bears a large numeral I. The central part of the stamp is composed of a horizontally lined background upon which is a full moon with "U. S. Inter. Rev." curved above it and "Akron Match Company" curved below it. In the upper part of the stamp are four tiny stars; on either side of the moon another star is placed; and near the bottom are six more stars; all twelve five-pointed.

For perhaps fifty years collectors have puzzled over the significance of this design, if indeed it has any significance, or any connection with the match business, or with the Akron Match Company, but even to-day, half a century after the stamp was issued, the puzzle remains just as great a mystery as ever.

The Boston Book gives the following data:

Die Approved, December 1, 1869.
First issued, January, 1870.
Last issued, July 22, 1870.
174,000 issued on old paper.
210 stamps per sheet (14x15).

"This stamp was first ordered Jan. 15, 1868, but owing to the works having been destroyed by fire on Aug. 15, 1868, the order was countermanded. It was finally engraved upon receipt of an order dated Sept. 22, 1869."

Repeated attempts to find a trace of this concern in Akron, or to learn who were its owners, have been unsuccessful, and the entire knowledge available regarding the business is practically nothing. The stamp was engraved by Joseph R. Carpenter in Philadelphia, and as the entire issue amounted to only some 830 sheets, probably there was only one printing. It is known to exist only on the thin old paper, and the color is always the dull shade commonly found on Philadelphia printings of the blue M & M stamps. A majority of the copies in existence bear printed cancellations, either "Feb—'70" or "F E B—'70", reading vertically, and uncancelled copies are decidedly scarce.

The stamp is not at all plentiful and although the centering is usually indifferent, or worse, respectably good copies generally bring $4.00 to $6.00. Absolutely perfect copies are very rare indeed, and most collectors are wisely contented with specimens that approach perfection. Sterling valued the Akron at $5.00 in 1888. The Scott quotations on it ranged from $3.00 to $4.00 between 1886 and 1900; in 1903 the Scott catalog raised the price to $6.00, and in 1910 a further raise to $7.00 became effective. Very few U. S. postage stamps issued at least fifty years ago that are as scarce in any condition as is the Akron Match stamp are now cataloged less than ten times $7.00, and the same probably holds true of most foreign postage stamps issued by countries whose stamps enjoy any noticeable popularity, but until the very limited number of collectors who are seeking private die revenues becomes much larger, $5.00 or $6.00 or $7.00 can buy a very good copy of the Akron stamp, when such a copy happens to be available. This, of course, will not be frequently, because the stamp is rarely present in dealers' stocks. No block, strip or pair has been noted, and it is exceedingly doubtful if the stamp was ever used in multiple.

By Harry E. Huber.

XVI.—War Activities and the Caribou Series.—1919.

Following the outbreak of the war in August, 1914, the island Government promised a force of 1,000 naval reservists by the end of October and a battalion of men for the army overseas. The former was a comparatively simple matter, for in 1892 the British Government had sent out the old cruiser Calypso, for use as a training ship, and consequently hundreds of young fishermen went through the training course every year and afterwards undertook further training on other ships of the navy. Between August, 1914, and the spring of 1917, 3,663 enrolled for active service in the navy. They worked not as a separate unit, but were scattered throughout the ships of the British navy.

Recruits for the army was a more difficult matter, for the British garrison had been withdrawn from St. John's so far back as 1868. There was no military organisation upon which to build—no local militia, or volunteers. But within eight weeks the first contingent of 500 sailed for England. Additions were made from time to time, so that by 1917 no fewer than 4,133 had enlisted in the Newfoundland regiment, and in addition, thousands went to Canada, attracted by conditions of service there. It was officially stated in early 1917 that 9,500 had volunteered their services, and including those through Canada, the total was 12,000.

The Newfoundland regiment arrived in England early in October, 1914, and after months of training, was reviewed by Lord Kitchener ,and departed for Egypt. There it was attached to the London Infantry Brigade, and shortly after sailed for Suvla Bay, which was reached on Sept. 19, 1915. From that time until final evacuation (Jan. 12, 1916), it was under constant fire. The 933 officers and men who arrived on the peninsula were added to later by drafts from England, yet at the time of evacuation only 170 answered roll call.

Leaving the Gallipoli, the Newfoundlanders went to Egypt, and then sailed for France, landing at Marseilles March 22nd, 1916. Jn June they took up position on the Somme front, and in the engagements of the following months suffered heavily. At Beaumont-Hamel on July 1, 1916, they suffered more heavily in proportion to numbers than any other branch of the British army. In October of that year came Guedecourt, followed by Monchy-le-Preux, Steenbeck, Langemarck, Cambrai, Combles, etc., in the following year.

Patriotism was not lacking in the Department of Posts & Telegraphs, and by 1917 the service had been thoroughly combed of those physically able to go into active service. From the report of the Postmaster General for the year ending June 30, 1917, is taken the following:—

"There is a large proportion of those in the service (Posts and Telegraphs) whose infirmities have rendered them unfit for the more strenuous occupations of life. If there are any fit for the Navy or the Army who have not offered, their resignations would not be unwelcome. Cuthberts are not assets in any institution, and if they are content to accept their safety at the expense of the lives and labors of better and braver men, they should find some burrow other than a Government office."

With stocks of low value postage stamps running low, consideration was given to a new series of stamps early in 1918, and as an aid to recruiting a design of a patriotic nature was particularly desirable. Two sketches were submitted by a local artist, J. H. Noonan, who was also First Clerk and Cashier of the Customs Department, St. John's. Of these one embodied the head of the Canadian moose, and while far superior to the one selected, there was really no choice, as the Caribou is the emblem of the Royal Newfoundland Regiment, and was being worn by them in service. These sketches were forwarded to Whitehead, Morris & Co., Ltd., and by May proofs of the two designs, in green and purple, were in the hands of the Postmaster General.

In the supply bill, passed by the Legislative Assembly in the closing days of May, 1918, there was included the sum of $50,000 for a new series of stamps.

In June the Colonial Secretary wrote: "At the present time we are considering the bringing out of new stamps for postal purposes, with designs in connection with the war. . . We obtain our stamps from London, and it is very difficult to get orders through at the present time. I am afraid therefore it will be some time before the new issue is ready for the public."

This gave rise to the report that in addition to the head of the Caribou, different engagements in which the Newfoundland regiment took part were to be shown on the stamps. A letter from the Postmaster General in August, 1918, gave a little further information—"The Caribou is the emblem of this little Dominion and its head will appear on every stamp. It is to bring into prominence the work done by our boys on sea and land. Originally it was intended as an assistance in recruiting, but conscription now being in force (effective May 24, 1918), the stamps will serve as a fitting emblem of the local war effort."

Order for plates and supplies of the stamps was placed with Whitehead, Morris & Co., Ltd., London, who had the postage stamp contract since 1910. The announced intention was to make issue not before the first of the new year unless exhaustion of existing stocks made necessary their earlier use.

When the stamps were ready for dispatching, shipping difficulties caused further delay. They were expected by the str. Corsicana, leaving Liverpool December 12th, but it was not until December 31st, 1918, that they arrived by the Furness & Withy str. Graciana.

Notwithstanding the following day being New Year's, the stamps were unpacked and checked, so that the filling of orders from the outports might start early the following day. The stamps were put on sale at the G. P. O., St. John's, at 3.30 o'clock on the afternoon of Thursday, Jan. 2nd, 1919.

The series comprises twelve values, and the design, treated in an upright rectangle, is uniform for all, with slight modifications in lettering. The central feature is the head of a Caribou, facing the left. Across the top in two lines are "Newfoundland" and "Postage", in colorless caps. Below the head is a ribbon entwining two sprays of oak, lettered "Royal—Naval—Reserve" for the 2c, 5c, 8c and 12c, while for the other values the inscription is "Trail—of the—Caribou". Below the ribbon is the name of an engagement, in which the Newfoundlanders distinguished themselves, or the word "Ubique" (Latin for "Everywhere") for the 2c, 5c, 8c and 12c. In the lower corners fancy ornaments with circular openings contain the numerals of value, in color, with "Cent" or "Cents" in colored caps on a plain tablet between.

The colors used and engagements named, as well as the quantities requisitioned, are as follows:—

Activities of the Land Forces. (Royal Newfoundland Regiment.)

1c green, Suvla Bay,	5 million
3c brown, Gueudecourt,	6 million
4c mauve, Beaumont Hamel,	250,000
6c slate, Monchy,	50,000
10c green black, Steenbeck,	250,000
15c deep blue, Langemarck,	50,000
24c bistre, Cambrai,	50,000
36c olive green, Combles,	50,000

Activities of the Naval Forces. (Royal Naval Reserve.)

2c scarlet, Ubique,	4 million
5c ultramarine, Ubique,	1 million
8c red violet, Ubique,	50,000
12c orange, Ubique,	50,000

The "received" figures differed slightly from those requisitioned due to greater spoilage in the printing of some values. For the 4c, 5c and 10c more were sent out, while for the others less than requisitioned quantity was received.

The Caribou at best is not a handsome animal, and in the manner treated, the results are not of the best. A much better appearance would have been secured had the stamps been printed in two colors, the Caribou's head being in brown or black, which would have brought it out from the frame design. As a matter of fact, "it is not a Caribou's head that is shown, nor that of a moose, but a composite".

An interesting comment on the design of these stamps appeared in one of the local papers (The Harbour Grace Standard) which will bear reprinting.—

"Did anyone ever see a Caribou with palms on the top of the antlers? The same mistake was made with the crest of the Newfoundland regiment, and the only solution is that the man who designed or picked out the crest for the regiment, and he who sketched the originals of the stamps, were not to the manner born. Then too, the use of the word 'trail'. Whoever heard the word used in Newfoundland? Speaking of the Caribou, the word used will be 'lead'. Altogether it seems we have copied Canada in choosing the crest, and the central object of the stamp. The Caribou issue in design is faulty, the colors anything but pleasing to the eye, and the whole selection not to be compared with previous issues. The Cabot issue is far ahead of the Caribou issue."

The stamps had been well advertised, and great disappointment was expressed when they appeared. They were not nearly so effective as had been anticipated. The design is very indistinct and cloudy, and in the majority of values, the colors are not at all suited to the design, and the whole effect is ill pleasing. The numerals and the lettering have the advantage of the other features of the design in clearness, and the 4c, 8c and 15c are more fortunate than their companions in coloring.

As to the manner of printing, the blurred appearance of the stamps lead many to believe that they had been produced by lithography, in the same manner as the first series of Guy stamps in 1910. But the printers advise—"The engraving is ordinary line work, and printed direct from engraved plates in the same manner as the whole of the Coronation series." The plates cost about $225.00 each, and the poor appearance of the stamps must be laid to lack of skilled labor, poor ink, and conditions brought about by the war.

The stamps are slightly larger in size than those previously used, which render them inconvenient for use on receipts where space is limited.

All values of the series are issued in Post Office sheets of 100 stamps (10 x 10). However, for the 1c, 2c and 3c, the plates consist of two panes of 100 subjects each, arranged side by side—the right pane being numbered 2, and the left 1. Sheets from the press are of 200 stamps; these are cut apart, and then perforated.

Around each pane of 100 stamps is a double marginal line (4 mm. apart) spaced 10 mm. from the stamp design. In the right margin of the right pane, outside of the marginal line, and opposite the tenth stamp of the fifth horizontal row, appears the plate number 2. This for the 2c value is much smaller, and in different type, than that for the 1c and 3c. For the left pane, numbered 1, of the 1c, 2c, and 3c, the plate number is in the left margin of the pane, outside the marginal line, and opposite the first stamp of the fifth horizontal row.

For convenience in quartering sheets, there are cross marks at the proper places in all four margins; these serve also as a guide in perforating.

All values of the series, save the 5c, are perforated by a comb machine, gauging 14, which perforates the top, bottom and right side of a vertical row of ten stamps at one operation. The perforation does not pass through the upper, lower or right margins of the sheet. For the 5c a single line perforating machine gauging 14, is used.

Not all sheets of the 1c, 2c and 3c show the plate numbers; many have the margins trimmed down to the marginal lines, and on others, ink has not been applied to this portion of the plate.

The 12c, 24c and 36c values are required for parcel post service, these being the 1, 2 and 3 lb. rates to the Dominion of Canada and the States. For the United Kingdom, the rate is 24c for the first three pounds, 48c between 3 and 7 lbs., and 72c for the limit, 11 lbs. Locally, the rate is 8c for the first pound, with 3 cents for each additional pound, up to 11 lbs., which is the limit, at 35 cents.

Shortly after the Caribou stamps appeared, the Governor of the island (Sir Chas. Alexander Harris) called the attention of the then Premier to the fact that none of the stamps bore the likeness of their Majesties, and expressed the opinion that this had probably been an oversight on the part of the authorities. He suggested that the stamps be withdrawn, and the mistake (as he considered it) rectified. But the authorities did not consider that the omission of their Majesties' features from the stamps constituted any slight to their Majesties, and there was no requirement that the postage stamps of the island should bear their likenesses.

The 6c was the first value to become obsolete, followed by the 8c. It was known previous to issue that 50,000 of each of these, as well as some of the higher values, had been requisitioned. In some instances the quantities actually received were less. Of the 50,000 requisitioned but 48,400 were received of the 6c.

For eleven months the 6c could be gotten from the retail windows at the G. P. O.,—i. e., until Nov. 24, 1919. A small reserve stock of 600 was in the Wholesale Dept. for the purpose of completing sets on order from al These were exhausted Decembe 1919, and the 6c Cabot reissued.

The 8c Caribou lasted slightly lo stock was down to 6,000 in Jan 1920. By March these had disapp and the 8c Cabot was brought into

At the end of April, 1920, the 3c down to 700,000, and the 2c ha hausted. Requisitions had been se London for 2 million of each o three lower values, but conditions such that the first partial shipment not received by the G. P. O. until 10th, when 200,000 2c came via York. This new printing went on May 12th, and was slightly differe color to the first printing—vermilio stead of scarlet. On June 2nd a ther consignment of 2c (696,500) 1c (952,000) was received, the 1c in a deeper green than formerly, with white gum. Another small l the 2c (70,000) was received Aug.

Shipments of the 3c were rec on May 21st (85,000), July 10th 000), and Aug. 9th (300,000), in s of brown somewhat darker than original printing.

On August 2nd the 2c was dow 46,200; August 11th but 5,000 available, and these had exhauste August 18th. The 70,000 2c rec on August 25th were placed in the following day, but were mer stop gap. Of the 3c there were 13,400 on August 2nd, and these hausted by the 9th. The lot of 3 received that day from London we sale on the 11th. By the 6th Se ber, the supply of 2c had become hausted, the 3c was practically so the 1c was down to 800,000. Surc ing was made necessary.

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF DENMARK.

CHAPTER XII.

The Change of Perforation.

Until the early part of 1891, none of the stamps issued by the Danish Government had been demonetised, even the first issued stamps in the old rigsbank-skilling currency being available for postage should anyone desire to use them. On January 29th of that year, however, an official notice was issued restricting the stamps good for postal purposes to the issue then current, viz.:

"OFFICIAL COMMUNICATION.
No. 3. January 29, 1891.

There has been published, dated the 15th of this month, by the Ministry of the Interior:—

The following regulation relating to an alteration in the Postal Regulations of September 7th, 1888, Section II, paragraphs 6 and 11.

Instead of the instructions contained in the above referred to Regulations, in accordance with which the articles that can be used for franking purposes are all the stamps, etc., that have been issued at any date, it is hereby ordered that only those postal articles, of the above named natures, which shall hereafter be issued by the Post Office Department are thus available.

The franking articles which are at present issued by the Post Office Department are as follows:—

Postage Stamps—

Color grey with blue frame, value 3 öre each.
Color blue with grey frame, value 4 öre each.
Color red with grey frame, value 8 öre each.
Color purple with grey frame, value 12 öre each.
Color brown with grey frame, value 16 öre each.
Color green with grey frame, value 25 öre each.
Color violet with brown frame, value 50 öre each.
Color yellow with grey frame, value 100 öre each.
Color green, value 5 öre each.
Color red, value 10 öre each.
Color blue, value 20 öre each.

In an earlier chapter we mentioned the care with which the sheets of watermarked paper for Danish postage stamps were checked and rechecked. The printers had to return the same number of printed or unprinted sheets as had been delivered to them. If any were missing the facial value of the most costly of the stamps had to be paid—100 crowns a sheet. The defective and spoiled sheets as well as any proof sheets (usually pulled on unwatermarked paper) were sold by the Government to a paper mill to be re-made into paper, and the mill owners were under strict agreement to take the greatest precautions that none of the spoiled sheets left their hands. In 1890 proof sheets of the 8 öre and 20 öre on watermarked paper were abstracted and ultimately sold to collectors as rare errors. When news of this breach of confidence reached the Post Office Department there was great commotion in official circles and the final result was that no more spoiled or proof impressions were allowed to leave the Department but they were burned instead.

In 1896 a softer, whiter, and somewhat thicker paper than that hitherto employed was brought into use and at the same time a change was made in the perforation. The old 12½, 13 gauge, discarded in 1874, was again brought into use, possibly because the stamps with the smaller perforation had shown a tendency to tear apart too readily.

Mr. Hanciau gives the date of issue as 1896, but, as a matter of fact, as indicated in the catalogues, they were not all issued at the same time but appeared as stocks of the corresponding values in the old perforation were used up.

The 4 and 8 öre were the first to appear, these being placed on sale in April, 1896, while in the following September the 5, 10, 12, 16 and 20 öre denominations were placed in circulation. The 3 and 100 öre were issued in April, 1897, the 50 öre made its appearance a year later, while the 25 öre, the laggard of the series, was not issued until June, 1899.

Most of the stamps of this series exhibit a wide range of shades and there were evidently a good many printings of some of the values. All the stamps printed in two colors show the inverted frame varieties mentioned in a previous chapter and we believe specialists recognise several settings of the frames differing in the number of inverted varieties found.

The 10 öre is known entirely imperforate.

The official records apparently made no special note of the change of perforation and we therefore have no means of ascertaining how many stamps with the 12½, 13 gauge were printed. The figures given in connection with the 1874 and 1882 issues, as already pointed out, included the stamps with this perforation, for they covered the full period down to 1901, in which the stamps of these two types were in use.

CHAPTER XIII.

The New Values of 1901-2.

In 1901 a stamp bearing the facial value of 24 öre was deemed desirable, and on April 1st this new denomination was placed on sale. The usual official communication announced the innovation, viz.:—

"OFFICIAL COMMUNICATION.
No. 9. March 19, 1901.

It is hereby notified that from the first of April of this year new stamps will be issued for ordinary use, of the value of 24 öre, color brown, to be sold at 24 öre each, and 23 crowns 4 öre per sheet of 100. At the end of the month there will be despatched to the post offices, without previous requisition, a certain number of these stamps, the sale of which will not commence before the 1st of next month, and they will be brought on charge for the month of April."

Eighteen months later two more new values were added to the set, these also being officially announced in the usual form, viz.:—

"OFFICIAL COMMUNICATION.
No. 19. August 27, 1902.

It is hereby notified that, in pursuance of the Law relating to the Postal Rates, dated 23rd May of this year, the following new postal issues will be made: Ordinary postage stamps of the value of 1 öre, color orange-yellow, price 1 öre each, and 96 öre per sheet of 100.

Ditto of the value of 15 öre, color violet, price 15 öre each, and 14 crowns 40 öre per sheet of 100."

In 1902 the Danish Parliament approved of an increase in the salaries paid to postal employes and certain postal rates were raised to obtain the extra money required. The postage on town and country letters was raised from 4 and 5 öre to 8 and 10 öre, respectively, while the charge on post office orders "payment on receipt" was raised from 12 öre to 15 öre—hence the new 15 öre denomination issued at this time.

All three stamps were issued in the "Arms" type and were printed in sheets of 100 on Crown watermarked paper, like the remainder of the series then current. The perforation was the usual 12½, 13 gauge.

The 1 and 15 öre are both known imperforate, though, curiously enough, neither of these varieties appears to have been found until late in 1907,—that is some time after they had been replaced by similar denominations in a new type. According to a report published in the Monthly Journal at the time, "a single sheet of each in that condition was found among supplies sent to a small town, where the postmaster conscientiously cut them up with the office scissors and issued them for use. When a collector discovered the fact, there was not a single copy left of either." Judging by the scarcity of these errors, there probably were not more than a single sheet of each, but the fact that unused copies are known seems to prove that some, at any rate, were saved for philately!

According to official records, the numbers printed were as follows:—

1 öre,	14,434,700
15 öre,	7,900,400
24 öre,	1,737,000

24 öre brown.

CHAPTER XIV.

The 1904 Provisionals.

In 1904 stocks of the 4 öre and 15 öre stamps ran low and as a new issue was imminent it was not deemed wise or expedient to print more of these denominations. As changes in the postal rates had made the 8 öre and 24 öre values unnecessary, and as there were large stocks of both these values on hand, it was decided to convert them into the required values by means of surcharging. The following official notification was published:—

"CIRCULAR OF OCTOBER 17TH, 1904.

Notice is hereby given to the post offices, that the stocks in hand here, of the 8 and 24 öre postage stamps, have been surcharged with the values 4 and 15 öre, respectively. All the Post Offices will shortly receive a supply of these stamps, which will be sold and entered into the accounts as 4 and 15 öre stamps."

The surcharges on both stamps were in black, that on the 8 öre being of a rather unusual character. A large figure "4" without color is shown on a solid oval of color, with the word "ORE" below in bold type. An entire sheet of 100 stamps was surcharged at one operation and the only variety of note is an extension of the uncolored top of the four to the margin of the solid color. This occurred on only one stamp in the sheet.

For the other value a surcharge of an entirely different character was used. Large numerals "15" were placed at each side above the original value "24" and below the word "ORE" is shown. This surcharge was also applied to an entire sheet of 100 stamps at once and an interesting variety occurs on the seventh stamp in the ninth horizontal row. This has the figures "15" at the right side shorter than the normal and differently shaped, the top of the "1" being almost flat and the head of the "5" flatter, thinner and closer to the body of the figure.

The total number of these provisionals printed was as follows:—

4 öre on 8 öre,	3,300,000
15 öre on 24 öre,	770,000

CHAPTER XV.

The King Christian IX Stamps.

In the early part of 1902 the Post Office Department tired of its current stamps, the designs of which had done good service for twenty years in the case of the Arms type, and more than thirty years in the case of the bi-colored type. They resolved to open a competition, and the following advertisement was inserted in all the chief newspapers, etc.:—

"COMPETITION for
THE NEW DANISH POSTAGE STAMPS.

The Danish Artists are invited to take part in a competition for the production of designs intended for the new Danish Postage Stamps.

The following information is published in reference to the preparation of these stamps:—

1. The design should be executed in part in the size which the stamp is intended to have, and in part on a scale six times larger;

2. The value should be shown in a very clear and distinct manner;

3. As regards the design, properly so-called, no exact conditions are prescribed; a portrait, arms, or an allegorical device may be employed. It should, however, be observed that, in order to obtain good impressions of the stamps, it is necessary that the design should not be too complicated, for otherwise it would not be possible to obtain the required clearness when printed in dark colors.

4. The design should be of such a nature that printing in dark colors can be executed as well in a single color as in two colors combined.

Artists who desire to take part in the competition should send in their work to the General Department of Posts and Despatches, Stormgade 19, Copenhagen,

December 8th following, the 20 öre s with King's portrait were issued ere the matter rested for a while. e new stamps met with universal mnation. The public had been led ject something really attractive, and received what looked like inferior raphs. Complaints poured into the Office Department from all sides, although engaged in the preparation ner values, the authorities at once work to get another design. Mr. hilsen's first prize design with some lishment was eventually decided on 4 öre stamp was issued (see next r), but on September 1st, 1905, public opinion had had time to down a little, 25, 50 and 100 öre s of the King Christian design issued. NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Our attention is called by Max Beck to the fact that counterfeits of Saare stamps are on the market. He alleges that many German dealers are marketing the stuff.

—Inadvertently we announced in connection with our review of Pike's Collectors' Digest that the price was 25c instead of 50c. Mr. Pike informs us that all orders received were filled notwithstanding the error, and we take pleasure in commending him for this generous treatment of our subscribers.

—The Stamp Trader informs us that he has awarded stamps as prizes in the "letter P" contest as follows:—Leo Bryant, Rockingham, N. C.; Everett Earle, Alameda, Cal.; G. W. Anderson, Waterbury, Conn.; P. B. Slosson, Aberdeen, S. D.; Edmund Buist, Bayamon, Porto Rico.

—H. A. Feaster, 432 Hopkins Av., Long Island City, N. Y., has a bunch of back WEEKLIES that he will be glad to send to any stamp club that will pay cost of transportation.

—The Detroit News has a stamp department in charge of a sixteen-year-old boy, Constantine Rasis. A recent issue contained a rather lengthy article, "Collectors—All Kinds", of marked merit and especially valuable in catching the interest of boys and girls who are non-collectors. The article in question does not quite fit into use for the columns of the WEEKLY, but we are glad to testify to the fine publicity that the Detroit News is giving philately.

—The New York Evening Post of Tuesday, April 12, contained a news article by Marian Storm dealing with stamp auctions and especially exploiting the sales of Kelton & Sloane. It includes an entertaining talk with Mr. Sloane, who is a most active factor in promoting the firm's business.

—Lieut. Frederick A. Berry of Engine Co. No. 3, Bridgeport, Conn., is an "ardent philatelist". Leastwise, we are so informed by a special article in the Bridgeport Sunday Post of April 24, which uses the words quoted as a strong headline to an article devoted to Lieut. Berry's activities. He has been twenty-five years collecting and with many facts about stamp collecting the write-up boosts the hobby. It is illustrated with a picture of our subscriber.

(ADDENDA)

By JOSEPH WARD.

UNITED STATES.—The Pilgrim Commemorative stamps were first placed on sale in Washington, D. C., on December 21st. In Philadelphia on the 23rd, and Chicago the 27th. They seemed to have reached the collectors all over the U. S., altho in some places philatelists had to be content with but a few specimens of each stamp.

As heralded the stamps consist of three values; 1c green displaying "The Mayflower"; 2c rose carmine, "The Landing of the Pilgrims"; and the 5c in blue picturing the "Signing of the Compact".

The stamps are 1 1/16 x 3/4 inches. The border designs are the same on all three. Across the top are the words "Pilgrim Tercentenary", while right below at each side are the dates "1620" and "1920". The American and English mayflowers are shown in vertical panels at the extreme ends. The numeral of denomination are at lower corners with the word "Cent" or "Cents" between.

The familiar legend "U. S. Postage" is conspicuous by its absence. This caused comment at once, and there were rumors that because of this "error" the stamps were to be recalled. Washington however declared, "There is no reason for recalling the Pilgrim", while a line further on informed us that, "There is no necessity for the name."

The "Good Ship Mayflower" on the one cent value served as an inspiration for the following: (from the pen of a newspaper poet)

I met the Mayflower sailing
Upon a penny sea;
The doughty vessel hailing,
I asked what news might be.

"Affairs are going badly,"
The woeful Pilgrims cried,
"And we are thinking sadly
We never should have tried.

"No longer are we chipper,
And heavy are our fears;
With Burleson for skipper
We may not land for years."

BERMUDA.—The Legislative Tercentenary commemorative issue of 1920 pictured the ship Sea Venture which was wrecked on this island in 1609 when en route to Virginia, and indirectly caused the settlement of Bermuda and the head of George V.

The issue is to mark the three hundredth anniversary of the founding of the House of Assembly of Bermuda, except for the House of Commons, the oldest legislative body of its kind in the British Empire.

EDITORIAL.

Confeds—We notice that great interest is shown in references that are made in our columns to Confederate stamps and postal affairs. It has been apparent that the renaissance of interest in these allied subjects has multiplied the former number of students of Confederates many times. We know that the study of the stamps in certain of their phases is progressing and the next few years probably will usher in important contributions to the sum of knowledge of the issues; and as commentary reading, explanations of postal operations. With these few words as an introduction, we are pleased to say that Mr. Stanley B. Ashbrook, whose illustrated article on "Prisoner of War Covers of the Civil War," in the issue of April 23rd, 1921, has already been marked by a number of our readers for praise, will favor us further. In collaboration with Mr. A. D. Fennell of Cincinnati, Mr. Ashbrook will furnish the WEEKLY with matter of Confederate subjects that has a combined philatelic and historical interest.

Sample—For instance, it is worth recording that a booklet of twenty-four pages of "Instructions to Postmasters" was sent out by the Post Office Department, Appointment Bureau, Richmond, October 1st, 1861. On the fly-leaf was printed the following explanation:—"Sir,—The following laws, enacted by the Congress of the Confederate States, are transmitted to you for your guidance in the discharge of your duties as Post Master. Respectfully, Your obedient servant, B. N. Clements, Chief of Appointment Bureau." Let us add that "all questions relating to the establishment and discontinuance of post offices, change of sites and names, appointment and removal of Post Masters, and Route and Local Agents, as also the giving of instructions to Post Masters, furnishing marking and rating stamps, providing blanks and stationery for the use of the Department, &c., should be addressed to the Chief of the Appointment Bureau." In addition to the Appointment Bureau, there were the Contract and Finance Bureaus. Too, the Inspection Office practically attained the importance of a Bureau, as under its direction was the movement of the mails and the supplying of equipment for transmitting them.

Adams—F. P. A.'s "The Conning Tower," in the New York Tribune, is the best of the newspaper "columns" that abound from coast to coast. This is Franklin P. Adams, who became a "colyumist" through the kindly suggestion and encouragement of B. L. T. of the Chicago Tribune, whose death this March removed the most brilliant of paragraphers. Mr. Taylor, who saw the signs of genius in his contributor, probably would feel that his mantle descends fittingly on the shoulders of Mr. Adams. At least, we shall say so, for has not F. P. A. a sympathy for stamp collecting; and though we cannot exactly laud the accuracy of his Venezuela observations, we can aver that his heart is in the right place. Hear: (In the N. Y. Tribune of April 20th) "At the statue unveiling yesterday it occurred to us that ever so many spectators didn't know much about Venezuela. We, for one, know that the capital is Caracas; and we recall that in the early '90's Venezuela issued beautiful and vari-colored stamps, which, it was common gossip among the seventh grade philatelists of Douglas School, Chicago, were easy to counterfeit. But the stamps that we most delighted in buying—from ourselves as agent—were the Honduras and Nicaragua sets. Those were the days when humanity was divided into stamp collectors and "Those Who Had no Right to Live." The lamp still burns, F. P. A.,—and Clare Briggs, please note, as if we are right in our recollection, that most understanding of cartoonists once was a member of a stamp society.

Retort—Now if we were running a "column" (as we have been asked to do by several discriminating readers), we should start a series of head-spins with the following whirl: Dramatis personae, L. Josephson, a Chicago dealer and a Cop, sleuthing around to detect evasions of license payment. After a preliminary colloquy between Joe and the dick, Joe said that no one ever heard of stamp dealers paying a license. "Look at all those new stamps there, they are junk," Joe expounded, pointing to a btach of recent importation from Europe. The bull with intellect regnant came at him: "Junk, eh? Then I'll see that you will pay a junk dealer's license."

Again—Just about as we thought that we were through with F. P. A. and his "Conning Tower" for the time being, we receive through the prompt attention of Mr. Reginald P. Brook, a clipping from the New York Tribune of April 25th, in which the feature of the "Conning Tower" is a long poem, "Our Stamping Ground," by Clement Wood. Unfortunately, we are not on Mr. Wood's visiting list, but this we say: As a clever creator of stamp rhyme is facile princeps. His verses teem with pat allusion and happy description. In our enthusiasm, we hail Clement Wood as the poet laureate of philately and we deem him worthy of all the emoluments of that high and mighty office. We thank Clement Wood for his lyrics and we should double thank him if it were not that he might say: "When I'm not thanked at all, I'm thanked enough." Our choice is Wood and Adams. Elsewhere we hope to reprint the lyrical numbers that were called forth by F. P. A.'s reference to the Venezuelan set in the Tribune of April 20th.

Missed—In our issue of April 23rd, 1921, there were some statistics presented by Mr. Frank L. Applegate from the reports of the Director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing for the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1920. In the summary of the high value documentary revenue stamps, embracing unsurcharged and overprinted Stock Transfer or Future Delivery, from July 1, 1918, to July 1, 1920, it is surprising to find that none of the fifty dollar were distributed without the surcharge. Is there a fifty dollar documentary of the present issue without the surcharge Stock Transfer or Future Delivery? The one man on whom we rely for information about the present issue of revenues says that he does not think so, although he has a vague recollection that he saw a copy six or more months ago. He was not particularly impressed by the plain stamp at the time, as he assumed that it would soon follow the surcharged stamps.

Splits—"It's bad enough when a collector selects the stamps of a single country for specialization, but I have come across a chap who collects nothing but the half-stamps (or less) of Nova Scotia," Mr. Courtenay V. Lispenard takes the trouble to write us from his lodge in the north woods; and so, my sturdy fellows, the story must be true.

1822—BRAZILIAN CENTENNIAL—1922.

Brazil will celebrate her first Centennial of Independence in September, 1922. The United States of America celebrated hers at Philadelphia in 1876. The only foreign country which was represented by its Chief Executive at this celebration was Brazil in the person of her Emperor, Dom Pedro II. The only foreign government who participated in the official salute to the American flag at this centennial was Brazil, who sent a battleship to render homage to the Stars and Stripes.

The American Chamber of Commerce for Brazil is fathering the project of presenting to Brazil on the anniversary of her independence a suitable memorial, this memorial to be presented in the name of the Citizens of the United States of America.

Help is wanted—both moral and financial. Funds may be forwarded to or information secured from your local Chamber of Commerce or American Chamber of Commerce for Brazil, Rio de Janeiro.—Kansas Citizen.

THE COLLECTOR'S LIBRARY.

PAPER No. 2.

By A. H. PIKE, Buffalo, N. Y.

It has been estimated that there are at least a hundred thousand active stamp collectors. Suppose we cut the figures in half. Fifty thousand stamp collectors, what a city they would make if it were possible for them to all gather in one community. Imagine a community of this size without a public library. It is doubtful if there is a city of this size without some public library. Carnegie of course helped to make this possible and to greatly increase the facilities, but even without the help of this philanthropist, local pride with the help of faithful workers would have accomplished nearly the same results.

In all America there is no public philatelic library for this hobby community. Members are scattered but Uncle Sam is ready and willing to make deliveries. Are we waiting for a Carnegie philatelist, or have we sufficient pride and faithful workers to make this a reality? There is not a learned society in the world but what is proud of their literature, and as a general rule members are zealous of not only publishing material on their favorite subjects, but in placing it where others interested can have easy access.

Some will scoff at the idea of a public philatelic library and call it an impossible idea. If there are 50,000 active collectors, and each would donate only 10c, it would be sufficient to buy a large working library, give it a good home and employ an enthusiastic librarian for a year, in which time every subject could be indexed on card records and a printed index supplied each of the 50,000 donors, and besides leave a balance in the treasury.

We are all familiar with the many "drives" in the last few years and most of us are tired of the word, but still there has never been a "drive" for a philatelic cause that would be more worthy. There are at the present time quite a number of large holdings of philatelic publications that could be purchased at original subscription price or less, others would gladly donate their library if they could know that it would be placed in a position where it could be circulated.

There has never been such a demand for out of date periodicals as there is at the present time. It is due to the increased interest of regular collectors and to the thousands of recruits that have come with us in the last few years. They are really hungry for the material that is hid away in cellars and attics. There are only a very few libraries where collectors are permitted to borrow, and the facilities of these are very inadequate. Much of the best material is lacking and the owners lack the time to fill orders.

With ordinary library facilities there would develop an increased activity in every branch of the hobby. Increased business for dealers, more subscriptions for the publishers, increased local activity and consequently a greater working force for the grandest hobby on earth.

Yes, I am enthusiastic, and although I have tried for years to temper my enthusiasm, it won't down. I am receiving hundreds of letters every month that I can't possibly find the time to answer. Every one is deserving of an answer. They are all seeking for information that they are entitled to have. Every true philatelist wants to spread the glad tidings and help the other fellow along the path, but with the majority, time will not permit. A central bureau where the information can be classified and correspondents answered promptly would be a wonderful benefit to every branch of the hobby. It would relieve publishers, dealers and well known collectors from a great amount of unnecessary work, and best of all, would give the enquiring friend quick answers and a real and personal help, which would advance him at a rapid pace.

Looking over the literature for the past twenty-five years, there are only a few names that stand out prominent as real workers for the good of philately as compared to the rank and file. But these are men to be proud of and they should live in the memory of philatelists as long as the world lasts. It is nothing less than a crime to allow the works of these master minds to be destroyed and be forgotten. Even though you may not have a personal interest in the subjects that they spent years in study and research to bring before the philatelic public, you should feel a responsibility in doing what you reasonably can to help enlighten the present generation as well as look ahead to the future. We must continually encourage new blood in our great fraternity, and they will need all the help that we can give them.

All that can be expected from our editors and publishers is to print up-to-date material and keep us posted on current changes; it is too much to expect that they could keep constantly before us past history that has already been published.

Let us think of these things and formulate in our minds individual ideas and choose some channel through which we can express them. At the same time insist on some definite action so that a permanent organization can be formed for the sole purpose of preserving the literature of philately. An organization of this kind must be formed on broad lines with no selfish motives or in the interests of any individual or faction. It must be able to render real service and have the full confidence of all classes, as well as the co-operation of the philatelic press. Before launching a proposition of this kind, it should have the consideration of every collector, so that the majority can voice their opinions and the final plans be the result of the suggestions of the majority. The owners of the WEEKLY are favorable to an organization of this kind, it only remains for you and the rest to voice your sentiments and show to what extent you are willing to co-operate.

PHILA. STAMP CO SALE NO. 233.

P. M. Wolsieffer, owner of the Philadelphia Stamp Co., calls attention to his removal from 21 S. 17th St. to 22 S. 18th St. The new location is near the railroad station and easy of access. The removal has caused the postponement of two sales.

On the evening of May 16, Sale No. 233 will be held and Mr. Wolsieffer feels that "it is to be the best sale held in Philadelphia this season and for a single night session as good a sale as the past season has offered." The fact that Mr. Wolsieffer has held two hundred and thirty-three sales may be taken as a fine guarantee of the merits of his auction business.

OUR BOOK REVIEW.

For many months the publishers of the Marquette Sectional Album, the United Stamp Co., Chicago, have been working unremittingly for the accomplishment of what we take to be the grand object, an album to cover the world. First of all, came the United States and then its dependencies, only to be followed by selected countries, all of which were given the admirable treatment that is a feature of the preparation of the data of this album. Now, Section Twenty of the album Bosnia has appeared and we think that a few words are due to the enterprising publishers for their perseverance in creating a truly sectional album in the face of conditions that publishers had to meet for some time past. The determination that has developed the album thus far may be counted upon to fill ultimately all the expectations of the album-using public. The merits of the scheme of the Sectional Album must ever appeal to a growing clientele and we can readily believe that the publishers have every confidence in the growing popularity of their album from certain unmistakable indications, one of which is increasing demand, which we think is deserved.

Crete.—No. 35 in the Severn-Wylie-Jewett Co. list of booklets is a handsome production dealing with the stamps of Crete by Bertram W. H. Poole. It is uniform in size with the rest of the series and handsomely printed and illustrated. It consists of 36 pages including cover, and the price is 20c. The book may be obtained from our metropolitan agencies, also this office.

TELEGRAPHS TO BE OMITTED.

The following communication from Hugh M. Clark, treasurer of the Scott Stamp & Coin Co., will be read with interest:—

"So far as telegraph stamps are concerned, they are to be omitted from the main body of the catalog, this decision having been reached some months ago.

Insofar as post cards are concerned, we shall be interested in knowing the result of the vote being taken by you. This, of course, is not to be construed as committing ourselves to publishing a list of post cards."

If you have not yet voted on the listing of post cards, please advise this office by early mail.

Don't Be Bashful!

Every day or so I have to write some good fellow to tell him his inquiry or order came a week or a month too late to do either of us any good.

Prices are right, right here.

Recently a new customer who was a bit timid about trying my service because he feared my prices were higher than the market, came to see me and went away with a purchase nearly five times as great as he had anticipated before he had actually seen the stamps.

That sort of thing happens right along.

Mint British Colonials—all of them—up to and including the £5, and higher values, at substantial discounts. Plenty of other U. S. and foreign, too, including pairs, strips, blocks and covers.

U. S. PROVISIONAL ENVELOPES

RARE 2c ON 1c ON 3c PROVISIONAL.

A bank in a small Texas city had some of its envelopes with their corner card revalued at the San Antonio Post Office and through error they were run through the machine set with the die for revaluing the postals, hence received a "1 CENT" surcharge. The clerk, noticing the error and evidently not liking the idea of paying for the spoiled envelopes, ran through them with the correct die and they were delivered in the regular course of business. Everything would have passed unnoticed had not another banker who happened to be a collector received one of these in his mail and immediately wrote for some of them. I have obtained from him 42 copies, which I understand is all available. This 2c on 1c on 3c is without philatelic taint and is deserving of one of the places of honor in every envelope collection.

While 25 last you may have a copy entire. Size 5, Die E, at the small price of $2.50. If it were an adhesive error, it would bring many times as much.

NEW ORLEANS 2c ON 4c BROWN.

Can also furnish that scarce 2c on 4c, which, while not authorized by Washington, was sold over the counter in the regular way and deserves rank with many of the other provisionals. Each $2.00.

PHILADELPHIA, 2c ON 2c RED ERROR.

Have been fortunate in obtaining some of the 2c red that were run through the machine with the 3c. Size 7 on white. A copy should be in every collection. Price $1 each. Reserve the right to jump price without notice.

UNITED STATES.—Mr. R. J. Tarpy sends for inspection quite an interesting block of twenty (10x2) of the current engraved 1c green, perforated 11, unwatermarked, wherein the entire bottom part of the lower row of stamps is without impression. This block consists of the two last horizontal rows from the southeast pane of the sheet and contains margins at both the bottom and right sides. The plate number, however, like a portion of the stamps, has failed to print. This defect is possibly due to faulty inking, for had something gotten between the sheet and the plate at the time of printing, the engraved portion would no doubt have ended sharply, which is not the case.

Mr. W. H. Watkins as well as Mr. H. S. Dickey each send for inspection a copy of the current 1c stamp precancelled "New York", imperforated at the top and bottom and perforated 14 at the sides. This perforation, of course, is not official, but it would be interesting to know if there is some new mailing machine company putting out a new machine that uses these stamps or if the perforations have been privately applied by some one firm. Additional information on the subject would certainly be welcome.

Of the many freak plate varieties that I have seen in the way of the 2c surface printed stamp, one of the most interesting has been called to my attention by Mr. H. A. Opalla. The stamp on the bottom row directly to the right of the one bearing the plate number, shows a portion of the letter "P" of "Postage" redrawn and several lines have been redrawn in the background. The work has been done so poorly that it is quite noticeable. The redrawing has been made on the plate and not on the master plate negative, so that it is a variety peculiar to plate No. 11950 only. As I have only seen a bottom plate strip of three, I cannot say if it comes from the southeast or southwest pane.

Mr. J. J. Klemann, Jr., of the Nassau Stamp Company, also sends for inspection an interesting variety of the 2c surface print, that is, a plate variety wherein Washington's eye is missing. I do not believe history records that the father of his country lost an eye, hence another historical mistake of our Bureau.

Mr. G. G. Ryder furnishes us with a piece of news received from the Bureau that will prove of great interest to the plate number collector. It seems that in examining the plates of the Pilgrim stamps that plate No. 12430 was found defective and was consequently condemned before being certified. Result: —no impressions from this plate.

Mr. J. P. Fleck has sent for inspection a very interesting provisional envelope, namely, the Duncan overprint on Die F. Heretofore we have only known this overprint on Die A on amber. Mr. R. C. Hoyt sends one from Omaha on Buff, the first of this color from Omaha that has been noted. They have corner return cards, by the way. Mr. J. V. Nielsen sends another from Charleston, while Mr. George P. Smith has found two new varieties from Philadelphia on blue and amber.

Most of the post offices are beginning to clean up their stock of the 3c envelopes, preliminary to closing up their work of overprinting, and it seems that in doing this some of the 2c varieties have become mixed with the 3c. One of the Philadelphia substations, in selling its envelopes recently ran into some of the large envelopes so overprinted.

While on the subject of provisional envelopes, it may be well to advise our readers as to what are the several types of overprint applied by the several post offices. While there are upward of forty to fifty different surcharges, they may all be grouped into seven classifications. Scott has given these type numbers to those that they will probably list in their next catalogue and there is no doubt many will confine their activities to these major varieties. Type I is the type used in Washington and known as the rejected die. The overprint reads "2 CENTS" in one line. The second type is the type first used in Washington, then in St. Louis and at present in use in Chicago. This has the large figure "2" with three horizontal lines beneath. The type III has a smaller "2" and eight vertical lines below spaced widely apart. This type was used in Cleveland, [illegible] York, etc. The fourth type is sim[ilar] except that the vertical lines are cl[ose] Such varieties came from Denver, P[ittsburgh], etc. Type V was used in Dun[can] Okla., only, and consists of a small fi[gure] "2" between two horizontal lines. T[ype] VI was used in Frederick, Okla., [and] consists of a small figure "2" only. [The] seventh type consists of a large fi[gure] "2" and was overprinted in Daytona,

Type I was only used in Washin[gton] and then discontinued. While there [is] only one die made of Die II, it was [used] in three separate cities and the wor[d] each city may be told one from the o[ther] Die III and Die IV are the main off[erers] and about 12 of the III and 30 o[f the IV] are known to date. overprints "Vale Un Centavo de Cordoba" in three lines. The overprint on the former is in black, while the 3c is in red brown.

POLAND.—The Economist Stamp Co. advise us that the 5m, 6m, 10m and 20m of the type of Scott's A14 have been surcharged with a red cross in a circle and "30mk".

RUSSIAN POST OFFICE IN CONSTANTINOPLE.—Messrs. Bright & Son report that:

With reference to our letter a few days ago referring to Russian Post in Constantinople overprinted on Ukraine Tridents, we have received three more values in addition to those already given as follows:—

10,000 on 3K (type 14) imperf.
20,000 on 50K (type 14) perf.
20,000 on 50K (type 6) perf.

SAARGEBIET.—The Economist Stamp Co. have shown us two more values of the new set recently issued. They are 1m rose and black and 3m brown and dark brown, each showing a different view.

The Ecomomist Stamp Co. submit copies of the 5pf and 80pf of the new set. The color of the former is olive green and purple and the latter blue.

ST. VINCENT.—Mr. William Hoffman advises that he has been informed of the appearance of the ½d green on new watermarked paper.

SPAIN.—Messrs. Bright & Son advise that "On going through a parcel of used Spanish stamps, we find a small number of undoubtedly postally used copies of the 5, 10 and 15 Telegraph stamps overprinted 'Zona de — Protecedrado — Espanol — en marruecas', also 5 and 10c money order stamps postally used. Most of these bear the Tetuan postmark and some are dated about July, 1920.

It would seem that at about that time there was probably a shortage of stamps and these telegraph and money order stamps were possibly allowed to be used postally for the time. Perhaps some of your readers could give some more information on the subject."

Mr. John T. Clemons has shown us the 25c and 30c of the commemorative set of the seventh U. P. U. Congress. The type is as the other values mentioned and the color of the 25c is ultramarine and black and the 30c green and black.

SWEDEN.—The Economist Stamp Co. submit to us for chronicle, a copy of the 25o orange showing the lion in the centre with "25 ore" at the top and "Sverige" at the base. This stamp is issued for use in the coil machines. At the same time they advise that the 5ö bright green and 30ö brown of the same type have been issued also for use in the above-mentioned machines.

TONGA.—Messrs. J. H. Smyth, Ltd., submit to us the following values of the new set, which are of the same type as the 2d previously reported; 2½d blue and black, 5d red orange and black, 7½d yellow green and black, 10d rose red and black and 1sh brown and black TRANS JORDAN.—The Economist Stamp Co. send to us for chronicle the 5pia, 9pia, 10pia and 20pia stamps of Palestine with a surcharge across the center in native characters in black which they are advised are the Trans Jordan issue.

TRAVANCORE.—Messrs. Bright & Son advise that, "We have lately received from this State 6 cash stamps overprinted 'On S.S.', also new provisional 5c on 1ch overprinted in red which we do not think have been previously chronicled."

JAMAICA.

By HARRY E. HUBER.

The 3d in the new series was issued April 8th. It is printed in light blue and dark green, from copper plates, on white paper with the old style multiple watermark in upright position. The perforation is single line, gauging 14. The size is that of the recently issued 2d and 4d, and the design is treated in a horizontal rectangle. In circular openings in the upper corners is the value "3d", with "Jamaica" between. "Postage — Revenue" conform to the arched opening containing the vignette, which is lettered "Jamaica Discovered by Columbus 1494." Jamaica (Xaymaca —land of wood and water) was discovered by Columbus on May 3rd, 1494, while sailing southward from Cuba, and his landing was on its northern coast, probably at Dry Harbour. The vignette on the 3d stamp shows a circular bay, with headland in the distance, and in the foreground a group of Spaniards taking possession of the island. The three ships from which they landed are in the distance, as well as several canoes. Curiously, two dogs (probably bloodhounds) are shown with the landing party. The stamp greatly resembles the 3c of Newfoundland's Cabot series.

A SAD JUMBLE.

A sneaking complacency we have entertained for a good while, that we got the names of the chaps in the group photograph that we showed occasionally, true to life; but alas! as Josh Billings would say, we have been given a sound smack. In some way or other the list of the members of the Kansas City Stamp Club in the recent banquet picture in the WEEKLY was a puzzle picture. How the mistake was made we do not know; and we are not going to appoint an investigating committee.

Mr. Ora E. Stark writes:

"About half the names under the photo carry the wrong numbers, and therefore are not properly identified. The correct line-up is as follows:

1. Wm. Jerrems, Jr.
2. Robert W. Waddell.
3. Chas. F. Corbin.

A. ROTERBERG

3753 Wilton Ave., CHICAGO.
Member American Stamp Dealers' Ass'n.

Stamps that are not usually found in dealers' stocks and most of which were issued in limited quantities. Everything fully O. K. and written guarantee furnished with any item of value when requested. This means not a little in buying high priced items. Naturally we have most of the lower priced issues, but adv. space costs money and we cannot offer here. Send us a list of what you want and are willing to buy at fair prices. We have one of the largest general stocks in the New World and can perhaps assist you as we have hundreds of other leading American collectors. While we have a line of approvals (list of books on request), we prefer want lists when possible. You get what you want and saves us tying up stock, by sending you stamps you already have. In quality, range of variety and fair prices, we believe few can equal us. Why not avail yourself of the service we can furnish. We have many large want lists left with us to fill as goods come in.

TO REMOVE PAPER FROM STAMPS.

Clipping from THORN SMITH.

To soak the paper off many stamps, especially British Colonials, requires endless patience and much time, and even then they curl after drying. If to one pint of water is added ten to twenty drops of common household am- monia and the stamps soaked in this water, the slippery gum will as a rule disappear like magic and after drying, the stamps will be flat and clean with no tendency to curl. As household am- monia is of no definite strength, it will be well to try the minimum of ten drops first and if not successful, add more gradually. It must not be as- sumed that the use of ammonia will prevent loss of color on many stamps which water affects, but so far as ex- perience teaches, the ammonia does not increase the loss of color. This method has been used on many British Colo- nials and yet there may be some that might be damaged. Therefore, if it is desired to use the method, it is sug- gested that a test be made on a few copies before dumping in a large num- ber. It is needless to add that cold water is preferred in practically all cases, especially so when the color is fugitive.

NOW YOU ARE SORRY.

After eight years of violent criticism of our Ex-Postmaster General Burleson, we find according to enclosed clipping from the Kansas City Star that the slow delivery of mails was not his fault after all.

How could you expect him to compete with all other modern conveniences with such a handicap?

Very truly yours,
WILSON D. WOOD.

WASHINGTON.—Postmaster General Hays taxies about in a cab when he is in a hurry. When he arrived on the job as chief mail man, he found only a carriage and pair of horses provided as his official conveyance, the turnout being well known through eight years' use by Burleson. An almost forgotten row in Congress left no other chariot to the department head, and while other cabinet officers may limousine, laudaulet, cabri- olet, sedan or otherwise motor about, Mr. Hays taxies when he wants speed.

THE LURE OF A PHILATELIC ODDITY.

By W. A. SISSON.

There is no keener pleasure to the genuine philatelist than to go over a lot of old postage stamps and look for odd, curious cancellations, printers' er- rors and the many little things that makes the collection of these small bits of paper so intensely interesting.

A recent purchase of a lot of old cheap stamps from a philatelic graveyard has afforded me many hours of study and real recreation and the finding of a few scarce and uncatalogued varieties and it has occurred to me that a note of my discoveries may be of value to the busy man or young collector, and prove an incentive for him to go over his album carefully and get better ac- quainted with his stamps and find more pleasure in their possession.

Perhaps the most valuable find from a commercial point of view was a fine copy of a 4d carmine rose of Great Britain on blue safety paper, water- marked small garter, that is not listed by either Scott or Gibbons.

Another uncatalogued variety was a 1d New South Wales No. 77, imperf., on part of original cover and legibly postmarked "Mr. 29, 95." Unfortu- nately they had been cut apart before they were placed on the cover, but were so cleverly joined together as to look like a pair.

The left diagonal half of the 25c blue 1875 of Cuba, used as 12½c, and a similar part of the 10c blue 1888 used as 5c, both on part of original cover, with postmark neatly overlapping on cover, were appreciated.

Three old entire English envelopes, 1d ladies' note, size 64 x 102 mm., one the single blue thread variety post- marked June, 1845, another with the blue and red silk thread mailed Aug. 30, 1849. The last one was also of the blue and red silk thread variety and the sender had put on a one cent 1890 and mailed it in an Illinois P. O. to East St. Louis, Ill., in 1893.

A 4s Denmark No. 13, with two small dashes in color just before the 4s was new to me. Who can explain it?

A rather interesting oddity was a block of three ½d Great Britain, No. 57, plate 3, in the shape of the letter L on part of original cover. Attached to the top stamp was a small portion of its left-hand neighbor showing the let- ter N. The top stamp was lettered N-N-N-N, the bottom stamp had N-o- o-N, the right-hand stamp was lettered o-o-o-o. This led me to looking for specimens having the same letter in all four corners, and I was surprised to find them quite scarce.

OUR SOCIETY DIRECTORY.

The Stamp Collectors' Club of Hart- ford, Conn., begins this week the use of our Society Directory and we are pleased to call attention to this fact. Centrally located as the club is on lines of communication between New York and Boston, collectors should bear in mind the weekly meetings of this or- ganization held at the Virginia Inn on Monday evenings.

PARCEL POST FOR CHINA.

The Postal Administration of China has informed this Department that par- cel post packages not exceeding 22 pounds in weight are accepted for trans- mission to any place in China where a postal establishment functions.

However, the maximum dimensions for packages destined for nonsteam- served offices are 5 feet in length and girth combined, but not exceeding 1½ feet in length, and the maximum di- mensions for packages destined for steam-served offices (see list on pp. 7 to 13 of the December, 1920, Postal Guide) are 6 feet in length and girth combined, but not exceeding 3½ feet in length.

The item "China" on pages 155 and 164 and Section II on page 154 of the July, 1920, Postal Guide are modified accordingly.

COMING CHANGES IN BRITISH.

Colour changes are imminent in the stamps of a large number of countries and colonies, in consequence of the adoption of the new rates for international postage as fixed by the last Postal Union Congress in Madrid. Some of these changes have already been given effect.

The colours of stamps most commonly employed for international postage are standardized by the Universal Postal Union. Under the new regulations these will be green for 10 centimes and its equivalents in other currencies, red for 20 centimes, and blue for 50 centimes.

In the case of our own stamps this will involve immediate changes in the colours of the ½d, 1d, 2d, 2½d, 4d, 5d and possibly other values. The 2½d stamp, being no longer required, will probably be dropped from the series. Similar alterations will require to be made in respect of the stamps of the oversea Dominions.

It is reported from Stockholm that the Swedish Government is considering the creation of a commemorative postage stamp in honour of the anniversary of the inauguration of the League of Nations at Geneva.

The definite pictorial postage stamps, provided for use in the Saar Valley under French administration, are remarkable for the fact that the preparation of their designs was entrusted to a well-known Parisian philatelist, M. A. Montader. Two values only have so far made their appearance, 30pf green and black, showing a view of the Basin of the Saar, and 40pf, red and purple, depicting a coalfield. These vignettes have been executed in large oblong format by the French Government printing establishment on the Boulevard Brune, Paris, and are perforated 12½. In each sheet occur two of those varieties beloved of stamp collectors designated tete beche, where one stamp is inverted in relation to its neighbour.

When completed the full series will contain 15 stamps, ranging in value from 5 pfennigs to 25 marks, uniformly inscribed "Saargebiet." They will finally displace the overprinted German types which have been current in this territory since January 30, 1920. Objection having been raised to the Gallicized form of the overprint originally applied to the Saar Valley stamps, this was amended at the instigation of the League of Nations to its present form on April 12, 1920.

During March special stamps are being sold by the Austrian Post Office for three times their postal values in aid of victims of the inundation at Salzburg. These consist of 20 values in the contemporary Austrian postage types, printed in distinctive colours and overprinted in Gothic characters, "Hochwasser, 1920."

Another recent issue of charity-cum-postage stamps hails from Italy, where the current 25c and 40c stamps, overprinted B.L.P. (Buste Lettere Postale) in red, are supplied at a discount of 5 centesimi to the Federation for the Relief of Disabled Soldiers, to frank charitable appeals dispatched in the committee's own printed envelopes. The system is to remain in vogue for nine years, and the money thus saved will be devoted to the support of war orphans and blinded and disabled sol —London Times.

NOTES ON NEWFOUNDLAND—1897-1921.

By HARRY E. HUBER.

XVII.—TRANS-ATLANTIC FLIGHTS, 1919.

The year 1919 will long be remembered as that in which the Atlantic Ocean was first successfully crossed by air vessels. Just one hundred years before, the first steamer, the Savannah, had completed the same voyage.

By reason of her position off the American continent, Newfoundland has been the scene of many attempts to connect up the two continents, separated by but 1880 miles at this point. The first Trans-Atlantic cable was laid between Newfoundland and Ireland in 1857. This was a failure, as well as two attempts made in the following year, and successful connection was not made until 1868.

In December, 1901, Marconi, at Cabot Tower, St. John's, received the first Trans-Atlantic signals by wireless telegraphy.

The British participants in the 1919 aerial attempts had an incentive supplied by the Daily Mail's offer of £ 100,000 to the aviator who should make the first continuous flight across the Atlantic in an aeroplane.

In the summer of 1918 Americans had taken over an extensive property outside of St. John's, and work had started on preparing it for an aviation field. After several weeks, the work was abandoned, and those interested left the island. The war was then on, and the Censor reigned supreme, but it has since been learned that American airmen were contemplating flights at that time.

But hardly had 1919 opened when representatives of the Sopwith and Martinsyde aviation firms arrived in the island. The American seaplanes, and the U. S. Navy dirigible C-5, followed in May, and later came the Handley-Page and the Vickers Vimy.

a.—Sopwith Flight, May 18, 1919.

The Sopwith people established themselves at Mt. Pearl, 3½ miles from St. John's, and theirs was the first machine to arrive, coming by the str. Digby late in March. St. John's was then ice blocked, and it was necessary for the Digby to go around to Placentia Bay. There the plane and equipment were transferred to a smaller steamer, the Portia, and brought to Placentia, and then by rail to St. John's, arriving Sunday morning, March 30th. The machine was of the biplane type, fitted with a 360 H. P. Rolls-Royce engine, capable of attaining a speed of 120 m. p. h. Harry G. Hawker and Lt. Commr. MacKenzie Grieve, pilot and navigator, respectively, arrived at the same time.

The flight was set for the middle of April, so that advantage might be taken of the full moon. By leaving Newfoundland late in the afternoon, it was expected that the other side would be reached in the early hours of the following morning.

Preparations were rapidly completed, and trial flights were made on the 11th and 12th April, but weather conditions locally, and reports from the mid-Atlantic, were not favorable to the hop-off.

Letters of Dr. J. Alex. Robinson, Postmaster General of Newfoundland, to the local papers contain much of interest in connection with arrangements for the first Trans-Atlantic air mail.

"It was felt that some preparations should be made for the conveyance of at least a congratulatory mail from this country to the Old Country, and that the intrepid men who purposed undertaking the perilous journey, with those who represented the enterprising firms that essayed the adventure, should have the opportunity of sending greetings across the ocean to their friends.

The Sopwith machine was the only one in the island early in April, and it then seemed certain that the flight would be essayed during the month; as a matter of fact, attempts were made on April 11th and 12th. On April 5th the following letter was sent to Capt. Fenn—

'Capt. M. H. Fenn,
Sopwith Aviation Co., Ltd.,
Cochrane Hotel, City.

Sir,—On what terms will you carry a small official mail, the number of letters not to exceed ten, and the weight not to exceed one pound?

As an alternative proposition, and subject to such limitation as may be agreed on, on what terms will you carry a general letter mail?

The above inquiries are made on the supposition that yours will be the first is to try and arrange your XX Century U. S. without a guide. Even people who should know better get these issues horribly messed up. They get the single and double line wmks. all mixed up, and as for the dies of the 3c stamps and surface printings—well "pandemonium reigns supreme." It's passing strange, this situation, when for fifty cents any collector can have a large, illustrated, handbook on these issues of ours from 1901 to 1920. Better late than never.

The Best Way to Get Balled Up

attempt to cross the Atlantic by airship.

Yours truly,
(Sgd.) J. ALEX. ROBINSON,
Postmaster General.'

Capt. Fenn replied as follows:—

'Postmaster General,
General Post Office, City.

Sir,—I have the honour to acknowledge receipt of your letter dated the 5th April.

With regard to your proposition for carrying an official mail of ten letters, weight not exceeding one pound, my company will be prepared to accept this on the two following conditions:—

(1) That the Sopwith Aviation Co., Ltd., be allowed to carry a maximum of 100 letters in excess of the ten mentioned above.

(2) That the Sopwith Aviation Co. be paid the sum of one dollar, to be paid them by cheque made payable to the company.

It is clearly understood that in the event of the Sopwith aeroplane being subsidised by the Newfoundland Government, it must be the first to attempt the Crossing of the Atlantic by air.

I have the honour to be, Sir,
Your obedient servant,
(Sgd.) M. H. FENN,
For and on behalf of the Sopwith Aviation Co., Ltd.'

This arrangement was confirmed by the following letter:—

'April 10th, 1919.

Capt. M. H. Fenn,
Sopwith Aviation Co., Ltd.

Dear Capt. Fenn,—Referring to your letter of April 8th, in reply to mine of April 5th, I now confirm the arrangement as follows:—

You agree on behalf of your company to carry an official mail of ten letters, the total weight not to exceed one pound. On behalf of the Postal Service of Newfoundland, and in consideration of your so doing, I agree to allow you to carry a maximum of 100 letters, in excess of the ten official letters, and to entrust you with a total of 110 letters, more or less, to be placed in a sealed bag to be transferred to the care of Mr. Hawker for transmission as the First Trans-Atlantic Air Mail.

It is, however, to be understood between us that should the Martinsyde or any other airship get away before the Sopwith machine, you will agree on your part to promptly return the bag to my order, so that it may be sent by the first airship to leave. As a nominal consideration for carrying the official mail, the Sopwith Aviation Co. will be paid the sum of $1.00 on the morning after the flight takes place.

I regret that you cannot see your way clear to carrying a general letter mail, but can readily understand the great difficulty, if not the impossibility, of doing so.

With very earnest good wishes for the success of your undertaking,

I am, dear sir,
Yours truly,
(Sgd.) J. ALEX. ROBINSON,
Postmaster General.'

Although at the time there seemed very little likelihood of any machine getting away before that of the Sopwith Co., a distinct reservation was made in the event of such a contingency arising, and it is most pleasing to note the sportsmanlike manner in which the loyal friends, though rival aviators, accepted the position after the arrival of the Martinsyde machine."

The official mail consisted of eleven congratulatory letters from officials of Newfoundland to those of Great Britain, as follows:—

3 from the Governor of Newfoundland, Sir Chas. Alex. Harris.

3 from the Colonial Secretary, W. W. Halfyard.

2 from the Premier, Sir William Lloyd.

1 from the Chief Justice, Sir William Horwood.

1 from the Postmaster General, Dr. J. Alex. Robinson.

1 from the Mayor of St. John's, Mr. Gosling.

Of the Sopwith letters the majority were addressed to directors and others connected with the firm, and friends of the aviators and those employed in the aerial venture at St. John's. A small parcel post package was also included, containing photographs taken on the ground, and addressed to the Daily Mail.

This mail was brought to the office of the Postmaster General, and there a specially overprinted postage stamp was attached. Most of the letters were endorsed by hand or typewriter, "By aerial post", or similar words. The cancellation was by the electric cancelling machine at St. John's, and the earliest one known is April 12th, 1919, 2 p. m.

The special stamp provided for this mail was the 3c brown of the Caribou series, of which two sheets of 100 stamps each had been sent to the offices of the Royal Gazette, and overprinted in black,—

FIRST
ATLANTIC
AIR POST,
April, 1919.

The setting was probably one of ten subjects, owing to the small quantity treated. No varieties of overprint have been reported.

After many delays the Sopwith machine made her getaway from Mt. Pearl, at 3.21 p. m. local time (6.48 p. m. British summer time), Sunday, May 18th. The aviators were doubtless spurred on by the successful flight of the U. S. seaplane NC4 from Trepassey to Horta in the Azores, for the weather conditions were anything but favorable. Strapped inside the machine was the bag containing the mail prepared for the flight. The plane was soon out of sight, and cabled word of its arrival on the other side was eagerly awaited. But there was no word Monday! Days passed, and still no news of the aviators. The British Admiralty sent out destroyers, and when these returned at the end of the week, after having vainly scoured the sea, hope was abandoned. But the long-delayed and hoped-for word came the following day, Sunday, May 25th, when news of their rescue was flashed around the world.

The engine ran perfectly from the start, and had it not been for radiator trouble, the feat would in all probability have been accomplished. After 13 hours out this trouble became so serious that sighting a steamer (which afterwards proved to be the Danish str. Mary, Hawker and Grieve decided to alight. They were taken off Monday morning, May 19th, and the machine was abandoned. The Mary was without wireless, and it was not until Sunday, May 25th, when off the coast of Scotland, that her signal flags ("Saved all hands Sopwith aeroplane") were read. The British destroyer Woolston was sent to take off the aviators, and on Monday, May 26th, they were landed at Thurso, Scotland.

The mail bag was left with the abandoned machine, but both were salved by the U. S. S., Lake Charlotteville, on May 23rd. The mail was water-soaked, but it was dried, and the stamps pasted back on the letters. On arrival at Falmouth the bag was handed over to the postal authorities there.

Following receipt of the news of Hawker and Grieve's rescue, the Postmaster General of Newfoundland acted in the matter of the remaining 3c Caribou overprinted stamps on hand. Of the 200 overprinted, 18 were damaged, and were

". . . This leaves 76 stamps unaccounted for. For these many offers have been made, ranging from three cents upwards, applications having come from collectors and speculators.

After giving the matter careful consideration, the conclusion arrived at is that these historic stamps commemorating as they do the first air flight across the ocean and the first air mail dispatched across the Atlantic, should, from the financial standpoint, benefit, so far as possible, not speculators, but the people of the island from whose shores the airship flew. I know of no way in which this could be better done than by helping the widows and orphans of the fishermen and sailors who have been or may be lost in the prosecution of their hazardous calling. I have, therefore, purchased the 76 stamps at face value on behalf of the Permanent Marine Disasters Fund, and as Secretary of that organisation offer them for sale at $25.00 each. This offer will remain open for a fortnight, unless all are previously disposed of. If any remain after that time the right to demand a higher figure will be exercised. These stamps may be obtained upon application to Mr. Campbell of the G. P. O., and will be delivered on the principle of 'first come, first served.'

The fear was that the perilous enterprise had terminated in a historic tragedy, and there was hesitation as to whether it would be right or seemly to commercialise to any degree the unique adventure, but there need not have been hesitancy, for men of the character of Hawker and Grieve, fearless aviators who have dared death again and again, living or dying, could know no greater joy than that through their efforts, direct or indirect, the widows and fatherless might benefit."

The letter from the Postmaster-General offering the overprinted Caribous for sale, appeared in the morning papers of Saturday, May 31st. All but eight of the 76 stamps were sold that day, and these had found purchasers by noon Monday, June 2nd, and $1900.00 secured for the Fund. Before being sold, the stamps were first authenticated by the Postmaster General by initialing "J. A. R." on the gummed side.

The attitude of the Post Office Dept. in former years against the issue of surcharges, or overprinted stamps in aid of war charities, was not overlooked, and in the Daily Star of June 7th, the Postmaster General's action was the subject of comment.

". . . It appears that 76 were purchased by the Postmaster General himself at face value, 3c, and were subsequently advertised by him at $25.00. Now, although the proceeds of these stamps is to go to the Marine Disasters Fund, that does not alter the fact that the Postmaster General is selling stamps over face value, which, to say the least, is rather irregular. . . I have always understood that the Postmaster-General was strongly opposed to anything that savored of speculation in stamps, or rather, issuing any of a speculative character, and yet he is actually offering them for sale at an enormous percentage over face value."

The closing event in the history of this very interesting aerial stamp is told in a letter written to the Postmaster General by Capt. M. H. Fenn, of the Sopwith Aviation Co., Ltd., from Kingston-on-Thames, on Sept. 11th, 1919, the contents of which will bear quoting in entirety:—

"DEAR DR. ROBINSON,—

You may remember when I saw you last you were kind enough to hand me five unused stamps that you had surcharged for the first Trans-Atlantic Air Mail, and I believe I told you then that I proposed to give one each to Mr. Sopwith, Mr. Hawker, Lt. Commr. MacKenzie Grieve, and keep one, the other one to be sold for the benefit of the Newfoundland Marine Disasters Fund.

With regard to the latter, I handed the stamp to a well-known dealer in London, named Mr. Fred. Melville, who very kindly offered to have the stamp suitably mounted, and put into a frame case, and he suggested that I should obtain the signatures of anybody of interest who had been connected with the flight; not only that, but he was prepared to do all the necessary work of obtaining bids for the stamp so as to get the maximum amount of money that he could for it, free of charge.

When I received the mount from him I obtained the signatures of Sir John Alcock, D.S.C., Sir Arthur Whitten Brown, Mr. H. G. Hawker, F.C., M.B.E., Lt. Commr. MacKenzie Grieve, A.F.C., R. N., Mr. Thomas Sopwith, C.B.E., and Viscount Northcliffe. I then returned the mount to Mr. Melville, who had it framed in a red morocco frame case, the filigree of which was picked out in gold. These made an extraordinary handsome souvenir.

Mr. Melville published broadcast that this souvenir was being put up to the highest bidder, the bidding to close on September 10th, and I am very pleased to inform you that after some quite exciting bidding he obtained the sum of 200 guineas. This money has been placed to your credit at the Bank of Montreal in Waterloo Place, London, as it was thought that it might be of use to you to have a credit in English money in this country, but at the same time it is perfectly easy for you to have the money transferred to your local branch of the Bank of Montreal should you wish it.

Will you please have this money placed to the account of the Marine Disasters Fund, and it is sent to you as a token of appreciation of the many kindnesses shown by the people of St. John's to the representatives of the British firms who came over to make an endeavor to be the first to cross the Atlantic by air.

I understand from Mr. Melville that a photograph has already been sent you, which will give you a pretty good idea of what the souvenir looks like.

It only remains for me on behalf of all concerned to thank our friends in St. John's for the wonderful way they tried to make us feel that we were 'at home'.

Yours sincerely,
M. H. FENN, Capt."

The successful bidder for the stamp was Lt. Col. Halford of the Air Ministry.

THE REAL STUFF AFTER ALL.

By LOWELL J. RAGATZ.

There was the long white road which leads from Podunk to Oshkosh. There was the sun-drenched countryside with its naked fields, snug farm-homes, and bluffs of ever-changing hue. There was the hush of an Indian Summer afternoon, which not even the valiant efforts of our wheezy Ford could break in upon.

Both John and I were silent. It was our third hour on the road, and though we were off for a week-end trip, every available topic, philatelic and otherwise, had already been discussed at length. Now, he sat at the wheel, his eyes glued upon the narrow ribbon leading on and on, while I gazed idly at the flying landscape and checked over mentally the relative merits of Visitor's and Goliath's late issue services.

Snatches of our recent conversation, too, came back to me, how we had compared notes and had arrived at the conclusion that, after all, there was nothing new possible in the way of stamp collecting.

A collection must be either a general one which of necessity means distressingly vacant spaces or entire issues unrepresented to most collectors, or it must be specialized, which in turn signifies soon acquiring all major varieties and being reduced to shades, microscopic lines, and postmarks for excitement.

Having a country as "complete" as any rational human being could desire, it had never given either of us any pleasure; it had been the eternal seeking for real varieties which had always added zest to our sport in the days of general collecting, and the thrill incident to obtaining a henna postmark or a well-nigh invisible shift or two a month, had not sufficed us.

Therefore, John had but recently parted with his thirteen volume collection of the three wampum Atlantis, 1492 issue, and I with my nine volumes of Gaphoonistan number one. Neither had felt any regret at the parting. And now, from afar, we were seeking new fields of philatelic endeavor. But there were no new ways of forming a collection! We would, after all, probably be reduced to specializing in Graustark and Ruritania because—well, it was being done, a melancholy thought.

And then it happened. A sharp report, a sickening hiss, and a flat tire. A long spike had done its work well. We gazed ruefully at the result.

"And of course, I haven't a spare inner," growled John. "I needed one and I had the coin, but who could let that lot of Patagonia errors go by with everybody after them and Scott's sure to boost the price? Well, there's Saukville ahead. We'll ride in flat and have her vulcanized."

A few moments later found us in the lone garage of which the cross-roads town boasted, only to learn from a grinning and towseled headed urchin that, "the old gent an' Jim what helps him 'sgone out in the Ford to tow in a Packard what got stalled on the Springfield Hill".

There was nothing for us to do but wait for "the old gent" and Jim to make their triumphant entry. Meanwhile, we would have to kill time as best we might. Henry was left in charge of our young informant, while we went forth to see what we might see.

The straggly little town offered few possibilities. The seventeenth episode of "The Widow's Revenge" was playing at the Electric Theater—next Saturday evening. Bingling Sisters' Circus was coming to Prairie Junction, thirty miles away, in ten days.

Some wise soul has said that the isolation of an utter stranger dropped into the heart of a country burg is very real. We were beginning to feel this keenly when John had one of those rare inspirations which on occasion showed his in-born resourcefulness.

"Let's go to the post office and see if we can pick up some old issues or some albino envelopes from the P. M.'s cull box."

We had no difficulty in finding the federal building. The inevitable group of vacant-looking, tobacco-chewing village idlers on the curb before it were as positive proof of its location as was the home-made sign, whose "City Post Office" but ill concealed the foaming stein and cheerful "Lager", which in former days had been wont to brighten the eye of many a thirsty passer-by.

President Wilson's appointee, a kindly-faced man in middle life and obviously of Teutonic descent, greeted us cordially and hauled forth from old thread boxes his slender stock in trade. But the Fates were unkind. Only current issues up to the ten cent were on hand, and there were no freak envelopes.

"No, none of them inside out things, none at all," from Burleson's sub-agent in a regretful tone. Then, as if struck by a sudden thought, "Is it that you be stamp collectors to be asking for such things?"

Our surprise can be imagined, but it was as nothing when, upon the confessing of our failing, he burst out with a ringing "So be I!"

WILLIAM W. RANDALL, TIMES SQ. P. O., NEW YORK

Yes sir, up to three o'clock, talking stamps, and only stopping long enough for some kaffeekuchen, leberwurst, and beer! The memory of that talk-fest still brought back joyous thrills after the lapse of all these years.

And then he showed us his collection, taken lovingly from the corner safe where it rested with the envelopes, postal cards, and stamps which he vended over the counter.

"You see," he explained, "I have blendy of time down here, and like to look them over, they tell such interesting things. That's why I keep things handy."

Two albums there were, both Scott's Internationals, whose somewhat worn covers gave mute evidence of their owner's devotion. Possibly fifteen thousand varieties all told. Nothing rare, nor anything startling, but page upon page of perfection copies, used and unused of all countries, and mounted, ah, so carefully!

There were vacant spaces, to be sure, and not infrequently entire blank pages, particularly in the earlier issues.

"But I don't let that worry me; I like and look at what I have."

Our host's knowledge of his precious bits of paper was immense. He was thoroughly familiar with the processes of plate and paper making, and printing. He had a good knowledge of history, and knew the why and wherefore of issues appearing in or commemorating critical periods in the stories of the nations.

There were few dignitaries, animals, or scenes shown about which he did not have some information to offer. By the elaborate explanations he made and the multitudinous details to which he called attention, we might, by the casual observer, have been judged as being members of the great host of the philatelic unwashed receiving their introduction to the charms of stamp collecting.

John and I who had always prided ourselves upon knowing stamps shamefacedly kept our silence in the presence of this enthusiast who had never seen a "dealer feller," had never been in a stamp shop, had never been at a stamp society meeting, and had scarcely known another collector.

The darkening of the room from the early-gathering shadows of the autumn afternoon brought to us a realization of the passing of time. Regretfully, for there was still half an album unlooked at, we thought it probable that Jim and "the old man" might have returned long since, that Henry might even now be awaiting our return. And Oshkosh still lay miles ahead.

Our friend was all apologies. "Ach, himmel, eggscuse me that I should have forgotten. Ich bin so dumm, but you see, it is not often that I meet a stamp collector, and to see two at one time—"

His warm invitation to call on him again when passing by, and to spend some Sunday as his guests, and to bring our albums with us (we had not told him of our plight in this respect) was accepted, and we bade him farewell.

Jim and "the old man" had fetched in the Packard, our wants had been attended to, so ten minutes later the few early lights of Saukville-by-the-way were fast dwindling into mere specks behind us.

For a long time neither said a word. It was evident that John, like myself, was engrossed with thoughts of our new friend, his philosophy of collecting, and of his stamps. At length he broke the silence with almost reverent awe in his tone.

"Do you know, that's my idea of a real collection and of a real philatelist, a man who collects what he can get and is happy in it instead of being made miserable over what he hasn't got. And he knows his stamps. Why, after this afternoon, I could never go in for a mere single country or two, no matter how 'complete' I could get them. I'm not even sure whether I'd care for blank albums.—That's it! Another general collection for mine, and hang the specialized one in their fancy trimmings! We've seen the genuine article in the collecting line. Let's play the game that way, too. How about it?"

I did not hesitate, I had made up my mind a moment before.

"My sentiments exactly. No more dilettante collections for me. It's general collecting from now on, and really knowing stamps. What if there will be blank spaces? I'm going to enjoy what I have. We've seen what's the real stuff after all. Let's have it."

"RUSSIAN POST" in CONSTANTINOPLE, &c.

The above issue of General Wrangel's apparently exhausted all the stock left of the old Russian stamps, and as a Russian Post Office was necessary and the only old stocks of stamps on hand were those with the Ukraine Trident, these were overprinted in Russian with the words "Russian Post, 10,000 roubles" in a scroll work. It is very unlikely that this issue can last long, and they should be secured while available at low prices.

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF DENMARK.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

CHAPTER XVI.

The 1905 Issue.

The efforts of the Postal Department to meet the wishes of the public by producing a stamp design that would give a little more satisfaction than the portrait series were not particularly successful. In fact, after much cogitating, they decided to use the design that had been awarded first prize in the 1902 competition and which had been sidetracked at the time as being hardly suitable. What the Danish public thought of the new stamps we are not told, but they earned almost unanimous opprobrium abroad. "Hideous" and "tawdry" were some of the mildest epithets used by new issue chroniclers.

The new design shows "DANMARK" in bold uncolored letters surmounted by a Royal Crown on a ground of solid color. In the upper angles are indented rectangular spaces, each containing a lion passant, looking towards the centre. At each side are the nine hearts which complete the Royal Arms of Denmark, a row of four appearing immediately below the lion at each side, and the others in two rows of three and two, respectively, are shown below the name. The design is completed by a large oval containing numerals of value and on each side of this are three wavy lines which, we are assured, are symbolical and represent the Danish straits, viz.:—the Sound, the Great Belt and the Little Belt. Across the bottom is "POSTFRIMAERKE" and between this word and the wavy lines "ORE" appears at each side. It differs from the design submitted by Mr. Therchilsen only in the addition of the small hearts which serve to break what would otherwise be too much of an expanse of solid color.

The 4 öre was the first value issued, and this was placed in circulation on July 21st, 1905, and announced by the following official circular:—

"No. 21. CIRCULAR OF JULY 20TH, 1905.

Notice is hereby given to the post offices that new 4 öre stamps for general use have been prepared, color blue and of a new design (a Crown and two lions above the name 'DANMARK', then three wavy lines and the indication of value).

A supply of these stamps will shortly be sent out; they will be sold and entered in the accounts like the current 4 öre stamps.

The stamps will completely replace the current stamps when existing stocks have been sold. The 4 öre stamps at present in use will remain available after this date and until a later period."

On November 12th of the same year a 15 öre stamp in the new type was issued followed in rapid succession by the 1 öre (Nov. 20th); the 2 öre (Dec. 1st) and the 3 öre (Dec. 8th).

The original die for this design was engraved by Ch. Danielsen and from this secondary dies of the desired denominations were made. From each of these secondary dies 200 cliches were made and these, clamped together in two groups of 100 each formed the printing plates. The stamps were surface printed at the Government printing office in Copenhagen the usual Crown watermarked paper being used and the 13 perforation first introduced for the portrait type.

Down to this date the old 12 öre of the 1874 type had continued in circulation though for some time past there had been but little demand for it. In a circular, dated November 25th, 1905, postmasters were informed that no more would be printed or distributed viz:—

"From December 1st of this year 12 öre postage stamps will no longer be manufactured, but those stamps may nevertheless remain in use after that date until a later date.

The remaining stocks of the 12 öre postage stamps will not be issued to the post offices after December 1st of this year, but these stamps should be retained in the offices which possess any of them, to be sold to the public so long as there is any opportunity of doing so, and should be used up for postage in the best way possible."

CHAPTER XVII.

The Re-drawn Portrait Type.

Notwithstanding the general dissatisfaction regarding the type with King's portrait the Department were insistent on retaining it as is shown by the issue of the three higher denominations in September, 1905. An attempt was made to obtain something a little less crude and with this idea in view the Imperial Printing Office at Berlin was approached and a die was supplied for the 5 öre differing in many particulars from the original design. The re-drawn type may be distinguished from its predecessor, first by the clearness of the impression, and also by the following points: the lines of the background are wider apart, and those within the portrait circle are oblique and crossed so that they form a pattern of small lozenges; the forehead is covered with shading and the line at top of the collar has been considerably modified; the epaulet at left is white and the Star has been removed from the left breast; there is a thick line of color right across the stamps below the small ovals containing the numerals of value and the small devices in the four corners contain two clear lines instead of three; while the letter "C" in the centre below the portrait is almost closed.

The new stamp was announced in an official circular dated December 4th, 1905, though as a matter of fact it was actually issued nearly a month earlier, having been placed in circulation on November 10th.

In May, 1906, a 10 öre stamp of the same type was issued.

The die for these stamps was, as already stated, engraved at the Imperial Printing Office in Berlin and both values were printed in Copenhagen from plates of 200 subjects in exactly the same manner as the other King Christian stamps. The paper had the usual Crown watermark and the perforation is 13.

Scott's catalogue lists these two stamps as "re-engraved" but "re-drawn" is a more correct description of what actually happened to the design. Altogether 93,278,800 of the 5 öre were printed and 41,248,600 of the 10 öre.

CHAPTER XIX.

The 1912 Provisionals.

Just prior to the issue of the 35öre stamp with King Frederick's portrait, temporary needs for stamps of this denomination were met by surcharging certain discarded issues, stocks of which were still retained at the Head Office in Copenhagen. The 20öre value of the 1874-79 issue and the 16öre of 1896-9 were surcharged "35 ORE" in two lines in large type and dark blue ink. The 32öre official stamp of 1874 was also overprinted, but in this instance, in addition to the new value, a chain pattern appeared at each side to obliterate the inscription "TJENESTE FRIMAERKE" and across the lower border the word "FRIMAERKE" was printed. This surcharge was in black ink.

All three provisionals were issued on April 1st.

DON'T REMIT IN STAMPS.

We are compelled to decline stamps as remittances on amounts over 50c and urge dealers to make the same rule with their patrons. A dollar bill should be used when possible and any small amount remaining can be enclosed in stamps. Checks or money orders should be used on all remittances of $2 or over.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Can anyone supply the address of Eugene R. Sullivan, formerly of Knowlton, Quebec? Interested parties will please communicate with C. H. Hollister, Mukwonago, Wis.

—There was an error in the advertisement of the Hiawatha Stamp Shop, Apr. 23 and 30, for which we must assume the responsibility. A stamp advertised as $2 should have been $8, and we regret the inconvenience caused the Hiawatha Stamp Shop and our subscribers in the correspondence that was made necessary.

—Dr. W. G. Watt, temporarily in Paris, sends us a couple French stamps that are samples of the encased currency now in use in France. The 5c and 10c (and possibly other values) are being used. The Managing Editor recalls the fact that while he was in Paris last August it was a very common practice for restaurants, tradesmen and news stands to pass over French stamps when making change. A protest was usually greeted with the remark "You can use it for postage". Dr. Watt writes that French Colonials used are scarce and high priced and that the Bourse is anything but a bargain spot, all prices being higher than in most of the stamp shops.

—Congress has passed a bill directing the Postmaster General to furnish the Chicago post-office with a cancellation stamp as follows: "Pageant of Progress Exposition, Chicago, July 30 to August 14, 1921."

—It will please the many friends of Harry Hill Bandholtz to know that he has been confirmed as Brigadier General.

—The attention of the public is called by the Department at Washington to the fact that precancelled postage stamps must be defaced at the receiving office before mail matter is returned to senders.

—In a recent issue we ran a News Gleaning signed H. F. Grout, Box 54, Cambridge, Mass. It related to the formation of a revenue society. We did not take the trouble to investigate and mail matter to Grout is "returned to writer". Can anyone give us information about this party? A similar incident has occurred in the case of a communication relative to the forming of a stamp society in Winston-Salem, N. C. A letter mailed to the correspondent quoted could not be delivered. Must it be necessary in the future to establish the reliability of correspondents before using items of news?

—"As a subscriber to MEKEEL'S I notice that collectors deplore the fact that the Washington, D. C., post office will not sell stamps to collectors who order by mail. I presume they choose Washington because the stamps are printed there, but other offices have the same facilities for keeping stamps in stock as that office. This office (Manhattan, Kans.) has in stock at present the 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 15, 20, 30, 6- and 16-cent aero, Pilgrim issue, and 75-cent parcel post, and if there is any demand at all for any of the remaining denominations the office will secure them. The Postmaster at the office here will gladly fill all mail orders for any quantity."—L. ROY ENGLE.

MR. VALLANCEY HIGH LINER.

A few weeks ago we took occasion under the caption "Two Book Orders" to refer to the excellent work of two of our patrons in connection with book orders. We had in mind American dealers only. Mr. Vallancey mildly reprimands us and we hasten to acknowledge the strength of his claim that the honors in this direction belong to him. He has one order for 500 of one book to his credit and has sold more of our publications than any other agency.

EDITORIAL.

Conventions.—Both Milwaukee and Minneapolis, the cities in which the conventions of the American Philatelic Society and the Philatelic Sons of America, respectively, will be held next August, wish it known that plans for the entertainment of delegates are in the course of preparation. We believe that there will be a good attendance at these annual meetings and we do not hesitate to say that there will be business enough to engage the undivided attention of members during the sessions. President Chase of the American Philatelic Society has appointed that sturdy oak, P. M. Wolsieffer chairman of the committee on credentials and that clinging vine, the editor of the WEEKLY, vice-chairman. Speaking of ballots, we have received notice that Branch No. 46, the Cincinnati Philatelic Society nominated the following ticket at its meeting of April 27th; and all the men on it are tried and true. President, Carroll Chase; Board of Vice-Presidents, Fred Huntington, S. W. Richey and Stanley B. Ashbrook; Treasurer, J. E. Scott; Secretary, H. A. Davis; International Secretary, Eugene Klein and Directors-at-Large, D. C. Hammatt, Topeka, Kansas, and Robert Emerson, Providence, R. I.

First.—We have to thank Mr. J. H. Houston for a most interesting pamphlet of twenty-four pages, "Instructions to Post Masters," issued by the post office department of the Confederate States of America, which bears the imprimatur: "Richmond, Va.—Printed by Ritchie & Dunnavant,—1861," in three lines. The pamphlet was issued about October 1st, 1861, and is a compilation of the "New Postage Acts." These Acts date from March 15th, 1861, through August 30th, 1861, and while the material affecting stamps themselves which were not in use until October, 1861, is not of particular value, yet the little paper covered book has an attraction that the collector of Confederates in particular can feel. All of the enactments that are listed have been published heretofore by writers of Confederate postal history but it is not through its utility that the "instructions" intrigue us,—it is the thought that here we have first-hand information from the fountain-head of the Confederate post office department.

View.—About each twelve-month, one of the big publishers of the country sends us a cheering letter from which we always manage to extract bits of philosophy to pass on to readers. After saying that this is the season of the year at which he begins to buy extensively because of favorable prices usually and the fact that he has more leisure at this time, he speaks of what he generously calls our "acumen in pursuing a policy that is sure to benefit the body philatelic." He professes to see in our idea of "associating philately with the concerns of the big world" the sensible wish to identify collecting with everyday life and affairs and not make it a thing apart, as if it were "founded on obscure or eccentric belief." He thinks that this "natural method" strengthens the bonds of those who are collectors and will "encourage those whose inclinations are none too firm." We are convinced that our desire to knit philately into the fabric of daily existence is one that should be accepted by all those who want collecting to spread. Philately to thrive best must shed any aspects of provincialism and take its place publicly as a pursuit rational and reasonable. By humanizing collecting, we shall popularize it. We hope that the day will soon come when our friend will give us a ripping stamp article in one of his publications. We remember that when we asked him some time ago to do so, he said that the philatelic leaven had not yet worked to the degree that he felt that he would be justified in running the stamp story in a publication that was read by a million or more laymen. In a personal sense, he was acquiescent from a coldly business angle, he hesitated.

Congress.—Our British brethren certainly have planned, and doubtless by this time carried out, a programme that is alluring for the delegates to the Eighth Philatelic Congress of Great Britain at Harrogate, on May 3rd to 6th, inclusive. Receptions, dancing, golf and motor charabancs, not to mention the banquet and excursions, show that the hours of ease of the visitors are well filled. Letters from the Congress post office will be conveyed to the "General Post Office, where they will receive an impression of the special Congress date stamp." At least seven papers are to be read and intervals are provided for "discussion". Reports of permanent committees and sub-committees and motions or resolutions are specified on the calendar. Practically all the philatelic societies of Great Britain and Ireland sent delegates to this important Congress; and in this connection we may add that one of the motions is: "That the Congress appoint a subcommittee to consider and report upon the best method of carrying out the resolution adopted at the Margate Conference (1913) approving the formation of a National Philatelic Association."

Restricted.—The advertising advantages of cancelling machines having been generally recognized by the promoters of enterprises of various kinds, the post office department seeks to stem the tide by announcing that "the practice of permitting the use of cancelling machines of special dies advertising various projects has been discontinued, it having been decided by the department to operate dies carrying only inscriptions of interest to the Postal Service."

* * *

Slickers.—Evidently, Uruguay can lead India, Ceylon, etc., in the chorus of that touching ditty, "Watch Your Stamp." Harry A. Franck, in his "Uruguay: a Progressive Republic" in the Century Magazine for April says: "Even in Montevideo, the government telegraph and postal service are atrocious. One must carry his own letters to the post office, and see that the man to whom they are handed cancels the stamps, lest he steal them when one's back is turned." These methods are a bit too progressive and we prefer to hark back to the days of the "diligencia" issue of Uruguay, sixty-five years ago, when stamps were not "common property".

Defined.—Now cometh Mr. R. P. Brook, with his definition of a Pessimist, —"The man who kicks about the straight edges on an imperforate stamp." Now, if we only ran a "colyum" in the WEEKLY, think of all the scintillating wit and coruscating remarks that would come from the nimble-wits.

HOW ABOUT U. S. LOCALS?

By Jos. A. STEINMETZ.

You are doing a great and proper work for American philately. By all means let us request the elimination of telegraph stamps, we might as well catalog car tickets or Pullman stubs, and certainly include precancels and prepaids.

As to postcards I am luke-warm, but I am rabid on having the catalog show up U. S. locals. In your plebiscite you should have another line so we may get a vote on re-instating U. S. locals, and I feel sure you would get an enthusiastic affirmative response.

The quest for old locals would prove a tremendous stimulus to philately in the uncovering of rare finds of old postmaster and postage issues. There is a great monetary interest represented in the collecting of these stamps while the historic interest cannot be estimated.

I know scores of advanced collectors who are keen on locals and I know of but very few collectors of telegraph stamps. There is absolutely no investment value in telegraph stickers. It would be a good idea for you to run a serial on U. S. local stamps and publish it in booklet form.

A GREAT PURCHASE.

This week the Economist Stamp Co. announces the purchase of a great collection of U. S. revenues, including Match and Medicines. The advertisement elsewhere contains a strong invitation to get close to the contents of this great and unique collection.

3c ENVELOPES RE-VALUED 2c.

Information Relating to the Surcharging of 3c Envelopes on Hand When Postage was Reduced to 2c.

After it was found impracticable to surcharge the unused stocks of 3c stamped envelopes on hand in post offices and distributing sub-agencies in printing presses, consideration was given to the use of post-office canceling machines for the purpose, equipped with special dies for changing the denomination of the stamps.

A number of different dies were obtained for experimental use in International and Universal machines, but only three styles were used in surcharging envelopes that have been placed on sale. These include two dies that printed a large figure "2" in the center of the stamp with either vertical or horizontal bars canceling the figures "3" and one that printed a large "2" at the left with the word "cents" running through the stamp. The latter die was used in the Washington post office only and was later discarded, but the envelopes that had been surcharged were placed on sale.

After the preliminary tests of various styles of dies were made it was decided to adopt the vertical bar type and orders were placed with the manufacturers for 10 dies each for use in International and Universal canceling machines. Subsequent orders were placed with the latter Company at different times for additional dies. The dies for use in both machines were made from rough drawings prepared in the Department and were substantially uniform in design although some variations occur in dies supplied on different orders.

The Postmasters at Saint Louis, New York and Cleveland were the first postmasters authorized to surcharge stamped envelopes in large quantities and were furnished dies in January and February, 1920, that had been obtained for the preliminary tests. The Postmaster at Saint Louis was furnished a die for use in "Universal" machine and "International" dies were furnished the two latter offices. The first die sent to Saint Louis was transferred to Chicago on March 23, 1920, and both offices were furnished additional dies at different times as shown by the lists below.

Ten additional dies for use in International machines were then obtained and the records indicate their use at the following offices:

Boston	New York (2)
Chicago	Philadelphia
Columbus	San Francisco
Indianapolis	Division of Stamps
Oklahoma

The die at Columbus was sent to Albuquerque, New Mexico, October 10, 1920, and the postmaster at the latter office was authorized March 31, 1921, to forward it to Charlottesville, Va. The die at Indianapolis was transferred to Grand Forks, North Dakota, November 1, 1920, and from there to Fort Smith, Arkansas, January 20, 1921. The die used in the Division of Stamps was sent to Saint Louis, March 28, 1921.

A list is given below of post offices where the surcharging was done in "Universal" machines using dies provided after the preliminary tests had been made, with the approximate dates on which the dies were sent:

HUNGARY.

By H. M. GEISSEL.

In your article about Hungary, by Mr. Theodore H. Ames, I still find the occupation stamps by the French troops mentioned, although there is no doubt any more, that these stamps are an ordinary swindle.

The following letters published in the December Number of the "Sammler Woche," Munich, may clear this case. It reads about: "Dr. Franz von Toth, Budapest, writes in the name of the "First Patriotic Club of Stamp Collectors in Budapest":

We feel it as our duty, referring to our warnings to publish the following official promulgation of the French Postoffice to Mr. A. Auberson, the well known Swiss investigator at Berne:

Dear Sir: Referring to your letter of Sept. 2nd. I have the honor to let you know, that the French Post Administration never gave out the order to install Post offices in the territories of Hungary, which were occupied by the French troops. I never have received any information that there were issued for this reason Hungarian stamps with the surcharge of "Occupation Francaise". Receive, dear sir, the expression of my highest regards.

For the Secretary of the Post and Telegraph Department, Director: (signature not readable.)

Dr. Toth says further: "We like to mention that the French even unofficial have not anything to do with this issue, and that the rumor, that these fantasy stamps were issued in favor of a French reg ment, is only a story circulated by the dealers. The idea and the manufacture of these stamps has its origin only with the city council of Arad, whose members endeavored to bring up some money, as this city was cut off from Hungary. Wood, coal, meat, vegetables, in short, almost everything was charged with city taxes, except the remaining postal stamps of Hungary, which they found as another source of making money. They succeeded in making the Philatelists tax payers of the city of Arad, but French Occupation stamps can not be materialized in such a way."

Don't Be Bashful!

Every day or so I have to write some good fellow to tell him his inquiry or order came a week or a month too late to do either of us any good.

Prices are right, right here.

Recently a new customer who was a bit timid about trying my service because he feared my prices were higher than the market, came to see me and went away with a purchase nearly five times as great as he had anticipated before he had actually seen the stamps.

That sort of thing happens right along.

Mint British Colonials—all of them—up to and including the £5, and higher values, at substantial discounts. Plenty of other U. S. and foreign, too, including pairs, strips, blocks and covers.

OUR BOOK REVIEW.

The Stamp Collector's Annual, edited by Douglas B. Armstrong, has just appeared in its fifteenth edition. It contains the usual features that make it a useful yearbook of philately. A number of special articles grace the pages of the book, while the regular features listing stamp societies, exchange clubs, philatelic publications and literary index for 1920 are well edited. The price of the book is 2sh 6d and it may be obtained from 87 Emmanuel Road, London, England. We take pleasure in recommending it as a very handy annual, containing as it does a vast fund of information.

UNITED STATES.—In a recent issue mention was made of several early covers showing copies of the 90c blue, 1857. Mr. A. W. Filstrup kindly advises us that he also has an early cover that shows the 90c rate made up of three strips of three of the 10c green, 1851. The cover was mailed in Washington and addressed to Buenos Aires. Mr. Filstrup mentions another cover of interest, namely a strip, a pair and a single of the same stamp, making a 60c rate, addressed to Bremen.

While speaking of the 90c rate, your editor has in his collection a very fine cover addressed to Italy showing six copies of the 1866 15c black Lincoln. This was found in Rome along with some other wonderful pieces by Dr. Woodhouse.

Notice has been given in the past of the finding of the current engraved 1c, 2c and 3c stamps with a shifted impression which gives the stamp a double appearance. Dr. L. C. LeRoy now sends for inspection a pair of the 11c, unwatermarked, perforated 11 showing a decided shift.

So many confuse double prints, double transfers and shifts because the finished product is somewhat similar, that a few words of explanation at this time may not be amiss. A double print is a stamp that has actually been through the press twice and received an impression from the plate or roll each time. In a shift the stamp has not been through the press twice but because of some mechanical imperfection of the press or at times due to the manner in which the printed sheet is lifted from the plate receives a smeared impression or second print. In a double transfer a subject has been laid down on the plate and for some reason is not satisfactory. This impression is then supposedly removed in its entirety and a second transfer from the die is laid down in the same place. At times however there remains a few or many of the lines from the first impression and when this plate is printed from we have what is known as a double transfer.

The 3c engraved from plate 8129 shows what I consider the finest and most distinct example of the double transfer that we have in United States stamps. Practically the entire stamp is double and you do not have to use a glass to see it. Most of the so called double printed 1c, 2c and 3c surfaced printed stamps are shifts. If the second impression is directly to the right or left of the second impression you may depend upon it that it is. You will find in such cases that the detail of one impression is not clear.

Some of these stamps are known with a "double impression" and such varieties usually have the second impression either above or below the other impression and one impression is just as clear as the other, although one may be much lighter in shade.

Through the courtesy of the Third Assistant Postmaster General, Division of Stamps, I am able to present to our readers detailed and accurate information regarding the issuing of dies for overprinting the three cent envelopes. This information is as of April 25, 1921, and up to that time no new dies have been ordered. From the information given it will be seen that only one die was made for overprinting envelopes "2 CENTS" in one line and this die which has been designated as Type I was used in Washington only. In addition one die with horizontal lines for use in a "Universal" machine was made. This is known as Type II and was first used in Washington, then sent to Saint Louis and is now in use in Chicago. While one die of this type was made we can easily differentiate between the overprinting of the three cities.

Ten dies were made for the "International" machine and these impressions with the vertical lines widely spaced we have designated as Type III. The following cities received these dies:—

Boston	New York (2)
Chicago	Philadelphia
Columbus	San Francisco
Indianapolis	Division of Stamps
Oklahoma

The above die at Columbus was sent to Albuquerque October 10, 1920 and the postmaster at the latter office was authorized March 31, 1921, to forward it to Charlottesville, Va. The die at Indianapolis was transferred to Grand Forks on November 1, 1920, and from there to Fort Smith, Ark., January 20, 1921. The die used in the Division of Stamps and known as the Washington type was sent to St. Louis on March 28, 1921. The others remain in the cities where first sent.

The department was not satisfied with the first die made for the "Universal" that is, the die with the horizontal lines, and while this was not discarded as in the case with the "2 CENTS" die, nevertheless no more were made. Thirty-four new dies for this machine however were made and these differ from Type I in that the vertical lines are closely spaced. This we call Type IV. These dies were sent to the following cities, in the order named:—Des Moines, Los Angeles, Pittsburgh, Saint Paul, San Francisco, Seattle, Saint Louis, Chicago, Atlanta, Denver, Detroit, Cincinnati, Little Rock, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Omaha, Salt Lake City, San Antonio, Kansas City, Portland, Me., Jacksonville, Washington, Baltimore, Butte, Charleston, Ithaca, New Orleans, Grand Rapids, Meriden, Manchester, Nashville, Brooklyn and San Juan, P. R.

Of the last mentioned dies the one at Seattle has been sent to Spokane, then from Washington to Portsmouth, then from Ithaca to Louisville and from there to Savannah. The Jacksonville die was sent to Mobile and then to Montgomery, the Los Angeles to Fargo, the Kansas City, Mo. to Kansas City, Kans., then Cincinnati to Chattanooga, and the Buffalo to Buffalo. The above changes have all been made since October 19, 1920.

With the above information at hand it will be seen that we have correctly designated all dies, in giving them the name of the city which first used them with one exception. The overprint which is known as the Louisville was first used in Ithaca. I will not change its designation at this late date for we all know it as originating at Louisville.

It will be seen that a third die has been sent to St. Louis. This already has a Washington designation. St. Louis will have, however, but two dies on hand.

The same correspondent also adds that different parts of the same territory are yet using war time issued stamps.

A COUNTRY THAT LIVES ON STAMPS.

The tiny Principality of Liechtenstein, A Country That Lives On Stamps. 8H between Austria and Switzerland, with a population of only 10,000 has its troubles, like the rest of Europe, but the alarming reports from Swiss sources that a "revolution" was impending and that the Prince's "Pooh-Bah" Chancellor had been kidnapped are pessimistic. Dr. Peer, the Lord-High-Everything of Liechtenstein, is a lawyer who formerly held a high judicial position in Vienna. He is very popular with most Liechtensteiners, but he is not a native of that State, so after a series of public meetings and much hot discussion, the consent of the Prince has been granted for the holding of a plebiscite to decide whether the Chancellorship shall be restricted to natives, and if not whether Dr. Peer shall be asked to continue in office—which will be the probable outcome.

The incidents which gave rise to the "revolution" rumours were caused by postage stamps.

One of Liechtenstein's principal exports is its own postage stamps. A company was formed in 1919 to organise this important branch of national commerce on a sound financial basis. It is authorised by its charter to sell Liechtenstein stamps at 110 per cent of their face value, but it must remit to the Liechtenstein Exchequer 90 per cent of the face value of every stamp sold.

The trade is mainly conducted from Salzburg, in the middle of Austria, where the company's office is and business has been excellent.

The stamps are very pretty and much sought after. But when Vaduz, the haughty capital of Liechtenstein learned that in foreign currency the company was obtaining considerably more than 110 per cent of the face value, a large section of the populace of 1,000—mostly, of course, children and young persons—came to the conclusion that 90 per cent was not enough.

Hot-headed young stamp-collectors even went so far as to declare that if Liechtenstein had a native "Pooh-Bah" who knew more about postage stamps than Dr. Peer, such mercantile misadventures would not occur. It was further asserted that there was always a great shortage of postage stamps in the post-offices of Vaduz and the three other villages of the Principality, which was very unfair to local stamp-collectors, who often had opportunities of doing a little profitable business on their own account, apart from the fact that natives sometimes wanted to post a letter to someone in the next village, when they might not have time to walk across the Principality to deliver it.

But the stalwarts of Vaduz, on the "My Country, right or wrong" principle, held a meeting to support the Constitution, Dr. Peer, the status quo, 90 per cent, and the Liechtenstein Postage Stamp Company, after which the two factions met in the village street, talked a great deal, looked up at the lovely castle crowning a precipice above the capital, and decided to refer the whole matter to the Prince.—Over Seas Daily Mail.

We hereby announce the purchase of the most complete collection of United States, Revenues and Match and Medicine stamps.

It might be classified as a unique collection, as it contains every known variety of the Civil Wars, both imperforate, part perforated and perforated. It also contains all the inverted medallions including a superb specimen of No. 3982a and the 4c black and green, of which there is only other copy known.

We will be glad to hear from interested parties. In the event that the collection broken, we will give Want Lists the preference. It is, therefore, advisable to send a list of your requirements at earliest convenience.

OUR STAMPING GROUND.

By Clement Wood.

I've made a little chatty list of things that the philatelist
  Of high school days would highly praise and prize beyond expression;
The king's-heads of Nigeria, the pictures from Liberia,
  Commemorative stamps—I'll say that these were an obsession!
Then '61 Sardinia and surcharged Abyssinia
  And French and Dutch and British—such you'd see would never miss you;
We'd even seek Australia and — aptest
  name—Stampalia;
  But how we'd love examples of a Venezuela issue!

The boys would not feel scorny over picture stamps from Borneo,
  Alsace-Lorraine and early Spain divided with Tahiti;
While war times from Esthonia, Livonia,
  Ionia,
  For days and days were all the craze from Nome to Jersey City.
Lithuania, Rumania, Ukrainia, Albania,
  And Portuguese and Japanese on thin transparent tissue,
The falls from far Rhodesia, Siam and gay Zambesia,
  We'd swap, plus Crete, could we complete that Venezuela issue.

We'd rather own United States than enemy indicted states,
  Or Martinique, or Mozambique with fancy cancellations;
Each tiniest variety was sought with deep anxiety,
  While there were thrills from all the grills and changing perforations.
No wild orang-otangulars or rare Capetown triangulars Passed Jackson 2's or revenues; yet, after all, it's this you
Would bargain for most cattily, as pearl of all philately,—
  The choicest prize in boyhood's eyes—that Venezuela issue.

SUM FILATELIC FIZZLE.

An Easter Effort By The Junior Office Boy.

Dear Filatelists and Ordnry Klecterz,

Just as our ardworked Edditor had made up the nex number of the Journal and gorn away for Easter to get away from worriting Club sekertaries and uther trubbles, up comes our printer and ses he aint enuff of those little picter, space fillers, to go round, and must have some more copy to fill up, and as he is terribul particlar about having it out a few days after publishing day, I must try what I can do with the paste the Edditor has left, his sizzurs and sum journals, and who knows but what I may get a bob or two rise, so here goes.

Great Preparations are being made for the annual philatelic picnic, which this year is to come off early in May amongst the Yorkshire moors (by the way, when does the Shetland Islands have their turn). As all the tiresome formal business is being settled by solemn Committees sitting in London, the lucky delegates who, after paying their rates and taxes and other demands, have got enouff money left to go there, will have heaps of time to enjoy all the fun of the fair from bun worries to banquets. Also will be able to have there annual bath amidst great luxery and listen to the orations of Mr. Glisten and other gifted orators.

As we understand many prominent dealers will be there delegates will do well to see there bank balances is in a healthy state and have their cheque books with them, as it is understood the dealers will not be chained down altogether in a group this time and will be far more dangerous left roaming at large, as although the panther has made his pile and gone from the Strand he has left many to follow in his footsteps, as these short extracts from some of their adverts. will show

Not to see our Stock Books is to live in Philatelic Darkness for Evermore.

Ten dies were made for the "International" machine and these impressions with the vertical lines widely spaced we have designated as Type III. The following cities received these dies:—

Boston New York (2)

UTOPIA.—Do you collect these grand Stamps with their infinite variety of toasting fork overprints? If so come to us, as our representative has scoured the country and we have secured most of the stock and have many specimens never seen by the native Utopians.

DO you want a really gilt-edged collection? If so come to us without delay by aeroplane, car, or 'bus. Bring your cheque-book.

British Stamps have been specialised by us from the time of Julius Cæsar. We have practically all the stock down to the last microscopic dotty and dotless varieties.

King's Heads, Queen's Heads, Emperor's Heads.—You can get them all through our New Issue Service as fast as they are made to order.

AUCTIONS.—Every day in the Week except Sunday, and no self-respecting Auctioneer has any connection with any other firm.

We believe our publisher has sometimes a few good stamps if you want 'em.

I must stop now, as I think this will be enuff for the printer; if too much he can leav out somethink else.

I hope our Edditor will not eat too many buns and Easter heggs and won't come back wearing his thick walking boots or else I might get the boot instead of a rise.

P.S.—That champion philatelic humorist, Mr. Hitidly, will have to look to his laurels. Praps some day in the distant future I may get the Philatelist's O.B.E. Who knows?—Philatelic Journal of Great Britain.

THE PHILATELIC CATECHISM.

By S. W. H.

1. Are you a stamp collector?
I am.
2. How may I know you to be a stamp collector?
Try me.
3. How will you be tried?
By the perforation gauge.
4. Why by the perforation gauge?
Because it is an instrument of accuracy and one of the working tools of my hobby.
5. What is a perforation gauge?
A necessity to the specialist, an unmitigated nuisance to the general collector and a snare and a delusion to the novice.
6. What induced you to become a collector?
That I might gather the philatelic treasures of foreign countries, study and realize the delights of a collector and be thereby the better enabled to enjoy my leisure moments and contribute to the pleasure of my brother philatelists.
7. Where did you become a stamp collector?
In the home of a boy friend who gave me a few foreign stamps from his duplicates.
8. What followed?
I was divested of all my spare change by the unsolicited approval sheet nuisance, and hoodwinked by counterfeits and reprints, in which condition I was led to the door of real philately by a brother collector who knew the rope.
9. How were you received?
On the sharp points of the criticism of the specialist and of the wails of the general collector, which was to teach me that the way of the collector is torture until he makes up his mind to collect what he blame pleases and let the rest of the philatelic world go hang.
10. What did you then desire?
More light in philately.
11. Did you receive it?
I did.
12. How?.
By the study of the catalog and all back numbers of the Weekly I could buy, beg or borrow, and the assistance of my brother collectors, which was to teach me that philatelic knowledge comes only from hard, consistent and painstaking study.
13. What did you next discover?
The three great delights of a collector:—the pleasure of pursuit, the pride of possession, and the joy of displaying my philatelic treasures to my less fortunate brother collectors.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

REGULAR POSTAGE STAMPS OF THE UNITED STATES 1908 TO DATE.

By PERCY MCGRAW MANN.

As a little novelty from the regular method of collecting stamps in their usual series from the lowest to the highest denomination, I offer this list as possessing possibilities to those lovers of United States stamps who desire a change from the present system. Not that a change is necessary, but the present method upsets many pages because of the many variations in perforations, watermarks, dies, types, etc. With the present list one can assemble according to denomination and thus show the many changes and varieties all on one page—that is, a page for each value.

Errors of omission and commission may be apparent to some who check over the list, but it is desired that the list shall be practically complete.

He has ads in all the papers and how all he needs is a stock of stamps. I hear he has ordered a five pound bag of mission mixed stamps from J. Ruggelheim. So he will be well stocked.

K. Light Wad was in yesterday and spent 3 hours and fifteen cents for a packet of hinges.

Dr. Shoot the Bull found a stamp dated 1492 in a big lot and he says it must be rare, for it is the oldest stamp with United States on it.

Mrs. Tellit Well was offering a dealer some unused stamps stuck on paper and he offered her $7.00 for the lot. She said he was a robber, for a Lost Angleworms dealer had offered her $50.00 for the lot and she wouldn't sell, as they catalogued $67.93.

Mr. Skidmore Homespun was seen in a condition not usual since the late lamented act, and when questioned as to the source of the cause, he explained it by showing a block of 16 of the $9.60 wine stamps for which he traded a set of unused Bolshevik stamps.

PRECANCEL COMMENT.

Now come the "Aeros" of Defiance, Ohio, normal and inverted; Pontiac, Mich., up; El Centro, Calif., down; and 16c El Centro, Calif., double, normal. Not many aeroplanes flying this winter, I guess.

10c Special Deliveries from Knoxville, Tenn., normal and inverted, and Ft. Atkinson, Wisc.

The rare 13c are new from Jersey City, N. J., Lincoln, Nebr., also Portland, Me., Kansas City, Mo., and Cincinnati, Ohio, in the tiny type, which is very pretty, and scarce, too. Also St. Paul, Minn., normal, and inverted, too.

Among the really new cities, I can report Higginsville, Mo., 1c coil, also Dexter, Maine, precancelled at Xmas time, 1c to 13c inclusive (so I've been told)—I have the 7c and 8c, big plain type.

I also have Walla Walla, Wash., 7c inverted and 20c normal, plain type.

I found a 1c Chicago, Ill., (Shermack perf.), precancelled normal and then precancelled inverted both on the same stamp. Quite an oddity, but it's O.K.

The Minneapolis, Minn., exist with both a top and bottom bar (which are quite rare—the most of them only have the bar at top and none at the b below Minn.). Better look your cates over and see how many o double bars you have, and how with no lower bar below the name.

I've gotten so many new Perf. that I'll only list those which I will prove of interest. W. E. DOOLITTLE.

By CHRISTOPHER WEST.

This rather neat adhesive hails from the little town of Hayesville, Ashland County, Ohio, which is in the northern central part of the state about fifteen miles east of Mansfield and forty miles southwest of Akron.

The total issue indicates that for a period of nearly two years Mr. Doolittle's factory did a thriving business, but what became of the factory, or of 99.99% of the stamps is a matter upon which the present writer can throw no light whatever. Like many another match factory, this is one that seemed to "flourish like the green bay tree" for a season or two, and then it simply ceased to exist, and if it were not for the few copies of the stamps lovingly cherished for their interest and their beauty by stamp collectors, it is doubtful if to-day there would be more than a handful of people in all the world who would know there ever had been a match factory in that little Ohio town.

The Doolittle stamp is in the form of a horizontal rectangle of the usual 1c size, and greatly resembles the stamp of E. T. Russell with which it was contemporaneous; differing from the form of the latter chiefly in that the parts of the design are arranged to fit a horizontal rectangle instead of a vertical one.

The oval in the center contains a portrait of Mr. Doolittle, which is surrounded by a circular band inscribed "Inter. Rev." above and "W. E. Doolittle, Hayesville, Ohio" below. A curved panel at the left reads "One Cent" and a similar panel at the right is inscribed "Matches." Each corner contains a small panel enclosed by acanthus ornamentation. The two upper corners contain the initials U and S and the two lower ones contain the numerals I and I. These four ornamental corners are strongly suggestive of the similar corners on the Beecher "flag" stamps. The space between the portrait oval and the surrounding circular band is filled in at either side by horizontally shaded crescent, just as on the Russell stamp.

The Boston Book gives the following data:—

Die approved, Jan. 23, 1866.
First issued, March, 1866.
Last issued, Nov. 2, 1867.
693,293 issued on old paper.
210 stamps per sheet (15x14).

The stamp was engraved and printed by Butler & Carpenter in Philadelphia, and is found only in dull blue on thin old paper.

An interesting parallel can be drawn between the total issue of the Doolittle stamp and that of the green stamp of Zisemann, Griesheim & Co., which belongs to about the same period. In both cases the records show a total issue of about 700,000 stamps, and it would seem that with such a large issue these stamps should be far more plentiful to-day than they really are. The writer, however, has been able to locate less than forty copies of the Doolittle stamp and only about one-third as many of the green Zisemann, Griesheim. The proportion of the Doolittle stamps that remain in existence for collectors, although very small, is much higher than the proportion of some other match stamps of the same period, notably the August Eichele stamp of St. Louis. The latter reached a total issue of nearly 11,000,000 and probably it would be nearly as easy to obtain a hundred of them as it would be to pay the German war debt.

Although very fine copies of the Doolittle stamp are rare, a goodly proportion of the available supply is in comparatively decent condition. When considering stamps as rare as these a few thin spots, small tears, or centering that is not quite what it should be, are not as important as with stamps of which there are hundreds or thousands of fine copies in existence.

The Doolittle has never been common and the 1920 standard catalog quotes exactly the same price that the Scott catalog quoted in 1886, thirty-four years ago. From 1896 to 1898, the quotation was $15.00, but since 1900 the modest price of $10.00 has remained unchanged. The stamp should appeal very strongly to any collector who likes to buy a really rare stamp at a nominal figure, for it is rarer than many postage stamps that readily sell for $100.00 each and upward. Of course prices are not based wholly upon rarity. If they were, when Doolittles were obtainable at $10.00, the St. Louis bear stamps would not bring over $1.98 each.

Only one pair has come to the writer's attention.

British Colonies, multiple watermark, soon will be obsolete. Buy now before prices advance. General selections sent on approval or send want list. References absolutely necessary. A. A. EMERY, Dept. M, 567 Oakwood Ave., Toronto, Canada. [tf*

The next discontinuance of subscriptions will concern all subscribers whose wrappers bear the numbers 1580 to 1584 inclusive. Just glance at your wrapper immediately in order to make sure that your subscription is paid up. You have ample time in which to renew and be saved the inconvenience of a discontinuance. Moreover, under our new system we are making no plans for furnishing back numbers and subscribers must not expect that we can supply back numbers when we have made every effort to notify them.

We are satisfied that the system we have inaugurated is the only one under which a newspaper can do business these days, and subscribers must understand that free copies of the WEEKLY will not be sent to those who are in arrears.

The $2 and $5 values and the special issues are omitted because there is no confusion in regard to them.

The double line watermark was first used in 1908, the single line in 1910, and the unwatermarked first appeared in 1916.

The perforation 12 was first used in 1908, the 8½ (coils only) in 1910, the 10 in 1914, the 11 in 1917, and the 12½ (experimental) in 1919.

All the stamps in the above list are printed from engraved flat plates except "rotary," which are from engraved curved plates first introduced in 1914, and "offset," which are produced by the offset method of printing, first used for postage stamps in 1918.

A LITTLE INFORMATION WANTED.

By Lewis A. McArthur.

Studying stamps is an interesting pastime, but occasionally questions arise that are difficult to answer. Possibly you or your readers can furnish information on some of the following points:

I have a copy of Guatemala No. 111, 6 on 25c 1902, but instead of being rose, the stamp is a bright red. It is unused, and o. g., and apparently not a changeling. Who knows anything of such a color for this stamp? The shade is in sharp contrast to the color mentioned in the catalogue.

India, Gwalior No. 114, 1a carmine rose official, 1903-5, comes with two spacings between the lines of native characters surcharged. One type is spaced 2mm nearer than the other. Is this true of others in the series?

What is the necessity of 50 and 100 lira postage due stamps in Italy, when the largest postage stamp is but 10 lira? At the normal rate of exchange the 100 lira due would represent about $20. To what use are these stamps put?

Who is the military gentleman on so many French African colonials, such as Ivory Coast 1906-7? Why so famous?

Who knows about the Philippine officially sealed? I have a nice copy in yellow brown, rouletted, on thick paper, with the design 47½ by 28mm. It is inscribed "Bureau of Posts, Philippine Islands," and with the exception of the size, it is similar to the U. S. Officially Sealed.

Tunis No. 206, 50c violet brown and violet. I have a copy on light green paper, which does not have the appearance of being stained. Are there others?

Russia, No. 433, 10k for China. There are two shades, light and dark blue, very pronounced, the light being the same as the 7k. Have others these two shades?

COLOR GUIDE.

By AUGUST R. MACK, 212 East 11 St., N. Y. City.

As there is nothing more perplexing to philatelists than colors and shades, I submit the following tabulation which I think will prove helpful in solving a vexed problem. It will save much time and trouble for the readers of this paper if they can arrange a small collection of stamps on a color basis. It can be done at a nominal cost and the perusal of this list will convince you of the correctness of my assertion.

This Guide was originally made in 1909 and has been constantly improved and now brought up to date. Scott's 1920 Standard Catalog has been used as a basis for my work, mint copies being taken with few exceptions, thus showing the true color or shade for comparison. It will be found that high priced specimens may generally be omitted, as their color or shade will occur but once or possibly twice.

Where the catalog value is over 3c, the catalog price is shown in parenthesis.

BUREAU PRINTS --- HANDBOOK

How can I tell the different types of the black dollar and the brown ten cents?

How did those 6c and 8c stamps come to be watermarked U. S. I. R. instead of U. S. P. S.?

Where can I find a list of all the plate numbers of the 1894 - 1900 issues?

And so on.

You can find an exhaustive list of all varieties, their values, their varieties, and their imprints in our handbook of U. S. issues 1894 - 1900.

We call this book the "BUREAU PRINTS" and the cost of the publication is 50c.

If you think that's too high for a book then you must go on stumbling in the dark.

UNSOLICITED TESTIMONIALS i/ EMCO PACKET

Packet No. 124 entirely satisfactory. I added over 450 new varieties to a previous collection of 2000 stamps.—H. S. Lynn, Pittsburgh, Pa.

I was very much pleased with the War Stamps I received in your 3000 variety packet as I added about 100 varieties to my collection of 300 Wars. It is a splendid packet all through.—R. Speer, Long Beach, Calif.

I added 316 stamps to a collection of about 3200, not counting the envelope stamps—(given as a premium)—I also found many better specimens to substitute for not-so-good ones already in my album. Then I made up the balance of the stamps into smaller packets and sold them to collectors for $3.00. As I only paid $3.25 for packet No. 124 in the first place, my net expense was 25 cents on the deal. I got so much fun looking the pile over (worth a good deal in itself) that I am converted to packets from now on.—F. M. Gracey, Cambridge, Mass.

Received packet No. 126 (2000 varieties at $10.00) in good condition and am very much pleased with same. Another order enclosed.—C. C. Colyer, Altoona, Pa.

Don't Hesitate—Your opportunity is now. Remember the packet must satisfy or we refund your money plus your postage in returning same. Could we be more convincing of these packets sterling qualities? Try one today—acts like a good tonic.
